SELECT JURORS SINCLAIR TRIAL

Criminal Conspiracy in Leasing Teapot Dome Naval Oil Reserves.

ELEVEN QUALIFIED.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 18 (Associated Press).—Three women qualified yesterday along with eight men as prospective judges of the guilt or innocence of Albert B. Fall and Harry F. Sinclair on a Government charge of criminal conspiracy in the leasing of the Teapot Dome naval oil reserve.

In all, twenty-six veniremen were examined by counsel at the opening day of the second big felony trial growing out of the Senate oil investigation. Nine were excused for cause since they had formed definite opinions in the case and six others were excused, three by the Government and three by the defence on premptor challenges.

Each side had seven such challenges left when court adjourned and it is possible that all of the eleven who were accepted yesterday will be taken from the box to-day and replaced by new jurors chosen from an additional panel which was summoned overnight.

Although the presentation of testimony may not begin before Wednesday, Owen J. Roberts, of special Government oil counsel, had the record show that H. M. Blackmer, former chairman of the Board of the Mid-West Refining Company, had failed to respond to a summons served upon him in Paris by an American consul under the Walsh Act last year.

Fined For Contempt.

Former Governor Nathan Miller, of New York, appeared for Blackmer and with George Gordon Battle, also of New York, will represent him when Government counsel asks that he be adjudged in contempt of court and

THREE FLIERS WELCOME SQUAD KILLED IN CRASH

Plane Bursts Into Flames While About 300 Feet From Earth.

DAMPENS RECEPTION.

Costes and Lebrix Plan To Resume Flight To Argentine, Wednesday.

RIO JANEIRO October 18. — A tragedy marked the arrival at Rio Janeiro yesterday of the French aviators Dieudonne Costes and Joseph Lebrix on their trans-atlantic flight, which started from Paris a week ago. Three Brazilian aviators Captain Attilla Oliveira, Lieut. Salustican Silav and Lieut. Thomas Barreto, attached to the welcoming squadron, were killed. The Brazilians were flying at a height of about 300 feet when their plane crashed and burst into flames.

The Costes plane "Nungesser-Coli" flew over the city attended by numerous army and navy machines and landed at 12.30 at the military flying field at Campo Des Affonsos. It was here that the tragedy occurred, and it greatly affected the French fliers, who asked that all festivities in their honor be abandoned. Nevertheless, they were greeted enthusiastically by representatives of the French Chamber of Commerce, member of the French colony and their Brazilian colleagues, whom they joined at a luncheon.

Costes and Lebrix plan to resume their flight to Buenos Aires Wednesday . When they drove from the flying field to their hotel they were followed by a long caravan of automobiles. Their flight yesterday from Carayella, Brazil, their stopping off place Sunday night on the way from Port Natal, was made at fast speed and without incident.

Crashes in Take-Off.

ELKO, Nev., Oct. 18. — Another accident yesterday interrupted the Detroit to New Zealand flight of Captain Frederick A. Giles, British aviator.

In attempting to take off here yesterday morning for San Francisco his plane ,the Wanda, struck a weak spot at the north end of the airport and did a ground loop. Captain Giles leaped from the plane at a height of about 20 feet, escaping with minor bruises .

His Lordship's address was a most inspiring one, and was of special significance to those who were about to be received into full fellowship in the church. The Rev. Mr. Redding of Parham and the Rev. Mr. Smith of Roslin assisted the rector in the service.

JAPANESE LILY.

An unusual flower for this time of the year is the auratum, or yellow-banded lily of Japan, a fine specimen of which was shown The Examiner by Mrs. S. T. Harris, 207 Perry Street. The flower was grown in the garden. It usually blooms in July and August.

Alleged Boy Bandits Arrested At Buffalo

BUFFALO, N.Y., Oct. 18 (Canadian Press).—Three alleged "boy bandits," believed to have been responsible for six recent hold-ups and robberies here, were arrested yesterday.

The youths gave their names as Stephen Sponey, 22; Chester Ciszewski, 21, and Norman Boyd, 20, all of this city.

Loot in the holdups previously reported included $19, a bird cage, eight canaries and a gold locket, taken from apartments and from pedestrians.

Youth Suicides After Shooting Two Girls Jilted and Mind Unbalanced Is the Theory

CHICAGO, Oct. 18. — (A P). — Wilfred J. Winters, 21, a boy they had known all their lives, early yesterday shot and killed Margaret Martir, 18, and Catherine Stadler, 19, and then suicided.

What motivated the childhood friend to murder the girls who had grown up with him probably never would be known, said the police, but this much they pieced together:

Winters recently returned from California whence he had gone in an effort to defeat tuberculosis.

Miss Martin had spurned his love, though liking him in the friendly way she always had as a next door neighbour boy.

Saturday night Winters was arrested after he had tried to choke a boy companion to death and was released on bond Sunday morning.

Both Saturday and Sunday nights Winters had been drinking, although companions of Sunday night denied he had been drunk when they left him shortly before he shot the girls.

As late as a quarter of an hour before the shooting at about 1 a.m. the party was laughing and talking, apparently in high spirits. A man who knew Winters saw him with the girls as a rented automobile in which the triple shooting occurred, was held up by traffic lights at an intersection.

A few minutes later the 8,000 block in Rhodes Avenue on the South side, was alarmed by a fusilade of shots. At least two persons raced to front windows in time to see part of the death drama.

The three were in the front seat. Winters at the wheel, Margaret next to him and the Stadler girl on the outside.

Apparently the first shot struck Miss Stadler, killing her instantly. The next hit Miss Martin in the shoulder and as she tried to leap out, the fatal shot struck her in the back.

With the automobile speeding along, Miss Martin hung upon the door a moment and then pitched into the street upon her face. A few feet further along Miss Stadler's body was thrown from the automobile. Another hundred yards and with his foot still pressed hard upon the accelerator Winters fired a bullet into his temple. His car raced into a post, and, rebounding, smashed into a following machine.

Mrs. Martin, mother of one of the slain girls, said that her daughter had not relished Winter's amourousness and had asked her to repulse him without hurting him.

A coroner's inquest was set for to-day.

HUGE SHEET STEEL MERGER IS ANNOUNCED

One of Largest Industral Mergers in History of Dominion.

INVOLVES $15,000,000.

Three Firms Consolidated Into One, General Steelware Company, Ltd.

LONDON, Ont., Oct. 18 (Canadian Press).—Announcement of one of the largest industrial mergers in the history of the Dominion was made yesterday by officials of the McClary Manufacturing Company, which, with three other large concerns, have entered the amalgamation. The total money involved is somewhere in the neighborhood of $15,000,000, the companies involved, besides McClary's, including the Sheet Metal Products Company of Canada, Ltd., and the Thomas Davidson Manufacturing Company. The firms are being consolidated into one firm which will oe known as the General Steelware Company, Ltd.

The McClary Manufacturing Company, in entering the consolidation, will lose its identity after being in business here for a period of 60 years. The Sheet Metal Products Company, with headquarters at Toronto, and its predecessors has been a big factor in the manufacturing world for 00 years, and the Thomas Davidson Company for over 70 years.

Form Headquarters.

The consideration involved for the McClary firm here is reported to be six million dollars in cash and the local plant will form the headquarters for the new company, which will be the largest company of its kind in Canada and the stove foundry the largest in the British Empire.

It is expected that the National Securities Corporation and Drury Company will shortly be making an announcement in connection with the consolidation. The consolidation of the companies is given as in line with the trend of the times.

J. C. Newman, Montreal, manager of McClary's, it is understood, will be the general manager of the new concern.

Omaha claims the champion "movie" fans in a man and wife who have not missed a day in eight years attending a motion-picture show.

The largest tobacco warehouse in the world is in Liverpool. It has a total of thirty-six acres on fourteen floors.

MAKE POLITICS SOLE BUSINESS

R. B. Bennett Says Devote All Time and Energy to New Job.

NOT SELLING STOCK.

NEW YORK, October 18 (Canadian Press).—"I intend to make politics my sole business hereafter," R. B. Bennett, new leader of the Conservative Party in Canada, told the Canadian Press yesterday. "Legal practice and business have been the work of my life for many years, and politics more or less my recreation. As soon as it is humanly possible I shall dispose of my other responsibilities and devote all my time and energy to my new job."

Mr. Bennett Sunday night denied that he was visiting the International Paper Company here in connection with an offer for his majority stock in the E. B. Eddy Company. Yesterday he repeated positively that he had not entered into any negotiations with the International Paper Company. His only communication had been in the form of a telephone message from a clerk in that company who informed Mr. Bennett that some telegrams had been addressed to him in care of the company and that they would be sent on to his hotel.

"They had to do some searching to find out what hotel I was at," Mr. Bennett said. The new leader stated that the business he had come to New York to transact was complete and that he would return to Ottawa last night.

Not Resign Directorship.

The rumor that he would resign his directorship of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company, Mr. Bennett dismissed with a word. "That is surely not a very important matter," he suggested. "I shall retire from any legal or business practice which takes up too much of my time. It may take me a year to do it. I cannot let my clients down. As for the International Paper Company, I am told that they would like to acquire my shares in the Eddy Company. I have certainly never entertained any serious offer from them and had never thought much about it. I was amazed when I found that Canadian newspapers were saying that I had."

Mr. Bennett's decision was arrived at, he said, when he reached Winnipeg and found that his party wanted him for leader. "It seemed to me that perhaps it was up to me to devote the rest of my life to the service of my country rather than to the ac-

MAKE THEM MEAN SOMETHING.

The stickers designed by the Highway Safety Committee to concentrate attention on the campaign for safer driving conditions are now available.

"I'm for care and courtesy. Are you?" is the wording on these stickers, and it is hoped that the drivers who are now displaying them on their cars are living up to the spirit of the slogan.

By their example they can do much to induce other motorists to play safe at all times, to give some consideration to the safety of others, and to co-operate in this general drive for a reduction in the number of traffic accidents.

The Examiner hopes that local drivers will show their support for the movement, first by prominently displaying these stickers, and then by conscientiously endeavouring to give them a real meaning.

It is indeed, as the committee points out, the duty of everybody to learn how accidents may be prevented.

DR. LOGAN'S HOAX.

Dr. Dorothy Logan, who under the name of Mona McLellan had been credited with swimming the English Chanel in faster time than the record made by Gertrude Ederle, has now confessed that she covered most of the distance in a boat, and that she had perpetrated the hoax in order to demonstrate the need of an international board to supervise and certify all channel swims.

Undoubtedly she has succeeded in proving her point, but if the English woman doctor expects any thanks she is very badly mistaken.

The public doesn't appreciate a joke on itself, and those who hastened to acclaim what they regarded as a genuine performance will feel particularly foolish after reading the confession made by the swimmer.

In addition, her action throws discredit upon other channel swimming exploits.

There may, of course, have been some dubious performances by other swimmers, but the method taken by Dr. Logan throws a shadow not only over these but over other swimming feats that were honestly performed.

There is much truth in the comment of one English paper that she "played unpardonably upon the best feelings of her countrymen, and brought under suspicion the efforts of all those who proceeded her."

GOOD NEWS FOR CANADIANS.

That there is nothing to worry about in the condition of Canada's finances is shown by the announcement in regard to the redemption of the 1927 victory bonds.

It will be remembered that in his Budget speech last February Hon. Mr. Robb stated that when the three-year treasury notes maturing on November 15 came due the Government hoped to be able to redeem this loan in cash, making a saving in annual interest of $320,000.

At the same time the Finance Minister, speaking of the 5½ per cent. renewal loan of 1922, amounting to $29,068,400 and maturing on November 1, said that if the Government's finances permitted a portion at least of this loan would also be redemmed in cash and the balance by the flotation of a new loan at a reduced rate of interest.

Mr. Robb has done better than he promised.

The Government is redeeming in cash not only the $8,000,000 treasury notes, but the whole of the renewal loan of 1922.

And furthermore, when another Victory loan issue, that of 1917, matures in December and amounting to $63,000,000, there will be available cash to redeem a considerable proportion of it.

This series of announcements should be very welcome news to the people of Canada.

FINANCING THE HEALTH ASSOCIATION.

The announcement was made yesterday by Dr. G. S. Cameron on behalf of the Peterborough Health Association that it is hoped to raise the $1,500 needed by the association for its general work next year through the sale of Christmas stamps.

An appeal will be made through the mail to some 2,500 citizens to purchase these stamps, and it is confidently expected that the response will be hearty enough to ensure the organization ample funds for its activities.

This confidence, The Examiner is sure, is justified.

There is no organization in Peterborough that is doing more important public service work than the Health Association, and thanks to the co-operation of public-spirited medical men and to the enthusiastic efforts of a committee of energetic women workers, no activity of this kind is being operated more economically or effectively.

Aside from what is needed for its summer camp at Jackson Park, the association requires about $2,500 to meet the cost of its work, the salary of a district nurse, the cost of supplies, etc.

Of this sum $1,000 is taken care of by a civic grant, leaving $1,500 to be raised.

The stamp sale offers a convenient method of securing the desired amount, and because the people of Peterborough know from their own observations what the Health Association has done and is doing, there does not seem any doubt of the answer when the appeal is made.

THE PROVINCIAL CONFERENCE.

When the Premiers of the different Provinces, together with two members of each of the Provincial Cabinets, meet in conference with the Prime Minister and representatives of the Dominion Cabinet at Ottawa on November 3, one of the most important of all of the Provincial conferences that have been held will have got under way.

The agenda which has been prepared for the gathering shows that a number of matters of far-reaching consequence are to be discussed at the conference. There is, for instance, the question of the recommendation contained in the Duncan report on the condition of the Maritime Provinces suggesting increased subsidies for that part of the Dominion. Discussion of this recommendation will probably result in the entire question of Provincial subsidies being reviewed. The fuel question is another problem which will arise for consideration, and the fact that the Conservative convention at Winnipeg has just pronounced in favor of the cost of shipping Alberta coal to Central Canada being borne, where necessary, by subsidy is likely to cause this subject to receive a great deal of attention, as much from the representatives of Ontario and Quebec as from those of Nova Scotia and Alberta. The incorporation of companies and agricultural education are other matters which will arise for disposal, and, all in all, the conference promises to be a most interesting and valuable gathering.

The Provincial conferences periodically held have, of course, neither legislative nor administrative authority. But they do perform a most useful service in bringing together the representatives of the different parts of the Dominion for a discussion of the problems which affect them in common and thus enabling each Province to gain a knowledge of the feelings of the others. Out of the opinions which are expressed, it is often possible to find a basis of action agreeable to all, as well as to the Dominion Government, and in this way much is done to promote inter-Provincial relationships and the advancement of the Dominion as a whole.—Brockville Recorder and Times.

SHARPENING THE TEETH.

Roadhouse operators are not to be allowed to dodge the Liquor Control Act as easily as some of them had figured out. When patrons were caught in the premises by the Provincial Police with liquor, the roadhouse men claimed they had not sold the drinks to the party, but that the patrons had brought their own liquor supply and were merely getting food at the roadhouse. In this way they avoided the risk of being brought into court to answer to charges of selling. If found guilty of selling, it would mean a jail sentence for the operator.

Two interesting cases are to be heard in the courts as a result of prosecutions instituted by the Provincial Police under the sections of the Liquor Control Act which hold proprietors of a place liable for the actions of their patrons insofar as illegal drinking is concerned. Informations have been laid against the Island View and Rendezvous roadhouses in Riverside. The operators must appear in court to answer to charges resulting from the finding in both places of parties seated at tables with liquor.

Section 107 of the Act says:

"Upon proof of the fact that an offence against this Act has been committed by any person in the employ of the occupant of any house, shop, room, or other premises in which the offence is committed, or by any person who is suffered by the occupant to be or remain in or upon such house, shop, room or premises, or to act in any way for the occupant, the occupant shall prima facie be deemed to be a party to the offence so committed, and shall be liable to the penalties prescribed for the offence as a principal offender, notwithstanding the fact that the offence was committed by a person who is not proved to have committed it under or by the direction of the occupant; but nothing in this section shall relieve the person actually committing the offence from liability therefor."

In the cases of the Island View and Rendezvous roadhouses, parties have already been arrested with liquor. In both cases the members of the parties maintained in court that they had brought their own liquor to the roadhouse and had not bought it on the premises. That is what they swore in court, and the members of the two parties were fined.

Under the section quoted above this would put the roadhouse operators in the position of being liable for the actions of their patrons in that they were allowing them to consume the liquor illegally on the premises. The mere fact that the parties involved paid fines does not let the operators of the roadhouses out. Rather, it makes the case against them the stronger. The parties have been tried, found guilty and convicted. The roadhouse men cannot get around those already established judgments of the courts.

The roadhouse operators place themselves in a dangerous position. For the first offence they may be excused by a fine. But the second time would mean the risk of a jail sentence. And, if the operators insist on keeping open and selling liquor, it should not be a difficult matter for the Provincial men to secure a second conviction.

This is a point in the Act that has not been pressed formerly. It begins to show that there are sharper teeth to the new law than most of the roadhouse men cared to think. A fine of a few hundred dollars is no more to a roadhouse operator than a license fee. That would cover the first offence all right. But no roadhouse operator wants to languish in jail for a second offence under the Act.

In the same way, too, the patrons who have liquor illegally at roadhouses are allowing themselves to risk jail sentences. For the first offence under the Act a fine is provided. But the second offence would involve the serving of a term in jail. If a party ended up in the members being sent to the cells for sixty days or so, it would be a high price to pay for a mess of frogs' legs and "trimmings."—Border Cities Star.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

With the Premier and the Leader of the Opposition both bachelors politics in Canada for a time at least should be free from back-seat driving.

To use the vernacular, that last channel swim seems to have been all wet.

Hastings is to hold a community fete tomorrow night to celebrate the completion of the paving of its main street. Many a centre has rejoiced over something much less important.

The papers yesterday carried stories of bears running wild in Muskoka and a wolf killed on a Port Arthur street. That's great stuff to advertise the hunting season in Ontario.

The box score of the Prince Edward by-election shows A. A. Morden running for Hon. W. E. Raney.

Eighty-five men were arrested following a revolver battle during a coal miners' strike in Cambridge, Ohio. And a million men, points out The Globe, went on strike in Great Britain not long ago and no shots were fired, nor any arrests made.

While we are waiting for that Federal system of old age pensions, might it not be as well for Ontario to take advantage of the present scheme by which half the expense is met by the Dominion?

The deer hunting season is drawing near. It used to be considered a time of peril, but nowadays a man takes fewer chances in the woods than he does crossing a city street.

A scientist in New Zealand has discovered a three-eyed lizard. It is said that the little fellow can cross the street in comparative safety.—Detroit News.

MONTREAL GRAIN AND PRODUCE

MONTREAL, Oct. 18 (Canadian Press).—A good business was done by Montreal exporters in Canadian Spring wheat over the week-end with both the United Kingdom and the Continent for deferred shipment. The carlot trade in coarse grains yesterday was only of a moderate volume and the tone of the market was steady.

The flour market was without any new feature to note, prices for Spring and Winter wheat grades being fully maintained under a quiet demand.

The millfeed trade was again active and firm. The demand for standard grades of rolled oats showed some improvement and prices were unchanged.

The inquiry from England for baled hay continued good and some further business was transacted yesterday. The local demand was moderate and prices were firm.

A moderate amount of business was done in all grades of fresh and storage eggs and values were firm. The receipts were 564 cases.

Owing to the small receipts of potatoes of late, a firmer feeling prevailed in the market with a fair demand. Sales of car lots of New Brunswick Green Mountains were made at 1.35 per bag; Cobblers at 1.30 per bag, and Quebec White choice stock at 1.25 to 1.35 per bag of 90 pounds, ex-track.

A feature of the butter trade was the weaker feeling that developed and prices declined ½c per pound. This was attributed to the limited demand. The receipts were 890 packages.

There was no improvement in the English demand for cheese, but a moderate amount of business was done with United States buyers. The receipts were 3,345 boxes.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, Oct. 18 (Canadian Press).—Active simultaneous selling of wheat and buying of corn largely for traders who were undoing previous spreads between the two cereals, governed grain prices yesterday. Meanwhile the United States wheat visible supply total showed a big increase, and the corn visible supply figures showed a decided falling off.

Closing quotations on wheat were unsettled ¾ to 1¼c net lower; with corn at ¾ to 1c advance; oats ¼ to ½ to ⅝ up, and provisions varying from 5c decline to a rise of 25c.

Announcement that the domestic visible supply of wheat had piled up 4,229,000 bushels enlargement in the last week added yesterday to the bearish effect of better weather for threshing in Canada. Word was received that threshing had been resumed in all provinces. Furthermore, export demand for wheat from North America lacked volume, European purchases yesterday amounting to only 500,000 bushels. Under such circumstances, wheat values here had a downward trend except at the start, when some notice was taken of Liverpool quotations higher than due and of the fact that world shipments for the week were but 14,567,000 bushels, compared with 16,953,000 bushels the week previous.

Corn rallied sharply from an early decline that was associated with favorable weather and with larger country offerings. Liquidating sales of future deliveries, however, had apparently been ended and spirited buying developed, based on talk that 35c decline of late was more than sufficient to discount all bearish conditions. Giving further strength to the market was 2,123,000 bushels decrease in the corn visible supply. Incidentally there were a few requests for export corn offers, although prices are still out of line. Oats followed corn.

Provisions were easier at first, but rallied later, sympathizing with corn strength.

VOICE OF PEOPLE

Letters to be printed in the Voice of the People column must be received at The Examiner office on the day before it is desired to have them published.

To the Editor of The Examiner.

Sir: It seems to me, sir, that in view of all the stuff that is published concerning the remarks of those attacking the Bible that you might well allow a word or two from those who think differently.

For ministers to say anything whatever in derogation or criticism of the Bible is to show that they do not believe it is the word and work of God. That is plain enough. Now, what are the facts about the Bible? It is the tale told by men of their lives and of the way of the world and of the coming of the Saviour just as these men saw it, felt it, and heard it. How did they come to tell this tale? They were moved by God to do so. What they told is a strange tale but it is true. It is full of faults, mistakes and even ravings, as well as of the sublime. It is in fact human and fallible in every human particular, but it is the sincere outpourings, aspirations, fears, follies, and wickednesses of the world from the earliest times as told by the men who saw and did it all just as we do at present.

It is the confession of man. It is the revelation of man to himself and the record of the revelation through man of God by God to man. The whole basis of the Bible is human but is inspired that is moved to be put down by the Holy Ghost. What comes from God in it is without flaw. What comes from man is full of flaws, but it is all true, intensely humanly true.

It is the work that was done by the direction of God and is so done now, and therefore is in every sense a sacred record and a sacred working not to be touched by the hands of men. The debates, arguments, riotings, &c., of all these people is unnecessary and beside the mark. The one point we have to regard is simply this: Was and is it all moved of the Holy Ghost? Does it tell the truth of God's revelation of Himself? Man's part we know all about, ourselves. Why then throw doubt upon the Sacred Record? Are these men proposing to take its place?

British Ships Given Unexpected Welcome

WASHINGTON, Oct. 17 (Canadian Press). — Two British cruisers, the Calcutta and the Cairo, arrived here today and ran into an entirely unexpected welcome when they met in the River Potomac President Coolidge's yacht Mayflower, returning from a week-end cruise. The British warships gave Mr. Coolidge a 21-gun salute while the bands played The Star Spangled Banner. In return, the Mayflower's band played God Save the King, and the officers and men of all the ships stood at attention with the President on the bridge of his yacht.

ENGLISH PRESS CRITICIZES GIRL

Not True Sportsmanship is the Condemnation of Logan Fake.

PARISIANS LAUGH.

London, October 17. Canadian Press. — The English press shows strong disapproval of the action of Dorothy Logan in making a hoax of the Channel swim and confessing it was a fake to end fakes. She is charged with playing on the best feelings of her countrymen and not playing true to the ideals of sportmanship. American channel aspirants and Mrs. Corson ,the second woman to swim the channel, also voiced disapproval of Miss Logan's action.

She has provided the Parisians with a good laugh. In Paris they have been taking the recent swims with a grain of salt and Miss Logan's confession strengthens the opinion that it was time some official supervision of the attempts was made.

GOVERNMENT HELPS STOP INTERFERENCE

License Fees Used To Pay Cost of Improving Radio Reception.

At this time of the year when people's thoughts turn towards the latest ideas in the radio world, it might be interesting to learn the history of the service given by the Government in return for the small license fee. Three years ago, when radio was becoming of real public interest, steps were considered by the officials to curb the big drawback of the radio world, that of interference.

This was a big question, as every fan knows, for there are so many kinds of trouble covered by this name. However, the question of whether it could be accomplished was faced by two men, Inspector S. J. Ellis and Mr. W. Merriman, both of this city. They started out equipped with portable three-tube regenerative sets, a type very sensitive to the least interference, which were strapped on their backs. They wore ear phones and carried the aerials in their left hands.

It was found that interference could be detected in this manner, so the next step was to find a remedy for conditions, and to ascertain if it was worth while on the number of results, to continue the service.

Did Good Work.

After much hard work, ninety per cent of interference cases were eliminated. It was decided then to continue operations but to purchase a car with special equipment, as walking to and from the source of trouble took up as much time as the actual job. This car operating around Toronto accomplished such good results that it enrolled more in the work as soon as possible. This was done as time advanced and to-day there are fourteen of these interference cars throughout the Dominion. They are stationed in Toronto, Montreal, Hamilton, London, Ottawa, Winnipeg, Vancouver, Halifax, St. John, N.B., Quebec City, and Edmonton. In addition there are ten part-time inspectors in other cities who use their personal cars but operate sets installed by the Government.

Fees and Service.

Naturally these cars, equipped as they are with eight-tube-super-hetrodyne sets, and travelling round fifteen thousand miles each year, require money in order to build and maintain them. When we pay a dollar for the privilege of operating a set, we are helping to support this service which has bettered reception for every fan. Inspector S. J. Ellis states that any increase in the number of interference cars for a district depends on the number of licenses bought by radio users in that district. To date there are some thirty thousand licensed sets in Greater Toronto. This time last year there were some thirty thousand odd.

Canada is the only country organized on such an extensive scale for the purpose of eliminating interference of every type which includes telephones, electric light lines, oil furnaces, etc.

London, England, operates a car of a similar type but it makes a specialty of abolishing oscillating receiving sets.

ALL through its long, successful history, General Motors of Canada has had its eye to the horizon . . . listening not for what followed, but looking always toward the thing ahead.

And General Motors has seen many of its visions realized. . . . . .

It has seen a great industry grow up in Canada to supply the Canadian family with a means of transportation to meet its needs and resources, to answer the desire for style, dependability, luxury.

It has seen, in the Canadian Fisher Body plants, the perpetuation of Canadian ideals of craftsmanship.

It has seen, in the General Motors Research laboratories, the development of countless advances and refinements on which much of modern motoring comfort depends.

It has seen, on the General Motors Proving Grounds, the proof of principles which are now accepted factors in automobile design and construction.

It has seen the triumph of co-operative purchasing and manufacturing methods with their resultant economies to be shared with the buyers of General Motors cars.

And the eyes of General Motors are still to the horizon . . . still seeking new ways to improve General Motors cars and to place the cars within reach of ever-widening circles of Canadian buyers.

ANNIVERSARY SERVICES

MILLBROOK UNITED CHURCH

MILLBROOK, Oct. 18—Large congregations were present both morning and evening for the anniversary services of the United church, which were held on Sunday, October 16, Rev. S. Wesley Dean, of the Central Offices, Toronto, being the special preacher for the day.

Fall flowers and foliage were used, with pleasing effect, for the decorative scheme. The choir rendered two anthems at the morning worship, "New Every Morning", and "I Will Lift Up Mine Eyes", with a duet by Messrs. McDowell and Anderson in the latter number. There was also a male quartette, "Jesus, Saviour Pilot Me" by Messrs. H. W. Johnston, W. H. Coombe, M. McDowell, and V. C. Lambert. In the evening the selections by the full choir were, "Rejoice the Lord is King", and "Unto Thee O Lord", Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Johnston and Mr. E. Hansman sang a trio, "God be Merciful", and "Just as I am" was sung by a quintette, Messrs. Johnston, Coombe, Anderson, McDowell, and Lambert.

Preceding the Scripture lesson a baptismal service was held, Dr. Dean performing the rite for the little son of Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Allen, Thomas Clifford being the name conferred. It was by special request of the parents that Dr. Dean conducted this service as he was the minister who officiated at their wedding, and had baptized their first child. The grandparents, also, as Dr. Dean explained, had been capable members of the Simpson Avenue Methodist Church, Toronto, during his pastorate on that charge.

"The Practical Value of the Church to the Community" was Dr. Dean's subject in the morning, his texts being chosen from Psalm 122:1: "I was glad when they said unto me, Let us go into the House of the Lord"; Luke 4:16: "As his custom was He went into the synagogue on the Sabbath day"; and Hebrews 10:20: "Not forsaking the assembling of yourselves together". Explaining that these verses contain a common sentiment of appreciation of the value of religious worship though each was written in a different period of the church's history, he went on to say that each expresses the practical value of the coming together of a group of people for fellowship in the worship of God, and the service of the Kingdom.

"It is not of an ideal church—one full of perfect people—that I wish to speak, for actually we should not expect to find as perfect folk in the church as in a Masonic or an Oddfellows' Lodge, for instance; because people come into the Christian church from a sense of imperfection, and a desire to flee from human frailty, and to learn how they may rise to the superior heights possible only to the children of God."

In developing this theme, Dr. Dean held the close attention of his hearers as he showed clearly how the church gives added value to property, stability to business transactions, raises the standards of living, and conserves the home life. "Officials, therefore, should not be too thin-skinned in asking those not actively connected with the church to liquidate their obligations with financial aid because of what this Christian institution gives in increased values of property, the principles of honor maintained in business contracts, and security in home, community and national life.

"The teachings of Jesus, of which the church is an exponent, alone will bring peace international and otherwise, alleviate suffering and oppression, and help the angel of righteousness to subdue the potential beast which is in the breast of every one of us; these also make life more worth living than any other agency, and provide the only remedy for broken hearts in the world."

The trustees asked $600 as a thankoffering, and this amount which was considerably surpassed last year, was about reached on Sunday, with a number of envelopes yet to come in.

Rev. Joseph Wilks will preach next Sunday, the pastor taking services on the Whitby circuit.

MARMORA MAN GOES ON TRIAL

Jury Returns True Bill Against James Gardonier at Belleville.

HEARING TO-MORROW.

BELLEVILLE, Oct. 18. (Canadian Press).—The Grand Jury brought in a true bill against James Gordanier of Marmora at 2.45 this afternoon. They retired at 1.30. The trial will proceed tomorrow. The case is being heard at the Autumn Assizes, which opened in this city this afternoon before the Hon. Mr. Justice Fisher. It is the only criminal case to be heard. Gordanier, a resident of Marmora Village, is charged with a serious offence, alleged to have been committed near Marmora in April of this year. Gordanier was committed at the preliminary hearing held in Marmora in June, and upon furnishing the required bail of $20,000 he was given his freedom. He is a nephew of the late Jerome Keene, an aged recluse who was found murdered in a lonely shack on the Cordova Road last February.

The Hon. Mr. Justice Fisher the evidence. Gordanier appeared in one o'clock and they retired to hear the evidence. Gordanier appeared in court and seated himself directly behind the press rail. He seemed unperturbed in view of the serious charges with which he is faced.

CONSIDERING CASES.

TOLEDO, Ohio, Oct. 18. (Canadian Press). — The lightweight title of Sammy Mandell and the middleweight crown of Mickey Walker are to receive the serious consideration of the National Boxing Association now in session. Members of the Association feel that Mandell has shown apparent reluctance to defend the title since he won it from Rocky Kansas in Chicago a year ago last July. The manager of Flowers contends that Walker failed to carry out a contract by which he should meet Flowers within ninety days if Flowers lost the title in a fight with Walker last April.

"NOW You'll be Warm and Comfortable"!

MADAM may freeze to the congealing point to humour a mere whim of La Mode. She may tell her husband there is more warmth in chiffon than in wool—where it concerns herself. But where Jane and Betty are affected, she bows before common sense. She wants wool that is warm and comfortable, made into garments that fit and wear.

So there is LAVENDER LINE woollen wear for the kiddies. It is made from the finest botany wool and silk-and-wool. These materials are knitted into a cloth specially designed to be elastic but soft. The material is shrunken. The tiny garments are cut by experts. This ensures the comfort of active elbows, all-over warmth and the continued good shape of the garment. Like all LAVENDER LINE garments, they come up smiling from the wash.

The same good shops that sell the WOODS LAVENDER LINE for women have these warm, healthful under-garments for children.

INDIAN SINGER GIVES CONCERT

Charles A. Cooke, of Ottawa, Sings and Recites at Campbellford.

TALKS ABOUT RED MEN.

CAMPBELLFORD, Oct. 18. —For the first time in the history of Campbellford, an Indian appeared as the entertainer for the evening. The programme was under the auspices of the young people's society of St. John's United Church and Charles A. Cooke, Indian Basso and Entertainer was the artist who, for two hours, held the packed auditorium of the church spellbound with his talent.

Mr. Cooke is practically a full-blooded Iroquois Indian. There is, however a trace of French Canadian blood in his ancestry. Born in the little village of Oka in the province of Quebec, Mr. Cooke was unable to speak English till he was thirteen years of age. About that time his parents moved to Gravenhurst and his public schooling began. His musical education begins in the humblest of circumstances. His father being an Indian missionary to his own people, had as part of his household effects an old organ. It was on this that the young Indian began his self-tuition which terminated in special vocal training in the City of Ottawa where for many years he has been a highly esteemed member of the choir of Stewarton United Church.

Mr Cooke's numbers included Captain Mac ,a recitation, The Frenchman's Speech, Big Ben, The House by the Road, The Floral Dance, a mute skit illustrationg a man sewing on a button for himself, and an Indian Hunting song sung in the English language. In introducing the hunting son, Mr. Cooke explained the Indian logic upon which the song was based and the method employed by the Indian Hunter. Strangely enough, he claimed, it usually worked. In his last group, Mr. Cooke sang two verses of "In the Garden" the first in English and the second in his native tongue. As his closing number, he used, Pal o' Mine, which he sung with all the mellow richness of his excellent voice.

Assisting Mr. Cooke ,were Cherrie Turner, vocal soloist, Ronald Hazel, violinist, A. M. Rollo, tenor soloist, and Mr .Albert Hazel at the pipe organ. The entertainment was of a most interesting nature and one of the most interesting ever staged in the community. Of particular interest to the andience was the address on Indian Customs. Many of these had been adopted by the whites, said Mr. Cooke. In the matter of names, some two thousand places in Canada were named with Indian words or derivations of same. He quoted Canada, Toronto, Ottawa, Winnipeg, and many others. In the everyday language Indian words are also found such as canoe, toboggan, moose, tomahawk, lacrosse. Many present types of sport originated with the redmen.

In domestic life, he continued, the white man had not followed the Indian custom to such an extent. A white man courts and then marries, while his red brother marries and then courts. Some of the Indian methods, he thoughts, might be well applied to modern methods and times. It seemed to him to be a possible solution to the crowded divorce courts. He cited a case which had come under his personal observation and had not proved ideal. Another concerning the ever belligerent Irishman was very humorous. An Irishman and his wife had been fighting for years, when returning home one evening they discovered their dog and cat peacefully sleeping on the hearth rug. The lady smilingly drew her husband's attention to the peaceful pair and ventured her opinion that they too might live as congenially. But the Irishman disagreed. He claimed that if the animals were to be tied together it would be very different matter.

To the bachelors in the audience, Mr. Cooke gave some very useful information. He explained how in the Old Indian days, it was the custom of certain tribes for the brave to secretly select the maiden of his choice and go in daylight to her wigwam. He carried with him a pointed stake about two feet in length and when about ten yards from her tent, drove the stake into the ground and withdrew to a point of vantage to await results if his suit were accepted, the maiden would appear and place another similar stake beside his.

As a particular caution to the local youth, he advised that should they plant their stakes after dark, that each should place his card on the stake that the young lady might know by whom she was being sought. He further cautioned the young ladies not to be surprised if their lawns were full of stakes in the morning as in a certain town where he had detailed the custom, there lawn of a home where lived three very charming daughters.

The legal status of the Indians in Canada was a matter of regret to the white haired man. They are considered minors and are wards of the government. This was a matter arranged by the Indian Act at a time when it was of benefit to the Red men. Now he claimed it deprived them of the honour which they would appreciate, namely to be full fledged Biritsh subjects. There are he claimed, one hundred thousand Indians on the reservations of this country. These reserves had populations varying from that of the smallest which has only eight members, to that of the largest, which has a population numbering over four thousand. This one is situated near the city of Brantford, Ontario, and is one of the Six Nation Reserves.

He explained that some twenty-six thousand red men had fought in the ranks of the Canadian forces in the last war. He himself had been an Indian recruiting officer for all the territory east of Fort William. He had also been interpreter at Ottawa for some time. Of the seventeen thousand Indians in Ontario, seven thousand spoke no English while the other ten thousand lived so much after the manner of the white men that they had forgotten all the Indian customs. He realized that some of the Red men would suffer for the change but that they would soon learn to shift for themselves, as the white men did. Many of them were doing that now as far as the law would allow them. While he was very much in favor of the protection afforded his brothers Mr. Cook thought it was time they learned to look after themselves.

In concluding he thanked the artists from the church who had assisted him and recalled a very amusing incident when, at a certain place, where he was entertaining, every person of the community who had been asked to assist him, had failed to appear on the stage. The chairman announced each time that the next number would be by the very unique artist, etc Curious as to the meaning of the word unique he had looked it up and found that it was derived from two Latin roots, unis meaning one, and equas a horse. Therefore he said it was indeed a one horse entertainment. He was glad that his appearance here had not taken on that aspect. Mr. Cooke also paid a neat compliment to Mr. Hazel who had accompanied during the evening.

The Rev. Mr. Harston also expressed his appreciation of the assistanec rendered by the local artists and his great pleasure at hearing Mr. Cooke. That this was the sentiment of the audience was expressed by a thunder of applause. The National Anthem brought the entertainment to a close.

"THE BAT" PLEASES REGENT PATRONS

Mystery Picture Enjoyed at Campbellford—Good Comedy.

CAMPBELLFORD, Oct. 18. — The Regent Theatre offers one of the most attractive bills in all its history as a programme for the first part of the week. The Pathe comedy is a matter of psuedo-millionaires with imaginary millions and all that goes with them. Their love affairs with a young lady reputed to have millions of dollars at her disposal is very amusing, particularly when it becomes known that one is a truck driver for a brewery and the girl is a waitress who chews gum and is employed in one of the "hash joints" to which the driver must deliver his beer. "The Fighting Marine" which stars the world champion Gene Tunney gives fight fans a wonderful opportunity to see the world's greatest boxer actually in the ring for four rounds of a real fight.

As a feature attraction, "The Bat" is all that could be desired by the most critical person. It is a clever combination of mystery, crime, love and complications galore make it one continuous thrill for the entire eight reels. Sparsely scattered through the production are a few humorous scenes which relieve the tension at desired moments. But, who is the bat? That is the question which no one seemed able to answer. A doctor sitting beside a mechanic wagered that it was a certain character. The mechanic was equally certain that the medico was all wrong and selected another altogether different character. When the Bat was captured and unmasked by a most unexpected ruse, they were both wrong. And so was everyone else.

It is one of the most complicated pictures ever shown. The Bat is cornered. There is no possible way in which he can extricate himself from the predicament in which he finds himself. One picks up his hat, gathers his coat over his arm and is about to slide out into the aisle when, by the most unexpected but certainly possible trick, the Bat is free again. With renewed interest one sits down again to see what can possibly happen next.

THREE FLIERS

its purpose of transporting the first woman over the Atlantic.

Pilot Wilmer Stultz and Navigator Brice Goldsborough were reluctant to make any formal claims for the load which was taken up and set down yesterday, in the absence of official records, but it was believed that no seaplane or amphibian in America, and possibly the world, could show a similar performance, with horsepower taken into consideration.

A rough computation of the gross weight at the take-off was 11,500 pounds. While in the air about 1,580 pounds in the form of gasoline was dropped, making the landing weight nearly 10,000 pounds. These figures were to be more thoroughly checked, if suitable scales could be obtained.

While declining to make any relative statement, Carl S. Schory, secretary of the contest committee of the National Aeronautic Society, who sealed the barograph, said that he had heard of no performance as good.

This work by The Dawn yesterday morning did much to console Mrs. Frances W. Grayson and her crew for the severe disappointment of the sudden termination of their flight for Europe after weeks of waiting for the proper weather conditions. The work of Pilot Stultz in taking the plane into the air and bringing it back safely from a precarious position was the talk of hundreds who spent an anxious fifteen minutes.

Proved Nose-Heavy

Hampered by a brisk crosswind from the ocean, Stultz drove the plane northward along the beach less than a mile before his wheels cleared the sand. He gained a little more than fifty feet altitude he said as he swung out over the water but the ship proved nose-heavy with its great load of gasoline, and gradually dropped until it was obvious it must be lightened, or else it would hit the surface.

Mrs. Goldsborough, who with Mrs. Stultz watched from the beach said afterward:

"I had one bad minute then when I thought I might faint, but it passed quickly" Her recovery of confidence was shown in her involuntary exclamation:

"Didn't they drop that gas quickly?"

Unload Gasoline

The plane was scarcely a score of feet above the water when its commander, Stultz, gave the word to his navigator to pull the wires which opened two five-inch valves in the two tanks, which form the stream line of the motors.

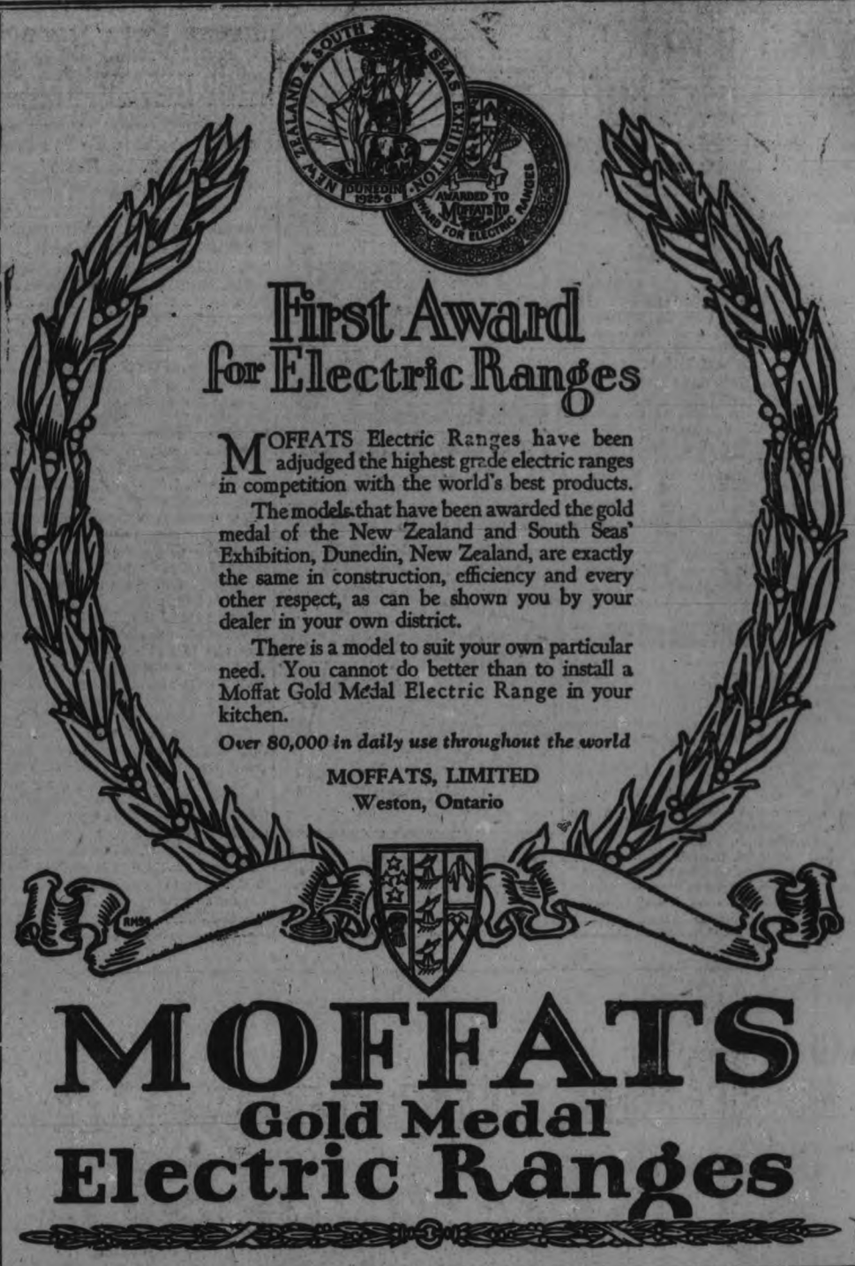
In a beautiful white spray some 260 gallons of the gasoline necessary for the trans-Atlantic flight streamed back. The lightened plane soared to a height of 500 feet and circled about until the retracted landing gear could be let down, and then it came to a quick and smooth landing on the beach once more. Pilot Stultz said it struck the beach at a speed of 85 miles an hour, but it settled as easily as a bird .

Mrs. Grayson showed indomitable spirits as she stepped from the plane. "It was a wonderful test flight, at least," she said jocosely, with no hint of the disappointment that others plainly showed at the forced landing.

Her first effort was an attempt to obtain replacement gasoline to make another start on the same tide. This was impossible and the flight was postponed, with the earliest possibility this morning.

Stultz and Goldsborough felt the need of brief naps in the afternoon, but Mrs. Grayson apparently tireless, with their wives and T. Harold Kinkade, Wright motor expert, went to the Thatcher House at Biddiford for a Kiwanis luncheon.

With distrbances approaching from both the south and west, the chief anxiety of fliers was whether Old Orchard would be stormbound before the next low morning tide. They felt confident that oceanic conditions would be better today.



Completes Report Wheat Rust Problem

WINNIPEG, Man., Oct. 18. — (Canadian Press). — A report covering his years of research in the wheat rust problem of western Canada has been completed by J.H. Craigie, of the Dominion rust research laboratory of Manitoba Agricultural College, and has been forwarded to the National Research Council at Ottawa, it was announced yesterday.

While no announcement of the results of the research will be made until the Council has examend the reports, it was learned authoritatively here yesterday that Mr. Craigie's experiments will mark a big forward step in the fight of Western farmers to overcome the greatest of crop menaces.

Mr. Craigie has been at work for two years or more on his research but only in recent weeks has he been able to reach definite conclusions.

WINNIPEG WHEAT.

WINNIPEG, Oct. 18.—Increased offerings and widespread resumption of harvesting operations in Western Canada gave the wheat market an easier tendency yesterday. Outside news also was construed as bearish in character. Closing prices were ¼c to ⅞c below Saturday's finish.

Millers report a moderate flour demand for domestic consumption while direct export business was light.

A good inquiry developed for barley at unchanged prices, and a fair volume of trade was worked in the lower grades of rye. Oats and flax were without feature.

SENIOR OUTFIT FOR PETERBORO IMPOSSIBILITY

Departure of Three Stars Leaves Petes Without Team.

GOING TO KANSAS CITY.

McLeod, Dwyer and Ranger Take the Jump Into Pro Ranks.

With the decision of Joe Dwyer, Bert McLeod and Wilfrid Ranger to make the jump into the professional ranks with the Kansas City club of the American Hockey League, the breaking up of the team that has won so much fame for Peterborough in recent years and the withdrawal of this city from the Senior ranks are inevitable. The loss of these three sterling players leaves the Petes already shy of sufficient Senior material to be on the safe side, unable to ice a team, and while the question has not been definitely decided, there is little or no chance of a Senior outfit for Peterborough. In their three seasons in the O.H.A. Senior ranks, the Petes have twice been finalists; they captured the championship two seasons ago, and last year gave Varsity Grads a tight argument for the group honors. This is a record of which any club might well feel proud.

The city will be represented in the Intermediate and Junior series, and there are prospects of a good team in each section.

Dwyer, McLeod and Ranger leave early next month to report to Manager Grant in Duluth, where the Kansas City team is to train. Local fans will wish the trio every success in the American circuit. With Bailey also in the cash loop, exactly half of the championship Peterborough team of 1925-26 will be engaged in professional hockey.

HAMILTON PEOPLE WELCOME COLLEGE

See City in Future Centre of Education as Well as Manufacturing.

HAMILTON, Ont., Oct. 18.—(Canadian Press.) — Civic officials and citizens in general were enthusiastic to-day in expressing their gratification at the decision to remove McMaster University from Toronto to this city. The step will mean that Hamilton will become an educational centre as well as an industrial city. Although no definite announcement was made, it is understood that a site will be offered the University in the Westdale district, a newly opened residential section.

THE MARKETS.

City Dairy Strong in Active Session

TORONTO, Oct. 18 (Canadian Press).—With a gain of nearly four points at 189¾, City Dairy was the strongest feature of the Toronto Stock Exchange today. The most active stock, however, was British American Oil, which held steady around 38. Imperial firmed a little at 61¼. Most stocks firmed slightly. Walkers gaining to 75¼ and Sanfords advancing 2¼ at 36. Loblaw was also firmer. Page Hersey gained a fraction at 82. The banks were firm.

Malartic Mines Feature Of Standard Exchange

TORONTO, Oct. 18 (Canadian Press).—Extremely heavy trading on the Standard Mining Exchange this morning was featured by unusual activity in Malartic Mines, which gained 5½ at 32½. Columbus Kirkland advanced two at 7, while Gold ill Mines was up one, and Grover Daly up two. Bidgood dropped to 88½, a net loss of 5½. Amulet at 540 was off five.

Upward Move Resumed In Wall Street To-day

NEW YORK, October 18 (Canadian Press).—Prices resumed their upward movement to-day after an early period of heaviness. Speculators for the advance resumed their operations with confidence. Bullish entnusiasm was engendered by President Coolidge's report of business improvement. The lowering of the call money rate from 4¼ to 4 per cent. also was a factor.

U. S. Steel Common sold around 144½ by early afternoon. General Motors rallied from a low of 134 1-8 to 135 7-8. Midland Steel Products Preferred, Philadelphia Company, Brooklyn Union Gas, and Underwood Typewriter sold three to four points above last night's closing quotations. Rails were rather quiet, although brisk buying was noted in Wabash, Erie, and some of the other so-called "merger issues."

Wheat and Corn Fall As Weather Improves

CHICAGO, Oct. 18. — (Canadian Press.)—Both wheat and corn tended downward to-day during the early dealings. Favorable weather reports from Canada affected wheat, and there was selling of corn on Kansas City advices of excellent crop conditions and an outbreak of hog cholera in nearby districts. Opening unchanged to 3-8c. off, wheat subsequently underwent a general sag. Corn started at 3-8c. decline to 1-8c. advance and later receded all around. Oats were easy. Provisions held firm.

Opening prices were: Wheat, December 129 5-8, March 132 7-8. Corn, December 86½, March 90 1-8. Oats, December 46 5-8, March 48¾.

I. W. W. MINERS OUT ON STRIKE

Extra Deputies Sworn To Protect Members of United Mine Workers.

IN COLORADO FIELDS.

DENVER, Col., Oct. 19. Canadian Press. — Thousands of miners affiliated with the Industrial Workers of the World to-day threatened to tie up the Colorado coal fields. I.W.W. representatives may make the strike totally effective through intimidation, and extra deputies are being sworn in to protect the United Mine workers and others who are remaining at work. The strike spread from south to northern Colorado last night, when four thousand miners at Lafayette voted to strike to-day, after hearing an I.W.W. organizer.

Surgeon Seeks Stomach For His Patients; Colleagues Suspected of Stealing the Organ

PARIS, Oct. 18 (U.P.).—Paris adopted feverishly the new game, "Stomach, Stomach; Who's Got the Stomach?" The unusual game originated in St. Michael's Hospital and first was played by some forty physicians and numerous students who had gathered to observe the results of the master surgery of Chief Surgeon Pauchet. While the observers awaited in the lecture room, Dr. Paucet carefully removed the stomach of a patient in the laboratory, uncertain whether the patient was affected with tumor or cancer.

The surgeon had advised removal of the organ for examination. That all observers might witness the peculiar condition of the stomach, an assistant carried it to the lecture room and handed it around. Dr. Pauchet later dispatched the assistant to the lecture room to return the stomach to the laboratory so that it might be replaced in the patient. The assistant returned empty handed. He said the stomach could not be found. Dr. Pauchet hastened to the lecture room. He found, alas, that the stomach had vanished. Fortunately the surgeon has been able to join the patient's oesophagus and intestine with a tube which permits him to eat and drink while the hunt is in progress. All doctors and students who were present are under suspicion.

by the use of orange juice or celery, or similar substances.

To the Mayor's final comment that the report of the milk samples was worthless to the Board as an indicator of the presence of disease germs, Mr. Turner interjected the remark that it acted as a salutary check on the dealers, in the matter of cleanliness.

Mr. Turner reported that ,in a recent visit to Bowmanville, he had taken part in a conversation with Provincial Secretary Goldie, with regard to a promise made some time ago that the Peterborough Isolation Hospital would be placed on an equal footing with other hospitals of the type in the Province, with a grant such as given to many of them. City Clerk Armstrong was asked to write the Provincial Secretary, drawing the matter to his attention.

44 YEARS IN BUSINESS.

Just 44 years ago this month, Robert Fair came from Centreville, where he had been in business for seven years, succeeding the late T. Bradburn in the store which is still the home of Robert Fair Co., Limited. The population of Peterborough at that time was between six and seven thousand. This was just about the time when plate glass windows were being introduced, and Peterborough took up the new innovation so rapidly that it earned the title of "Plate Glass City. Fair's was then one of the leading stores of the thriving lumber town, a position it has always continued to hold, due to the satisfactory service the public always received. Mr. Fair's next door neighbor on the south side was the hardware business of the late Mr. George Stethem, while the late Mr. John Hackett handled general drygoods in the old Cluxton store, next door north. Fair's have always maintained the same lines, volume increasing with the years, until now it takes the fullest capacity of the five floors to take care of the business.

In 1907 the business was turned into a limited corporation under the name, Robert Fair Co., Limited. Mr. Fair is president and Miss B. Thompson is director and secretary-treasurer of the company, having full charge of the accounting department.

As a public spirited citizen, Mr. Fair has occupied many positions of prominence. For three years he was president of the Board of Trade, and was for many years on the Board of Education. He now represents St. John's church on the Nicholls' Hospital Board and is a Justice of the Peace.

Mr. Fair's aim at the beginning was to win public confidence by keeping dependable merchandize, moderately priced and in a very great measure he attributed his success to this and the cheerful service always found at the store. The business is as actively administered as ever, and the "Esprit de Corps," among the staff has always been a remarkable feature. A large percentage of the clerks spent their entire business career at Fair's. Another feature at Fair's has always been that no pressure to buy has ever been placed on a customer, but the management has at the same time insisted on the intelligent presentation of the merchandize. Customers "buy" their needs at Fair's, but are not "sold." The sale now being launched is commemorative of a continuous, prosperous occupation of the same building for forty-four years.

The heads of departments at present are Miss Gillespie, who has with her Miss L. Allen, millinery; Mrs. Hurley, ready-to-wear; Ed. Whaley, house furnishings; D. R. Gardner, staples; Miss Boate, wash goods; Miss Mabel White, corsets and underwear; Miss Josephine Armstrong, hosiery, gloves and ladies' neckwear; Miss Palmer, who has associated with her Miss Parnell, of the pattern dept., dress goods, trimmings and silks; Miss Elsie Cooper, ribbons, laces, handkerchiefs, and small wares, and lastly the faithful, obliging janitor, Mr. William Payton.

Buyers at Fair's depend on the stores reputation with the comfortable feeling that the goods are guaranteed by a firm in which the public has reposed its confidence for 44 years.

URGES BRITISH TO SHIP COAL ACROSS OCEAN

Hon. Charles Stewart Says Canada Will Gladly Buy It.

TO SUPPLANT U. S. FUEL.

Says Government Willing To Give Preference—Aid To Ship Owners.

LONDON, Oct. 18.—(United Press).—Hon. Charles Stewart, the Canadian Minister of the Interior, who has been investigating mining conditions in Great Britain, has cheered up the pessimistic Englishmen considerably by his assertion that Britain is ahead of all other countries in the scientific utilization of coal. He says that Canada wants to get ample supplies of British coal at a reasonable price, especially Welsh coal, which is much more suitable for the low temperature carbonization process, and he thinks that the British mine owners could well give more attention to Canadian requirements The Canadian Government, he says, would be willing to work on the principle of giving preference to British tenderers for coal supply, even when the price is not the lowest, in view of the superiority of the British product.

Canada at present imports half a million tons of coal from Britain anyway, and Mr. Stewart thinks that this can be trebled. He asserts that Canadian ship owners would be able to give cheaper freight rates if their ships would return from England well laden with coal instead of returning with small cargoes as at present.

Mr Stewart has been inquiring both in Britain and in Germany in the development of the low carbonization process with encouraging results. He says "Buy British coal" will be his slogan when he returns to Canada.

12 CANDIDATES ARE CONFIRMED

Bishop Seager Preached in St. Paul's Church, Marmora.

MARMORA, Oct. 18.—The Apostolic rite of Confirmation was administrede by Bishop Seager in St. Paul's church on Thursday evening before a large congregation. Twelve candidates were presented to His Lordship by the Rector, Rev. A. B. Caldwell. During the opening part of the service, the church was in semi-darkness owing to trouble at the local sub-station. Eventually the electric lights gleamed forth again to the comfort of all present. The Bishop's address was very impressive and rousing at times. He dealt with the origin of the word "sacrament," pointing out that it was derived from the Latin "sacramentum." Roman contemporaries of the early Christian church in giving a report of the Christians spoke of their sacramentum as being an oath of allegiance to God and to themselves with the endeavor to keep from evil. In elaborating on these three sides of the sacramentum, Bishop Seager among other things said, "No soul ever came into contact with Jesus but did not find itself in the grip of a divine power Jesus is the power of God unto salvation." Speaking of the Holy Communion and its relation to the other services of the church he continued, "all other services are spokes in the great wheel of religious observances of which the Holy Communion is the hub. Christianity is a personal relationship between the individual and the Saviour. The New Testament knows no Christianity apart from the life of the Christian church. Christianity is the reproduction among men of the great living brotherhood. Holiness of life is a part of our sacramental life. That life should be like Christ's, which was selfless."

While the offertory was being taken, the choir rendered with great effect, the anthem, "I Will Pray the Father," Mrs. G. R. Hartley taking the soprano solo. Assisting m Juu bs service were the Rev. Albert Redding of Parham and Rev. M. Levason of Rawdon. Those confirmed were Oryil Leonard, Manley Lavender, Gordon Derry, Mackenzie Bonter, Marjorie Bonter, Grace Crawford, Iva Phillips, Sarah Hart, Mae Hynes, Lilian Graham, Edna Jones and Mrs. Albert Jones

ENNISMORE NEWS

ENNISMORE, Oct. 18.—A very pleasant evening was enjoyed by a large crowd on Wednesday in the Parish Hall at a dance under the auspices of the Catholic Women's League. Dainty refreshments were served and splendid music for the dancing was supplied by O'Keefe's Orchestra, Peterborough.

year, but I want to be able to do it from the floor."

In his valedictory Colonel Ackerman complimented the Executive Committee upon the splendid work done during the past year, and remarked specially on the good work of Secretary S. Whatley. "Sid has been more than a secretary," he said, pointing to work done in the building aside from secretarial duties. "I must congratulate you on having a man with the capabilities and willingness of your present Secretary."

"In years to come", he continued, "I see the Canadian Legion bigger than any political parties or institutions in the British Empire. It spans the world, and its primary purpose is to look after the interests of our fellow service men. We must be big enough to overlook the trivial discords that arise, and get down to business."

Cheers were given the retiring commander and his successor.

Poppy Day.

In announcing Poppy Day for November 5, Colonel Ackerman stressed the fact that all proceeds go to relief work among returned soldiers. "It is important that this be borne in mind," he said, "in approaching the public for Poppy Day funds. Every cent contributed for poppies is spent on relief, except, of course the cost of the poppies, and even this is paid to disabled soldiers who make the poppies."

It was decided by the meeting that the usual Armistice Memorial Service should be held this year on November 6, and to this the public will be invited.

Improvements to Hall.

Notice was called to improvements recently made to the Legion hall, making it more adaptable to use as a community centre. A banquet hall has been furnished separate from the dance hall, and extra equipment guarantees satisfactory catering to the largest parties. The reasonableness of the charges made was referred to in the meeting, and the Legion members reiterated their warranty of service to those who patronize the building.

Further plans for bettering the accommodation were made at a meeting of the officers and new executive following the annual meeting.

SELECT JURORS

fined up to $100 as provided by law.

Miller told newspapermen that Blackmer saw no reason why he should appear here "voluntarily" in a case in which he was not at interest and in addition believed the Walsh Act to be unconstitutional.

Flanked by an array of counsel, Sinclair and Fall had places near the rail which in this little court-room shuts off the correspondents and the public, giving plenty of space for the former, but extremely little for spectators.

Dressed in a navy blue suit, Sinclair frequently consulted with his attorneys during the day and watched closely during the examination of each venireman. He gave advice when it came time to exercise peremptory challenges, studying the list of prospective jurors very carefully.

Fall, who was dressed in a light grey sack suit, sat half the time hunched down in his chair with a black overcoat thrown over one shoulder. Occasionally he dozed, but was keenly alert when it came to removing jurors from the box after they had qualified.

quicition of a few more dollars," he added.

Optimistic About Future.

The new leader could not give The Canadian Press any information as to where and how he would dispose of his business holdings. It was too soon to discuss it, said Mr. Bennett. He had not begun his task yet.

Mr. Bennett was optimistic about the future. No country of small population had ever done as much as Canada, he said. If Canadians would develop an aggressive national consciousness and pursue a proper national policy, the Dominion would have no cause to fear economic domination by any other country. "The United States will be taking our cattle and beef one of these days, and it wont be so very long ahead. They are beginning to feel the need of it now, and in time they will be mighty glad to get it."

SHOOTS GIRLS THEN HIMSELF

Chicago Young Man Kills Two Young Women in Automobile.

REVOLVER FOUND.

CHICAGO, Oct. 17 (Canadian Press).—Two nineteen-year-old girls were shot to death early today and then thrown from an automobile which sped on for a block before skidding to a stop against the curb with a dead man at the wheel. The driver, with a bullet through his head, was Wilfred Winters, 22. The girls were Catherine Stadler and Margaret Martin.

The tripie shooting took place on Rhodes Avenue, the householders hearing the sound of the shots and then seeing the bodies of the girls being pushed from the car. A revolver was found on the floor of the car near Winters' body. Winters had been attentive to Miss Martin for some time.

SYDNEY, Australia, Oct. 17 (United Press).—The official world's record for production of milk and butter from Jersey cows is claimed for Wagga Gladys, a seven-year-old cow at the Hawkesbury Agricultural College, near Sydney. In the past year, she has yielded 20,835 pounds of milk with an average of 5.52 per cent., equalling 1149.385 of fat, or 1384.8 pounds of commercial butter. PASTOR ASKS FOR EXCLUSION

Rev. George Alf Says Grace Church Won't Accept Convention Budget.

TOO MUCH MODERNISM.

TORONTO, Oct. 17. — (Canadian Press). — A resolution protesting against the growth of modernism in the church, introduced when the matter of the budget plan was under consideration to-day, caused another flurry at the annual Baptist Convention. The Rev. George Alf of Grace Street Baptist Church, leading the supporters of Rev. T. T. Shields declared Grace Church congregation would accept no budget from the convention nor would it support any board of the convention until every sign of modernism had been done away within McMaster University. He then asked convention to exclude Grace Church as it had done Jarvis Street Church.

OBITUARY

ROBERT BOYD.

OMEMEE, Oct. 18.—It was with deep regret that the citizens of Omemee and vicinity learned of the sad death of Mr. Robert Boyd, early Monday morning. The late Mr. Boyd was a highly respected citizen, a good neighbor and esteemed by all who knew him. In religion, previous to Union he was a faithful and ardent worker in the Presbyterian church, also an elder, and when Church Union was consummated he entered wholeheartedly into Trinity United church, and has served as an elder since that time. He was very active in municipal affairs and also in U.F.O. circles.

The funeral, which was held on Wednesday from his late residence, was very largely attended, despite the heavy downpour of rain. Rev. E. W. Rowland had charge of the service and spoke very fittingly from the words found in 2 Kings 20:1.

Interment was made in St. John's cemetery, Ida, the pall-bearers being six elders of the church, Messrs. F. G. Sandy, P. Race, W. Connell, R. Poast, H. Lamb, and D. Weir.

The floral tributes were many.

Of his immediate family his sorrowing widow and two daughters, Mrs. Chester Best and Mrs. J. Windrim are left to mourn his passing.

CHARLES E. HOSKINS.

CAMPBELLFORD, Oct. 18. — The death of Charles E. Hoskins occurred yesterday morning at his residence here. Mr. Hoskins was seventy-four years of age, and had been a citizen of the town for approximately the last forty years. Until comparatively recent years Mr. Hoskins had been connected with the business of contracting for all sorts of concrete work. Many of the sidewalks are of his construction and a large portion of the concrete work of the town and district is of his doing.

In recent years, the late Mr. Hoskins had not been active along the lines of his trade, but he had been confined to his bed for only a few days. He is survived by Mrs. Hoskins, two daughters, Mrs. John Kirby of Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., and Mrs. George Begg of Shaunavon, Sask., and one son Harry, of Cleveland, Ohio.

The funeral will be from the Baptist Church at 2.30 in the afternoon, Wednesday, October 19.

Cut fresh young cabbage and cook slightly, in uncovered boiling water. Drain and serve with Hollandaise sauce. It is delicate and delicious.

GENEVA POLICE WATCH HOTELS

Fear Attempts On Lives Of League Officials From Balkan States.

THREATS MADE.

LONDON, Oct. 17 (United Press). —Today's issue of The Westminster Gazette said that in Geneva a strict watch was being kept on hotel staffs to prevent poisoning of the meals of officials of the League of Nations. Because of threats made against the lives of representatives from the Balkan States following the Bulgarian-Jugo Slavia embroilment, a police station will be opened near the league buildings, The Gazette said. The proximity of the police station will permit rapid intervention in case of emergency.

WHY SO MUCH SPINACH?

Health writers and dietitians usually disagree with each other on almost every subject of importance in dietetics. Vegetarians think that meat is a source of all our infirmities, while the doctor who is obsessed with bug-phobia warns us against eating uncooked vegetables. And yet, there seems to be at least one vegetable that all agree is good, and useful to everyone. Cooked spinach is prescribed by every health authority—dietitian, physician, chiropractor, naturopath—and even my Christian Science friends seem to have acquired the habit of eating plenty of it.

Spinach is one of the oldest of our green vegetables, and was freely used even in the days of the Medes in Persia. Long before organic chemists discovered that spinach contains a large amount of iron, this green vegetable was used for its health-giving properties.

The French call spinach "belly broom" because of its value as roughage, but they also call it "death of the butter" because of the custom of adding a large amount of butter to spinach while it is cooking. Spinach does provide an excellent roughage, but does not contain much cellulose and, therefore, is not really scratchy or rough to the intestines. Even the most primitive people realize that it is advisable to use large quantities of bulky green vegetables to fill up the alimentary canal and assist in the peristaltic action of the stomach and intestines.

Only a few centuries ago it was discovered that spinach contains more iron than any of the other green vegetables, with the exception of lettuce and sorrel. It is also rich in sodium and calcium and is, therefore, an excellent blood builder. These valuable minerals are more easily available if the spinach is eaten uncooked, but considerable quantities of the organic minerals and vegetable salts are retained if the spinach is not cooked for too long a time. The best method of preparation is by steaming or boiling for five or ten minutes.

It is unwise to use condiments for seasoning, but most people will enjoy creamed spinach made by mincing the spinach fine and adding a small amount of warm cream and seasoning with a little salt as desired.

Spinach should be always well washed in running water to remove any sand or poison spray which the gardener may have used.

Try using spinach as a salad vegetable, keeping it on ice after it is washed, and serving when crisp and cold.

Spinach never produces flatulence and, therefore, may be used in unlimited quantities by everyone, and is especially to be recommended for those inclined to excessive gas formation.

Questions and Answers.

Question.—Anna E. asks: "Will you be kind enough to tell me what ould be the correct treatment for a young man about 20 years of age who has a great deal of albumin? The company doctor advised him to go to bed.'.

Answer.—The going to bed treatment will be of little permanent use to a young man 20 years of age who has such a serious disorder of metabolism as to have a great deal of albumin in the urine. He needs diet and exercise to correct the faulty metabolism which is responsible for his trouble. Keep him on his feet and fighting to get well, as this is his only hope.

Question.—Mrs. J. A. T. asks: "How are coddled eggs prepared?"

Answer.—Coddled eggs are prepared by pouring boiling water over them while in the shells, and allowing to stand about eight minutes. When broken open the egg should have a jelly-like consistency, but at the same time, should be so well cooked that there is no transparent albumen.

Question.—Mother writes: "I enjoy reading your articles from day to day and find them very helpful. The literary style of them is so simple and plain that I find them enlightening. My little girl, although going for hours during the day without a desire to urinate, soaks the bed in a few minutes after she lies down for a nap or at night before she retires. We allow her no drink at the evening meal. What is causing her trouble?"

Answer.—My idea in writing this column is to give my readers all the helpful information I can. I am glad you appreciate my efforts to make this a real health column which will be of particular value to the layman. Please send me your name and address so I can send you a special article which will tell you how to get rid of your little girl's trouble.

PRINCE OF WALES BEAT QUEEN MARY

Winners Won One and Drew Three Out of Four Games.

Last evening, at King Edward Park, the Queen Mary and Prince of Wales schoolboys battled in a soccer league school fixture to a no scoring decision. They played four games in the league which resulted in the Prince of Wales boys winning the section championship with one win and three drawn games.

	Goals P.	W.	D.	F.	A.	Pts
Prince of Wales..	4	1	3	0	2	1 5
Queen Mary	4	0	3	1	1	2 3

The winners are now waiting the winners of the other section composed off Central, King George and Queen Alexandra, whom they will meet for the school championship that carries the Alex Kay trophy with it.

FIRST HALF.

Both teams were at full strength for the final league fixture. Prince of Wales won the toss and were very prominent in raids that found a stubborn Queen Mary defence in readiness to offset the forwards attack. Exchanges were even for a while, with each team endeavoring to break through in combination style but the half-backs checked very closely on every occasion. Half-time announced the boys still on an even basis.

HALF TIME.

On resuming, the Prince of Wales forced the issue into the opposition goal to gain two flag-kicks that were unproductive. While Mowry, Queen Mary's custodian was the star performer with clever clearances from the attacking forces. He handled the ball with ease and never faltered when hard pressed in goal. Time and again the Queen Mary forwards would travel to the other end but they could not penetrate the solid defence that never allowed a shot to go near the goal-keeper. Prince of Wales outside right and outside left would work inside the defence to cause the full backs to concede fruitless flag-kicks. "Frenchie" twice in succession missed the cross-bar with beautiful punts from mid-field. A last minute rally by Queen Mary failed to materialize and they had to be content with a no scoring verdict. Queen Mary 0. Prince of Wales 0.

CHAMPIONSHIP GAME THUSRDAY AFTERNOON

The Examiner was informed this afternoon that the Public School Championship game will be played on Thursday afternoon at King Edward Park, between the Central and Prince of Wales schools. Kick-off at 4.30 prompt.

VOICE OF PEOPLE

PETERBOROUGH BASEBALL TEAM

Now that baseball is all over for 1927, what is going to be done for the team? Our city has been well advertised this summer through our ball club. Pick up the American newspapers; you read about Peterborough Baseball Club. Take the Eastern newspapers; you read what good ball Peterborough boys must be playing to be able to defeat a team like St. George's and enter into the finals. Now what are the Council, our Mayor and the baseball fans going to do for the boys. They won the Eastern Ontario championship, and very near had the finals. What about a Banquet and presentation of Medals to the boys.

Thanking you Mr. Editor,
Lover of Sport.

Johnny Dundee has engaged in upwards of 400 battles during his 16 years in the ring. Such prominent fighters as Benny Leonard, Rocky Kansas and others he has met half a dozen times or more.

NEW PREVOST COMEDY SCORES BIG SUCCESS

"Getting Gertie's Garter" Filled With Amusing Situations.

Getting a lady's garter sounds rather risque, but it isn't always that, at least not in "Getting Gertie's Garter," which opened auspiciously at the Regent Theatre last night, with Marie Prevost in the stellar role.

But lor laughs—frank, honest laughter—it would be hard to find a more effective medium than this rattling farce-comedy of woman's wiles and man's guile. It starts with a giggle and ends with a guffaw, and mischievous Marie and her mischief-making garter run rampant throughout the picture. The direction of E. Mason Hopper was excellent.

It is all about a young chap (Charles Ray) who buys what he believes to be a bracelet for his fiancee (Marie Prevost), but which proves to be a garter. On the dainty piece of milady's accoutrement is a photograph of the young man, and also a photograph of his intended. Then comes the break between the engaged coup., and the bracelet that turned out to be a garter is metamorphosed into a Nemesis. For the girl becomes engaged to another man, who is extremely jealous, and her ex-fiance also becomes affianced to a girl of inquiring disposition. This complicates matters and things get "thick" when Gertie tries to return the garter to her ex-sweetie. Jealous fiance and ex-fiance's "nosey" new "sweetie" always turn up at the psychological moment when Gertie is trying to return the nifty garter, and the result is, to say the least, a suspicious and embarrassing series of events.

Marie Prevost has the time of her life in this great farce. The role fits herlike the proverbial eel-skin. In fact, it is another "Up in Mabel's Room" in which she scored so heavily recently. Charles Ray as the fiance and ex-fiance, proves a splendid foil to Miss Prevost. The supporting company is quite satisfactory.

AT THE CAPITOL.

JOHN BARRYMORE IN 'WHEN A MAN LOVES."

Coming here before its production in Toronto theatres, the feature picture at the Capitol, "When a Man Loves" has one of those titles that are rather misleading. It does not give any adequate idea of the size or importance of the production, which is really a screen dramatization of an opera(the little known "Manon" of Jules Massenet, written from the story of Abbe Prevost, entitled "Manon Lescaut." It is a very fine picture, dramatic and thrilling, with a strong love elements that persists from start to finish, and an intriguing atmosphere of French court life in the days of the dissolute King Louis Fifteenth.

John Barrymore has the role of the Chevalier Des Grieux, erstwhile student for the priesthood and later lover of the beautiful Manon Lescaut (Dolores Costello). The two seem to fit beautifully into the roles of French people, giving a more convincing presentation of Gallic love and passion than is usually achieved by American actors. Warner Oland is the rascally brother of the frail Manon, and Sam de Grasse is the roue, de Morfontaine.

The story opens with the Paris diligence proceeding, post haste, to Amiens, where Manon and des Grieux meet for the first time, the girl on her way to a convent, the man to take up religious studies at St. Sulpice. With Manon are her brother and de Morfontaine, who wishes to make the girl his mistress and take her to Paris. She foils his designs by eloping with des Grieux, and the two live blissfully in a Parisian attic for the space of a week, before they are discovered by their pursuers, who persuade Manon that she should leave des Grieux, for the good of his soul. Accordingly, she goes away and becomes the mistress of de Morfontaine. Des Grieux meets them at a fashionable gaming resort and spurns Manon for her treachery. She follows him to St. Sulpice, where he is about to be ordained to the priesthood and he leaves, to resume his life with her. Cast off by his wealthy father, he turns to gambling as a livelihood and later meets the King, incognito, and plays with him for Manon, with whom the gay monarch has become intrigued. When the King cheats, and des Grieux loses, Louis claims the girl but is later persuaded by Richelieu to renounce her, and de Morfontaine, the Prefect of Police, again spurned by her, orders her to the Prison of the Magdalen, for deportation to the colonies, in penal servitude for life. Her lover, after killing de Morfontaine, goes to the convict ship and later incites the convicts to rebellion and mutiny. In the resulting affray, he and Manon escape in a boat and the picture concludes with the two reaching the shores of Louisiana and freedom in a new world.

Although the first portion faithfully follows the action of the story and opera, the end is much brighter in the pictured version, and several new incidents and characters are introduced. It is, however, a screen delineation of a love that has been remembered in song and operatic theme, and has thus a much greater attraction than the average feature.

Lyrics Of Life

(By Douglas Malloch.)

TROUBLE

Seems like ev'rybody's got
Certain trouble. Who has not?
Dogs have fleas, and other dogs,
Horses flies, and flies have frogs,
Frogs have boys with sticks and stones,
For trouble ev'rybody owns.

Yet I wonder if the boys,
With their sticks and stones and noise,
Though they should be merciful
Don't keep things from getting dull
Down around the old mill pond
Up the creek, and swamp beyond?

If the fly that flew and flew
No excitement ever knew
If the dog some summer dawn
Woke to find his fleas all gone,
Wouldn't life be pretty tame,
Ev'ry day about the same?

And it's so with you and me:
If we never had the flea
Men call trouble, and its strife,
Wouldn't we get tired of life?
Trouble? When we have a bit,
That's what puts the kick in it!

What Every Girl Should Know

By GISA PRUCHONE

Copyright, 1927, Warner Bros. Pictures, Inc.
"WHAT EVERY GIRL SHOULD KNOW," with Patsy Ruth Miller, is a Warner Bros. picturization of this novel.

SYNOPSIS

Mary Sullivan—slender, beautiful, red-headed—is a tennis champion. A poetical, spiritual girl is Mary, despite her physical prowess. Her mother died sewing for a living. Her spirit lives on in Mary. Wally Mason, a young reporter, loves Mary. But she disbelieves in love. Mary keeps house for her brothers, David and Robert. David, the family support, hopes Mary will get safely married. David is sentenced to ten years in prison for an auto fatality. Then Mary receives another blow when the Charity Department takes Bobby. Wally calls—

"No." Mary shook her head. "I haven't told you all. They came to take Bobbie away." She turned her head away from Wally's gaze. There was only the soft profile now with the curve of hair on her cheek.

"Who came to take him where?"

"I don't know who she was—she was sent by the authorities—to take Bobbie to an orphan asylum. She thought," her voice came lower; "she thought I wasn't a fit companion for him—the sister of a murderer—and that he was young enough to forget all if given into the proper hands. She took him to the proper hands."

Wally made a little noise, not quite a laugh, not quite an ejaculation, a cross between the two. His eyes narrowed, and he ran his hand through his hair. "The majesty of our law!" He came to Mary and turned her face about, her chin in his hand.

"You crying? They'll never get away with that stuff, not if I have to kill the editor to give me space to call them what they deserve.

"Goodby, Elaine, dear."

I'll get the attention of the country focused right here in little old Garden City. I'll get them somehow!"

"No, Wally. You're not going to do that. I've thought it all out. It doesn't hurt any more, and perhaps that part of it is for the best." She would try to explain. "You see—it would be difficult to support myself and Bobbie right now—"

"You don't think I'd let you, do you?" Wally interrupted, grimly.

Her gaze was a concoction of everything blessed. "Some day, Wally, I'll tell you what I really think of you—"

"Tell me now," his eyes pleaded.

She hurried on. "I've thought it all out—what was I saying?—it would be rather hard for me," she put the palm of her hand against his mouth to stifle another outburst, "and until I get settled I'd prefer, I really would prefer it, I think!"—happily—"to have Bobbie somewhere where I know he will be well taken care of—and safe. He won't be happy there, Young Robert," her eyes misted, "but—it's just as well, and when I am earning enough for both, which will be soon, Wally, soon, I'll come and get him. And let them try to tell me I'm a detrimental influence then!" she finished.

Mary—a detrimental influence, when she was driving him on to the best that was in him, a best he didn't realize himself capable of feeling—

"What are your plans, sweet?"

"New York."

He stared at her. "What?"

"New York, Wally. Can't you hear me? New York!"

"Like blazes!" he flared.

"Don't swear, Wallace," primly, with a laugh in her eyes.

Wally, truculently. "Like blazes, I said. I'll say it again. What do you mean—New York? What's the brilliant overpowering idea? What's doing there that isn't doing here?"

"Bobbie's doing there, Wally."

"And—?"

"That's all." She rose, struck her palms together and asked, with a little weary gesture, "Isn't that enough?"

"Not quite." Wally was grim. "How do you think it will help to be near him?"

"I'll see him more often."

"I doubt that."

"You mean—they won't let me to him? Surely——"

"I doubt that they will consider you the best influence for him." His voice was gentle. "They'll try to acclimate him—and your coming won't help—you see?"

"Well—that remains to be seen. Nevertheless he will feel I am there." She shook her head impatiently. "Nothing can keep me. I'm going."

Wally groaned. "Oh Lord." Then, "Look here. Marry me!" He came to her in two strides, and grasped her wrist with one hand, while with the other he forced her to look up. "You're going to marry me, Mary," grimly. He shook her chin to disturb the calm of her gaze. "Do you hear?"

"No."

He said, "I promised I wouldn't again—but I shall. You shouldn't look that way," and grasped her lithe young body in his arms, and bent his shining head—— When he lifted it again he was breathing with an effort. There was something in his chest that obstructed the passage of air from his lunge. He overcame that as if lifting himself bodily and leaping the obstacle.

Mary looked at him, and answered the question she saw pleading from his eyes.

"No," she said.

That maddened him. "Do you know what love is—are you capable of feeling it, you frigid little—little——" His hand grasped her wrist again, and he was hurting her. She had never seen Wally so white, and the customary gay light was gone from his eyes.

"I've no time for it," she countered weakly, afraid, somehow.

"No time for love?" He threw back his head at that, and laughed. "Oh Elaine, Elaine sweet! When it comes it won't be because you've found time for it! Why am I heckling you with the offer of something about which you are as innocent as the proverbial lamb? Well—that's that." Wally had reverted again. "Let's get back to New York. When are you going?"

"Tomorrow!"

He was taken aback. "Not so soon?"

"Yes. I can't wait to begin."

He thought of the troublesome paths in store for her, which he, out of the fund of his superior knowledge, could intuitively feel.

"Are you going to write me?"

"Of course, Wally."

"Will you keep me informed of everything, including your need of help?"

"That need will never rise!" Cockily. The old Mary with head atilt. He groaned. Would she never learn? And yet, he adored it, the bright scarlet feather of youth!

"I'm coming to see you off."

"No, please Wally dear. I'd rather you didn't."

There was such a thing, thought Wally, as carrying a thing a bit too far.

"Why in blazes not?"

"Oh—I don't know——" What she meant was that she wanted to start fresh, to make her leap with no trailing condolences of farewells that might hamper her progress.

"Nevertheless," said Wally, "I'm coming." And he did. And there were no tears, albeit Mrs. Tomlinson did wipe her eyes when she thought Mary wasn't aware of the furtive gesture. There were flowers from Wally, orchids, no less, a gay little corsage. And a cake from Mrs. Tomlinson.

"Good-bye, Elaine, dear." His head bared. It hurt saying goodbye to Wally. There came a funny little tug at her breast.

"Good-bye, Wally, dear."

"You will write," anxiously, "and let me know everything?"

"I will, dear."

"Good-bye, Mrs. Tomlinson."

"Good-bye, Mary, darling. Be a good girl and remember your mother, and remember the wickedness of the city," at which Mary smiled.

"Good-bye—good-bye." Wally and Mrs. Tomlinson standing close together in the blazing noon-day sun, and growing more and more blurred with each inch that Mary drew away from them, and the very last memory of Garden City was Mrs. Tomlinson, waving her bag frantically and mouthing something that vaguely looked like "Patch!" which was silly, of course. Patch was to board at Mrs. Tomlinson's. But what could it have been that she had been trying to tell Mary? And whatever it was—what did it matter now? What did anything matter but the new life that was waiting for her, pulsating with every deep throb of the train, lying aquiver in the sun that Mary might come to gather the loveliness of its blossoms?

CANADIAN BEAUTY IN DIVORCE CASE

Margaret Bannerman Cited as Co-respondent in Lohr Case.

A very interesting and enjoyable evening was spent at the meeting of the Central Home and School Association Friday night, on the occasion of the presentation of diplomas to the graduating class of Central School.

The meeting was opened with the singing of "O Canada," followed by an address by the chairman, Mr. K. S. Wightman, principal of the school. Dr. H. M. Yelland of the Board of Education was called upon to make the presentation of the diplomas to the successful pupils.

The program arranged for the evening was of a very classical nature, the various artists being well received by a most appreciative audience.

During the proceedings Inspector Mowat and Mrs. W. H. Lacey, president of the Association, gave short talks.

The following is the program:

Vocal solos were rendered by Mrs. G. F. Liddle in her very pleasing voice, accompanied by Mr. Liddle.

The audience was then favored with a very attractive piano solo by Mr. Liddle. Mr. E. Rowe sang in his usual fine manner, and was accompanied by Mrs. Rowe. A piano duet by the Misses Bessie Elcome and Alda Bartlett was well received.

The service of refreshments and the singing of the National Anthem concluded the evening's program.

A THREE DAYS' COUGH IS YOUR DANGER SIGNAL

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action, it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the infected membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. Creomulsion Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

Board Made Coal Freight Estimates On Actual Test Loads.

EXPLAINS DIFFERENCE.

OTTAWA, Oct. 18.— (Canadian Press.)—There was no error or miscalculation in the railway board's estimate of the cost of carrying Alberta coal to Ontario, said Chairman McKeown. He explained that Premier Brownlee of Alberta, was figuring on a load of 36 tons to each box car, whereas the Commission figured on the actual loads carried in the special test movement, which averaged 33.4 tons, making the price $.22 per ton.

ALUMINUM MEN ASK PROTECTION

Say They Produce Better Goods Than Firms Across Line.

NO EXPLOITATION.

OTTAWA, Oct. 18. — (Canadian Press). — Aluminum manufacturers held the floor to-day before the Tariff Board. The Aluminum Company of Canada and nine other producers asked for the removal from the free list of partly manufactured aluminum products. The Aluminum Company representative, after outlining the magnitude of the company's operations, asserted the consumers were not being exploited and Canadian manufacturers were producing high-grade ore compared to the cheap imports from the United States.

Applications for a reduced tariff made by the Consumers' League of Canada were then countered by the company with requests for taking a number of products from the free list and these were supported by other firms.

PONTYPOOL NEWS

PONTYPOOL, Oct. 18.—The United church is holding anniversary services on Sunday, Nov. 13th. On Monday, Nov. 14th there is to be a Fowl Supper, which promises to be a big event.

About 75% of the potato crop has been harvested with different results. Some report that their crop is undersize, while the majority report very few in the hill, but a good size. In the immediate locality there has been no sign of rot and by all indications potatoes will be better than a good half crop. Different prices have been realized, but most sales have been made at $1.10 to $1.25 a bag in the field. Most of the farmers are storing their crop and are expecting a better market.

Rev. Mr. Broadhour, pastor of the United Church here, is taking his holidays, and Mr. Alex. Monk, Bethany, is filling the pulpit during his absence.

The Sunday school, since its re-organization is going along well again, with the services at 2.30 p.m.

THE DUFFUS BOWLING ALLEYS OFFICIALLY OPENED

Public Interest Taken in This Splendidly Equipped Recreation Academy.

OUTSTANDING FEATURES.

Congratulatory Speeches By Representative Citizens.

Last evening at eight o'clock, immediately after the Canadian General Electric Drafting Department teams finished their schedule league games, Peterboro's newly arranged bowling academy was officially opened by His Worship Mayor Holloway. Mr. A. E. Peck, M.P., and Mr. W. Bradburn, M.P.P.

In speaking to the several hundred people who had assembled His Worship Mayor Holloway congratulated J. J Duffus Limited on the splendid equipment and accommodation afforded Peterborough's sporting public in the Duffus building. He remarked that this was only one of the very many good things that people had to offer to other citizens and visitors. He said that he had never been in better equipped or more attractive premises; and that the people who would use them would obtain a greater advantage than frequenting other places which would not afford the same pleasure and recreation and perhaps reputation. He remarked that he hoped he would not hear any more knockers in connection with Peterborough and that if the citizens had the same opportunity of visiting other towns and cities they would appreciate a great deal more the very many advantages Peterborough and surrounding districts has compared with other centres. It would be a real pleasure for him to recommend to the city council that a letter of congratulation and appreciation be sent to J. J. Duffus Limited for the splendid facilities they had provided not only for the boys and girls but for the men and women who desired healthful recreation.

Mr. E. A. Peck, M.P., also added his congratulations. He said that he had no idea that Peterboro offered such splendid advantages for the wonderful game of bowling. He admitted that he was not familiar with the game; but what attracted him most was the splendid exercise and enjoyment it provided, and without any possible chance whatever of undue advantage one over the other—as credit was given for the number of pins that were knocked down—and the matter of tabulating being so simple. He was delighted to see so many ladies present enjoying the games. He cited incidents in ancient history where friendly rivalry and competition was such an advantage to mankind in general. He again expressed his congratulations to J. J. Duffus Limited, and his great pleasure of having the opportunity of being present at the official opening, and wished the firm and its many patrons every enjoyment and success.

Mr. W. H. Bradburn, M.P.P., was also loud in his complimentary remarks in connection with the newly arranged pleasure producing academy. He agreed with His Worship the Mayor that the City of Peterborough offered advantages not enjoyed elsewhere; and expressed his sincere hope that the new institution would be well patronized, and that the citizens generally would be much benefitted by it. He said he also was not very familiar with the game but he knew it was calculated to be advantageous from the standpoint of health. He said that he had been in many recreation academies throughout Canada, but had seen none more attractive or better equipped, and wished the firm of J. J. Duffus Limited every success.

Those present insisted that Mr. J. J. Duffus, President and General Manager of J. J. Duffus Limited, make some remarks. He said that he did not want to delay the games, but was glad to have the opportunity of mentioning two or three matters. He expressed his appreciation of the patronage enjoyed last year, and hoped that this year's bowling would be more enjoyable and that everyone would be thoroughly satisfied. He had not been talking to many of those present but he judged from the expressions on their faces they were agreeably surprised with the new surroundings and equipment He made it known that all the details had not yet been completed, but within a week or ten days these would be taken care of; and he hoped that those using the premises would not hesitate to make such suggestions as would be in the interest of bowling.

He expressed his sincere appreciation to his Worship the Mayor; Mr. Peck, M.P.; and Mr. Bradburn, M.P.P., for the honor they conferred on him in being present to officially open the newly arranged bowling club, and concluded by wishing everybody a most enjoyable season of healthful recreation and sport.

His Worship the Mayor was then escorted to Alley No. 13 and officially opened Peterborough's new recreation club by stating that "With the rolling of this ball, I now declare this bowling academy officially opened," after which a very busy and enjoyable evening's bowling was participated in by visitors present.

CASE IS FARCE SAYS JUSTICE

Gives Opinion During Cross Examination of Complainant Against Gordonier.

HEARING AT BELLEVILLE.

BELLEVILLE, Ont., October 18 (Special to The Examiner). — "This case is nothing more than a farce as far as I can see," stated the Honourable Mr. Justice Fisher this morning after hearing the evidence of Edith McInroy, who was the alleged victim of a criminal assault by James Gordonier, bailiff of Marmora Village ,on April 30th.

This statement came like a bolt out of a clear sky during Charles Payne's cross-examination of the Crown witness, Mrs. McInroy.

Promptly at ten o'clock this morning, the hearing of the only criminal case on the docket of this fall's Assizes began. After some trouble, the jury was sworn in, and His Lordship charged the twelve men. Mrs. McInroy, the victim of the alleged assault, was the first witness called by the Crown Prosecutor, C. A. Seguine, of Ottawa.

Mrs. Edith McInroy said that she was twenty years of age, was the wife of Donald McInroy ,and was married in June of 1926. She stated that she knew the prisoner, James Gordonier, and then the case proceeded.

Q.—Where were you on April 30th?

A.—"In the evening I went to Havelock."

A.—"In James Gordonier's car."

Q.—"How did you come to go with Gordonier?"

A.—"My husband had gone away, and I met the prisoner on the street, and asked him where my husband was. He said he had gone to Havelock with Clifford Scott, and said that he had been drinking, and that the Provincials were after him.'

Q.—"Did you get to Havelock?"

A.—"No, about two miles out from Marmora Gordinier drove out a side road about one-half mile."

Q.—"What happened then?"

A.—"He stopped the car and put his arms around me. I tried to get out of the car but he grabbed me and pulled me back."

Gordinier weights about 215 pounds and Mrs. McInroy about 90 pounds.

Q.—"How did he pull you back "

A.—"He grabbed my shoulder and wouldn't let me go. He said my husband went around drinking so I might as well too. But I fought and screamed."

Q.—"What way was he holding you?"

A.—"He had his arms around me."

Q.—"After the assault was there any conversation?"

A.—"Yes, he said not to tell my husband anything."

Q.—"Did you?"

A.—"No, I was afraid to tell him and did not let him know until July 10th."

The witness at this point stated that Gordinier had come into her house several times after the alleged assault.

It was Mr. Payne's, counsel for the defence, cross-examination which caused His Lordship to state that the case was a farce. Mr. Payne asked several embarrassing questions of the witness.

The other witnesses were called before court adjourned, namely: Dan McInroy, husband of the alleged victim, and Mrs. Elizabeth McInroy, mother-in-law of Edith McInroy, who lives in the other part of Dan McInroy's house.

McInroy stated that his wife was nervous and not well after the incident on April 30 and had gone to the doctor three or four times. Before the alleged assault happened she was in good health.

This closed the morning session.

Considerable trouble was experienced in selecting a jury. Charles Payne, counsel for the defence, rejected seventeen of the aspirants before the final twelve were selected and the Crown rejected four, and told several to stand at one side.

The final jury is composed of Harry Alford, farmer, Tyendinaga; W. D. Parry, blacksmith, Deseronto; John Munro, farmer, Dungannon; Arnold Armstrong, Sidney, employer; William Wonnacott, Belleville, employee; William Warham, Belleville, employee; George Thorne, Belleville, clerk; Albert Willis, Belleville, employee; W. S. Harry, Sidney, farmer; Roy Bush, Sidney, farmer; Harry Delyea, Madoc, farmer; Orin White, Shannonville, laborer.

SUCCESSFUL PLOWING MATCH HELD IN VICTORIA COUNTY

Men From Surrounding Counties Compete With Local Plowmen.

STRONG COMPETITION.

Great Interest Is Taken By Hundreds of Farmers Who Visit the Field.

(By a Staff Reporter).

The best plowing match in the history of Victoria County was held yesterday on the farm of Harold McConnell in the Township of Emily, three miles north of Omemee. Thirteen teams were entered in the sod plowing competitions 19 in the stubble, 2 in the twin plow events, one in the riding plow events and two tractors.

The entry list included plowmen from Peterborough, Durham, Ontario and Victoria Counties. The visiting plowmen carried off both the cups and the first prize in sod plowing.

In the evening a banquet was held in the Coronation Hall, Omemee, where the prize-winners were announced and the various special prizes given out. Addresses were given by Wm. Newman, M.P.P. for North Victoria; F. G. Sandy, M.P.P. for South Victoria; Warden Parrington, and many other men interested in the Plowmen's Association.

One of the features of the catch was the plowing of Bruce Fairfield, a little red-haired boy hardly ten years old, who could scarcely see over the top of the plow handles. He told The Examiner that it was the first time he was ever at a plowing match but he said "he hoped to plow at many more." The oldest plowman was William Rich, who appeared to be many years over 65. In his land he had a typical old time crown he cut a nice clean furrow which set up well.

Number Boy Entries.

There was a large number of entries amongst the boys, who appear to be taking an interest in plowing in Victoria County, which was classed as the base of Canada's basic industry.

The success of the match and the great interest taken by the farmers of Victoria County was said to be due to the inspiration acquired from the Provincial plowing match which was held in Lindsay a few years ago.

Many plowmen competed who were winners at the recent Provincial match held at Richmond Hill. The farmers of Emily supplied the horses for those who came from a distance and nothing but the best was given the visitors to plow with.

The judge was G. B. Little of Agincourt, who was assisted by J. J. Duffus of Peterborough, the immediate past president of the Ontario Plowmen's Association.

The business men of the County of Victoria donated both specials and money, enabling the association to offer valuable prizes. Mr. McConnell's farm was very suitable for a plowing match, as the land was a clay loam. President John Alton presided at the banquet.

CECIL PREPARES PLAN FOR PEACE

Former Cabinet Minister Has Scheme For Disarmament in Europe.

LIBERALS TAKE STAND.

LONDON, Oct. 19 (United Press).—Viscount Cecil, since his resignation from the Cabinet because of his dissatisfaction with the Government's action toward disarmament, has been preparing an elaborate scheme for European disarmament which he intends shortly to submit to the British public. The main lines of his plan provide for progressive British, French, and Italian disarmament. The plan contains many entirely original features.

In the meantime the British Liberal party has produced a resounding manifesto declaring in favor of the complete suppression of war, stringent reduction of armaments, and whole-hearted support of the League of Nations.

In one section, the manifesto declares: "We regard the interests of the Dominions and of India as identical with our own and we do not admit that any conflict can arise between a spirit of loyalty to the British Commonwealth and loyalty to the League of Nations."

LABOR FAVORS CIVIC SERVICES

Municipal Candidates in England Advocate Control of Banking.

ALSO OF SUPPLIES.

LONDON, Oct. 19. Canadian Press.—Some novel proposals are contained in the platforms of the Labor candidates who are campaigning in the municipal elections throughout England, which will be decided on November 1. In some cities municipal control of banking services and of domestic supplies, such as coal and milk, are persistently advocated. To combat the Laborites, who have been very successful in recent years, Conservatives and Liberals are banded together under the name of the Citizens' Party.

Determined to Prevent Gomez From Escaping

MEXICO CITY, Oct. 19.—(Canadian Press.)— Numerous armed agrarians have actively entered the campaign to prevent the escape from Mexico of General Arnulfo Gomez, revolutionary leader, who the spokesman for President Calles admitted last night had eluded pursuit thus far. The agrarians are co-operating with the federal soldiers engaged in patrolling and searching regions in Vera Cruz and the borders of that state where Gomez might go in his flight to the coast of the border.

President Calles sent a message to Governor Saturnino Cedillo, state of San Luis Potosi to take measures to prevent Gomez from escaping by way of that state. Cedillo replied with this laconic telegram:

"He will not pass"

A letter from Mrs. David Weese of Glenalda, near Chandos, was read, asking for donations from the society of Christmas cheer or clothing for poor families in that district. Mr. Edgar reported that Havelock ladies were also asking for donations of this sort. After some discussion, it was decided to inform both sections that the local society could not act as a distributing agency for relief in such cases, their work being concentrated on aid to children.

MOUNT PLEASANT OFFERS TO QUIT BAPTIST MEETING

Thomas Urquhart Makes Last Appearance As Delegate Before Convention.

SAYS PASTORS PUZZLED.

Ask To Be Relieved From Membership Owing To Profound Disagreement.

TORONTO, Oct. 19.—For thirty-five years or more one of the "statesmen" of the Baptist denomination, respected as one of the administrators and advisers of the church, ex-Mayor Thomas Urquhart, mounted the platform of the convention late yesterday afternoon and announced his last appearance before the convention.

He handed in the resolution of his church—the Mount Pleasant congregation—to be relieved from membership in the convention of Ontario and Qubec on account of profound disagreement. Mr. Urquhart declared that Mount Pleasant stood with Jarvis Street in maintaining that McMaster University was spreading modernistic teaching.

In seconding the home mission report, Mr. C. Cook of Brantford took exception to insinuations that he was being controlled by McMaster University.

"The insinuation has been thrown out," said Mr. Cook, "among others, that I among others am dominated by McMaster."

"If anyone thinks I would let McMaster University dominate my views on home missions work, well he's got another think coming," declared Mr. Cook.

Referring to the home mission board, Rev. C. T. Newton stated that although the board was "free from outside influence and control," he was not satisfied with the "inside influence." There were rumors emanating from the inside which should be cleaned up.

Rev. W. J. Thomson stood up and declared that "those mentioned in Mr. Newton's reference to the board should be present when the matter was discussed.

Last Appearance

"May I say, Mr. Chairman, that this will probably be the last time I appear before the Baptist convention of Ontario and Quebec," said Mr. Thomas Uuquhart, quite calmly and in a tone quite business-like and matter-of-fact, although it was apparent he felt emotion at breaking a tie of long standing.

There were cheers and applause from some of his opponents.

"Thank you," said Mr. Urquhart. "I can interpret that as a Plutonian word of praise.

"In the first place I want to give my judgment and my considered opinion regarding the treatment of pastors by the home mission board last year. I stand to-day as I always stood, as the friend of our home mission pastors."

Stung His Opponents

Mr. Urquhart stung his opponents into anger by declaring that the home mission board had no right "to muzzle the men sent forth to preach the Gospel of our Lord, Jesus Christ."

It was enough, the veteran Baptist layman maintained, that the hand of the church had been placed upon their shoulders to send them out to preach the Gospel.

"It is not for any board," he declared, "to say what that man's preaching is to be so long as he's preaching the Gospel."

When members of the convention called out that Mr. Urquhart's criticism did not refer to the report he countered: "It is on the report."

Mr. Urquhart then asked the secretary of the home mission board whether the money loaned from the Carter Estate trust fund and expended in loans out of the Niagara-Hamilton Association had been returned.

"Are there any debts?" he asked.

"All the money in the trust fund is still there," was the answer.

"Well, there was $2,500 of loans that were worthless a few years ago," said Mr. Urquhart. "Because the money was expended in Cobalt."

"All that has been returned," answered Mr. R. D. Warren, the general treasurer.

"I'm very glad to hear it," replied Mr. Urquhart. "The Niagara-Hamilton Association should see that the money of the fund is now kept in that association and used for the purpose it was set aside for, and not for loans outside ot the district."

Last of all, Mr. Urquhart in a little more serious tone, though cheerfully, shook the dust of the convention, metaphorically, from his feet. He announced a resolution from Mount Pleasant Baptist Church. "This church of which I am a member," he said, "is in disagreement to the policy of this convention and I announce their desire to be relieved from this convention. We stand just where Jarvis Street stood."

"We regret exceedingly that Mr. Urquhart is no longer a member of the home mission board," declared J. R. Webb, "because he has always shown conspicuous service in it."

But Mr. Webb wanted to clear up that word "muzzle." He regretted that Mr. Urquhart had found it

MINERS STRIKE IN COLORADO COAL FIELDS

Reported I.W.W.'s Receive Food and Ammunition in Preparation For Emergency.

PICKETS ARRESTED.

Mines in Southern Section Reported Operating With Half Forces.

DENVER, Colo. Oct. 19.—(A.P.)—Approximately 4,000 miners yesterday answered a strike call of the Industrial Workers of the World in Colorado coal fields.

Suspension of work at several mines in northern Colorado occurred without disturbances, while in the southern section Sheriff Harry Capps, of Walsenburg, investigated reports that I.W.W.'s had received a freight carload of rifles and ammunition and four carloads of food in preparation for any possible emergency.

Reports also were prevalent that the I.W.W. had numerous secret quarters in Walsenburg and that several bands were congregated in nearby hills.

Eighteen pickets were arrested by Sheriff J. J. Marty of Las Animas County and they were lodged in jail at Trinidad. No formal charges were filed against them. I. W. W. leaders said the arrests were illegal and that they had instructed their attorneys to come to the defence of the men.

The lignite producing fields in the northern part of the state were hardest hit by yesterdays walkout. Mines in the southern section, near Walsenburg and Aguilar, were reported operating with about half of their regular forces. At Trinidad only a few miners failed to report for work. Coal mines in Fremont County were not affected.

Soon Cease Operations.

I. W. W. leaders predicted that southern Colorado coal mines would be forced to cease operations soon and that many more miners would strike to-day. Coal company officials said they did not believe the strike will be of long duration.

The strike leaders announced at Walsenburg that the I.W.W. was financially able to see the strike through to a successful conclusion.

Paul Sieller, international organizer, said no strike benefits would be paid for two weeks, but after that they probably would be started.

Earl Hoage, president of the Colorado Federation of Labor announced yesterday that the state labor body would take no part in the strike, although he said the organization believed the miners had a just grievance. He called the IW.W. a "renegade radical organization."

12-Year-Old Boy Tells Of Family's Misdeeds

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Oct. 19 (United Press).—The testimony of a twelve-year-old boy sent his mother, four uncles, a grandmother, and an uncle by marriages to jail on bootlegging charges. Claude Hayes, the State witness, testified he carried water for his uncles' still and he carried liquor from the still to his mother. His mother sent him away from home once. He said he used to sell liquor to customers when she was not at home.

Young Hayes showed no hesitancy in testifying against his family, and when the hearing was completed, merely remarked, "They got what was coming to them."

THIS CITY TO BE FLYING CENTRE

Captain Ayres Declines Tempting Oshawa Offer and Will Stay Here.

CONFIDENT FOR FUTURE.

That the Canadian Air Services Company is pleased with prospects for increased business in this city and has consequently declined a very attractive proposition from Oshawa, was the statement of Captain H. P. Ayres, when interviewed by The Examiner today.

Captain Ayres admitted that the Oshawa offer was very enticing, including as it did financial backing and a factory which would enable him to carry out the production of commercial light airplanes. "I have every faith in Peterborough," he continued, "and having decided in the first place that Peterborough was a strategic airport location on the trans-continental airways which will be an economic necessity within the next ten years, I have decided to stay here."

Having in addition, he declared, "laid out the finest commercial aviation plant in the Dominion of Canada and having successfully operated a school which during the past summer has trained more commercial aviation personnel than has the combined efforts of all other aviation schools in Canada since the war, I am confident that the City of Peterborough has been put on the aviation map and will increase in importance as a flying centre very rapidly.

GET YOUR COSTUME IN GOOD SHAPE

The Examiner's Hallowe'en Party Will Be Held Again This Year—Organization Meeting To-night.

Every one remembers the fine way in which Peterborough city and neighboring districts celebrated Hallowe'en night in Peterborough last year. Despite a pouring rain thousands were in costume and thousands looked on. It was a most sensible and happy way of celebrating the night. Everyone was orderly and gentlemanly, no damage done to any one's property. This year it is the intention of The Examiner to give the citizens of this district the opportunity to again celebrate in the same manner.

An organization meeting of citizens to name different committees is being held to-night and further particulars will be given later. But in the meantime be getting your costume ready.

THREE PROMINENT CITIZENS PASS AWAY IN SAME NIGHT

DIED LAST NIGHT.

JOSHUA D. COLLINS,
A Veteran of the Fenian Raid, and a Resident of Peterborough Since 1857.

Ex-Mayor George Duncan, J. D. Collins, and D. J. Lundy Are Dead.

ALL WELL KNOWN.

Mr. Collins Was Veteran of Fenian Raids—Mr. Lundy Prominent Realtor.

Peterborough lost three well-known citizens last night and this morning, when ex-Mayor George H. Duncan, Joshua D. Collins, and Douglas J. "Duke" Lundy passed away. This city has lost many prominent men in the past few months, but seldom has the hand of death been laid so heavily in a few hours.

The three men were known in three different spheres of life. Mr. Duncan was prominent in the civic government, with thirteen years of service in various elective offices. Mr. Lundy was a prominent realtor and insurance broker. Mr. Collins, one of the city's oldest residents, was a member of the fast diminishing little band which fought in the Fenian Raids in 1866.

GEORGE H. DUNCAN.

George H. Duncan, two years Mayor, ten years Alderman, and once a member of the Peterborough Utilities Commission, passed away in the city early this morning. Mr. Duncan served Peterborough with great earnestness and marked ability. While Alderman, he served as chairman of practically every one of the committees of the Council. He was chairman of the Board of Health for a number of years, and during the war was industrious with war-time activities.

Mr. Duncan was born in this city, and was engaged for a few years in the textile trade. Later he entered the business of contracting painter. He was first elected to the City Council in 1906, and served on the Council as Alderman until 1918, with the exception of 1908 and 1915. In December, 1917, he was elected Mayor by acclamation and the following December was re-elected by acclamation.

Mr. Duncan was always an enthusiastic member of the Peterborough Curling Club.

He leaves to mourn his loss his sorrowing wife, three sons, Robert of Rochester, N.Y., Gordon and Donald of this city, and one daughter, Mrs. Cecil Watson, of this city; also three brothers, Robert of Cleveland and Thomas and Albert of Peterborough.

The funeral will be held at 3.30 on Friday from his late residence, 455 Hunter Street West, to Little Lake Cemetery, the Rev. Mr. Sutcliffe officiating.

JOSHUA D. COLLINS.

Joshua D. Collins was born in Ireland in 1838, and came to Canada in 1857, to his uncle, A. C. Dunlop, who lived at "Malone," the large rough-cast house still standing near the railway on Dunlop street. Mr. Collins, after coming to Canada, became an active member of the militia, and during the Fenian raid he saw service under the command of Captain Kennedy.

Mr. Collins at the time of his death was a member of the Central Charity Board and was vice-chairman for many years. He was an alderman of the town of Peterborough for the year 1893.

He was for many years in the office of Meps, Dennistoun, Fairbairn & Castles barristers, on Hunter St.

Mr. Collins was somewhat deaf and two years ago he underwent a serious operation, which taxed his strength to some extent.

Five sons and four daughters survive Charles Durham, of Waterloo; Robert Dunlop of Vancouver, Alex James of Elora, Fred of North Monaghan, and James D., of this city; Mabel, Elinor, and Mrs. Walter Denston at home, and Mrs. George Greening of Montreal. His wife predeceased him in January 1925. He was a life long member of St. Paul's Presbyterian church.

The funeral will be held on Friday at 3.30 from his residence, 194 McDonnel street, with interment in Little Lake cemetery. The Rev. William Allan will officiate.

DOUGLAS J. LUNDY.

In the death of Douglas Joseph Lundy, the city of Peterborough loses one of its most widely known realtors. He was born in this city about sixty one years ago and was the son of William Lundy. On the death of his brother J. J. Lundy the deceased took over the management of the Lundy estate. He has spent his entire life in the city being educated in the local schools.

He leaves to mourn his loss his wife, two sons James D. and George W. and also one daughter, Mrs. E. T. Clarkson of Toronto.

The funeral will be held on Friday at 1.30 to the Little Lake cemetery the Rev. D. Paterson officiating.

CREW OF STEAMER NEARLY DROWNED

Sailors Have Barely Time To Reach Boats After Collision.

QUEBEC, Oct. 19. — Canadian Press. — With barely time to reach the lifeboats, the crew of the Italian freighter Vulcano, homeward bound, with a grain cargo, managed to escape with their lives when the freighter sank in eight fathoms of water near Father Point late yesterday afternoon. It sustained damages in a collision with the French cargo carrier Union, inward bound.

At the time of the collision damages to the Vulcano were not apparent and the Union proceeded up the river, but the Vulcano sank suddenly after it had taken on a pilot at Father Point.

The heavy fog and terrific northwest wind caused the collision.

COLLEGE STUDENTS ARE QUARANTINED

EARL CARROLL TO BE FREED FROM PRISON

Attorney General Approves Recommendation of Parole Board For Release.

MODEL PRISONER.

Serving Sentence at Atlanta of Year and a Day For Perjury.

WASHINGTON Oct. 19. — Earl Carroll, the New York theatrical producer will be released from the Atlanta penitentiary within the next few days.

The recommendation of the parole board for his release was approved late yesterday by Attorney General Sargeant and papers were forwarded immediately to the warden of the penitentiary directing him to liberate the prisoner.

Carroll began serving a sentence of a year and a day last June 8 for perjury in connection with his famous bath tub party on the stage of a New York theatre. He became eligible for parole on October 8 and on Monday the board passed favorably on his application. This action however did not become known until yesterday when it was announced by the attorney general.

Model Prisoner.

In addition to his prison sentence Carroll was fined $2000. He was described in the parole application as a model prisoner with a marked improvement in health after his collapse on his way to prison when he was removed from the train and kept for some time in a Greenville, S. C. hospital.

Conditions under which Carroll's parole was granted include one that during the term of his parole he is not to frequent saloons or other places where intoxicating liquors are "sold or furnished and that he will not drink intoxicating beverages."

Carroll also will be required to abstain during the time of his parole from associating with persons of bad reputation in all respects to conduct himself honorably and work diligently and honestly for himself and his employer and to avoid "violating the law."

Sentenced for Year

NEW YORK, N.Y., Oct. 19 (A.P.). —Earl Carroll, theatrical producer, who was recommended for parole from the Atlanta Penitentiary yesterday, was sentenced to serve a year and a day and to pay a fine of $2,000 for perjury in a grand jury investigation of his famous "Bathtub Party."

On February 22, 1926, Carroll gave a party in his theatre and newspaper accounts said a feature of the entertainment was the serving of drinks by Joyce Hawley, a show girl, from a bathtub in which she sat. Before two federal grand juries Carroll denied that any one had occupied the tub, but his testimony was refuted by Miss Hawley herself.

The party was given shortly after Countess Cathcart had gained admission to this country, after being detained at Ellis Island on a charge of moral turpitude. Carroll was then planning to produce her play, "Ashes of Love," and she was one of the principal guests at the party. Also among the reported guests were Irvin S. Cobb, Harry K. Thaw and Al Jolson. Cobb later testified at Carroll's trial.

Appeals Unsuccessful

His case was appealed to the circut court of appeals and there lost An attempt for a review before the supreme court was unsuccessful as were appeals for executive clemency.

On April 12 last Carroll started for Atlanta in the custody of a federal marshal, and was removed from the train at Greenville, S.C., next day in a state of coma. He was confined to a Greenville hospital for several weeks, then removed to Atlanta where he was carried into the penitentiary on a stretcher. He was soon reported much improved.

W.C.T.U. RALLY WELL ATTENDED

Rev. E. Harston Advises Ladies To Lay Firm Foundation For Work.

START WITH EDUCATION.

Campbellford, October 19. — The basement of the United Church was filled to capacity yesterday afternoon when the W.C.T.U. opened their season's activities with a rally meeting. Following the opening devotional exercises a very pleasing duet was rendered by Mrs. Malcom and Miss Young. The president, Mrs. Bell, then addressed the meeting. She discussed in some detail the local situation with regard to the establishment of a government warehouse here. Her remarks left not the the shadow of a doubt regarding her opinion of the affair. She was very much opposed to it.

The Rev. Ernest Harson was the principal speaker of the session As an introduction to his address he remarked that this was the first time he had ever addressed a society with four letters W.C.T.U., he said, might be termed a call number for a radio broadcasting station. He had heard it said that the letters denoted "Women Continually Torment Us." Such might easily be the case where certain factions were concerned. He knew that it did mean a call to the united Christian women to assemble and discuss the propagation of sound temperance principles. The rally day was to him significant of the mobilization of forces and a signal to the enemy camp that they were in the field. They were there to get a last backwark look at what had been accomplished in the past, to benefit by their mistakes and move on to future conquests more confident than ever before. The enemy, he claimed, and defined the term as those who opposed the principles of temperance were already in action. They never recognized defeat and were willing to pay the cost of victory from their unlimited resources.

Past failures, Mr. Harstone claimed were due to the fact that they had become intoxicated with victory. They could not stand success and prosperity to their cause. Thus they left themselves open to counter attacks and suffered defeat at the hands of the enemy. He thought these lessons should prove useful in the future. It is to be a case of beginning again. It would be advisable to begin with the

FLIER MISSING IN HEAVY STORM

Eddie Stinson on Last Lap of 18,000 Mile Air Tour.

LEFT DARTFORT.

BOSTON, October 19 (Associated Press). — Eddie Stinson, Detroit aeroplane designer and builder, disappeared last night into the scurrying murk of a cold New England north-easter while flying from Hartford, Conn., to Boston on the last lap of an 18,000 mile air tour to promote interest in airports.

Hopping off from Hartford at four o'clock yesterday afternoon, the Detroit flier, who should have reached Boston in an hour and a half or two hours at the outside, had not reached his destination or been reported down anywhere en route shortly before nine o'clock last night. A hasty poll of practically all the emergency and regular landing fields in eastern Massacusetts and Rhode Island failed to elicit any news of the missing airman, while a heavy rain, driven before a raw north-east gale, rapidly continued to turn landing fields into quagmires on which no plane could hope to land without a crack-up.

At the airport here, which has no regular facilities for night flying, a ground crew lighted huge flares at dusk and settled down for a vigil that was to last until some definite news of the flier had been received. Airport officials expressed the belief that Stinson would not attempt to land here, but would make for some inland field.

Reports of a plane heading east being sighted over Mansfield, south of here at 4.30 and again over Natick, 19 miles to the west, at about 7 p.m., led aviators to express the opinion that Stinson had been blown southward off his course and then began to circle in search of a safe landing place.

WINNIPEG WHEAT.

WINNIPEG, Oct. 19.—A congestion of offerings and bearish news from the outside brought about a drastic break in grain prices on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange yesterday. From the opening gong values were constantly under pressure, reaching the low point in the latter stages of the session, with October wheat 4 7-8c down at $1.34 3-8; November, 4 1-8c lower at $1.32 1-8; December, 2¾c lower at $1.28 3-8, and May, 2 3-8c down at $1.32½.

It was the most bearish session experienced in the local pit in many months. All the coarse grains were carried downward, oats losing 1c to 2c, barley 5-8c to 2c, flax 1¼c to 1¾c, and rye 7-8c to 1¼c.

Offerings flooded the market throughout the day, and as prices slumped liquidations on the part of speculators became more general.

Excellent threshing weather in the Canadian West was one of the principal factors in a weakened market. Increased movement of grain at country points and a gain of 12,000,000 bushels in world's shipments of wheat as compared with the same period as 1926 since July 1 also aided the downtrend.

No tradespeople call regularly for orders in France. Either mistress or servant goes to market to buy provisions for the day.

Judge Suffers Stroke In Communist Case As Red Denounces Hungarian Government

BUDAPEST, Hungary, Oct. 19 (A.P.). — Defiant, almost threatening in his attitude, Zoltan Szanto, associate of Bela Kun and chief of the sixty-two Hungarian Communists charged with conspiring to overthrow the Hungarian government, so enraged the presiding judge yesterday that it was feared the judge would suffer a stroke. On this account the hearing was adjourned until today.

Asked why he denied the contents of the interrogatory which he signed before the examining judge, Szanto said: "I signed false statements invented by the police because I was threatened that I should have to undergo the same tortures as my companions, who were dragged half dead and bleeding, and blue from stangulation, into my cell by the police."

Later Szanto confessed that he came for the purpose of "liberating from Horthy's and Von Bethlen's reign of terror and oppression the country in which wages are the lowest and working hours the longest in the world."

At this juncture the presiding judge again thundered threats of the dark cell if Szanto continued such speeches, but the Communist, resuming with disdainful smile, declared that Hungary was the only country in the world where the constitution of a legal Communist party was forbidden.

"If such were permitted, it would not be necessary for me to come here. Ignoring impassioned commands to be silent, the accused told the judge that he would speak as long as he was compelled to defend himself. At this point the judge fell back, his face pallid, and the court was forced to adjourn.

Bad Weather Delays Hop-Off of Plane

Old Orchard, Me., Oct. 19.—A second start of the Sikorski plane, the Dawn, on a non-stop flight to Europe seemed more distant last night than at any time since the ship landed here more than a week ago.

During that week conditions were never perfect, but last night a cold misty drizzle was being borne in from the sea by a moderate east wind.

With reports of disturbances moving in this direction it appeared highly improbable that the flight could be begun today.

Mrs. Frances W. Grayson and her navigator, Brice Goldsborough yesterday were the guests at luncheon in Portland of the Lion's Club, to whom they outlined their purpose of proving the worth of the amphibian type of plane for long oceanic flights. The rest of the party spent the day quietly at their hotel here.

SHIPS COLLIDE IN DENSE FOG

Vessels Badly Damaged in Collision On St. Lawrence River.

ONE WENT AGROUND.

QUEBEC, Que., October 19 (Canadian Press). — Two ships collided and one went aground during a dense fog in the St. Lawrence River, four miles below Father Point yesterday. Both accidents took place in the vicinity of Cock Point.

The Italian steamer Vulcano was badly damaged in a collision early yesterday with the French steamer Union. A report from the Italian ship's master stated that he was proceeding to Rimouski, where his ship would be brought to anchor or beached. The s.s. Union was reported to be continuing her voyage to Quebec.

About the same time the Italian steamer Operasita grounded off Cock Point, but no information has been received regarding the extent of the damage, if any, that has been sustained. It was stated by the ship's master that the vessel was resting on the bottom.

The s.s. Vulcano, 5,398 tons gross, sailed from Montreal last Sunday with a $400,000 cargo of grain for Gibraltar, where further orders were to be obtained. The s.s. Operasita, 5,274 tons gross, was inbound to Montreal for grain. The s.s. Union, 6,388 tons gross, was also bound to Montreal for grain.

CAMPBELLFORD NEWS.

CAMPBELLFORD, October 19. — Mr. T. J. Leonard is again in the Customs office. For the past few weeks he has been on sick leave and his place has been taken by Mr. Ferguson of Bowmanville. Mr. Ferguson has returned to that town and Mr Leonard will continue in the Customs office till such time as an official appointment is made.

Mr. and Mrs. James Daly and son Bernard spent last week motoring through Toronto, Guelph, London, and other cities in that district. Mrs. Logan of Hastings accompanied them.

Ross MacLaren is able to be about the office again after his illness but his son Harry was suddenly taken seriously ill yesterday.

The midway which is operating on the court-house grounds does not seem to be overcrowded with people anxious to spend their dimes for rides on the merry-go-round or the chair plane. These two seem to be the only attractions they have to offer, and at this late season winter fuel bills seem to be occupying the minds of the majority of citizens.

A syndicate offer of $40,000,000 for a monopoly of the petroleum selling rights in Spain is being considered by the Spanish Government.

JURY PICKED SINCLAIR TRIAL

Twelve Jurors Selected After Examination of Forty Talesmen.

TEAPOT DOME SCANDAL.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 19 (Associated Press).—Two women are to have their say with 10 men as to whether Albert B. Fall and Harry F. Sinclair criminally conspired together to defraud the Government in the lease of the Teapot Dome naval oil reserve in Wyoming.

The twelve jurors, selected after a day and a half devpted to the examination of forty talesmen, yesterday heard the opening statement for the Government and part of that for the defence, and will begin to-day to listen to the testimony of nearly a hundred witnesses.

Then they will hear more argument by counsel and an exposition of the law by Justice Siddons before they retire to deliberate on a verdict.

Owen J. Roberts, for the Government, and Martin W. Littleton for the defence, outlined to the jury yesterday what both sides will undertake to prove. The special oil counsel for the Government will present substantially the same set of facts as passed upon by the United States Supreme Court in holding that the lease resulted from "collusion and conspiracy" between Fall and Sinclair, and in characterizing Fall as a "faithless" public officer. Under the law that decision cannot be introduced in this case. The jury starts with a clean slate and an open mind and is sworn to return its verdict upon the evidence adduced in Justice Siddons' court.

LAKEFIELD NEWS

ST. JOHN'S, LAKEFIELD.

LAKEFIELD, Oct. 18.—The annual Harvest Festival service of St. John's church was held on Thursday evening last. The church was beautifully decorated for the occasion with autumn leaves, grains, vegetables, fruit, flowers and greenery, all silent witnesses of the bountiful gifts of God to His people.

Rev. W. J. Creighton, M.A., Rector of the parish, was in charge and preached a thoughtful sermon, taking as his theme, "A man's life consists not in the abundance of the things which he possesseth," illustrating the point in a manner which made it clear to all. Mr. Creighton urged a stronger feeling of thankfulness to God for his manifold gifts.

The choir rendered special music for the occasion under the direction of Mrs. J. W. Todd, the organist and choir leader.

On Sunday morning children's day was observed and the children of the Sunday school were present en masse, two of the boys (George Chappell and Vivian Payne) acting as sidesmen and taking up the offering. Rev. W. J. Creighton delivered an address to the children which clearly put before them their obligations as soldiers of Christ enlisted in His army and pledged to remain loyal and faithful till death. At the evening service the Harvest Festival services were continued with great success.

Withdraws Opinion On Oil Shipments

WASHINGTON, October 19 (Associated Press). — Attorney-General Sargent late yesterday withdrew his opinion given last year holding that oil shipped from California by way of New Orleans to Liverpool was a continuous inter-oceanic shipment, and did not come within the provisions of the coastwise shipping laws.

The withdrawal was made at the request of United States-owned lines which claimed that the British line seeking to transport oil from California to Liverpool, with a conversion of its shipment at New Orleans from crude oil to gasoline or a mixture of oil violated the law prohibiting foreign vessels from engaging in coastwise commerce.

In making the withdrawal, the Attorney-General explained that since the United States lines wished to test the case in the Courts, he would recall his decision so that it could go before the Courts unprejudiced by a Department of Justice ruling.

WILL INVESTIGATE TIPPLE EXPLOSION

Loss For United States' Coal Company Estimated at $30,000.

STEUBENVILLE, Ohio, Oct. 19.—(A.P.)— Dynamiting of the United States Coal Company's tipple near here yesterday with losses estimated at $30,000 will be investigated by state and federal authorities, Sheriff W. T. Allison announced last night following an investigation.

The sheriff said he had found that between 45 and 50 sticks of dynamite had been planted near the loading platform of the tipple, but that for some reason all had not expdoded. Had all gone off, he said, the tipple would have been destroyed. Only the landing platform was damaged. The mine was one of the most modern in this section and is electrically operated.

Sheriff Allison announced he would question officials of the United Mine Workers of America in connection with the blast and said he held them partially responsible. He said investigation showed that to have planted the dynamite two or three men would have been necessary. A note written in foreign language was found near the tipple. This is being translated. Officials believe it may offer some clue.

RAILWAY PLANS TO SUE DRIVERS OF MOTOR CARS

Many Accidents Caused By Motorists Cost Company Money, Says C.N.R.

CASES ARE CITED.

One Driver Hit 47th Car of Train—Responsibility For Passengers Considered.

MONTREAL, Que., Oct. 19.—(Special).—Motorists who refuse to "stop, look and listen" when approaching highway crossings over railway tracks or other railway property, and who by reckless driving cause damage to locomotives, cars, crossing gates, or other railway property or equipment, face the prospect of being sued in court for whatever damage their rashness may cause, according to the legal officers of the Canadian National Railways. So many accidents have occurred recently wherein drivers of motor vehicles have crashed into the sides of standing or moving trains that such a step has been necessary to place check on reckless driving.

It is customary on the part of the public in case of an accident at a level crossing to consider that the automobile or other private vehicle concerned has been struck by the railway train. In a large proportion of recent cases, however, the accident has been the other way about, the train having been struck by the automobile while the train was on the crossing, either standing or in motion. In such cases, it is claimed, unless there are special circumstances surrounding the accident, the fault rests with the driver of the automobile. Much property damage has resulted and many lives have been lost through such accidents during the present year.

In one case recently reported five passengers were injured when the driver of a touring car, after racing a Canadian National passenger train for a mile, approached a level crossing at such a speed that he could not slow down in time to avoid crashing into the side of the moving train. Five persons were injured in this crash. In another case, the automobile was driven into the side of the forty-seventh car from the engine while the train was passing over the road crossing.

Suits by railway companies against automobile owners whose reckless driving damages locomotive cars, crossing gates or other railway property are on record. The highest judgment on record is one where a United States railway was awarded damages amounting to $10,000, following an accident in which a passenger train was wrecked by an automobile. In other cases, awards were made in favor of the railways, ranging from $25.00 to $1,900. At a recent meeting of claim agents of the Canadian National Railways this matter was discussed and a paper was presented which stated the position as follows:

"To a certain degree we (the railways) are customers of our passengers and employers. It would seem to follow therefore that where the safety of these passengers or employees is imperilled by the owner of an automobile or other vehicle we ought as a matter of principal and as a deterrent to others to take such action as is open to us to follow whatever remedies we have against the offender."

So it need not be surprising if in future where an accident occurs through reckless driving by which a motorist damages railway property, a suit to recover damages is launched against him.

REV. W. S. EDGAR DENIES CLAIMS

Rebuts Shields' Statement Concerning Influence of McMaster.

HELD VIEWS LONG TIME.

TORONTO, Oct. 19. — (Special.)—Rev. W. S. Edgar, of Gilmour Memorial Church made his third appearance on the platform of this year's convention of the Baptists of Ontario and Quebec when he arose to contradict a statement made by Rev. Dr. T. T. Shields of Jarvis Street Church, in an interview with a reporter of a Toronto evening newspaper. Dr. Shields stated that Mr. Edgar's view of the inspiration of the Scripture was another illustration of the results of McMaster influence.

Mr. Edgar's point yesterday was that he took full personal responsibility for what he said. His view of the inspiration of the Scriptures was the same as he had held long before coming to Canada.

Professor Marshall, in his speech to the convention, also deprecated the attitude of treating our modern versions of the Bible as inerrant. The original did not exist, he said, and there were unmistakable evidences of errors of copyists.

BOYS WHO LIVED HERE PROMINENT

W. J. Riddiford and Roland Doughty Officers of McMaster Student Body.

TORONTO, Oct. 19.—(Special.) — Two former Peterborough boys have been appointed to the executive of the General Student Body of McMaster University. Wiliam J. Riddiford, eldest son of Captain Rev. W. C. Riddiford formerly pastor of Park Street Baptist Church, is president, and Roland Doughty, whose relatives removed from Peterborough to Windsor early in the present year, is secretary.

Mr. Riddiford is a fourth year student and since coming to McMaster has earned a good reputation in oratorical and inter-university circles. Two years ago, he was a member of the winning McMaster debating team which gained the Kerr Debating Shield in competition with all the other colleges of Toronto. Last year Mr. Riddiford was also one of the McMaster debaters who took part in contests among the universities of Ontario and Western Quebec, when McMaster succeeded in reaching the semi-finals, only to fall before teams from Queen's University and Loyola College.

Mr. Doughty, who is a second year student, spent the summer months in Saskatoon, where he was in charge of a Baptist mission. During his first years at McMaster he was president of Class '29 in that institution.

EDITORS PREFER LESS SPORT NEWS

But Must Give Public What It Demands, They Decide.

CHICAGO, Oct. 19.—(United Press.)—Editors and publishers attending the Inland Daily Press Association meeting here will continue to carry a large amount of sport news, but it isn't because they want to they said.

The large amount of sporting news was looked upon with disfavor by many of the editors but they confessed it would be necessary to continue to carry sports since the public demand it.

The question of the large amount of publicity given professional sports was discussed at length.

It was said that perhaps it would be better to devote a few more columns of news to church happenings and less to sport.

THE BOY SCOUTS.

Those who appreciate the value of Scout training as an all-round developer of sturdy and staunch young Canadians, no doubt were gratified to read the report of the annual meeting of the Peterborough Boy Scout Association and to find that the movement, after an uphill fight, is being firmly established.

There are now four troups in Peterborough with a membership of fifty boys.

It would be an excellent thing for the community were these numbers to be trebled in the next year.

There is no finer training for the youngster who is full of vim and vigour and who possesses the gang spirit, because if there is not an opportunity for him to use that vim and vigour and satisfy that spirit in the activities of a Scout troup he is going to seek and find other associations that may tend to pull him down.

The Scout movement deserves support, more general support than it has been given.

The work has been left to a few public-spirited citizens, and they should be thanked for keeping Scouting alive here in the face of much indifference and many difficulties.

CARELESSNESS AT CROSSINGS.

So many level crossing accidents are the result of motorists driving into the side of standing or moving trains that the Legal Department of the Canadian National Railways is threaten to sue such drivers in future for damage caused to railway property or injury to passengers.

It is difficult to realize that a motorist could be so careless as to drive blindly ahead and crash into the side of a train moving over a crossing, but there have been, according to Canadian National officials, many cases of such accidents, and the railway has at last come to the conclusion that drivers so lacking in caution as this should be made to pay for their lack of care—provided, of course, they do not pay for it through the loss of their lives.

Motorists should, of course, be careful at all times, but surely there is no occasion when caution is more necessary than in approaching a grade railway crossing.

When a railway finds it necessary to indemnify itself in the courts for damages caused by reckless and careless automobilists it is evident that the familiar old warning, "Stop, Look and Listen," has not as much punch as it should have.

NO OVERCROWDING HERE.

The success or failure of the Liquor Control Act will have to be estimated in terms of Ontario as a whole, rather than judged by conditions at border points.

It was inevitable that legalization of sale of liquor in this Province would be greeted with joy by some of the millions of thirsty people across the international line, and that their desire to share in the opportunity afforded by Ontario's new liquor Act would create a problem for authorities along the border.

At some of these points it does not seem that there has been, until recently, a real effort to deal with this problem, but the drive inaugurated in the last few weeks has resulted in many jail sentences, and there is reason to believe that, now that the teeth in the Act are being displayed, that the situation will materially improve.

In any case the conditions in border cities are peculiar to those cities; here in Peterborough, for instance, there has been no crowding of the jail as a result of the Liquor Control Act.

In fact, only six of the inmates at the present time are there because of infractions of the L.C.A., four of them for driving a motor car while under the influence of liquor.

A SUCCESSFUL YEAR.

The Peterborough branch of the Canadian Legion is to be congratulated upon the ocmpletion of a very successful year's activity on behalf of returned soldiers and their dependents.

Reports presented at the annual meeting show the branch to be in a very satisfactory condition financially, and indicate that substantial growth in membership and prestige has been a feature of the year's operations.

Such a showing should be gratifying not only to the officers and members of the organization, but to all those citizens who recognize the community value of an effective union of ex-service men.

There is much that can be done to help the men who fought, and no other instrument is so successful in this respect as an organization of ex-service men banded together to assist in solving the problems that follow the end of a great war.

Lieut.-Col. Chas. Ackerman, the retiring President of the local branch, has done much to advance the cause of the Legion during the past year, and deserves the tributes paid him at the annual meeting.

His successor, Comrade James Abraham, has been an indefatigable worker in the interests of the returned soldier, and his regime should be marked by continued progress.

THE DECLINE OF BIGOTRY.

(From The Ottawa Journal.)

There was one incident at the Conservative convention at Winnipeg deserving of note. It was that when Captain R. J. Manion, M.C., Irish Roman Catholic and husband of a French Canadian wife, was put into nomination for the leadership, the man who championed his cause was W. S. Haney, Orangeman and Royal Black Knight of Ireland. The Toronto Telegram, ultra-Protestant, commenting on this, remarks:

"It is a credit to the party, yes and to the Orange Order, that W. S. Haney, Conservative, Orangeman and Royal Black Knight of Ireland, should be willing to go down fighting the battles of a Roman Catholic comrade in the Great War."

Nor was it the first instance where Orangemen, often misunderstood, have shown that they do not challenge any man's right to public office because of the faith in which he tries to walk humbly with his God. Orangemen, particularly in the Maritime Provinces, marched and fought for the French-Canadian and Roman Catholic, Wilfrid Laurier. Orangemen, when they dominated the Conservative party, made the Roman Catholic, Sir John Thompson, their leader and Canada's Prime Minister. And for years in Toronto, and today, Roman Catholics have been sent to high office by Orange and Protestant votes. It is the Catholic, Controller Joseph Gibbons, who in civic contests in Toronto invariably heads the polls.

It is a fine thing for Canada, a fine thing for decency and tolerance and loyal comradeship among men, that if Captain R. J. Manion, M.C., lost the Conservative leadership at Winnipeg, it was not because of his faith. It was Ontario—Protestant Ontario—that gave him his votes; just as it was Quebec—Catholic Quebec—that voted for the Protestant, Cahan. The church that these men worshipped in on a Sunday morning did not count.

There is intolerance with us yet, and bigotry—but they die. Always the march is toward better things; let those who challenge this truth read the story of the wars of the centuries gone. We still have sects, and the hosts of Christianity still stand in different camps, but there never was a time in the world's history when men were less disposed to quarrel over creeds, to invade the rights of conscience, or to hate each other for the love of God.

THE BOY WHO SAW THE FIGHT FILM.

Those who regard the showing of fight pictures in Ontario as a calamity may find something of interest in the following amusing skit by H. I. Phillips, who entitles it "Lost—a Tragedy of a Boy and a Picture":

Mrs. Wesley Wejkerp could tell by the look in her boy's eyes as he came into the house that he was a changed youth.

Something awful it was apparent had happened to him.

Always when Robert came home there had been a smile on his face, a buoyant lightheartedness in his manner, a certain charm of innocence and complete unsophistication about him.

But this evening Robert was different. There was a look in his eyes that was not pleasant. It was a hard look, a base look. In fact, it was so hard you might almost have called it a three-base look. His lip seemed curled in a permanent sneer at life. Or something.

"Why, Robert!" exclaimed his mother. "What's the matter?"

Robert's only answer was a tightening of his jaws and a low, savage bark.

"Robert!" repeated Mrs. Wejkerp, quite startled at the complete change in her 19-year-old son.

"Bah!" barked Robert, knocking a floor lamp through the window, kicking Emma, the cat, across the room and taking a wild swing at Mrs. Wejkerp.

"What's come over you? Where have you been?" stammered Mrs. Wejkerp.

Robert took a pint of rum out of his pocket, drained it; then whipped out a pistol and, going to the front window, shot old Mr. Pepperjinks, the man next door, who was raking leaves on his lawn. He then kicked the cat again and made another pass at mamma.

"Robert!" shrieked Mrs. Wejkerp, falling on her knees in front of her offspring. "What has come over you? You're not the same boy you were this morning."

"I'll tell the cross-eyed world I ain't," replied Robert. "And I never will be again. I'm bad! This morning I was a straight, clean youth. Tonight I'm a bum, a potential criminal and a low life. I'll never be any good to myself or anybody else any more! Never! I'm ruined! It all happened after I saw the pictures."

"What pictures?" gasped Mrs. Wejkerp, pleadingly. "What pictures?"

"The fight pictures," replied Robert, turning to kick the cat again and then bolt through the door into the night, shooting and snarling as he went.

Mrs. Wejkerp let him go. She did not call after him. She did not follow him. She did not make any attempt to get him back. For she knew it would be futile. Her boy, her little 19-year-old Robert had seen the moving pictures of a prize fight.

And she knew, now, he was beyond redemption.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

If you are for care and courtesy prove it by the way you handle your car.

Roadhouse proprietors in the Windsor district have been fined $1,000 each for violations of the Liquor Control Act. Evidently the teeth in the legislation are beginning to bite.

If they ever start jailing all the reckless drivers, Ontario will surely have a right to complain of insufficient jail accommodation.

According to The Manitoba Free Press, both Premier King and Hon. R. B. Bennett can make a three-hour speech when it is necessary and when it is not. And, unfortunately, this is one of those trite remarks that hurt because they are true.

If the people of Canada would only get warmed up over this fuel question there would be a chance for Ontario folks to warm up over Alberta coal.

Brockville man who was driving about a mile a minute was fined $100 for reckless driving. He is lucky he is alive to pay it.

MONTREAL GRAIN AND PRODUCE

MONTREAL, Oct. 19 (Canadian Press).—A fair trade was done in wheat by Montreal exporters with both the United Kingdom and the Continent here yesterday. There was also more inquiry for ocean grain room here and engagements of spot freight to Rotterdam were made on Monday at 10 cents per hundred pounds, and yesterday at 11 cents per hundred pounds.

A feature of the domestic grain market was the increased demand from exporters for wheat and sales of a number of loads of No. 3 Northern were made at 4¼c to 4¾c per bushel over the Winnipeg October option, c.i.f. Montreal. Coarse grains were weaker and prices declined 1 cent per bushel.

The undertone to the market for Spring wheat grades of flour was easier, but there was no change in values. The local and foreign demand was fair. There was a moderate demand for Winter wheat grades and values were steady.

Owing to the continued good demand from local and country buyers for all lines of millfeed, the undertone to the market remained steady and prices were unchanged. The movement of standard grades of rolled oats was fair and prices ruled firm.

The trade in baled hay with foreign buyers continued steady, but the local demand was quiet. Values were firm.

Prices for all grades of eggs were firmly maintained under a moderate demand. The receipts were 981 cases.

A good trade was done in potatoes and the undertone was firm. Car lots of New Brunswick Green Mountains were quoted at $1.35 per bag; Cobblers at $1.30 per bag, and Quebec White stock at $1.25 to $1.35 per bag of 90 pounds.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, Oct. 19 (Canadian Press).—Wheat, corn and oats all toppled over yesterday to the lowest prices yet this season. Heavy selling, especially of wheat and corn, came from future delivery holders unable or unwilling to face new losses. An outstanding bearish factor was word of resumption of threshing on a general scale in Canada.

Closing quotations on wheat were unsteady 2¼ to 2½c net lower; corn 1¾c to 2¼c down; oats ½ to ¾ to 1c off, and provisions varying from 10c decline to a rise of 12c.

With speculative buyers backing away, and reports at hand that weather conditions now favor threshing and the movement of the Canadian crop, wheat values quickly developed a decided downward trend. Sellers were prompt to emphasize not only the improved outlook in Canada but also large visible supplies in the United States and bearish crop news from Argentine. Meanwhile, estimates were current that the exportable surplus of Southern hemisphere wheat for 1927-28 would total 238,000,000 bushels.

Prominent on the selling side of the wheat market were houses with connections Northwest. This selling from the northeast, presumably hedging against the movement of new wheat, was much more than a counterbalance for assertions that export business from the United States Monday amounted to 1,000,000 bushels, just double what had previously been estimated for all of North America.

Besides, yesterday's export sales were put at only 500,000 bushels. On the other hand the quality of current arrivals at Winnipeg was a subject of complaint, only six cars out of 1,240 cars received there yesterday being of No. 1 grade.

Corn was bearishly affected by wheat weakness and by reports of hog cholera in Missouri. In addition, corn belt weather was of a kind suspicious for the curing of late corn. Oats receded with other grain.

For the most part, provisions were responsible to setbacks in the value of corn, cotton and hogs.

CHICAGO CATTLE

CHICAGO, Oct. 19 (Canadian Press).—Cattle 10,000; best fed steers 16.90; yearlings 16.35; very little beef in run; most fed steers 13.25 to 15.50; westerns 10.00 to 11.40; best 12.90; light Dakota grass heifers 10.35; most fat cows 8.00 downward, with cutters at 5.00 to 5.75 mostly; big packers paid 14.00 to 14.50 for bulk veal calf crop; plain qualified light native stockers slow, weak to 25c lower; better grades fully steady.

Hogs 26,000; better grade hogs, 215

RETAIN HOCKEY PRESTIGE

The Editor, The Examiner:

Dear sir:

Your editorial of even date anent "The Hockey Outlook", wherein you point out the departure from our midst of three popular and very capable players, who have seen fit to turn professional and take up their abode in the land to the south of us, causes one to wonder as to who might be the cause of Canada suffering these losses.

The writer and thousands more like him feel that much of the blame can be placed upon the shoulders of "an autocratic association" who through their methods of either granting or refusing transfers to players (and it is to see players and not executives play that we pay our admissions), that most of the unrest is caused. In a few short words, a player who knows he can play, will not be "monkeyed with" by a bunch of "old timers" just to remain amateur.

He would much sooner turn pro and take up residence in the United States, all of which means, that we in Canada can sit around during the hockey season and read how outsiders are appreciating the abilities of our own boys, who, through autocratic methods and rulings have left home purposely to play hockey in an unhampered manner.

Our only solution as I see it, would be to drop amateur entirely and have out and out professional games, getting the city fathers to dig down towards the erection of a suitable rink, and having home games played at home.

As the hockey season is just about to commence, I feel that no time should be lost in fostering any movement that will retain the prestige Peterborough gained through the merits of its hockey team.

Yours sincerely,
HOCKEY ENTHUSIAST.

A Thought For To-day

CHECK THIS UP

This particular article is so simple in style that it will attract but little attention from the non-thinker; but to the thinker, it will prove to be a very profitable guide in the matter of investing money.

Let me begin with my own personal experience. In times gone by I have made considerable money and then lost this money for the lack of a little personal investigation.

My best friends say that I have too much faith in the average man—that I raise most men to a very high level.

I will admit that my disposition to have excessive confidence in most men has cost me a lot of money, but constant suspicion and distrust would have cost me my happiness.

Confidence, honor, appreciation, good will—these are the things on the side of success.

Prejudice, doubt, suspicion, distrust—these are the factors in failure.

We must continue to have faith in men, but, first, we should insist on knowing them better.

Where most of us make a mistake is, we do not check up a stranger or a man of short acquaintance. We accept what he says without any support from his former business associates.

If a man comes to you with a business proposition, be sure and talk this man over with the men who have had a business experience with him. His reputation for reliability, his disposition to be dependable, his ability, his ambition, and his temper, all can be weighed and measured if you will only take a little time and find out from his friends how he performs.

It is a great mistake to take a stranger or the short-acquaintance man into your confidence until you carefully check him up with his former business associates.—The Silent Partner.

The motorist who tries to beat a railway train to a crossing takes the most desperate chance in motoring. The dice are all loaded against him. The speed of the train deceives. It is 2,000 tons against less than two.

If the motorist wins he gains a minute or so. If he loses, time doesn't count any more for him. Only TWO chances—a minute or so gained, or a SMASH.

Always slow down when you near a railway crossing. Unless the view is clear both ways, come to a full stop. Look and listen. If a train is in sight, put on your hand brake and wait for the train to pass. It's time well spent. Don't take the most desperate chance in motoring!

Three fundamentals of safety for motor drivers are the exercise of common sense, courtesy and patience. Common sense and patience will do away with all accidents at railway crossings.

The Highway Safety Committee believe that most motor accidents are preventable. It asks the co-operation of everybody in the Province—motorists and pedestrians alike—so that the determination to prevent accidents will take a permanent hold upon the consciousness of our people. It is the personal duty of each motorist to co-operate energetically. We must save lives.

To show that you support this movement put the sticker on your car "I'm for Care and Courtesy. Are You?" You can get one at any garage or filling station.

7 RULES for SAFETY

1. Have your car in perfect mechanical shape — particularly lights, brakes and steering gear.
2. In passing traffic, be sure the road ahead is clear. Look and listen at railway crossings.
3. When other cars try to pass you —let them pass.
4. On curves—at intersections—going over the tops of hills—keep to the right. Don't try to pass another vehicle. In entering main highways stop and look.
5. Don't loaf where traffic is heavy.
6. Don't stop on the Highway—pull off to one side.
7. Have your Motor Vehicle Operator's License always with you.

Evening Examiner Fashion

A Distinguished Frock

The frock pictured here is an unusually smart style and would be exceedingly chic if fashioned of satin or woollen material with a contrasting front over which the jacket is lapped. The bodice is slightly gathered to the skirt having four plaits at each side, and the two narrow belts are finished with buckles, while braid makes an effective trimming on the jacket and tight-fitting sleeves. No. 1671 is in sizes 34, 36, 38, 40 and 42 inches bust. Size 36 requires 3½ yards 39-inch, or 2¾ yards 54-inch material; ¾ yard 39-inch contrasting for front; 4 yards braid. Price 20 cents the pattern.

HOROSCOPE

The Stars Incline, but do not Compel.

(Copyright, 1927, McClure Syndicate.)

THURSDAY, OCTOBER 20, 1927.

Again unfavorable planetary aspects rule through the busy hours of the day, according to the readings of astrology.

Early in the morning heads of business organizations should benefit by influences making for smooth mechanical operation.

There is a sway passably promising for all who seek employment in the first hours of the busy day.

Specially trained men and women should benefit from this direction of the stars, which is auspicious for experts.

Railroads are subject to fairly fortunate conditions and again an immense volume of winter travel is forecast.

Intrigue and deception are believed to be encouraged by this day's positing of the stars, which makes truth even more than usually difficult to maintain in business or domestic relations.

This is not an auspicious sway for workers who may mistake their own best interests.

Trouble regarding fuel is foretold for the winter, which will bring untold suffering to the poor in many cities.

Children will command the attention of the federal government, the seers prophesy, for their value to the nation will be stressed by statesmen.

An epidemic of serious character may prevail among the young and warning is given to parents to watch their children's health.

New fashions in dress and music are foretold by London astrologers as well as by American seers.

Many singers will gain recognition in the United States this year, if the stars are rightly read.

Persons whose birthdate it is have the augury of financial security in the coming year, which may bring certain domestic anxieties.

Children born on this day may be exceedingly temperamental and difficult to manage, but they are likely to possess talents.

TRINITY CLUB MEETS.

Much Business Discussed at Regular Weekly Meeting.

The first regular gathering of Trinity Club was held last night in Reid street hall and was attended by a goodly number of the club members. As the meeting was of a business nature the regular programme was somewhat curtailed in order to allow time for the necessary matters to be dealt with.

Several members of the club took part in impromptu suggestions and criticisms regarding the advantages and results of the club's activities, and the executive is quite confident that the success of the club will be carried through another season with very satisfactory results.

Next Tuesday evening a Hallowe'en masquerade has been arranged and the members are assured of an evening of fun and entertainment

COLD WEATHER SHOES.

Manufacturers Predict New Protective Footwear Will Be Worn Earlier.

Footwear dealers have a pleasant surprise in store for the well-dressed woman this Fall. She may take as much pride in the selection of her out-of-door shoes as she has always taken in her hats. This Autumn overshoes will be worn earlier than usual and they will harmonize with the costume. A new idea in protective footwear for cool and inclement weather will be shown in the smart shop in company with sports wear and evening gowns. They are called Gaytees because they combine the protection of both gaiter and rubber in a trim, low-cut shoe of tailored lines and dressy effect.

The most striking feature, however, is colour—conservative tones of the season's most popular colours, silvery greys, warm beige, turf browns and fast blacks with contrasting cuffs. Those smartly cut cuffs serve a dual purpose; they break the formerly harsh line that encompassed the ankle and afford added protection to the hosiery. The Gaytee is low-cut and light in construction without sacrificing comfort.

Many models will be shown, some with the popular patent fastener that instantly adjusts the trim lines of the shoe, some with single dome fasteners and others with dainty strap effect that buckles beneath the cuff. The cuff of contrasting color, in silk and wool velvet, panvelvet, or corduroy velvet is general throughout the Gaytee line. It appears to be the thing as far as overshoes are concerned.

The manufacturers maintain that this new line will be worn much earlier in the fall than the old overshoe. It has been designed for wet weather wear. The fabrics are waterproof and the construction of the shoe light enough for comfortable walking under all conditions.

HEALTH NURSE DOES FINE WORK

Considered "Good Angel" By Many Sick and Suffering of City.

STAMP SALE PLANNED.

Among all the cars in the city, there is one which slips deftly through the traffic upon its errand of mercy, of which comparatively few people know. This is the car driven by the nurse employed by the Peterborough Health Association. This car is out each day regardless of weather or condition of streets, stopping before humble quarters sheltering the sick and suffering, who are anxiously awaiting their "good angel," as many call this capable, hard working nurse. There is no work more needed, none more worthy the support of our citizens than this undertaking of the Health Association, whose members are giving their time and energy to relieve the suffering and cure the sick.

In order that they may continue this work, so much needed, the Health Association are planning to put on a sale of Health Stamps, or Christmas Seals, and soon you may be asked to buy. When that time comes, just think of those who are carrying on this work throughout the entire year, and of what the work really means to those unfortunates who would otherwise be unable to have the benefit of a trained nurse, and let your heart and your conscience be your guide.

PARALYSIS FOUND IN KING'S CASTLE

BERLIN, Oct. 19 (United Press).—The Telegrafel Union's Bucharest correspondent reports that a case of infantile paralysis has been diagnosed in Sinaia Castle, the home of King Michael of Rumania.

Because the disease has been found in the castle, the despatch says Michael was rushed to the Carpathian Mountains.

AVIATION PLANS IMPROVEMENT

Levine and Fokker Building New Plants—Chamberlin Planning Flight.

NEWS OF THE FLIERS.

NEW YORK, Oct. 19 (Canadian Press).Aviation today announced a New Year's boom unprecedented in the history of the air. The program includes new factories by Charles Levine and Anthony Fokker; the manufacture by Levine of planes from a flivver model to a multi-motored type for ocean travel; an air expedition into the Arctic under the command of General Nobile; a trans-Atlantic flight by Clarence Chamberlin in a twenty-passenger Bellanca plane; and the creation of a fund for research by Harry Guggenheim.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 19 (Canadian Press).—Clarence D. Chamberlin, trans-Atlantic aviator, has revealed plans for a second trans-Atlantic flight, but the next time in a twenty-passenger ship which will be able to float on the water if necessary. The plane is now being designed. It will have a hundred-foot wing spread and be equipped with four motors, a good radio, and first class instruments.

French on Last Hop

RIO JANEIRO, Brazil, Oct. 19 (Canadian Press).—The French aviators, Costes and Lebriz today, started on an eleven hundred mile hop to Buenos Aires, which if successful will complete their flight from Paris.

Stinson Party Safe

SHERBORN, Mass., Oct. 19 (Canadian Press).—Eddie Stinson's big cabined monoplane rested easily today in a hayfield on the Richard's farm, where it made a perfect landing last night when the Detroit airplane designer and manufacturer was forced down by a "low ceiling" in the raw northeast wind that for hours led to grave apprehensions that the plane and its six passengers might have met with a serious mishap. Stinson, with his wife, Baron Barnehow, Phillip Ashby, J. T. Whitaker and Fred Koehler, were uninjured. The party later entrained for Boston. The ship was located here after an extensive search.

Flight Called Off

OLD ORCHARD, Me., Oct. 19 (Canadian Press).—Definite postponement for today and probably tomorrow also was announced today by Mrs. Frances Wilson Grayson and her two companions, who hope to fly to Copenhagen in the big amphibian plane "Dawn." A raw fog blankets coast and sea.

Buckwheat Time once more

Hot griddle cakes for chilly mornings

Nothing like Aunt Jemima Buckwheats for breakfast to start the day in healthy good humor. Think of hot griddle cakes with butter, or syrup, or brown sugar. Perhaps with fresh sausage or bacon. Who could grouch after such a breakfast?

Griddle cakes of Aunt Jemima prepared Buckwheat Flour have unmatched lightness and tenderness and a wonderful flavour. The Aunt Jemima recipe is the most widely used in the world. It has been popular for three score years.

No pancakes are easier to make. Mix equal parts of Aunt Jemima prepared Buckwheat Flour and milk. Stir to a smooth batter. Water will do if milk isn't handy. Then pour on a moderately hot griddle.* Small pancakes are easiest to cook.

There is no other buckwheat flour like Aunt Jemima prepared Buckwheat Flour. Get the yellow package at your grocer's and treat the family at tomorrow's breakfast.

*Note: Use a thick, cast iron or aluminum griddle when making pancakes, as a thin frying pan of steel conducts the heat too rapidly for the best results. Cook with a moderate rather than a hot fire.

Aunt Jemima Pancake Flour

In the red package. Let the family have variety. Pancakes of light, delicate texture and delightful taste, made in a moment. Follow the simple recipes on the package.

SAINT and SINNER

By ANNE AUSTIN

Faith, dressed for the dinner party, raised her bare arms to clasp a choker of gleaming cut crystals, the exact shade of her ruby-red transparent velvet dress, about her lovely long neck. Her large brown eyes, velvety black at night, studied her reflection critically in the full-length mirror of the closet door.

"What's wrong with me? Why can't he love me?" she asked herself despairingly, the glow of pride in the picture of aristocratic smartness that she made fading slowly.

Bob was in the bathroom now, shaving after his cold shower. His dinner clothes, fresh from the cleaner's, lay spread on his bed. He had not yet seen her in the new dress, did not even know she had made herself one. No one knew but Aunt Hattie—

"Mis' Hathawy, the flowers done come," the soft voice of the colored waitress she had gotten from an employment agency for the evening interrupted her anxious scrutiny and reverie.

She had cooked the dinner herself, with Aunt Hattie's help—a clear chicken consomme; filet of sole Marguery, to be served with tiny home-made Parker House rolls; creamed chicken in pate shells; tiny circles of glazed beets, like flattened out rubies; crisp sticks of egg plant Julienne; bright green chopped spinach, dusted over with golden bits of hard-boiled egg-yolk; long, brittle, fresh leaves of Romaine lettuce, its delicate green to be contrasted with the paprika-reddened French salad dressing; cheese sticks which she had made herself, to be served with the salad; a poem of a dessert—a big "ice-box cake," ruby-red, covered with fluffy whipped cream, dotted with chopped, toasted almonds and encircled with golden-yellow lady-fingers. She would cut the cake at table, so that her guests could see it first in all its glory.

As she arranged the dark-red, velvety roses in a silver basket as a centerpiece for the dinner table she smiled a little at her selfishness in choosing flowers that would emphasize her own quiet beauty, match the rich color of her new gown. How angry Cherry would be, for she had imperiously suggested pink roses to harmonize with the delicate pastel tint of the pale-green chiffon she was planning to wear. But for once Faith thought of herself first, for the evening could not possibly be as important to Cherry as it was to her. Cherry had always had everything, had always come first—even with Bob—

Faith was placing long-stemmed red dahlias in a tall vase on the piano when Cherry came fluttering into the living room, like a seasprite in misty pale-green chiffon, her short copper-and-gold curls tumbling in studied disorder over her small head, her golden eyes wide and ablaze with happy excitement. But at sight of Faith, astonishingly smart in a dress whose existence Cherry had not dreamed of, she stopped short, while an expression of ludicrous surprise and consternation wiped out the radiance of her joy.

"Well!" she ejaculated, little flags of wrath hoisted suddenly on her cheeks. "Is that nice? Where in the world did you get that dress, Faith? I thought this was my party, and then you go and doll up like a fashion parade! I thought," she added, nodding her head with malicious significance, "there was something darned fishy about your inviting Bruce Patton to dinner! Who'd have believed it? Faith, of all people. Well!"

Tender, Quivering, Fruity" Jelly BECAUSE it contains ACTUAL JUICE of Muskoka Wild Raspberries

ONE TASTE proclaims the difference between McLaren's "Invincible" Raspberry Jelly and ordinary kinds. You immediately notice the more tender texture—reminiscent of "real-fruit" jelly. You detect at once that distinctively "fruity" flavor which only the actual juice of tempting wild raspberries can give.

From the glorious Muskoka district come the wild raspberries from which the juice is crushed for superb "Invincible" Jelly Powders; from the world-famed Niagara orchards come choice strawberries, cherries, grapes, currants, and from the sunny Tropics come the delicious pineapples that provide the natural flavorings for McLaren's actual fruit juice Jelly Powders.

If you watched "Invincible" Raspberry Jelly Powder being made in McLaren's spotless pure-food laboratories, you would see the actual juice of Muskoka Wild Raspberries added to highly-refined gelatine and first-grade sugar. In the same way the actual juices of choice strawberries, currants, cherries, grapes and pineapples are foundation flavorings for other "Invincible" Jelly Powders.

Mixed, dried, ground and packaged without being touched by human hands, "Invincible" comes to your larder to be the basis of delicious, healthful desserts. Now, as for years back, Canadian women prefer

$1,000 Blacelet Still Unclaimed

MONTREAL, Oct. 19.—Worth at least $1,000, a diamond bracelet lies in a small box at detective headquarters, and all efforts to find the owner have so far failed. Found on the street by a youth last week, it lay around his home, regarded as a cheap trinket, until an older brother tried to sell it to a jeweller for $2.50. Suspicious, the jeweler called the police, but the boy's story was substantiated, and the platinum bracelet, set with fifty small diamonds, still awaits a claimant.

A Feather-weight Touch

is all this new Duofold requires

Stop Pressing!

And own a Pen that Brings Cushion-Smooth Writing

Yesterday's standards of writing are changed today forever. For the new Parker Duofold is improved beyond belief. It introduces pressureless writing—stops breakage—ends pen troubles.

By adding a single part it's interchangeable for Pocket or Desk Set use.

No hand can distort its point—yet it yields to any style of writing.

One important discovery—pressureless writing—combines capillary attraction with gravity feed. Thus a feather-weight touch starts ink-flow instantly—starts and keeps the pen writing.

Only by grinding a special ink channel between the nibs of the Point can this be done, though the work is costly and requires expert workmanship.

We now make the barrel of Parker's new Permanite—Non-Breakable—28% lighter than rubber.

It comes in jewel-like colours—Jade, Lacquer-red, Flashing Black, Mandarin Yellow, and Lapis Lazuli Blue—all Black-tipped. They're handsomer than gold.

Only one caution: these results apply only to the genuine. So look with care for the imprint, "Geo. S. Parker—DUOFOLD."

THREE PEOPLE ARE POISONED

Bonarlaw Woman Used Arsenate of Lime in Mistake For Flour.

TAKEN TO HOSPITAL.

BONARLAW, October 19. — Mr. and Mrs. Marshal Sweet and son Robert, of the 11th Concession of Rawdon Township, are seriously ill, suffering from poisoning, having mistaken arsenate of lime for flour.

During the month of July, Mr Sweet had been to Springbrook and did some shopping, including the purchase of some arsenate of lime for potato bugs. The parcels were all carried into the house, and all put in the pantry.

Shortly after, Mrs. Sweet made some gravy, and they all partook of it and were suddenly taken ill. They thought it must have been the sausage they had eaten. The rest of the gravy was thrown out. The dog and chickens ate it. The chickens all died and the dog became ill also. The doctor was summoned and a nurse was called. The nurse also became ill.

Mr. William Finch called to see them and said he would help with the potatoes, and asked for the lime. It was not to be found in the vicinity of the drivehouse, so they searched the house, and finally noticed the bag in the cupboard.

Everything has been done to relieve the family, but at present Mrs. Sweet is lying helpless, having no use of legs or one arm. Mr. Sweet's feet are numb ,and he sits in a wheel chair, while their son Robert is in a critical condition, with very little hope for his recovery. They were all removed to the hospital on Monday.

BERGER ELECTED BOARD CHAIRMAN

Will Succeed Late Eugene V. Debbs on Socialist Committee.

NEW YORK, Oct. 19 (Associated Press).—Election of Congressman Victor L. Berger, Socialist, of Wisconsin, to succeed the late Eugene V. Debs as chairman of the National Executive Committee of the Socialist party, was announced at the local headquarters of the Socialist organization here last night.

Berger's election to the post formerly occupied by Debs took place at a meeting of the National Executive Committee of the Socialist party recently held in Detroit. The announcement said, at the same time plans were discussed for the forthcoming national convention of the Socialist party, which will be held here next April. The convention is scheduled to open April 10. Arrangements also were made to conduct an independent campaign for the Socialist party's candidates for president and vice-president.

first principles and work forward to the future which was so brilliant with success for them, but the task was only for those who were of thoroughly temperate principles. They must begin again a crusade not only against drink but against all that was in any way intemperate in life.

The three basic principles of achievement, Mr. Harstone continued were vision enthusiasm and common sense; vision must be complete, and all embracing. It must not be narrowed down to one particular thing and all else excluded. Enthusiasm is also a vital necessity. In many of the modern societies and organizations there is a great tendency to "pass the buck." In order to be successful each and every member must take an active part in the work of the society. Common sense is too often forgotten, he asserted, and people are often guilty of foolish and nonsensical actions. Nothing is to be gained by bigoted, fanatical and outrageous utterings. The proper procedure is to base their work on sound scientific principles which are the results of exhaustive investigation.

Above all the workers must be patient. They cannot accomplish their mission in a day. They must be willing to pay the price of victory, and that was usually an expensive thing to purchase. But the future, he said is bright. They have seen their errors in the past and can move forward more confidently than ever of winning their objective. Steady persistency would ultimately win the day but they must establish a system of teaching the first principles to the general public. They must get away from the eternal harangue and get down to plain simple facts. Thus they would make it impossible for the public to fail to support their cause.

With regard to the local situation, Mr. Harston did not care to express an opinion. He was as privileged as any other man to think as he chose, but as he had not really got to the bottom of the affair of the warehouse he preferred not to discuss the matter. But, he said, the Liquor Control Act is law in the land and it was the duty of every citizen to enforce the laws of his or her country. In closing he assured the gathering that he was willing to stand behind any movement which was for Christian temperance.

Much applause expressed the appreciation of the audience as Rev. Mr. Harston returned to his seat.

The Legend Beautiful, from Longfellow's Tales of Wayside Inn given by Mrs. G. A. Kingston was exceptionally well received. After the closing devotional exercises the ladies were served afternoon tea.

LEGION ARRANGES MEMORIAL SERVICE

Campbellford Branch's Charter Also To Be Presented Nov. 13.

At the meeting of the local branch of the Canadian Legion, B.E.S.L., held in their club rooms in the Armouries last night, three new memberships were submitted and accepted. They were those of G. A. The service will be held at 2.30 in the afternoon, and a general invitation will be issued to the different organizations of the town and the public. The branches of the Legion in the surrounding towns and villages are particularly requested to attend in a body. This invitation will be considered to include all ex-service men of the district.

In the evening arrangements have been made to hold a sacred concert in the Regent Theatre, when officers from the Dominion Command will be present to present formally the charter to the local branch. Retires From Service.

The following article, taken from a Grand Rapids, Mich., daily, refers to Mr. G. A. Ferguson, who is visiting Mr. and Mrs. T. Z. Webster. Mr. Ferguson is a cousin of Mrs. Webster:

"Having served on the Grand Rapids division of the Pennsylvania Railroad 44 years, George A. Ferguson, residing at 15 Albany street S.W., and who for many years past has been an engineman in both freight and passenger service, will be retired on Sept. 1 on a pension.

"Mr. Ferguson was born on March 30, 1862, and entered the service of the old Grand Rapids and Indiana Railroad as a section hand, April 16, 1883.

"It was on Feb. 4, 1893, that Mr. Ferguson received his rating as an engineer, and was assigned to runs north of Grand Rapids. He began his engine service on a freight train and later drove locomotives for some of the best division's passenger trains, serving the northwestern resort regions. Mr. Ferguson is a Gold Star member of the G. R. and I Veterans' Association."

Anniversary Services.

The anniversary services of Knox United Church will be held on Sunday next, Oct. 23, with Rev. J. W. Gordon, of Peterborough, as the special preacher. A concert will be held in the church on the Tuesday evening following.

Mr. Webb explained that when students went out into the home mission field for summer work they were asked to spend their time in preaching the Gospel and not in speaking on one side of the Shields controversy.

"There is no thought of 'muzzling' the students in the home mission field," declared Mr. Webb.

Mr. Urquhart was again on his feet, but his attempt to speak was snuffed out by a burst of disapproval from the convention.

SCHOOL SOCCER FINAL TO-MORROW

At King Edward Park—Kick-off at 4.30 For Alex Kay Trophy.

To-morrow afternoon, at King Edward Park, the Public School soccer championship will be decided when the winners of the two sections—Prince of Wales and Central—will battle for the Alex. Kay Trophy.

Central School boys eliminated the cup holders, Queen Alexandra and King George, in the scheduled league games, while Prince of Wales won the decision from Queen Mary after four exciting encounters by the odd goal in the second game, when the losers were without the services of their regular custodian.

This is the first season that the Prince of Wales boys have played in the final ,and they have an excellent team all around; in fact, their defence has a good understanding of the code.

The Central boys have won the trophy before, and intend to repeat the previous performance.

Soccer fans should come along and witness the boys, who will play 35 minutes each way.

One hundred and forty-eight cities of the United States now maintain municipal and public golf courses.

VARSITY PLUGGING FOR QUEEN'S GAME

Blue and White Getting it Heavy in Their Workouts.

TORONTO, Oct. 19.—The Varsity and Balmy Beach camps were busy last night, but Argonauts had a well-earned rest. The Scullers are nursing plenty of bumps that they sustained in their efforts to stop Ottawa and the lay-off Monday night will give them a chance to get rid of their aches and pains. Last night they commenced getting ready for the game with M.A.A.A. in Montreal next Saturday.

Grim determination featured the workout of the Intercollegiate squad up at Varsity Stadium. They were out early and they stayed late and there was no let-up from the moment they hit the field until they departed. A long signal practice with Murray Snyder in the pivot position was indulged in first, and they showed plenty of snap and dash, going through their plays with a machine-like precision that was lacking earlier in the season.

That "Ronnie" McPherson got out the tackling dummy, and it was rigged up at the north end of the field and the players went at it. He made all and sundry work themselves dizzy laying the dummy low. The squad was divided into two sections, and Les. Blackwell was busy coaching one of them in blocking and interefcrence while McPherson was looking after the tacklers. Their tackling was woefully weak against McGill, and the coaches are spending more time on that branch of the pastime than on anything else. A bad tackle or a complete miss usually means a long jaunt around the playing field for the unlucky player, and more than one of them were doing the Nurmi act.

After playing about with the dummy the players were sent out to get the ball carrier and they are showing a little improvement. They are making more speed and leaving their feet more frequently. Will they do the same against Queen's at the Richardson Stadium in Kingston on Saturday? That is the question. Walker will Sinclair and Trimble did not have to get in the rough work. They were busy catching and punting, and they made few mistakes. Sinclair was getting more height and distance than his team-mate, but they were both hoofing them high and far. Trimble has not said much since his disastrous game against "Shag's" hopefuls, and he is due for a great game at Queen's. The fair-haired captain is a great football player and one bad game does not make a season.

Murray Snyder will more than likely start at quarter against the tri-color. He has no experience, but he knows football and is a capable leader. In the practices he is handling the team well and should make good in the pivot role. Westwood is still out. He got a bad crack on the head in the game against McGill and it has been giving him considerable trouble. He will be missed, but Snyder should fill his shoes to perfection. "Westie" is about the only casualty. The rest of the team is in great shape.

Herb Kirpatrick, who played the defence for the Intercollegiate hockey squad, is out with the Intercollegiates. "Kirk" was a star on the backfield when he went to Riverdale C.I., and McPherson has ousted him out of retirement to bolster up the rearguard.

A Snappy Outfit.

The O.R.F.U. squad was running around like a bunch of champions. The players are tickled pink with the showing they made against the Tiger cubs and they are now getting groomed for Camp Borden and the Beach. They did not indulge in any heavy work last night, a signal drill occupying their time for most of the evening. All the players with the exception of Geordie Beal and Gay Kirkpatrick are in fine shape and ready to go. Beal is nursing a bad leg and Kirkpatrick has a torn ligament in his ankle. They are two of the team's stars and neither of them were in action against the Tigers.

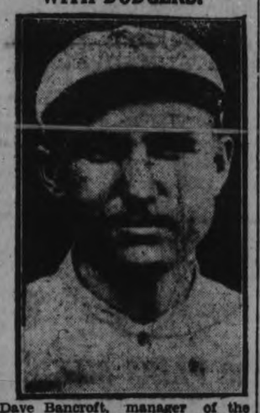
Beachers Hitting the Dirt.

Balmy Beach are well on the way to another O.R.F.U. championship. At the present time the only team in their way is the Varsity outfit, and they are getting ready for the College boys now. They should have an easy time in Hamilton on Saturday, but they are not taking any chances. Last night they held one of their hardest drills of the season and everybody was out. The injured players have all responded to treatment and their squad is complete.

The way things look at the present time they are the Toronto hopes for the dominion title. Their supporters who have followed them faithfully through the lean years can see nothing but the Beachers, and the players have also every confidence in their own ability and the guidance of Harry Hobbs, their coach. Hobbs, one of the smartest quarterbacks that ever played Canadian football, is having a lot of success in the coaching line, and both the Beachers and Oakwood C.I. appear to be headed for championships.

The world's junior welterweight championship is the title for which Mushy Callahan of California and Spug Meyers of Idaho are to battle 10 rounds in Chicago on May 31.

WITH DODGERS.



Dave Bancroft, manager of the Boston Braves for the last two seasons and former shortstop of the New York Giants, whose sale to Brooklyn, at his own request, is reported. Bancroft, who was sold for $20,000, will play shortstop and captain the Dodgers next season.

Tris Speaker May Succeed Bancroft

NEW YORK, October 19 (Associated Press).—Reports that Tris Speaker will succeed Dave Bancroft as manager of the Boston Braves persisted yesterday in spite of the lack of official confirmation.

Emil E. Fuchs, president of the Boston Club, left early in the day for Boston without making any announcement. It was understood, however, that Speaker was one of the men Fuchs has under consideration, although Clark Griffith, president of the Washington Senators, with whom Speaker played last season, denied the outfielder had been released or that any deal for his services was under way.

Winnipeg Hockey Stars For Pyle Loop

WINNIPEG, Man., Oct. 19.—Twelve potential hockey stars, developed by local senior, intermediate and junior leagues, probably will play with C. C. Pyles' newly formed California professional hockey league. Eight of them already have received instructions from Los Angeles to be ready to report "at a moment's notice", and others are reported ready to sign contracts.

The following are the players reported to have been signed or negotiating contracts: Johnny McVicar, Frankie Morris, Connie Josephs, Johnn Harrison, Harry Neil, Edward Lowe, Jack McConghan, Theo. Marius, Stony Thornsteinson, Smoky Harris, J. Kuhn and Bun Stephenson.

None of the mentioned players are "stars", but all have showed ability during past seasons.

It is understood the California league will be a four-club circuit —Los Angeles, Hollywood, San Francisco and Oakland.

MAROON PLAYERS REPORT FOR DUTY

MONTREAL, Que., Oct. 19 (Canadian Press).—Three more of the Montreal Maroop players reported to Manager Eddie Gerard at the Forum yesterday, bringing the number of players here and ready for practice to twelve. Red Dutton, defence man, and Emma and Touney, forwards with Stratford last season, were those who arrived yesterday. Ice making will start at the Forum this week, with a possibility of ice before Monday. Meanwhile the players are doing indoor work under the direction of Trainer Bill O'Brien.

Sheriff to Seize "Long Shot" Horse

TORONTO, Oct. 19.—Princess Pat Coventry, the race horse which put over a 40 to 2 shot at Thorncliffe last week, has been ordered to be seized by the Sheriff of York by a replevin order signed by Charles Garrow, K.C., Master of the Supreme Court at Osgoode Hall. Monday afternoon an injunction was granted on the application of John Coventry, of Woodstock, who claims ownership of the horse, restraining W. N. Broom from taking the horse out of the court's jurisdiction. Broom's intention, it is alleged, was to take the horse to Chicago and race it on U.S. tracks.

FAMOUS PLAYER OUT OF THE GAME

C. G. McCartney, Well Known Australian Cricketer, To Retire.

SYDNEY, N.S.W., Oct. 19.—(Canadian Press Cable).—The retirement from first-class cricket of C. G. McCartney, well known Australian cricketer, is announced.

Mr. McCartney was one of the best all-round players Australia has produced. At home he played for New South Wales. He was a member of four teams from the Antipodes which toured England. In the last tour, when Australia lost the mythical championship "ashes" to England, McCartney stood out head and shoulders above his colleagues in the test matches. He had the remarkable average of 94.60 in the five test games. McCartney was a useful bowler, and was deadly on certain wickets. He was affectionately known among cricketers as "The Governor-General."

WOODSMAN FOUND SHOT NEAR SHACK

Russian's Body Discovered With Bullet Through the Heart.

COCHRANE, Ont., October 18. — A few feet from the door of his shack seven miles south of here, the body of Nestor Deilik, aged 35, a Russian pulpwood cutter, was found at noon yesterday. The body, pierced by a bullet aimed by some one whose identity police are now seeking to establish, had lain there since Sunday afternoon, it is believed.

As most of the woodsmen of the district do, Deilik spent Sunday afternoon in Cochrane, police have learned. It was just after he had stabled his horse upon his return that the bullet felled him as he entered the house where he lived alone in the bush. No motive for the slaying has yet been uncovered by Provincial Inspector Moore of Cobalt, who is directing the investigation.

After viewing the body where it lay at the shack, Coroner Tucker has had it brought here, but no date is yet set for the inquest.

Leon Procknick and Hyman Hendler both past 80 years of age, have played 3,000 games of chess during the three years they have been fellow inmates of the Brooklyn Hebrew Home for the Aged.

The national track and field championships for women are to be held at Pasadena, starting July 10.

OUR BOARDING HOUSE — By Ahern

"I never smoked until I stopped rowing more than 20 years ago. Since then I have tried many brands of cigars and cigarettes, but until a friend offered me a Buckingham I never knew how pleasant and easy on the throat a cigarette could be. I spend most of my time around my old home near Lakes Simcoe and Couchiching and my days are pleasant ones. Tobacco such as one gets in Buckingham helps to make them more so."

A famous Canadian world's champion thinks Buckingham is a winner, too!

WHEN "Jake" Gaudaur, who, with Ned Hanlan and Lou Scholes, brought to his native Canada the prestige of the world's championship in rowing, there were no "movie" contracts, stage appearances or lucrative writing contracts to reward his efforts. A few hundred dollars, many cups and trophies and any number of illuminated addresses were the sole benefits derived —except that glorious sense of achievement and shining example for Canadian athletics which to-day is emulated by such worthy successors as "Joe" Wright.

At the age of 68 years, with a record of hundreds of victories over the world's best, Mr. Gaudaur again lives near the beautiful lakes of Simcoe and Couchiching, where in a clumsy skiff he won his first rowing races as a youth of seventeen.

Buckingham esteems it an honor to have received a hearty tribute from so noted a Canadian champion as Mr. Gaudaur. Buckingham appreciates the championship rank it has attained among so many thousands of Canadians because of its "throat-easy" quality, freshness and fragrant blend.

Small Price Changes Standard Exchange

TORONTO, Oct. 19 (Canadian Press).—Bidgood, Malartic Mines and Jackson Manion were the most active issues on the Standard Mining Exchange this morning. Price changes were of minor character.

Bidgood at 85 was off four and Barry Hollinger at 92½ and Argonaut Con. at 42 were each off two. Amulet was up five to 540.

In the unlisted stocks Jackson Manion was off three at 55. Malartic firmed fractionally.

Selling Pressure Sends New York Prices Down

NEW YORK, Oct. 19 (Canadian Press).—The renewal of selling pressure against today's stock market resulted in another wide selling movement which carried prices down two to seven points. The reaction took place in the face of a lowering of the call money rate from 4 to 3½ per cent.

Prices opened fairly firm, but the rally was unimpressive. Bear traders launched a series of selling attacks against some of the popular industrials, which eventually unsettled the general list. Allied Chemical was hammered down nearly seven points to 146¾, Dupont broke six to 228½, and Commercial Solvents dropped 5½ to 168.

The rails yielded with the industrials, although the losses were not as large. Delaware and Hudson, Jersey Central, Chesapeake and Ohio, and Louisville and Nashville were the hardest hit.

RADIO FIRM EXPANDS.

An attractive addition has been made recently to the store premises of the Watson Tire and Radio Supply Company on George Street, in the form of a Radio Parlor, the only one of its kind in the city, in a show-room given over exclusively to the demonstration and exhibit of various types of radios.

Coming here seven years ago, Mr. J. W. Watson represented the Riverdale Tire Corporation of Toronto. Within the year following, he took over the business of tires and automobile accessories, running it under his own name, and still continues to make this the staple end of his work, in the store at 446 George Street, while adjoining is the radio parlor recently opened. A reconstruction of the firm has been made, under the name of the Watson Tire and Radio Supply Company, with Mr. J. W. Watson as general manager, and Mr. T. Shield as sales manager.

Mr. Watson is a pioneer in the radio business of the city, having been a dealer in manufactured sets during the past five years. He is handling the DeForest-Crosley line of radios, manufactured in Toronto, and the Stromberg-Carlson line, a magnificent sample of which is the wonderful new combination of radio and phonograph, finished in satin-surfaced French walnut, on view in the show-rooms at 444 George Street. Other examples of the most up-to-date ideas in radios are also on exhibition in this attractive parlor, furnished with comfortable chairs, its walls done in a striking floral tapestry paper, with black patterns in a gold ground, bordered deeply by a conventional design in the same vivid colors.

In addition, a complete service department and workshop is being constructed, where a full line of radios, batteries, eliminators and batteryless sets will be handled.

THE din and clash of arms was more to the liking of Richard Coeur-de-Lean than the pomp and ceremony of the Royal Court, consequently we find him leaving affairs of state in the hands of his ministers and embarking on the third crusade to the Holy Land. His chief exploits were the capture of Acre and Ascalon and the defeat of Saladin near Arsuf and again at Jaffa. Richard was a warrior rather than a statesman and owes his place in history to his reputation for great personal courage and military skill.

Season's Lowest Prices Made By Grains To-day

CHICAGO, Oct. 19 (Canadian Press).—Wheat, corn and oats today promptly broke the season's low price record before the previous minimum figures were 24 hours old. A new wave of liquidating sales swept values down, with Indian Summer weather both in Canada and the corn belt causing holders to unload and depriving the market of ready buyers for at least the time being. Starting at ¼c to ⅞c decline, wheat soon underwent a sharp further setback. Corn opened ⅜c to ⅞c off, and later receded more. Provisions were irregular.

Opening prices were: Wheat, December 127, March 1.30⅛. Corn December 83⅞, March 87⅜. Oats December 45⅝; March 48.

Woman, Not Man, Resembles Apes

LONDON, Oct. 19 (United Press).—"Woman resembles the ape more than man does," declared Prof. Arthur Thompson, anthropologist, to a distinguished audience of men at the Royal Society.

"The chief thing that distinguished man from his cousin the ape is the comparative shortness of his arms and length of his legs," said Prof. Thompson. "Woman's arms really are longer than man's relatively, and her legs are shorter."

RHEUMATIC FEVER MOST DANGEROUS

McGill Doctor Tells Conference It Is Worse Than Infantile Paralysis.

KANSAS CITY, Oct. 19. Canadian Press. — Infantile paralysis is a fleabite compared to rheumatic fever, in the opinion of Dr. John Meakins, of McGill University, speaking to the post-graduate medical conference today. Symptoms of rheumatic fever often are found in five year old children and are wrongly called growing pains, he said. In a large number of cases this develops into heart disease.

RIN-TIN-TIN SCORES IN THRILLER OF THRILLERS.

"Tracked by the Police," Rin-Tin-Tin's latest starring vehicle for Warner Brothers, directed by Ray Enright, records the courageous fight of a dog hero to save not only one of the greatest reclamation projects in the United States but also his friends engaged in building it. With a splendid cast including Jason Robards, Virginia Brown Faire, Tom Santschi, Nanette, Dave Morris, Theodore Lorch, Ben Walker and Wilfred North, Rinty is said to depict the most sympathetic and thrilling role of his career.

The story deals with the construction of a great dam and desert irrigation project. For the beautiful exteriors the company journeyed to Yuma, Arizona, using the Yaguna Dam and reclamation project across the Colorado River as a setting.

Rin-Tin-Tin in "Tracked by the Police" comes to the Regent Theatre Thursday for a run of three days.

BIG GAME HUNTING NORTHERN ONTARIO.

Reports from the early hunters indicate fine weather and excellent sport, particularly along the line of the Canadian National Railways, which tap the best of all hunting territory. The season north of the French River is now open and will not close until November 30th. South of the Pickerel and French Rivers, the season will open from November 1st to the 30th.

There is choice country for deer and moose between Parry Sound and Sudbury, and beyond Sudbury for a distance of 300 miles. Moose are plentiful in almost any section. The line from Toronto to North Bay and Timagami passes through the eastern portion of the finest deer country in the province, and to the north Timagami territory is too well known for moose to need description.

Canadian National train service to these several hunting grounds is fast and comfortable. Special service is being operated on the Toronto-Sudbury line, and extra equipment will be carried in many other trains.

An attractive hunting leaflet has been issued, and copies may be obtained on application to any agent, Canadian National Railways.

What Every Girl Should Know

by GISA PRUCHONE

Copyright, 1927, Warner Bros. Pictures, Inc.
"WHAT EVERY GIRL SHOULD KNOW," with Patsy Ruth Miller, is a Warner Bros. picturization of this novel.

SYNOPSIS

Mary "Elaine" Sullivan—slender, beautiful, red-headed—is a tennis champion. A poetical, spiritual girl is Mary, despite her physical prowess. Her mother died sewing for a living. Her spirit lives on in Mary. Wally Mason, a young reporter, loves Mary. But she disbelieves in love. Mary keeps house for her brothers, David and Bobby. David, the family support, hopes Mary will get safely married. David is sentenced to prison for an auto fatality, and the Charity Department takes Bobby. Wally proposes; but Mary goes to New York to work.

CHAPTER VII

It hadn't been difficult securing a place to live. New York, Mary discovered, abounded with them Little hall bedrooms with white iron cots and bare floors, with a chair or two, and the paper peeling in great scaly flakes from the corner above the bed. Landladies, too. Mary made her acquaintance with them. Thick bodies with hips that swelled broadly, and faces that peered at one with suspicion.

"Rather young, aren't you, Miss?" one of them had asked, the one in whose palatial abode Mary finally settled. She had rented the room reluctantly, taking the six dollars Mary handed her with an air of doing so against her better judgment. It was a room rather better than most Mary had seen, and she had felt the need of settling somewhere before night.

"Working?" Still the inquisition, accompanied by a glance that took in every inch of her slim young person.

"No," said Mary, "but I expect to before long." The answer to this was a look the interpretation of which was not difficult. It read:

"We don't allow young gentlemen to call upon you in your room."

"Hm. You'd better be, if you expect to stay here."

She pointed out the bathroom at the lower end of the dark hall, and explained that the pitcher and basin would be filled with water which was to be used for washing. Before closing the door and leaving Mary to herself, she stood with hand on hip and delivered herself of the following, still with those hard suspicious glances.

"We don't allow young gentlemen to call upon you in your room, and when in an emergency one does the door has to be left open three inches." Mary had a wild desire to laugh, which struggled above her bewilderment.

"And," she continued, "I don't allow any goings on." There was a grim pressure placed on the words "goings on," which led one to believe that all was not as innocent as you might believe from the sound of the words themselves. The door closed, and Mary was alone. She removed her close little hat, and threw it on the bed, then came to the mirror. The Mary in the mirror was revealed as a Mary with a bulging forehead and eyes that wavered. When she smiled at the vision, as she did, one side of her mouth ran crookedly up into her cheekbone. Which was decidedly not satisfying. "No encouragement there," she murmured, and turned to the window. From there was revealed a panorama in which the shadowy red tops of roofs and gaunt poles climbing feebly toward the heavens were predominant. Over toward the west there breathed a mauve flush. On a clothesline stretching opposite from window to window a sparrow swung for an instant, then sped away.

She turned from the window, and gingerly tried the bed. Finding that though it squeaked and groaned in protest, it would hold, she let herself carefully down. The next instant she was up again, but the pillow was a virginal white. This time her breathing came easily. It was good to rest, and think. She was here. She had made her start. The city was anticipating her with eager hands, offering her gifts. Gifts of the genii, a demon with eyes that belched smoke, and hands agleam with precious stuffs and glittering jewels which he thrust upon her. "They are all yours. Take them, Mary," and Mary reached forth eager hands which touched nothingness. Fairy stuffs, too tragile for the touch of human hands. Fairy stuffs made of gossamer and star-dust and the languor of the evening breeze.

She slept, easily, far into the night.

At first the city exhilarated her. It seeped into her veins and turned them from blue to a glowing gold. It was a delight to rise when the first splashings were heard in the bathroom down the hall, when the cuffle of bedroom slippers slipslapped and doors opened and shut. There was the eager fluid of life in the body that leaped from beneath the covers in the early morning. She waited, usually, until the sound of footsteps could be heard descending the stairs, and those of the old gentleman next door in particular. He, she had discovered, left after the others. After he went she would have the glory of the bathroom to herself. That was fun, too. Waiting for the bathroom to empty for Mary. "I shan't have that joy for long, though," she promised herself. For one of these mornings, and that very soon now, it had to be soon, she too would scuttle madly down the hall in her slippers, and fly back again, with towel over her arm and the cake of soap in her hand. That would be very soon now. There was still the exhilaration of stepping out into the grey cool of the morning, and joining the throngs that poured into the subways. There was still the feeling of security that remained with her, despite the negative responses to her search for work. Security of heart because of the felicity of purse. Synonymous with one was the other. And surely, one of these grey mornings, when the sun awoke with a great stretching and rearing of head, one of these grey mornings, someone would say "yes." It was bound to happen. It would happen. It must. And meanwhile there was the comfort, the sleek, well-fed comfort of her purse.

Mary was trying to put her knowledge of tennis to some good account, and was discovering its difficulty. "An amateur? I'm afraid that won't do." Names were what they sought, these portly department-store heads, and Mary had no name. No name that, emblazoned in large type above an ad, would draw young tennis enthusiasts. And amateurs were common. Their departments were filled. They were sorry. If she cared to leave her name and address?

Mary cared to leave her name and address, left them eagerly. Trying to impress the disinterested personnel manager with her own peculiar adaptability for the job, an adaptability which was lacking in those vague hordes of competitors of whom the manager spoke with such familiarity.

Finished it with a flourish. Mary Sullivan. There. He would let her know? Yes, he would let her know. And Mary cut across Forty-second Street and up Fifth Avenue with the feeling that here was a good day's work, well done. She idled before the shop windows and breathed deep of the intoxicant that is the air of this one city in the world, then sauntered home, to wait. The telephone was in the hall, downstairs. Three rings meant the call was for her. So certain was she of some response that she sat on the lowest step one full morning with a newspaper in hand, alternately reading and looking up to berate the stolidness of the instrument that hung on the wall. That was the day after a manager had told her she was a sweet little girl, and it was a shame she couldn't get placed. But even that solicitude came to nothing. One day Mary suddenly discovered that she had been in New York three weeks, and after giving Mrs. Dolan the six dollars for the fourth week's board, there would remain very, very little. Not quite enough with which to last out another week. There followed a panic stricken moment when quite suddenly she longed for nothing with so much fierce intensity as she did for the comfort of Mrs. Tomlinson, and the security that was Wally. There was an impulse to run, which she had to restrain. It left her with white cheeks and a madly racing heart. The peaceful aura that had encircled her with the knowledge that though jobs weren't open, her purse was filled, that ease in which she had lain, was now snatched from her as by a ghoulish hand. It was as if she were on a wide plain with no cover in sight to which she could run and hide. She was alone, and utterly defenceless. Unless she found something to do quickly. Oh, quickly. Anything at all would do. Anything at all. She raced down the stairs with mad speed. An afternoon paper. She couldn't afford to wait until morning came again for that would mean the loss of an entire day. Oh—quickly, Mary, quickly!

OUTLINE OF SCIENCE — CCCXXI—Science in the World War—LXIX. The Heroic Nurses. — by MAX HAHN

IN THE FIELD AND EVACUATION HOSPITALS THERE WERE HEROIC WOMEN, DOING EVERYTHING THEY COULD TO SAVE THE LIVES OF THE WOUNDED FIGHTING MEN. THE ADMISSION OF WOMEN TO THE FIELD HOSPITAL WAS A VICTORY FOR THEM: AT THE BEGINNING OF THE WAR MEN WERE RELUCTANT TO SEND WOMEN INTO THE DANGER ZONE.

THE COOL COURAGE OF WOMEN IN THE TRYING CIRCUMSTANCES OF WAR DEFEATED THE NOTIONS HELD PREVIOUSLY TO THE GREAT CONFLICT THAT WOMEN NURSES AT THE FRONT WOULD BE A HANDICAP. © McClure Newspaper Syndicate

DAY AND NIGHT THE HEROIC NURSES WORKED WITH SHELLS FALLING DANGEROUSLY NEAR THE HOSPITALS. OCCASIONALLY A NURSE WAS A CASUALTY WHEN A SPENT SHELL DROPPED.

NURSING IN THE BATTLE ZONE WAS NOT PLEASANT. THE HOURS WERE MANY AND THE WORK WAS HARD. AND THERE WAS ALWAYS THE RISK THAT ONE OF THE ENEMY AIRPLANES MIGHT DROP A BOMB ON THE HOSPITAL DURING THE NIGHT.

OMEMEE A.Y.P.A. HIKE.

Members Enjoy Tramp On Cool Evening and Refreshments Later.

OMEMEE, Oct. 19.—The second item on the season's programme of the A.Y.P.A. was a hike indulged in by the members on Monday evening, Oct. 10. The business on hand was summarily dealt with, and everyone then followed the trail to the south of Mount Nebo. Here, in the bright light of a huge bonfire, all sorts of antics and performances went on. The appetites, whetted by the walk in the keen air, were satisfied with hot dogs and coffee. Large quantities of these refreshments disappeared in a short time, and much laughter and amusement accompanied the cooking of these delicacies. It was a night for the young people and everyone enjoyed themselves in true A.Y.P.A. style.

Next week a speaker from Millbrook will address the association on missions in the Far North.

What is wrong with the tea? If this question is ever asked at the table you may find that the tea you are using was in a poor package. Careful experiments have proven that Aluminum is the only fit package to keep good tea in. You should try Red Rose Tea and see how fresh and brisk and pungent it is in the Aluminum package. 10T

ELECTRICITY AIDS SURGEON

Doctor Tells of Benefits in Operations Formerly Causing Much Bleeding.

LESS SHOCK TO PATIENT.

CHICAGO, Ill., Oct. 19. United Press.—Bloodless operations are possible by use of modern electric surgery, according to Dr. W. T. Boivie, of the Northwestern School of Medicine.

The newly created Department of Biophysics at Northwestern, of which Dr. Boivie is the head will deal largely with the development of electric surgery by which blood vessels are healed as the electric current makes the incision.

"Operations causing great loss of blood, such as removal of brain tumors ,and the removal of the breast, have been performed by electric surgery, without any bleeding," he said. "In electric surgery the current closes the blood vessels as it makes the incision. No anesthetic is necessary, and the patient is fully conscious; the absence of surgical shock makes recovery more rapid."

CHANGES MADE IN C.A.S. BOARD

donald, London Street, of $100, to be used in making the Shelter more comfortable. This amount was placed in a special fund, to which Mrs. Macdonald had already contributed $50 earlier in the year ,to buy bedspreads.

Arrangements for the annual meeting of the Children's Aid Society were made. It was decided to hold this on Tuesday evening, November 22nd, and Alderman Stocker was asked to make arrangements to have it held in the City Council Chamber. A committee to make arrangements for the meeting was appointed, with members in Mrs. J. Fanning, Mrs. J. Welsh, Mr. J. Abraham and Secretary J. Edgar.

With regard to vacancies on the Board of Management, Rev. Dr. Blagrave asked the secretary, when issuing notices for the annual meeting, to inform members who had been absent from meetings during the past six months, to appear on their own behalf on that occasion. Failing to do this, they will automatically cease to be regarded as members, and their places will be filled at that meeting.

On motion of Mrs. W. H. Gibbs, supported by Mrs. J. Fanning and Mrs. J. Welsh, the name of Mrs. H. W. Nigh was added to the membership of the Board, and the name of Mrs. E. Daynard was also added, on motion of Mrs. J. Welsh, supported by Mrs. S. Newhall and Mrs. W. H. Gibbs. A slight tilt in words between the ladies and men of the board took place when the latter took upon themselves to suggest additions to the ranks of the sewing ladies, who thought they were better judges in this capacity.

Mrs. W. H. Gibbs, owing to pressure of domestic duties, asked the Board to accept her resignation, after an attendance of twenty years. The members were loth to accept Mrs. Gibbs' resignation, and decided to retain her services on the Board as convenor of the Sewing and Purchasing committee, and take on the active duties involved upon their own shoulders.

A nominating committee to act for the annual meeting was appointed, composed of the following members: Mrs. J Fanning, Mrs. J. Welsh, Mrs. R. J. Devey, Alderman W. Stocker and Mr. J. Abraham.

Alderman W. Stocker, who has charge of affairs at the Shelter, reported an extremely satisfactory condition existing down there, and Dr. Blagrave remarked humorously that caretaker and his wife must be good indeed to merit Mr. Stocker's satisfaction. The latter, with Mr. Brooks, caretaker of the Shelter, were empowered to attend a sale and purchase some poultry for the house.

One of the ladies made the suggestion that the Kiwanis Club be asked to donate a small sum sufficient to cut a door leading from the playroom so that the children will not have to pass through the dining room, as is now the case, thus saving furniture and rugs from wear and tear. This was left in the hands of the Property committee, to which the name of Alderman Stocker was added.

Messrs. E L. Payne and F. H. Dawson were appointed as auditors.

An appreciation of the excellent work done by Mrs. J. Fanning and her committee, with tag day, was voiced, also an expression of gratitude for the excellent response made by the general public, and a wish by Dr. Blagrave that all who have not yet contributed would send their donations to him or Mr. Edgar.

The following donations were acknowledged: St. Paul's Church, sandwiches; George Street Church, sandwiches and cake; St. John's Church, sandwiches, pressed meat, olives, ham and butter, the same church also making another donation of sandwiches and cake, and sending sandwiches, milk and cake after their picnic; King Edward School, cakes; 3rd Dragoons, 12 loaves bread; Mrs. Charles Ackerman, clothing; Nassau Orange Lodge, sandwiches, cake, sugar and tea; Dawson's Bakery, buns, and cake; Mrs. R. J. Soden, books and toys; St. Paul's Church Young People's Society, cakes and sandwiches; Lillico's Store, ginger snaps; St. James' Church Young Men's Class, bread and cakes; Rev. Mr. Dwelly of Young's Point, box vegetables and apples.

The following accounts were passed for payment: J. T. Braund, $3.89; Turnbull & Company, $11.75 and $2.00; Grafton Company, $6.00; Hall's Store, $6.55; Examiner Company, $41.71 and $4.16; Telephone accounts, $1.05; R Denne, $2.50; Peterborough Milk Products, Limited, $2.84; Giles' Drug Store $1.30; Nicholls Hospital, $12.00; Dr. Scott, $3.00; R. Neill, $16.72; Comstock's $13.60; J. Edgar, $5.68; P. G. Walker, $3.35. Total, $140.10.

ALL SIGN PLEDGE.

TORONTO, October 19 (Canadian Press).—Two hundred delegates representing seventy-four churches were present when the regular Baptist Convention of Ontario and Quebec was formed in Jarvis Street Church to-day, in opposition to the Baptist Convention which expelled the Jarvis Street delegates. AVIATION CLUB PLANS OUTLINED Permanent Officers Will Be Elected at Meeting To-night.

TO FOSTER FLYING.

Those interested in the progress of the Peterborough Aero Club are asked to attend an important meeting to be held in the Chamber of Commerce to-night at 7.30 p.m.

This club has been provisionally organized and the purpose of to-night's meeting is to elect permanent officers, outline a program for the club and make preparations for its incorporation. A membership drive will also be inaugurated and a delegation appointed to interview the City Council regarding a grant to permit the erection of a hangar in order that advantage may be taken of the government's offer of two airplanes.

The Peterborough Aero Club has a two fold purpose. The primary object is to further the interests of commercial aviation and to put the City of Peterborough on the map of Canada as an important aviation centre. The second objective is the training of registered pilots thus creating a nucleus for the Air Force Reserve.

A special junior membership will also be obtainable for persons of either sex from seventeen years and up.

MARMORA MAN FREED BY JURY

James Gordonier Acquitted at Trial For Serious Offence.

CONDUCT CONDEMNED.

BELLEVILLE, Ont., Oct. 19.—(Special.)—"Not guilty" was the verdict of the jury in the case of King vs. James Gordonier, completed before his Lordship Justice Fisher at the County Court here last evening. Gordonier was charged with a serious offence, the complaint having been entered by his sister-in-law, Mrs. Edith McInroy. The case occupied but one day and the court room was crowded from 9 oclock yesterday morning until six o'clock in the evening.. Gordonier was set free by the jury and exonerated on the charge, but he had admitted relations with Mrs. McInroy, and Justice Fisher in a few scathing words told the accused what he thought of him.

"Your admissions stamp you as a libertine," said His Lordship. "You are unfit to associate with decent society. A big man like you to take a tiny woman like Mrs. McInroy and ruin her life and her children's and family's honor should be well ashamed of yourself. A man like you is unfit to live in a decent community. My advise to you is to take care, great care, for the next time you may find yourself in the penitentiary."

Both counsel for the defence, Charles Payne and the Crown prosecutor, C. A. Seguine, presented brilliant addresses to the jury. Especially interesting was Mr. Seguine. He is a French Canadian from Ottawa and it would be a noble sight to see him pleading with a jury in his native tongue.

Justice Fisher in his address, wasted no time repeating evidence, stating that the jurymen had listened carefully and needed no brushing up of their memories.

"You know why this is a serious offense," stated His Lordship.

"I think it is due to say that the case has been quietly and in a gentlemanly fashion conducted," continued Justice Fisher. Especially fine was the brilliant defense of the prisoner's counsel, Mr. Payne.

"It is the easiest thing in the world to allege an offense of this nature against an individual and the hardest thing in the world to disprove it," stated His Lordship. "There has to be some corroboration besides the word of the complainant alone. Do you believe Mrs. McInroy when she says Gordonier overpowered her? Do you think the intercourse was perpetuated against her will.

"If he did commit the offence you must ask yourselves the question, 'Why did this woman ride on into Havelock with him after the crime was committed? 'Why didn't she stop some one in Havelock and tell them of the foul deed? This man was a frequent caller at this woman's house. Even after the alleged crime she was out with him Is this the conduct of a woman who had been so treated? These two questions are for you to decide of course.

"This crime is becoming rabid in this country," went on Justice Fisher, "and it is your duty to give this case serious consideration. Any man that will attack a woman is a libertine, an outlaw to society and should be punished severely. If this man is guilty he deserves to be punished, but think well over the facts."

The jury retired at 5 o'clock and it was 5.50 when they filed into the big court room again. With an expectant hush falling over the crowded court the foreman of the jury arose and stated that he and his eleven companions had found James Gordonier "not guilty" on the charge against him.

This case, the only criminal case on the docket of the Fall Assizes, completes the Assizes.

TARIFF BOARD REVIEW DUTY COTTON GOODS

Will Consider Application of Consumer's League For Reduction in Rate.

SESSION TO-DAY.

Take Under Advisement Reduction in Duty on Corkboard.

OTTAWA, Ont., October 20 (Canadian Press). — The whole question of the duty on cottons will be under review before the Tariff Advisory Board to-day.

Consideration will first be given to an application by the Consumers' League of Canada for a reduction in the tariff on cotton goods. About thirty items appear in the tariff schedules affecting cottons, and the general average is between 22 and 25 per cent. A decrease to a maximum of 16 per cent. is requested.

Opposition to the application for reduction is expected to be put forward by the Dominion Textile Co., Ltd., Montreal, the Canadian Cottons Company, Ltd., Hamilton, the Montreal Cottons, Ltd., Valleyfield, Que., and the Hamilton Cotton Co., Ltd., Hamilton.

An application by the Wabasso Cotton Co., Ltd., Three Rivers, Que., for protection on all finer counts of cotton yarns which now enter Canada free of duty, will be given subsequent consideration.

DUTY ON CORKBOARD.

OTTAWA, Ont., October 20 (Canadian Press). — Reduction in the duty on corkboard entering Canada from 20 to 30 per cent. was requested before the Tariff Advisory Board late yesterday. The question was taken under advisement.

On behalf of the applicants, Armstrong Cork and Insulating Co., Ltd., Montreal, R. J. Deachman, Ottawa, urged that the increase be granted. The Dominion imported a large amount of corkboard from Spain, he stated, and in this country insulation on houses was an important matter owing to the high cost of fuel and the severity of the winter. He quoted a pamphlet issued by the Dominion Fuel Board stating that with the proper insulation Canada's fuel bill could be reduced to the neighbourhood of $30,000,000 annually. Cork was an ideal insulating material, and corkboard an ideal form of insulation. For these reasons, he believed that the tariff decrease could well be put into effect.

PETERBORO LADY A PRIZE-WINNER

Awarded the Knechtel Kitchen Kabinet in Limerick Contest.

25,000 COMPETITORS.

At the Peterborough Exhibition last September visitors were invited to take part in the Limerick Contest staged by Knechtel Kitchen Kabinet, Limited, of Hanover, Canada, for several worth while prizes. This contest was open to all comers free of charge, and consisted of completing the following verse by adding the missing line:

The Knechtel's the modern sensation
Which lightens the work of a nation;
It has lengthened the life
Of the hard-working wife.

The line composed by contestants had to rhyme with that ending with the word "nation," prizes going to those who submitted the best Limerick in definition of the outstanding qualities of Knechtel Kitchen Kabinets.

Over 25,000 entrants sent in Limericks, and Examiner readers will find interest in the announcement that the first prize, a handsome Knechtel Kitchen Kabinet, valued at $60.00, goes to Mrs. Ross, 317 Boswell Avenue, Peterborough City. Mrs. Ross's Limerick follows:

The Knechtel's the modern sensation
Which lightens the work of a nation;
It has lengthened the life
Of the hard-working wife.
"It's the acme of Space Conservation."

When notifying Mrs. Ross of her success, the company warmly congratulated her upon her remarkable achievement in winning first prize from so large a field of eager contestants. And a measure full of credit is also extended her in that the closing line of the Limerick—"It's the acme of Space Conservation"—expresses so fittingly that wonderful compactness which has made this line of Kabinets so popular, both in small compartments and larger dwellings.

Knechtel Kitchen Kabinets are handled by McBride and Franks, 224 Charlotte street, this city, in whose store the $60 prize Kabinet won by Mrs. Ross, will be displayed within a few days.

Veteran Comedian Passes In Hospital

NEW YORK, Oct. 20 (Canadian Press).—Tom Lewis, veteran stage comedian, died yesterday at Roosevelt Hospital. He had been ill for sometime, but until a few days ago was able to appear in vaudeville in and about New York. He was born in Saint John, N.B., 64 years ago. His last extended engagement here was as co-star with Will Rogers in the Ziegfeld Follies of 1925. Before that, he had appeared as comedian in "Helen of Troy, New York," but most of his work was on the vaudeville stage. He is survived by his widow, who accompanied him on most of his theatrical tours. His home was in Boston.

Mr. Lewis had been in theatrical work for 51 years. At the age of 13 he ran away from Saint John to Boston.

There he became an apprentice acrobat with a vaudeville troupe. Later he barnstormed as a blackface comedian with the Wilkinson troupe. With one of this troupe, Jimmie Pell, he formed a team that was known for many years as Pell and Lewis.

AVIATION CLUB NOW FORMED

Officers Elected and By-laws Drawn at Meeting Last Night.

C. H. ACKERMAN PRESIDENT.

Peterborough is to have an Aerial Club. Last night at a meeting held in the Chamber of Commerce, it was decided to form a club which would be known as the Peterborough Aero Club. A joint stock company will be formed which will make immediate application to the Government for the two light flying planes being offered by the Department of National Defence.

At the meeting last night the by-laws were accepted, the provisional officers were elected as permanent officers, and the executive was given authority to go ahead immediately, fulfilling all the necessary requirements in order to form a club.

The officers of the club will be:
President—Lt-Col. C. H. Ackerman.
Vice-President — Lt.-Col. Frank Bradburn.
Second Vice-President—Tom Dutton.
Secretary—Lt. B. E. Parks.
Treasurer—Cranston Layfield.
Committee—Lt. D. A. Loomis, Capt. William Jackson, Capt. E. H. Wood, A. L. Killaly, Chris Graham and Lt. Grier.

Only British subjects may belong to the club. The members will be of four classes and of both sexes—Juniors who will pay a fee of $2.50 a year, Associate members $5.00, Honorary members $10.00, and flight members.

The objects of the club will be to foster an interest in flying, bring together those who were previously airmen, promote commercial navigation, and to form an air force reserve.

The executive will form the directors of the Aero Company. This company will own all the equipment required by the Department of National Defence. They will deal with all matters of financing the project.

Everyone must be able to fly and have a pilot's license before being alowed to solo. The conduct of all members will come under the supervision of a committee. Members must give notice in writing before the fiscal year is ended if they wish to withdraw from the club. The company will accept damage to all airplanes except where the damage caused is thought to be wilful. The company will not be held responsible for any liability to persons who fly. No passenger will be allowed to go up in a plane unless he or she is a member of the club or has been given permission by the authorities.

211 Years In Jail Don't Worry Thief

BERLIN, Oct. 20. — (United Press.)— When longer prison terms are served, Paul Bushman will serve them.

Three more years have been added to his length of penal servitude for him more than 500 burglaries, so that Paul must remain in the penitentiary 211 years—technically speaking.

Had he confined his burglaries to one county, he would have been just another crook. But he was a roaming burglar and 14 county courts had to administer justice.

Twelve courts gave him a maximum of 15 years—sentences not to run concurrently—while two thought the ends of justice could be served by fourteen years. The three year term will be for petty larceny and Paul would not even own up to it until he decided three more years could not mean anything in his young life.

BEAVERBROOK THINKS TRUST IS NECESSARY

Says It Is the Only Way To Save Coal Industry of Britain.

OWNERS INCOMPETENT.

Have Made No Effort To Adapt Themselves To Changing Conditions.

LONDON, Oct. 20 (United Press).—Lord Beaverbrook publishes to-day a slashing attack on the British coal mine owners declaring them, by the common consent of the community, "incompetent guardians both of their own interests and the country's general interests."

Lord Beaverbrook insists that the length of the coal strike must rest upon the Baldwin Government's temporizing policy in subsidizing coal production and by its subsequent policy of restoring the gold standard which placed the operators in an impossible position.

The owners, however, have made no effort to adapt their methods to the new conditions. They have only, he says, lengthened the working hours and reduced the wages of the men while refusing all suggestions for the amendment of the very obvious faults of their own business methods.

Their policy now is for still lower wages, still longer hours, and the closing of the Stall coal pits, which will increase the already widespread unemployment.

Lord Beaverbrook insists that the formation of a coal trust along the lines of the cement merger he formed in Canada seventeen years ago is the only hope of saving the industry. "I have made many trusts," he says, "including the Steel Company of Canada and the Canadian Car and Foundry Company, and in every instance the experience of the purchasing and investing public has been highly satisfactory.

"I know a failing industry when I see it, and the coal industry is that. On the other hand I know that such an industry can be turned into a prosperous one and the coal industry is that also."

STINSON'S PLANE HITS STONE WALL

Detroit Aviator and Builder Has Narrow Escape From Death.

ROCHESTER, Oct. 20 (Canadian Press).—Eddie Stinson, Detroit airplane designer and builder, had a narrow escape from death at Marion today when his plane, taking off on a wet field, crashed into a stone wall. Neither the ship nor Stinson, however, suffered anything more than minor mishap.

RUGBY NOTES

The executive of the Peterborough Junior Rugby Club will meet at the Y.M.C.A. to-morrow night at 7.30.

YOUNG MAN HURT.

Bernard Butcher's Life Saved By Companion's Presence of Mind.

Bernard Butcher, the youngest son of William Butcher, Wolsley street, Peterboro, and Clarence Bebee who were out in the Cobalt district some time ago, were returning home, and Bernard, while getting on the train, slipped and the train went over his right leg. Clarence jumped off the train, and with great presence of mind bound up the leg tightly above the crushed part, and by so doing saved Bernard from bleeding to death. He then ran several miles and secured a doctor. The doctor had Bernard removed to the hospital in that vicinity, and he had to have his leg amputated below the knee.

Anyone who would like to give Bernard a helping hand towards paying hospital and operation expenses, etc., can do so by leaving same at Roland Denne's Flour and Feed Store, Water street.

Noisy Audience Troubles Magistrate; Little Attention Paid To Police Officer

Magistrate Langley, when he opened Court this morning, found that he had no constable in attendance and that the audience on the benches was rather noisy. His Worship asked where the constables were, and added that he would not run a court without a constable. Inspector Reid later appeared, but the noise did not cease. His Worship found it necessary to ask for order. "I don't know what is wrong with this Court this morning," he said. "I usually have the very best of order." One or two in the back row smiled and they had to be reminded that it was no laughing matter but that this was a Court of Justice.

His Worship then was asked by one of the audience if he might ask a question, but the reply was, "No, this is not a school."

HASTINGS PEOPLE CELEBRATE OPENING OF NEW PAVEMENTS

Many Prominent Men of Village and United Counties Make Speeches.

BIG BANQUET HELD.

Heavy Rainfall and Absence of Hon. G. S. Henry Fail To Dampen Enthusiasm.

HASTINGS, Oct. 20. — With the paved section of the village beautifully decorated with evergreens and British flags, Hastings was well prepared to celebrate the completion and formal opening of their paved streets, but the weather and Fate decided that the celebration was to be somewhat curtailed and as a result of their conference, a deluge of rain all but spoiled the entire affair. But Reeve Hess had faced too much opposition to allow any such trivial affair to interfere with the final scene of the play which had been running for approximately three years.

To Dr. Hess must be given the major portion of the credit for not only the celebration that was the order of the evening, but for the dogged determination which he manifested during the long struggle for what he considered the rights of the village in the matter of paving. Time and again, the Reeve has interviewed the powers that be. He has met with everything from courtesy to the curtest of refusals, but through his persistence he has won for the Village of Hastings, a place in the sun which is the envy of many of the surrounding communities. Therefore it is not in the least surprising that, backed by his councillors, he was not in the least depressed when the downpour of rain made it impossible for the speeches to be delivered from the platform which had been erected at the main corner for the occasion. It was simply announced that the speakers would deliver their addresses from the platform of the Town Hall.

The result was that the auditorium was packed to the doors when the speakers were called to the platform. Dr. Hess felt it his duty to explain that the Hon. G. S. Henry, Minister of Public Highways, would not be present. He had but that morning received word that the minister had been unavoidably detained in Sault Ste. Marie, and to appear on the platform in Hastings would therefore be impossible. This, with the rain, somewhat dampened the enthusiasm of the crowds, but the imposing array of speakers which lined the platform soon dispelled such depression, and enthusiasm ran higher than before. The speakers included M. E. Maybee, M.P., Major James Belford, ex-M.P.P., Mr. McArthur of Cobourg, George Grier, Superintendent of County Roads; Warden Elliott; the members of the Hastings Village Council; Herbert Nelson, and several others. As the hour had progressed rather further than desired, the Reeve made a request that the speakers be somewhat brief as there was a banquet to follow at a set time.

Major Belford

Major James Belford, well known to the citizens of the village, was the first to speak. He began by saying that what he did not know about paving would fill a book, but that he had sort of a sense which told him while still several miles distant from Hastings, that something very unusual was in the air. He had known Hastings for very many years and the improvement in the streets was a most desirable improvement. He recalled the mud spots which had been frequent on the streets at one time, and was delighted to think that they were a thing of the past.

Beside being a matter of pride, the streets would also be a good advertisement. There had always been a number of tourists in the district during the summer months, but this number had increased greatly in the last few years. The cost of the paving was money well spent and had put Hastings in a class by itself. In his mind there was no doubt but that other towns would soon follow suit. He expected that some of the towns in Peterborough County would be putting down pavement next year. Many of the smaller place were not yet up to the mark, particularly the inland towns. Paving most assuredly made for the progress of the community. It was a monetary asset and would bring actual cash returns.

The Major also regretted the absence of the Hon. Mr. Henry, but explained that a Cabinet Minister's duties were very exacting. Mr. Henry had been in Winnipeg during the convention there, and had found it expedient to attend to several duties while en route back home. Mr. Henry's absence was particularly to be regretted, since he was such an authority on road building and maintenance.

The traffic in the district, said the major was becoming a great thing. The tourists from every State in the Union came here to enjoy themselves. They were very liberal with their money and were appreciative of such streets as Hastings had to offer them. He also reminded the people that Campbellford would be coming to the forefront with paved streets next season. But, he concluded humorously, he had expected Hastings to be the first. They were a very sensible group of citizens since they had given him a majority at his last election.

SHIPS COLLIDE NEAR RIMOUSKI

Canadian and British Vessels Damaged During Fog.

NO LOSS OF LIFE.

MONTREAL, Oct. 20. Canadian Press. — During a dense fog in the St. Lawrence river, the Canadian Government Merchant Marine Steamer Canadian Runner, was in collision with the British freighter Newton Pine, off Father Point, according to information reaching Montreal to-day. The collision occurred last night, and the Canadian Runner was beached near Rimouski. As a heavy sea was running the British steamer was standing by awaiting a pilot to take her to Quebec for repairs. No loss of life is reported.

Less American Coal Being Sold In Canada

SCRANTON, Pa., Oct. 20 (Canadian Press).—Canadians to whom the United States formerly shipped as much as 4,000,000 tons of anthracite coal annually, are now buying very much less, declared Samuel D. Warriner, Philadelphia, chairman of the Anthracite Operators' Conference and president of the Lehigh Coal and Navigation Company at a dinner here last night.

The decrease in Canadian anthracite coal purchases in the United States is due to the effect of the slogan, "Empire Goods for Empire citizens," as well as the prices at which English coal has been sold in the Dominion, Mr. Warriner said.

The dinner was held under the auspices of the Scranton Chamber of Commerce. The speakers emphasized the importance of all elements getting together for a better understanding in order to give the anthracite industry increased stability.

SAYS BRITISH TRYING TO GET STATES BACK

Former Justice Charges Locke With Being Director of Propaganda.

MOULDING OPINION.

Rhodes Foundation Provides Money—Naval Supremacy Yielded By U. S.

CHICAGO, Oct. 20. — (Canadian Press.) — Charges that Dr. George Locke, of Toronto, former President of the American Library Association, was England's war time director of propaganda in the United States and that the Association had been moulding the literary habits of the States while acting as an agency of propaganda distribution were made yesterday by Frederick Bausman, former Supreme Court Justice of the State of Washington.

The testimony was given at the Board of Education trial of William McAndrew. Bausman's testimony, originally aimed to show that McAndrew was fostering pro-British teaching in the Chicago schools, was augmented to lend substance to charges that carefully directed propaganda was being carried on throughout the entire nation.

Bausman dealt entirely with national propaganda. He charged the apparent origin of the overseas propaganda of the British was Cecil Rhodes' trust fund, which he said had for one of its objects the return of the United States to the British Crown. Influenced by the propaganda the United States was foolish eiough to give up the supremacy of the seas, he asserted. American colonies in England and France were characterized as toadying to England and France and he declared all English newspapers save the London Spectator held Americans in contempt.

Walter Snary, 55, Drives Car Against Side of Engine.

CHATHAM, Ont., Oct. 20 (Canadian Press).—Becoming confused as he approached the railway crossing at Thamesville and endeavored to avoid a collision with two Canadian National Railway trains, Walter Snary, aged 55, a farmer, drove his Sedan car into the side of a freight engine and received fatal injuries. The automobile was dragged about 150 feet and completely demolished. Snary was removed to his home, but died one hour later.

Dog and Duck Eat, Fight, Play Together

SHANGHAI, Oct. 20 (United Press).—A strange attachment between a mongrel dog and a duck, inseparable companions in the Kiuklang Road neighborhood, has developed to a point where the duck seems able to bark and the dog quacks.

When the dog was a puppy he and the duck met. He failed to bark at her and she opened her bill in an apparent smile.

They established headquarters behind the British Army Hospital and ever since they have eaten, played, fought and slept together.

Whenever the dog is engaged in battle with another, the duck waddles up from behind and seizes the enemy's tail.

CITY TEACHERS ELECT OFFICERS

V. R. Henry President For Ensuing Year—Balance in Treasury.

GRANTS ARE PASSED.

The business meeting of the Teachers' Institute was held last evening at the Public Library.

The secretary's and treasurer's reports were very satisfactory The balance on hand for the year is over $100. The expenses during the year were heavier than usual as the teachers brought Charles G. D. Roberts here to give a public lecture. They also brought Professor Delury of Toronto University to give them an address.

For the coming year it was decided to purchase for each school copies of the addresses given at the Ontario Educational Association convention held during Easter week instead of sending delegates to it. Many of the teachers attend this convention anyway, and the need of special delegates is not great. It was felt that these copies would be a permanent addition to school libraries, where they are available for the use of teachers.

The usual grants to the O. E. A. and for magazines for each school were sanctioned.

The officers for the coming year are as follows:

President—V. R. Henry, B.A.
Vice-President—G. S. Mattice.
Secretary-Treasurer — Miss F. D. Walker.
Executive Committee — Misses E. Pusee, Doughty, Guerin, Adams, and Messrs. D. Munro and Mowat.
Social Committee—Mr. Bolton and Misses Paxman, Mackay, Wilson, V. Burgess, Guerin and Murphy and Mr. J. Munro.
Reading Course Committee — Mr. Clerk and Miss Stout.
Auditors—Messrs. Park and Langford.

CONVENT PROPERTY HAS BEEN EXTENDED

Authorities Have Bought Five Acres Near Mount From John Stewart.

John Stewart, who owned five acres in the Township of North Monaghan, adjacent to Mount St. Joseph, has sold this property to the Convent authorities. It is understood the purchase price was $7,500. The farm has always been well tilled, and is in splendid condition, and will make a fine addition to Mount St. Joseph property.

PROPERTY IMPROVED.

W. G. Morrow Plants Trees and Moves Hedge at His Home.

W. G. Morrow, of the Toronto Savings and Loan Company, who recently built one of the finest private garages in this city on his property on Weller Street, has planted a fine assortment of shrubs around his home and also moved a large hedge, improving the appearance of the property very much.

SEEKING BARGE.

Government Vessel Looking For Boat Which Broke Loose.

MONTREAL, Oct. 20.— (Canadian Press.)— The Canadian government boat detector was searching the St. Lawrence river to-day in search of the barge Lloyd Scott loaded with two hundred tons of pulpwood, which broke away from the wharf at Three Rivers, Que., late yesterday during a wind storm. It is believed the barge might have foundered, becoming a great menace to river navigation.

SAYS WHOLE LIBERAL PARTY WAS BOUGHT

Lennox Scores Progressives in South Bruce Election Case Appeal.

NO COMPROMSE.

Evidence Shows Agreement For $1,000 Made Before Anderson Retired.

TORONTO, Oct. 20.—"To my mind this case is so serious and my contention is that McCallum bought up, through Anderson, the whole Liberal party. That was his object," declared Col. T. H. Lennox, K.C., in the First Appellate Court at Osgoode Hall yesterday afternoon when the appeal of M. A. McCallum against the decision of Justices Rose and Fisher, unseating and disqualifying him in the South Bruce election, came up.

This was in answer to a suggestion of Justice Ferguson that in order to disqualify a candidate a corrupt act had to be proved and that it was not excusable on the part of the candidate.

"This case is so serious that I won't consent to anything, and I want this court to decide the case on its merits. There will be no compromise."

Justice Ferguson: "There is no suggestion of that. You have to go further than to show just a corrupt act to disqualify the man."

Justice Magee: "If he is disqualified he is liable to prosecution."

Col. Lennox agreed to argue on the question of disqualification first at the suggestion of Chief Justice Sir William Mulock.

Counsel then read some evidence of Mr. Tolton, of the Progressive Association, which stated that he asked J. G. Anderson, the candidate who retired, if "he was willing to withdraw if he got $1,000 towards his election expenses.

No Itemized Accounts.

Continuing reading the evidence of Mr. Tolton, Col. Lennox showed that no itemized account of Mr. Anderson's expenses had been asked for and also that the agreement to pay $1,000 was made before Anderson retired from the contest.

"McCallum didn't know when he came to Walkerton that Anderson was going to retire. All he was interested in was to get him out of the way," said Col. Lennox. "He was perfectly willing to leave it all to Tolton."

Col. Lennox claimed that the resolution passed at Chesley had nothing to do with the way the money was paid.

"If this was an ordinary case between a Liberal and Conservative there might be some consideration given," said Col. Lennox in answer

AIR MAIL SERVICE BEING CONSIDERED

Montreal-New York Line Proposed By United States' Officials.

OTTAWA, October 20 (Canadian Press).—A Montreal-New York air mail service has been proposed by the United States Post Office Department, it was learned here to-day. While the Canadian Post Office Department has done nothing yet, the matter has become the subject of negotiations which may lead to daily service between the two cities.

The Post Office Department regards as quite satisfactory the results of experiments with air mails from Father Point to Quebec.

DEMANDS FULL APOLOGY FROM CANON WEBSTER

Dean Inge Sends Letter Regarding Bullock-Webster's Action in Cathedral.

DENOUNCED BARNES.

Bishop of Birmingham Despatches Answer To Anglican Primate.

LONDON, Oct. 20 (A.P.).—"No man shall drive me to Tennessee or to Rome."

This striking declaration made yesterday in a long open letter to the Archbishop of Canterbury, Primate of all England, is the Bishop of Birmingham's answer to the sensational protest made by Canon G. R. Bullock-Webster last Sunday to the Bishop's presence in the pulpit of historic St. Paul's Cathedral, known to the British throughout the world as "the parish house of the Empire."

Dean Inge of St. Paul's Cathedral also figured in yesterday's developments in the latest flurry in the Church of England over the "Anglo-Catholic" question by sending a blunt letter to Canon Bullock-Webster demanding a full apology for the latter's "scandalous and disgraceful behavior in brawling in the Cathedral."

Canon Bullock-Webster created a scene in St. Paul's Sunday by denouncing the Right Rev. E. W. Barnes, Bishop of Birmingham, "for pouring contempt upon the doctrines and Sacraments of the Holy Catholic Church," just as the Bishop was about to deliver a sermon in the cathedral.

In an open letter to the Archbishop, Bishop Barnes, who is recognized as a scientist as well as a churchman, reaffirms his modernist conceptions of the relation of Science to religion, with which he has stirred up much controversy in England in recent years, and he invites the Primate to consider steps to 'help those of us who are trying to fit the church to be the spiritual guide of an educated nation."

He reaffirms his belief in the ape-like ancestry of man and declares that intelligent men and women are being alienated from the Church of England, firstly by its reluctance to heed scientific teaching and, secondly, by the growth of erroneous Sacramental doctrines, such as transubstantiation.

On the question of man's origin, the Bishop's letter say:

"Though all competent biologists accept man's evolution from an ape-like stock, the theological consequences of such belief are still seldom stated. I set myself years ago to expound these consequences and to show why they did not seem to me to upset the main Christian position."

Reiterates Statement

On the question of Sacraments, which was the immediate cause of Canon Bullock-Webster's outburst in St. Paul's, Bishop Barnes in his letter, reiterated his statement that the doctrine of transubstantiaion is untrue.

"As every student of comparative religion knows," says the Bishop, "it has affinities with the magico-religious beliefs of a lower cultural level than that of our present civilization.

"No protest must hinder me as a Bishop and indeed as a Christian, from upholding religious truth. No man shall drive me to Tennessee or to Rome."

WINNIPEG WHEAT

WINNIPEG, Man., Oct. 20.—(Canadian Press.)— Following Tuesday's drastic decline the wheat market yesterday pursued an erratic course with early session buoyancy giving way to a belated wave of selling. Final quotations were ¼c. higher to 5-8c. lower.

Spreading operations were on a light scale, and while seaboard houses bought small lots from time to time export business was not on a broad scale. The early bulge was met by heavy selling on the part of elevator interests whose country receipts showed a big increase as a result of excellent threshing progress in the West

All the coarse grains experienced indifferent demand throughout the session.

Youthful Solo Dancer Instantly Killed In Fall From Twelfth Storey Window

NEW YORK, October 20 (Associated Press). — Jane Johnson, an 18-year-old solo dancer from Kansas City, was instantly killed yesterday in a fall from the window of her twelfth-storey room in the Hotel Claridge.

After talking with the girl's mother, Mrs. Ethel Johnson, who came here with the dancer three years ago to seek fame and fortune on the Great White Way, police officially listed the death as accidental.

Miss Johnson's father, Earl Johnson, of Kansas City, was notified of his daughter's death, and police were given to understand that the girl's body would be taken to her home city for burial.

Mrs. Johnson told police that the dancer had arisen but a few minutes before the fall, which occurred in mid-morning. She complained of dizziness, the mother said, and went to the open window for fresh air.

Then there was a flash of green silk pyjamas through the air, and the girl's last audience, persons attracted to the windows of buildings in the Times Square district by the sound of her fall, looked down upon the crumpled body on the sidewalk.

Trio Is Sentenced Counterfeit Swindle

VIENNA, October 20. — A bold attempt to defraud by the use of alleged counterfeit United States dollars was revealed yesterday when a trio of Russians and Austrians were sentenced to long terms of imprisonment on complaint of the United States legation.

On pretense that they could duplicate greenbacks by placing a blank white sheet between two genuine notes saturated with chemicals and placing over a spirit lamp, the counterfeiters induced several guileless Austrians to invest considerable sums in the enterprise.

The convicted men had already served jail terms in Berlin for a similar offence.

HEAVY FOGS PREVENT START GRAYSON PLANE

Weighing of Plane With Load Put Over Until To-day.

MAY HOP-OFF SUNDAY.

Have Two Weeks' Time Left Before Winter Cold Sets In.

OLD ORCHARD, Me., Oct. 20. — A northeast rainstorm with low-hanging fogs, which drenched Old Orchard throughout the day, forced the crew of the Sikersky plane the Dawn, to turn to pursuits other than aviation yesterday.

The mechanics found it impossible even to work on the plane, so cold and damp was everything that they touched. The weighing of the plane with its full load and the testing and correcting of the landing gear retraction were put over until to-day.

Mrs. Frances W. Grayson and others of her party drove to Sanford, about 25 miles west of here, for luncheon with the Kiwanis Club at noon. The afternoon was spent in shopping in Biddiford and Portland, while those who remained at the hotel clung close to the warmth of the fireplace. Last night the party attended special services at the Congregational church in Saco.

With apparently no probability of the weather becoming favorable to a second start before Saturday or Sunday, there was much speculation as to the time limit within which a flight might be attempted.

Two Weeks Left.

Brice Goldsborough, navigator, to whom Mrs. Grayson referred questioners, said that the averages over several years showed that there remains about two weeks before winter cold over the Atlantic would force a postponement until spring. A development one way or the other is expected before that time, however, No decision as to the future program of the flight, other than that previously announced, is expected before the end of this week.

An evidence that Mrs. Grayson's intention is to go through with her program despite the rumors that a postponement was imminent, was seen last night in the announcement that 600 gallons of special gasoline had been started from New York for Orchard by truck.

Refill Gas Tanks.

This gasoline is to refill the two tanks emptied in the forced lightening of the ship on its attempted start Monday and to replace another tank which had been filled with another type of gasoline.

Asked if the cost of the expedition might determine how long it could remain afield, Mrs. Grayson said: "You can forget that."

"It is true that it has cost probably more than $60,000 and that I am paying hotel bills and other charges for ten persons here. Mrs. Aage Anker put up a definite sum of money, so that I am paying the bills now. I am not a rich woman but finances are not a factor in the flight's programme now."

Mrs. Anker is in Copenhagen. She also has a residence in Aiken.

Delayed By Weather.

BUENOS AIRES, Oct. 20 (Associated Press).—Eager to complete their great flight from Paris to Buenos Aires, the French aviators, Dieudonne Costes and Lieut. Joseph Lebrix, took off from Rio Janeiro at 5.27 yesterday morning for the Argentine capital. But they were halted on the way by unfavorable weather.

A message received by the French Embassy from the Consul at Rio Grande De Sul, reported that the Frenchmen were forced to land at Pelotas, Brazil. They had flown a distance of something more than 800 miles from Rio, and had about 400 miles to go.

Their plane, Nungesser-Coli, was reported at Florianapolis at 1.10 o'clock in the afternoon. This city is on the Brazilian coast, 500 miles south of Rio Janeiro. A private wireless message from Florianapolis indicated that Costes considered it too difficult a task to reach Buenos Aires yesterday owing to stormy weather, and it was added that he would probably land somewhere en route.

NORWOOD TAG DAY.

Annual Appeal Being Made Tomorrow For Children's Aid Society.

The Norwood annual tag day will be held on Saturday, October 22nd. This is the day in which everyone remembers the children at the Shelter in Peterborough. These children are less fortunate than yours, coming as they do from homes that are desolate, dirty, and very often immoral, where there is no attempt made to teach the children the difference between right and wrong. Very often they have never learned to pray, and do not know what the Bible is.

These children are taken into our Shelter and taught all these things. They are prepared to go out in the world with a better idea of what a home should be. They are sent to Sunday school and church, are taught to be clean, not only in body but in soul. They learn about a Saviour Who loves little children.

These are the kind of children the ladies of Norwood are trying to help. These ladies are interested in the neglected child. Your help is asked for. Will you help them to make this a success?

Havelock and Lakefield did splendidly last Saturday.

Norwood can do equally as well. Please do your best.

Rome was surprised recently when it became known that an aged Cardinal has asked for leave to retire, as it was the first instance in more than a century that such an event as the relinquishment of a Red Hat had occurred.

HEAD MERGER.

Announcement was made this week of an amalgamation of several of the oldest and largest sheet metal plants in Canada. The name of the combine is General Steel Wares Limited. The men here shown are: Frederick S. Corrigan, vice-president and general manager of the new merger; John C. Newman, president; and William S. Gibson, vice-president, in charge of sales. United Church Not Supporting Klan

SASKATOON, Sask., Oct. 20.—(Canadian Press.)— Alleging that organizers of the Ku Klux Klan are falsely stating that the organization has the support of the United Church of Canada and that the Klan is opposed to the principles of Christianity, the Presbytery of Saskatoon yesterday unanimously endorsed a motion stating that the church is not giving its support in any way to the Klan and expressing the view that as the teachings of the plan are opposed to the teaching of Jesus, it could not be supported by the church.

Rev. J. A. Donnell introduced the subject of the Klans' activities, stating that he looked upon that body as essentially vicious, non-Christian, non-Protestant and non-British. Others approved his words.

ALBERTA CROPS SETTING RECORD

Never Threshed Such Uniformly High Crops as This Season.

LETHBRIDGE, Alta., October 20 (Canadian Press). — Southern Alberta crops are setting up new records for high yields. Never has this section threshed such uniformly high crops as this season. A record came in yesterday from the Barons district when on a field of 240 acres, G. J. Erdman threshed an average of 64 bushels. Considering the size of the field, this is an amazing return. On Tuesday there was marketed in the Lethbridge district from the production area 760,000 bushels of wheat.

Bright and warm weather prevails and harvesting is proceeding rapidly.

Tooth Brushes Are Germ Laden

Yale Professor Finds Millions of Germs on Some Tooth Brushes.

Prof. Winslow of Yale was asked by the New Haven Health Department to investigate tooth brushes. He and his staff examined twenty-four tooth brushes under the microscope and found from hundreds of thousands to millions of the most deadly disease germs on some of the tooth brushes.

This seems to prove the necessity of using an antiseptic mouth wash such as Dr. Chase's, not only as a protection for the teeth, but also as a preventive of serious germ diseases.

Carroll Will Return to Bright Lights To-Day After Four Months In Prison

ATLANTA, Ga., October 20 (Associated Press). — Earl Carroll will start his return to the bright lights of Broadway to-day after more than four months in the Atlanta Federal Penitentiary.

And that gay thoroughfare will find him a heavier, stronger man than it formerly knew, in the opinion of Dr. Charles T. Nellans, the prison physician, who has watched his condition carefully since the New York theatrical producer entered the prison to begin serving his term of a year and a day.

Physically he has been benefited considerably by his stay in the Penitentiary, and when he walks through the gates a free man, he will carry some 25 or 30 pounds additional weight, Dr. Nellans said.

"Carroll is a healthy man physically," he added.. "We cannot say, of course, to what extent his mental strain has affected him."

Last night Carroll's signature to the papers authorizing his release on parole was the only formality between him and liberty. These papers were expected from Washington during the evening, and arrangements were made to liberate him before noon to-day.

OBITUARY

CHARLES E HOSKINS.

CAMPBELLFORD, Oct. 20.— The funeral service for the late Charles E. Hoskins took place at two-thirty yesterday afternoon in the Baptist church, of which the deceased had been a life-long member. The Rev. L. M. Smith, minister of the church, spoke very appropriately on the matter of death and all the mystery which is invariably associated with it. From passages of Scripture, he showed clearly that death had no sting, nor the grave any horror. His words were very consoling to the bereaved. After the brief message, Mrs. L. M. Smith sang 'Saved By Grace,' a one-time favorite sacred song of the deceased. The interment was at Mount Pleasant cemetery, Mr. Smith officiating at the grave.

The pallbearers were all old acquaintances of the late Mr. Hoskins. They were Messrs. Wesley Sweet, William Blake, John Arnold, William Plowman, Fred Weston and John Hall.

The family was represented by the widow of the deceased, their son, Harry of Cleveland, and their daughter, Mrs. Kirby of Sault Ste. Marie, Ont. The floral tributes were very beautiful, including a wreath from the Cleveland Folding Machine Co., Cleveland, Ohio, with which Harry Hoskins, the son, is associated.

Monsignor McColl has sold several fine cows to local dairymen during the past two weeks, including J. J. Clancy and Leonard J. Clancy, of Otonabee, Fred W. O'Brien of Peterborough, and John F. Condon of Warsaw.

CALM PREVAILS STRIKE DISTRICT

Strikers Warned Against Illegal Activities To Enforce Their Ends.

NORTH AT STANDSTILL.

DENVER, Colo., Oct. 20 (A.P.).—Coal miners in Colorado yesterday peaceably continue their strike for higher wages and shorter hours while the State took steps to warn them against illegal activities to enforce their demands.

Conflicting claims of success came from both the operators and the Industrial Workers of the World who fostered the walkout. The I.W.W. claimed the strike was gaining momentum and that additional men would join approximately 4,000 who left their jobs Tuesday. Operators reported more men were at work than Tuesday in the southern fields.

Meanwhile, Thomas Annear, chairman of the Colorado Industrial Commission announced at Walsenburg that he would leave for the northern fields to insist that the strikers obey the law against picketting. Annear said he would attempt to show the men their walkout was illegal, and to persuade them to return to work.

The Industrial Commission contends the 30-day notice of strikes, required by the State law, was not given by miners in the northern fields. A notice was filed in the southern fields but the Commission held its form was illegal, because it was filed by the I.W.W. instead of the workers.

In the northern lignite fields mining operations were at a standstill, with virtually every miner in the district heeding the I.W.W. call.

Calm prevailed in the strike territory.

A family consisting of father, mother, and nine small children were found living in London in one room, where a chest of drawers furnished the bedroom for the youngsters, the parents, at night time putting the children into the drawers, which were arranged around the bed.

FRIDAY, OCTOBER 21, 1927.

THE EXAMINER'S HALLOWE'EN PARTY.

Of course by this time you know that you are all invited to The Examiner's second Hallowe'en party.

The first community celebration of Hallowe'en last year was a huge success, despite the inclement weather, and was voted by the thousands who participated as one of the most enjoyable events in the city's history.

This year The Examiner hopes that the citizens of Peterborough and the surrounding district will, in even larger numbers, take part in the Hallowe'en parade and other festivities.

The more people in costume the better; and incidentally the masqueraders get the cream of the evening's fun, so that wise citizens, young and old, are already planing the details of their Hallowe'en garb.

The Examiner is again assured of the co-operation of efficient citizens' committees and there is every reason to expect that Hallowe'en, Monday, Oct. 31, will long be remembered in Peterborough.

MORE TRAFFIC OFFICERS NEEDED.

Within the last few weeks three Ontario highway traffic officers have been killed in traffic accidents.

That record is indicative of conditions on Ontario's highways and it suggests that a larger staff of traffic officers is required.

The present officers as a rule have a longer section of highway to patrol than they can possibly be expected to look after efficiently, certainly not without a great deal of fast driving during the course of which they are risking their lives.

Even on shorter beats, the conduct of speeding motorists would necessitate bursts of speed on the part of the motorcycle officers and there is sufficient peril in such chases without requiring the officials to patrol a hundred miles of highway.

The force should be increased sufficiently to permit of more reasonable beats for the men entrusted with the duty of enforcing the traffic regulations.

Their work is sufficiently hazardous under the best of conditions without the danger being increased by calling upon them to cover to much territory.

THE A.Y.P.A. CONVENTION.

Citizens of Peterborough are happy today to welcome the delegates to the Dominion Conference of the Anglican Young People's Association.

These representatives of a very important department in the work of their church come from many centres in Canada and are assembled here to get the benefit of an exchange of ideas and plans that will tend to make their respective organizations more efficient.

While that is, of course, the main object of their visit to Peterborough, The Examiner hopes that they will have a little time at least to see something of the city in which they are meeting, and that they will leave here at the conclusion of their conference impressed with what Peterborough has to offer and taking home with them reports of a cordial welcome and warm hospitality.

We like to feel that our visitors, whether they come as these young men and women do, as delegates to a convention on their own account, are given a chance to see the best features of this city.

There is much to interest the stranger in our midst and we are always glad to think that our guests have not missed those things that we regard as important.

THE OLD GUARD PASSES.

The sickle of death has been busily employed in Peterborough, and within the space of a single night three of the city's most widely known and honored citizens have passed over to the other side.

The death of such men as ex-Mayor George Duncan, Joshua D. Collins and D. J. Lundy involves a heavy loss in citizenship.

These old residents were veritable landmarks in the city's history; their names indeed as familiar in the community in which they had lived so long, as are those of Peterborough's principal streets.

Mr. Collins had resided here since 1857; ex-Mayor Duncan and Mr. Lundy were born in Peterborough.

They had seen Peterborough grow from a small town to its present status as a prosperous and flourishing city and toward that growth all three had contributed in their own spheres, and in various ways.

So far as municipal service was concerned Mr. Duncan had been the most prominent, his record of achievement on behalf of his fellow-citizens including long service as a member of the City Council, with two terms as Mayor, a short period of membership in the Utilities Commission and a successful chairmanship of the Board of Health.

Mr. Collins also served as a member of the City Council for one year and for many years was a capable member of the Central Charity Board.

Mr. Lundy never sought municipal honors but also displayed a keen interest in civic affairs.

The passing of three such well-known and highly esteemed citizens has saddened the community; among older residents particularly the sense of a heavy personal loss is acute.

PATRIOTISM AND THE SCHOOLS.

At first glance readers of the elder generation may have felt an inclination to quarrel with Principal T. W. McLean's presidential address at the Teachers' Institute Convention in Port Perry on Friday. Mr. McLean's subject was patriotism, and he stressed the importance of that subject's being taught and well taught in the schools.

A generation ago even it was believed by most that patriotism, like religion, was largely a product of home growth. But the late swift years which brought man's first universal test of patriotism in the years 1914-18 have demonstrated, though perhaps with a different meaning, that Edith Cavell was right in saying that "Patriotism is not enough." That is to say, the old patriotism which, too often, was merely selfishness given a parade head-dress and armed with extraordinary jurisdiction.

The schools, without sensing it clearly perhaps, are already warning the earth that the day of tribal wars is past. No modern nation will ever again take up the gauge of battle on the same terms that the British Empire entered the Great War on August 4, 1914. That is to say, the epoch of the volunteer has ended. War will henceforth mean to nations what it did to city states of the ancient world. From oldest to youngest, from the richest and most powerful to the poorest and most abject, everyone will be engaged in one way or another.

To meet this new conditions is truly the tasks of the schools. To prevent, if possible, the recurrence of conflict knowing to what unimagined horrors such a step would lead. But if, as of old, this nation, this Empire, or this civilization should find itself beleagurated by unparleying hatred, then it must be ready to fight with what despenate unanimity which history shows has never lost except when the spirit of it was evoked too late.

Carthage was utterly disarmed by Rome before the order came for its destruction. The Carthaginians, who were not patriots, accepted that edict for disarmament in the self-deceiving hope that Rome meant well. But when realization came, that unarmed city closed its gates and kept fate itself at bay for months. The women of the city gave their hair to make ropes for war machines; the gutter pipes of the city, the metal which adorned or made their worshipped images, was melted and recast to make weapons of war.

But unity came too late. If the same spirit had animated the Carthaginians a year earlier, archaeologists to-day might be delving in the ruins of a forgotten village that would have been believed to have borne the name of Rome.—Oshawa Reformer.

OCTOBER DAYS.

What is so rare as a day in June? Only, perhaps, one of these glorious days of an Ottawa autumn. Various months in the year are extolled in song and story, but is there any more worthy of praise than wonderful October? It is the lovable month, the kindly, sweetly sad month, melancholy yet gracious and companionable as an old friend. Other seasons have their charms. There is beauty in the bellow of winter's blast; there is grandeur in the growling of the gale. And summer has a witchery all its own. But autumn has an appeal more enchanting, more satisfying than both. There are some who see only sadness in it. Listen, for example, to ARCHIBALD LAMPMAN, in "October":

"As slowly earthward leaf by red leaf slips,
The sad trees rustle in chill misery,
A soft stranger inner sound of pain-crazed lips,
That move and murmur incoherently;
As if all leaves, that yet have breath, were sighing,
With pale and hushed throats, for death is at the door.
So many low soft masses for the dying
Sweet leaves that live no more."

But there is joy and laughter in October, too. It is wonderful to motor or to walk in the country, where nature's mysterious paint brush has touched all growing things with its marvellous tints. And when the day is done, and the yearning is for peace, what better than to sit by the fire with book and slippers, knowing that the chill of frost is outside?

It may be that there is something in human nature that hankers after extremes. It thrills to the excitiment of weather either very hot or very cold. It responds to the goodness of a St. Francis, and to the badness of such thorough-going scoundrels as history or fiction can present. It must love or hate. Its white must be dead white; its black must show no sign of brown or grey. And so autumn, between extremes of winter and summer, is often held to be luke-warm, half-and-half. And yet, to those of us who have left some years behind, for whom the call of adventure is not what it was in other days, October is a priceless month. Perhaps that sense of yearning that it brings is because it is the beginning of that winter, chill and cold, that is too near ahead for many of us, and which does not always have its December roses. But anyway, whether it be that, or some mysterious something else, some indefinable magic added to other visible charms, we love these days in October.—Ottawa Journal.

MONTREAL GRAIN AND PRODUCE

MONTREAL, Oct. 20 (Canadian Press).—The foreign demand for grain here yesterday was quieter and only a moderate amount of business was accomplished. There was an improved demand for ocean grain room here and all the Continental freight was removed from the market with final engagements of heavy grain to Rotterdam at 11 cents per hundred pounds.

The inquiry from New York exporters for No. 1 and No. 2 Northern wheat here was good, but as the offerings were practically nil, no business resulted. There was a fair demand from local exporters for No. 3 Northern, and a moderate trade was done at 4¼c to 5c per bushel over the Winnipeg October option, c.i.f. Montreal, and sales of some fair-sized lots of No. 4 Canadian Western barley were made to New York at 10 cents per bushel over the Winnipeg October option, and Tough No. 4 grade at 9½c per bushel over the same option, c.i.f. Montreal.

There was no further change in the domestic market for coarse grains prices being steady with a limited demand.

Prices for all grades of Spring and Winter wheat flour were well maintained under a moderate inquiry.

The trade in most lines of millfeed continued fairly active and the undertone was firm. There was a fair demand for standard grades of rolled oats and values were unchanged.

A fair amount of business was done in eggs and prices were firm. The receipts were 2,127 cases.

The undertone to the market for potatoes was steady with a fair trade passing. Sales of car lots of New Brunswick Green Mountains were made at $1.35 per bag; Cobblers at $1.30, and Quebec White stock at $1.25 to $1.35 per bag of 90 pounds, ex-track.

The butter market was without any new feature to note, the demand being still of a very limited character and prices were unchanged. The receipts were 491 packages.

Owing to the indifferent demand from English importers for cheese and the fact that there was also a lull in the buying power for United States account, trading in cheese was extremely quiet yesterday and the undertone was easier. The receipts were 3,783 boxes.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, Oct. 20 (Canadian Press).—All grain, especially corn, scored a substantial recovery yesterday from a general break yesterday morning to the lowest prices yet this season. Apparently the entire grain list became oversold early, and left an opening for profit taking on a big scale by traders who were in a position to collect. Ideal weather for threshing of wheat and for curing of corn had much to do with the excessive selling.

Corn prices closed firm, ⅛ to ½ to ¾c net higher; with wheat steady at ⅝ to ⅞c net decline; oats unchanged to ⅝ up, and provisions varying from 2 cents decline to a rise of 17c.

Wheat bears were aggressive not only on account of improved conditions for Canadian threshing, but also because of a decided increase of the interior movement of wheat in the western provinces, a circumstance which more than counterbalanced relative strengt hof Liverpool quotations and the fact that the Liverpool market was at a full shipping difference compared with Chicago.

Special notice was taken of announcement that Canadian farmers delivered 4,293,000 bushel of wheat Tuesday against 4,408,000 bushels a year ago. This was the first time in several weeks that any increase was shown, and was deemed significant that not unlikely the long-talked-of avalanche of Canadian wheat was impending at last. Virtual completion of domestic winter wheat seeding west of the Mississippi River was also noted and carly seeded grains were officially reported as making good progress in all sections.

Corn developed strength largely on the basis that the December delivery of corn was off about 37 cents a bushel from recent top prices. Charters were made for 125,000 bushels of corn to Buffalo. About 100,000 bushels of corn was booked to arrive here, principally old corn. Oats broke with other grain, but rallied later.

Provisions were easier.

PROSECUTION UNFOLD EVIDENCE AGAINST SINCLAIR AND FALL IN TEAPOT DOME OIL SCANDAL

Special Counsel Takes Up Case of Fraud Against U. S. Government.

LEASES SHOWN.

Witness Tells Court Fall Personally Negotiated With Sinclair.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 20 (Associated Press).—With bold strokes which the defence frequently sought to stay, special oil counsel began unfolding yesterday the story of the leasing of the Teapot Dome naval reserve on which they will ask a jury in the District of Columbia Supreme Court to find Albert B. Fall and Harry F. Sinclair guilty of conspiracy to defraud the Government.

Before presentation of direct evidence began, Martin W. Littleton concluded his preliminary statement for the defence in which he promised that there would be no evidence to show that Sinclair ever had any connection with any of the $200,500 in liberty bonds which reached Fall or his relatives—a transaction which forms a high point in the Government case.

Soon after Littleton had concluded his at times dramatic address to the two women and ten men jurors, the Government put on the stand one of its most important witnesses, Edward G. Finney, first assistant secretary of the interior under Fall, and still holding that job. Previously it had placed in evidence the leases and contracts affecting Teapot Dome.

From Finney, Owen J. Roberts, for the Government, elicited the direct statement that Fall took out of the hands of his associates in the interior department the handling of the Teapot Dome reserve and personally conducted the negotiations with Sinclair for its lease.

Imposed Silence.

Moreover, Finney said Fall had imposed silence upon his associates concerning the lease which lay locked in his desk for days while Senators and others vainly sought information as to whether a lease had been executed or whether there was intention to execute one.

Relying frequently upon documentary evidence, which Finney identified, the Government showed that in leasing Teapot Dome to Sinclair without public notice and competitive bidding, Fall departed from a practice obtaining both as to wells leased in the naval oil reserves in California and the public oil lands in the Salt Creek field of Wyoming adjacent to Teapot Dome.

Sinclair's lease called for royalties on extracted oil ranging from 12½ per cent. to 50 per cent., whereas the evidence was that the royalties fixed by the Government on the Salt Creek field lands was from 25 per cent. to 33 1-3 per cent. plus a cash bonus for the leases themselves.

"Exultant" Letter.

One bit of evidence presented by the Government was what Associate Justice Butler recently described in the Supreme Court decision returning Teapot Dome to the Government as the "exultant" letter of Fall to Edward L. Doheny that the interior secretary had obtained complete control of the naval reserves and would handle them without consulting navy officials except possibly on questions of policy.

Another letter offered by the Government was written to Edwin Denby, naval secreary, by Fall in July, 1921, suggesting the exchange of navy royalty crude oil for fuel oil and storage. Denby replied, approving this plan. The defence had contended that this suggestion came from Captain John K. Robinson, naval officer, who conferred with Fall about the oil reserves.

In connection with this exchange, Finney testified that he had informed Fall that counsel for the Standard Oil Company of California had declined to bid on leases on an oil exchange basis, on the ground that such an exchange was illegal.

GUN IN TREE.

Thought Placed There By Indians as Sacrifice to War God.

PAYNTON, Sask., Oct. 20 (By The Canadian Press).—An ancient muzzle-loader gun, believed to be a relic of Indian inter-tribal wars, was found recently by a woodcutter on a farm near here. It was fastened to the upper limb of a large tree, with the steel trigger-guard firmly embedded in the wood.

Local Indians believe the gun was placed in the tree forty years ago, possibly, as was the custom of the redmen, an offering to the war-god to ensure success battle. On the stock is engraved the Roman numeral X, which is interpreted by Indians here to mean that the owner of the gun believed his death to be imminent.

The wooden stock and the ramrod, which is also of wood, are bleached. A piece of cotton rag, in a remarkable state of preservation, was tied to the trigger-ring.

Wheat and Corn Prices Continue Downward

CHICAGO, October 20 (Canadian Press). — Fresh downturns in prices for wheat and corn resulted early today from continued fine weather both over the spring wheat territory and throughout the corn belt. Predictions were current that the rural marketings of wheat in Canada would soon reach 5,000,000 bushels daily. Starting at ¼c to ⅝c decline, wheat held near to the initial figures. Corn opened unchanged to ⅛c off, and later receded all around. Oats were easy. Provisions tended down grade.

Grain prices were:

Wheat, December, 126¼, March 129⅜. Corn, December 84½, March 88¼. Oats, December 46, March 48⅛.

Mine Trade Slackens; Unlisted Shares Gain

TORONTO, Oct. 20. — (Canadian Press.)—With transactions barely over the million shares, trading on the stock and mining exchange had eased considerably from the high marks of the last few days. Nipissing caused an early flutter, opening at 775, a gain of twenty-five over last night's closing price, but it fell again to 735, a net loss of 15. In the unlisted stocks, Howey Gold, gaining 8¼ at 108, and Jackson Manion, gaining 6½ at 63½, were the leaders. Tough Oakes at 61 and Laval Quebec at 41 had each advanced a full point. Bidgood at 89 was up four and Argonaut Con at 42½ and Area at 59, were each one point up. Amulet gained 12 to 557.

Maple Leaf Features Toronto Market Today

TORONTO, Oct. 20. — Canadian Press. — Maple Leaf, gaining another 4½ on its continued rise to 110½, was featured on the Toronto stock exchange this morning. Walkers, at 57½ and Gooderham and Worts at 58¼ each, advanced a full point. Goodyear was up 2 at 120, and Canadian Oil 1 3-8 at 33½. British American Oil was firm at 33, and Imperial up ¼ at 60. Northern Bakeries and Imperial Tobacco each eased 1-8 at 41 7-8 and 9 respectively. Seagram's in active trading also lost the same fraction at 20. Canada Malting was up 3-8 at 32 5-8. Page, Hersey, Massey-Harris and Loblaw eased fractionally.

Down Trend Continues Despite Cheaper Money

NEW YORK, October 20 (Canadian Press). — Reactionary price tendency continued to predominate in to-day's stock market despite the repeated efforts of pools and others to rally the general list. Declines in many of the popular industrial and railroad shares ran from one to three points, with a few high-priced specialties selling off as much as four to nine points. Bearish sentiment was attributed to a number of things, including the disappointing character of many lines of fall business, the fear of Ford competition in the motor industry, and the unfavourable nature of some of the September railroad earnings reports now being published. Reduction in the call money rate to 3½ per cent., with concessions below that figure reported in the "outside market," was disregarded, at least temporarily, as a market factor.

ROBBERS LOOT TORONTO BANK

Take More Than $5,000 From Teller's Cage This Morning.

ESCAPE IN CAR.

TORONTO, October 20 (Canadian Press).—Armed bandits to-day ordered the staff of a branch of the Bank of Nova Scotia at Dundas Street and Ossington Avenue into the washroom and took $6,900 from the teller's cage. They made their escape in a motor car which had been waiting with a confederate at the wheel. The robbers entered the bank shortly after the opening but failed in their efforts to open the vault. They then seized all the available money in the teller's cage.

In the rush to get away the bandits overlooked $8,000 which was in the teller's cage.

When the bandits entered the bank they shouted "Stick them up." They forced A. J. Anderson, the manager, Charles J. Roblin, the teller, and Andrew Johnston, the accountant, into the vault.

As the robbers drove away they were pursued by a west end doctor who was driving with his wife and daughter. The cars reached a speed of fifty miles an hour, it was estimated, and finally the bandits, seeing they were being pursued hard, stopped their car at the corner of Dewson Street and Roxton Road. There one of the bandits got out of the machine and, revolver in hand, coolly walked to the doctor's car and threatened him with death if he attempted to follow further. In view of the fact that he had his wife and daughter as passengers, the doctor turned his car around and the bandits sped away in a westerly direction, where they disappeared, outdistancing other cars who had taken up the chase.

BEGINS INQUIRY INTO CHARGES

Legal Investigator Plans To Take Evidence of Windsor Court Officials.

IN MAGISTRATE'S CASE.

WINDSOR, Oct. 20.—Special investigator I. E. Humphries, of Toronto, sent here by the Attorney-General's Department to inquire into charges that Police Magistrate William E. Gundy has shown too much tolerance toward convicted bootleggers and gamblers, began work yesterday. He expects to summon the various court officers and others before him in an effort to get at the facts, he said. The inquiry is to be a thorough one, said Humphries, who expects to be here for some time.

The official, however, will take no hand in the charges now pending against Daniel Thompson, suspended police chief, whose dismissal has been asked by the City Council in a recommendation to the Police Commissioners.

Interesting! A Letter from Mrs. H. Peyton, Peterboro

"I am so happy for now wash day never bothers me. No more exhaustion. No more backaches from washboard rubbing. No more red, swollen hands. Rinso makes my week's wash whiter than ever. All I do is soak my clothes in Rinso suds overnight. In the morning all the dirt is soaked out so that all I need to do is just rinse them. Even the most soiled spots need only a few rubs to make them nice and white."

MRS. H. PEYTON,
67 Lansdowne,
Peterborough, Ont.

You can't rub clothes as white as this soap soaks them

The new way is easy. No weary toil over the washboard—no more hard rubbing.

Just soak—rinse—and your week's wash is whiter than you've ever seen it! And out on the line hours earlier.

Do you wonder that millions of women now let Rinso do the hardest part of washing for them?

Use Rinso next wash. You need no other soap or chips—or water softener. Rinso softens the hardest water.

Rinso alone, does the work

Nothing else is needed on washday but Rinso. No bar soaps, no chips or powders; for Rinso is rich, gentle soap—granulated.

It contains no acids, harsh chemicals or bleaches. Is easy on the hands and safe for the clothes.

Even if the water is hard, Rinso makes thick lasting suds.

Soak the wash in these creamy suds . . . . and the dirt and stains quickly loosen and float off in the water.

Clothes last longer, for they aren't rubbed threadbare against the washboard. Try Rinso next washday and say goodbye to all hard rubbing.

Your grocer will supply you. He has many customers for Rinso.

Splendid for Washing Machines

Rinso works wonders in washing machines. The clothes are washed quicker and whiter. An hour or so and a whole week's washing is finished.

BLOOD AND ALE FOUND IN BOAT

Police Think Man Found Injured Has Connection With Craft.

SUSPECT HI-JACKERS.

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., Oct. 20.—Discovery of a rowboat in which was a pool of blood as well as forty-four dozen bottles of Canadian ale, not purchased under permit, is being investigated by the Provincial Police. They are seeking to discover what connection there is between this discovery and the story of a man picked up in Buffalo yesterday that he was assailed near Fort Erie and placed aboard the ferry boat, later to be picked up by the Buffalo police.

Preventive Customs officers yesterday say the boat drifted into the Canadian side. The Provincial Police were notified and started an investigation, but were unable to discover anyone who had seen or heard any quarrel on the river, and it was believed that the boat had drifted across Fort Erie.

William Goff, twenty-one, of Buffalo, was found near the American dock of the ferry yesterday, with severe cuts on his head and face. He told the police that he had been attacked near Fort Erie by two unknown men and placed aboard the ferry. He was weak from loss of blood and could not give a detailed statement. The police believe that Goff was attacked by hijackers and his boat stolen. He was dressed in river garb, with hip-boots, leather jacket and oilskins. He will be questioned to greater length when his condition permits.

BIG PIANO DEAL RECENTLY MADE

Heintzman Merger Involves the Transfer of Eleven Hundred Pianos.

CARLOAD SENT HERE.

The largest piano deal in the history of Canada was consummated recently by the Olde Firme Heintzman & Co. This firm purchased the Gerhard Heintzman Company's entire plant, the transaction involving the stock on hand in the factory, in addition to instruments in the possession of the company's agents, in various parts of Canada.

Stupendous as it may seem, the first consignment delivered to Ye Olde Firme Heintzman & Co. numbered eleven hundred pianos, constituting a new record in the piano world for Canada.

As a result of this transaction, the piano buying public will be in a position to purchase these high-grade instruments at practically wholesale prices while the stock lasts.

This stock has been distributed throughout the Dominion, and the Peterborough branch has been fortunate in securing a car load for Peterborough.

Special prices on these high-grade instruments will only be in force for a short period. Discriminating piano buyers will do well to visit Ye Olde Firme Heintzman & Co. piano warerooms on Hunter Street, where these pianos are on display.

Ye Olde Firme Heintzman & Co.'s unconditional guarantee applies to every instrument. The advertisement appearing elsewhere in this issue will give the public some idea of the remarkable cut in the catalogue prices.

BETTER SYSTEM FOR HOSPITALS

Head of Association Urges a Change in Payment For Poor.

ANNUAL MEETING.

LONDON, Ont., Oct. 20.— (Canadian Press.)—A more commensurate system of payment for those caring for and conducting the treatment of poor people who are sick was urged by Major A. C. Galbraith of Toronto, Acting President of the Ontario Hospital Association, speaking at the Association's annual meeting to-day.

Major Galbraith suggested that the hospitals should more logically function under the "broader departments of health or education" than under the Department of Prisons and Charities, as at present."

The convention heard the report of the Executive and Nominating committees as well as various other addresses and discussions on the work of hospitals. A complimentary luncheon was tendered by James McCormick, Acting Mayor of London.

Reports presented to-day indicated an expenditure of nearly ten million dollars last year by the Association's Hospitals, in caring for 172,000 patients.

CHURCH POOR BOXES ROBBED

Public Library Is Also Visited By Petty Thieves at Barrie.

SMALL SUMS TAKEN.

BARRIE, Oct. 20.—Two money boxes in St. Mary's Catholic Church and the Public Library were robbed here during the last few days. Small amounts of money were taken in each case, and the police believe all three to be "local jobs."

It has been found that the St. Vincent de Paul Society's poor-box at St. Mary's Church had been cleaned out by some contemptible culprit, also the box which is used for the deposit of donations for candles and upkeep of the altar. It is not known how much these boxes contained, but the amount is thought to be in the neighborhood of five dollars.

The church is locked at 9 p.m., and there is no evidence of an entrance having been forced at any point in the church. It is believed the robbing was committed during the day or early evening of Friday.

When the Public Library was opened as usual an assistant librarian, Margaret Blackstock, found that the padlock on the cash drawer had been smashed and some of the cash, between four and five dollars, taken. A five-dollar bill in the drawer was overlooked. The police have a pair of scissors with which the drawer was forced. The theory is that the thief hid in the building just before closing time at 9 o'clock, making his escape later.

Dust from volcanic eruptions has been known to travel 500 miles through the air.

Lyrics Of Life

(By Douglas Malloch.)

A HAPPY HOUSE

How happy any house could be
That had a happy family—
A house that had the sort of folk
Who spoke with kindness when they spoke,
Or, if unkindness they recall,
Think twice before they speak at all.

And what a happy house the one
Where all came home when day was done
To tell the pleasant things today
They heard and saw at work and play,
And not come home their hurts to shout,
With something to complain about.

How happy any house would seem,
The kind of house that mothers dream,
Where each would do his proper part,
And do it with a willing heart,
And not expect just one or two
To wait on them, like some folk do.

How happy any house would grow
If those within would make it so,
Not envy others, but be glad
For ev'rything their own house had.
How happy any house could be—
And, more than that, how easily.

HASTINGS PEOPLE CELEBRATE OPENING

Warden Elliott.

Warden Elliott, of Northumberland and Durham Counties, spoke very highly of the effort which Dr. Hess had put forward during the past three years in order to get paved streets in Hastings. Mr. Elliott said that he had always been in favour of paving in the northern sections of the county since the cost of paving the provincial highway along the lake front had been shared by the people of this section and they used the highway less than anyone. In his opinion the village of Hastings had exercised considerable foresight in the achievement and he wished to compliment them on their success.

M. E. Maybee, M.P.

Mr. Maybee expressed his pleasure at being able to address such a large gathering when there was not the request for their support at the polls to be made. He was pleased that it was more of a social gathering. He congratulated the Reeve and citizens on their accomplishment, and said that he knew from experience that to approach the County Council for such a thing as a grant for several thousand dollars required considerable nerve and assurance. He felt sure that the pavement will be a decided advantage to the village...

Hastings, one of the leading villages in the banner county of the Province, was a very historic place, situated on a historic waterway on which Champlain was the first white voyager. The town as it stands today had many valuable assets. Transportation by both rail and water, water power, and electricity. While Hastings is already a tourist centre, it ought soon to be an industrial centre as well. The demands of the people for better highways should be met, he thought. It would be expensive, but a safe and sound investment, as well as a money saver as time passed. Mr. Maybee expressed his regret that Mr. Henry was not able to be present, but was pleased to see Mr. Grier on the platform. He congratulated him on his work on the roads, and mentioned that the superintendent was a master hand with experience gained over a long period of years.

Mr. Fellows.

Mr. Fellows, road engineer for the Government, emphasized a few of the remarks made by Mr. Maybee. He explained that though Dr. Hess had been continually and persistently rebuffed, he had finally succeeded in getting what he had set out to procure. The result was to be seen on the streets of Hastings, a pavement that they would be proud of for at least fifteen years. He assured the citizens that the paving would "stand up."

Mr. McArthur.

F. J. McArthur, of Cobourg, was the next to speak. He said that Hastings had always appealed to him as an open door to the ideal hunting and fishing grounds of the Province. Vividly describing a view of the village from the hill after dusk, he thought that Hastings people had not yet realized their full heritage, but that they had at least taken one step forward in the laying of the pavement. The Reeve and Council were to be congratulated, he said, on their achievement.

Mr. McArthur then recalled the experience he had had when on the Cobourg Town Council when the matter of street paving had been broached. On one occasion when all arrangements had been made to pass the necessary by-law, so many citizens had gathered in the Council Chamber to protest that a movement to adjourn was passed, and the matter dropped for a period of two years. When it was again brought up, it was passed without a dissenting voice.

Regarding the matter of spreading the payment for the roads over a period of twenty years, he believed that to be the proper manner. He thought it only proper that those who would use the roads twenty years from now should help pay their cost. The pavement will also advertise the village through the medium of tourists. They will tell their friends back in the United States of the village of Hastings with its ideal streets, and these people will not fail to visit the town.

As a mark of appreciation, he thought the citizens ought to return the Council by acclamation when their present term of office expired. The pavement, he said, was the town's greatest asset. He also regretted Mr. Henry's absence. He said he regretted many things, such as the rain which had almost spoiled the celebration, but in spite of all the regrets which anyone might entertain, Hastings had its paved streets.

Reeve Nelson.

Herbert Nelson, Reeve of Percy Township, also tendered his compliments to the village of Hastings. He had inspected the streets and found them highly satisfactory. This, he said, was at a cost of about one-half that of other forms used in paving roads in other sections of the country. He also wished to correct a statement which had appeared in the press some time ago, which stated that debentures to the extent of one hundred thousand dollars had been issued for paving purposes. He claimed that such an item had not even been discussed by the Council. They did, however, make a grant of twenty-five thousand dollars to Hastings, and of this the Government would pay half. Campbellford and Millbrook were entitled to similar grants. He did not care to discuss the situation relative to Norwood and Havelock, he said. In his statement regarding the payment by the Government, the Government engineer agreed with him.

Clerk Wilson

Alex. Wilson, thirty-seven years Clerk of the Village of Hastings, began by saying that he felt like a small fish in a big puddle, but he was nevertheless pleased with the complimentary remarks heard regarding the new paved streets. He believed that Hastings was the nicest town in Canada and was certain that they could easily pay for the streets. Reeve Hess had continued his efforts to get the pavement for several years and he believed that in a very few years, a town without its streets paved would be a relic of the Dark Ages.

Dr. Hess again addressed the meeting for the purpose of correcting some of the remarks regarding his opposition at the County Council. He said he had found none but gentlemen at the council meetings and they had been very willing to discuss matters with him. Their opposition at first was to be expected.

The meeting ended with the singing of the National Anthem.

The Banquet

Immediately the affair at the Town Hall was concluded, the speakers and principals repaired to the dining room of the Clarendon Hotel, where a complimentary banquet was tendered them by the Ontario Amiesite Paving Company of Toronto, who had done the work in the village. The banquet was a very gala affair, with turkey as the main item on the menu. After the diners had satisfied the inner man, Reeve Hess, as chairman, proposed the King. The toast was drunk in clear, cold water after the National Anthem had been sung.

Reeve Curtis

Reeve W. T. Curtis of Havelock was the first to speak. He, like many who followed, had not come prepared to speak. He had considered the invitation to be a very great compliment, but not not expected to take any active part in the proceedings. However, he congraulated the citizens of Hastings and those responsible for the exceptionally good pavement. He also remarked that the case of Havelock was somewhat different, they being nearer the trap rock quarry. This rock made exceptionally good roads.

Mr. Doughty

Mr. Doughty, editor of The Hastings Star, was the next speaker. He expressed his appreciation of the splendid banquet and good speeches he had heard. He extended his congratulations to the reeve and citizens and felt sure that they would all be pleased with the pavement.

Reeve Montgomery

W. H. Montgomery, Reeve of Norwood, also congratulated those responsible for the new streets. He hoped it would stand up and believed that it would. Norwood would probably follow suit next year. He also expressed his gratitude for the courtesy shown him in forwarding an invitation to him to be present.

Mr. Learmouth.

W. R. Learmouth, manager of the Royal Bank in Hastings, thought it the best way out to tell a story of an Indiana judge who lived for but two things, the upholding of the law and his respect for his son's fighting prowess. The two brought him to many a tight squeeze. He explained that he had motored over a considerable portion of the province and that nowhere did he see any finer roads. He congratulated the company on the excellent work they had done, said he believed it would mean greater business for the village. He also expressed his pleasure at receiving an invitation to be present.

Mr. Moulton.

A visitor from a distance was requested to speak, Mr. Moulton from Oxford county. His remarks were very humorous. He explained that he was interested in roads, as considerable paving was being done in his community this season. These were also of amiesite. He considered the oiling of the streets an ideal way to waste money as after it had been put on, little could be done by way of maintenance but put on more. It also seemed to have a tendency to make holes in the road. Pavement of a permanent nature was the right thing to do. He hoped to see the beginning which Hastings has made extend to great proportions.

T P. Lancaster.

T. P. Lancaster, a Hastings old boy, now resident in Havelock, was greatly pleased with the improvement which his former home town had made. He wished to congratulate those responsible for putting the job across, and was glad that the effort of the reeve had borne fruit. He believed that other towns would be decidedly envious and hopes that they may see fit to emulate the example of Hastings. He felt very proud that his old home town had been the one to set the example.

Dep.-Reeve Hooten.

George Hooten, Deputy-Reeve of Cavan, chairman of the County Road and Bridge committee, when asked to speak, volunteered a recitation instead. It was a pleasing deviation. As an explanation for his request, he said that he never spoke in public and only once in private, that being when he had proposed to his wife. His is a very great sense of humour. The Engineer's Child, which he recited, won him the applause of everyone.

Reeve Bygott.

Major J. M. Bygott, Reeve of Campbellford, congratulated the councillors for their achievement. He realized that the times demanded other things than had been suitable for twenty years ago, and among these were paved streets. He did not neglect the opportunity to uphold the interests of his home town, and stated that he hoped that Campbellford would be in a position to extend an invitation to the other town to attend their opening of the paved streets next year.

Walter Fowlds.

Walter Fowlds, Hastings, after congratulating those responsible for the new streets enumerated at some length the difficulties involved in procuring them. He was however well satisfied with the work and believed that the pavement would prove satisfactory in every way.

Mrs. Maybee.

Mrs. Maybee was the only lady to address the assembly. She expressed the pleasure experienced by the ladies when asked to join their husbands at the banquet, and her regret that the weather had been so unsuitable to such an occasion. She hoped that if this was the usual manner in which the paving company terminated their contracts that they would secure many more in the district.

Mr. Russel of the Amesite Company explained that he was not the logical speaker for the company. He had just come down from Western Ontario for the occasion. He was however, very enthusiastic concerning the Amiesite paving.

Superintendent Grier.

George Grier, superintendent of roads, when asked to speak, had to wait until the diners finished singing two verses of 'See him Smiling Just Now,' before he could express his compliments to the Hastings reeve and council. He was pleased with the results of the work and in this matter he spoke as an official. Hastings he said, was the first to adopt the new government assistance plan, and the contractors had made a real job of the work. He explained that the government had not cut all the weeds along the roads as there was a shortage of funds for this work but that the worst of them had been destroyed. Approximately one million dollars had been spent on county roads while the province had trebled that amount this year. The work was progressing well and preparations were well under way for considerable paving to be done. He emphasized the necessity for the construction of proper paving foundations. He also took the opportunity to get in a humorous dig at the road committee which was taken in good part. The press, he claimed, did not afford his department the proper cooperation. It rarely had anything complimentary to say regarding the roads. In conclusion Mr. Grier stated that he believed that roads with a permanent top would be a necessity before long.

Mr. Peake, Reeve of Seymour, spoke briefly, but to the point. He expressed his compliments, and thought that sufficient, as time was passing.

Mr. Reddick of the paving company, said that good roads were merely a matter of proper financing. They had dated as far back as the days of ancient history. The type of road which his company was laying was the very best to meet the requirements of the present time. He greatly appreciated all the fine things that had been said regarding their work and would stand back of the job they had just completed.

Reeve Hess explained that the splendid banquet had been afforded by the contractors, and a vote of thanks was immediately and unanimously tendered them. Mr. Sutherland, of the company, responded briefly and thanked the reeve and citizens for their whole hearted cooperation during their work in Hastings. Then the hands were joined around the board and Auld Lang Syne resounded through the building.

The Musical Program.

While the city fathers and the favored few were sitting at the festive board, entertainment for the crowds was furnished by the regimental band from Campbellford. They played several selections in the town hall and later, the rain having ceased for a short time, on the village square. Later, dancing was the order in the town hall. Excellent music was provided by Bob Tourney's Seranaders from Belleville. They are a six-piece orchestra and furnish the best of dance music. This dance was given with the compliments of the paving company and a very tasty lunch was served at midnight when cheers for the company were given, and also for Reeve Hess and the council.

It was a big day to celebrate a big achievement. Hastings has the honor of being the first town of the district to venture into the realm of paved streets.

SAYS WHOLE LIBERAL PARTY

to a question by Justice Magee. "But it is one of a party which came in to purify politics and public life, and there should be no consideration.

"McCallum buys up, through a member, the whole constituency — not doing it for a certain cause — and pays for it out of his own pocket."

Entitled To Justice.

Chief Justice—"But he is entitled to justice."

Col. Lennox agreed with this and he wasn't anxious, he said, to put men out of public life.

'I don't think Anderson had the slightest intention of resigning till he got the $1,200," said he. "It at least looks suspicious retiring one hour before nomination.

Justice Ferguson — "A man who wants to cash a cheque for $1,250 before bank closing time to save exchange is not going to do anything till he gets his hands on his money."

Col. Lennox—"He may have been afraid the cheque would be stopped unless it was marked."

Justice Hodgins—"Why would he have been afraid?"

"He couldn't have been nominated after 2 o'clock and he might have decided not to pay."

Justice Grant said — "The evidence was that all were honest men, apparently."

"McCallum says he wanted to make sure," said Col. Lennox.

Justice Ferguson— "All those in politics see there is no slip at the last minute."

Col. Lennox— "If I were buying anyone off, I'd see he resigned before 2 o'clock."

"The Heathen Chinee."

Chief Justice—"Those things in politics are something like the 'Heathen Chinee'—'For ways that are dark, and tricks that are vain, the Heathen Chinee is peculiar'."

Justice Grant — "The man who wrote that knew nothing of a real election campaign."

Justice Magee— "The jurors find Anderson didn't receive the money as an inducement to retire."

Col. Anderson—"They hold Anderson innocent, but not McCallum."

Justice Hodgins—"If they had insisted on paying $1,000 would Anderson have persisted in running?"

Col. Lennox—"I wouldn't say Anderson woldn't have resigned, but McCallum thought he wouldn't."

Chief Justice Sir William Mulock suggested the paying of the money might have been to prevent the friends of Anderson from cooling off in their intention of supporting McCallum.

Upholders of Horse Win Debate at Royal Lodge, Havelock.

HAVELOCK, Oct. 20.—On Thursday evening a very interesting event took place when the I.O.O.F. Royal Lodge No. 286 held a fruit festival for the members and their friends.

The main part of the evening's programme was a debate, "Resolved that the cow is of more use to mankind than the horse", which was well presented in a humorous and interesting manner. The affirmative side was taken by J. Falkner, A. J. Plunkett, Harvey Gordon, Dr. Donald Holdcroft, Mrs. W. Woodbeck, Mrs. W. Rice, Mrs. Margaret Sexsmith, and the negative side was upheld by J. Little, M. McQuigge, Robert Archer, Frank Watson, Miss Lucy Wing, Mrs. Jean Moore and Mrs. S. McQuigge. The judges were Mrs. W. Vance, Mr. A. Leeson and Rev. W. R. Archer and the decision was given in favor of the negative side which won by three points. The debaters all deserve much praise for the capable and eloquent way in which they took their parts. Mr. John Howe acted as time keeper and was very punctilious in allowing each debater the allotted three minutes to present his address.

Following the debate a fruit supper was served and the remainder of the evening was spent in cards and music.

DISTRICT CHURCHES

TRENT RIVER UNITED CHURCH.

TRENT RIVER, Oct. 20.—Rev. Mr. Joblin, of Rawdon circuit, supplied for Rev. Mr. Archer Sunday afternoon and delivered an interesting address, taking his text from Second Book of Kings, the story of the four poor wretched lepers cursed with a disease loathed by all nations, and were outcasts from their home city, who resolved to throw themselves into the hands of their enemy, the Syrians, rather than starve to death by the roadside.

"The four lepers teach us a mighty lesson," he said, "as some of us are worse than lepers as we are afraid to act. Nine out of ten men when asked why they don't start a Christian life, say they are afraid they won't hold out—afraid of failure. All we have to do to be lost is to do nothing but be contented to drift along life and expect God to take them to heaven." He continued: "To escape education is to neglect ordinary means of education. If you want to be a musician you must practice and work, not sit around and do nothing. God offers freely to us His glorious salvation, but the majority of people today are not stirred by the gospel message because they won't see their need."

There would soon be a missionary appeal, said the speaker, and he hoped this congregation would respond readily. "We have abundance of Sunday services to go to, when there are millions whose lives were bound in utter degradation. We enjoy all the blessings and do well to keep it to ourselves as it is the message of the living God. Remember the multitudes who have no spiritual food; we don't have to go to China to give this message, but go next door and give a word of sympathy—it will do much to tide them over their trouble, and if we hold our peace, it will not be well at the day of judgment if we have a chance to testify for ourselves. This is the matter with the Christian church today. If we're ever to have a banquet in heaven we must share our best with our neighbors."

Rev. Mr. Joblin knows whereof he speaks as he has had experience as a missionary in Northern Canada trying to teach the Aborigines of this land.

AT BAILIEBORO.

BAILIEBORO, Oct. 20.—The members of the Anglican Church held special services on Sunday morning and evening to celebrate the fiftieth anniversary of their pastor's wife's services as organist of the Church of England.

Mrs. Allen has for the past thirty-five years been a faithful organist at the local church, and she has always been a cheerful worker, not only as an organist, but also helpful in preparing concerts and assisting in every possible way.

The services were taken by the Rev. Canon Allen and the Rev. P. C. Howard, while the choir rendered special music for the occasion.

Both services were well attended.

United Church.

The members of the United Church held their annual anniversary services on Sunday morning at 11 o'clock and on Sunday evening at 7 o'clock. Rev. Fred. Lane, of the Canton circuit, conducted both services.

The church was beautifully decorated for the occasion, while the church choir provided excellent music during the service. The beautiful weather which prevailed brought a full church of enthusiastic listeners to both services.

A thank-offering was asked for instead of holding a fowl supper or bazaar as in former years. The members of the church responded liberally to the call.

Union Tuxis Square.

The Union Tuxis Square held their regular meeting in the form of a weiner roast and social evening. About twenty of the members were present and a most enjoyable evening was spent in playing games and general athletics.

The boys did full justice to the bountiful supply of sausages and rolls, while during the evening Melville Wood gave an interesting address on the temperance question.

FAIR DAY CONCERT IS GREAT SUCCESS

Lindsay People Give Fine Comic Play at Roseneath.

ROSENEATH, Oct. 20.—The big day in Roseneath was not over when the thousands of people left the Fair grounds on Friday, for in the evening the opera house was filled to capacity to hear the excellent play, "The Colonel's Maid," given by a company from Lindsay. The cast of characters were: Colonel Robert Rudd (a widower of North Caroline) Mr. Stairs; Colonel Richard Byrd (a widower of South Carolina), Mr. White; Marjory Byrd, Miss B. O'Neill; Bob Rudd, Mr. Vanstone; Mrs. J. Carroll (a widow and Colonel Rudd's sister-in-law), Miss R. Windrum; Julia Carroll (her daughter), Miss H. Morin; Ned Graydon, Mr. E. Reid; Mr. James Baskom (Colonel Rudd's lawyer), Mr. N. Nugent; Ching-ah-Ling (the Chinese cook), Mrs. Leslie Tucker.

Synopsis.

Act 1—Early morning in the kitchen of the Rudd establishment, where Ching-ah-Ling was left to get breakfast, answer the door bell, etc. Finally the breakfast was all burning up. Ching-ah-Ling was most humorous and kept the audience in laughter. He took his many scoldings from the Colonel good naturedly, but made many mistakes and provoked him. He was discharged many times, but before he got away was given work to do.

Act 11—The Rudd library, five days later. Mrs. J. Carroll continually talked about the way Colonel Rudd controlled his Chinaman and the disgraceful kitchen. She and her daughtre Julia had come to visit the Colonel and his son Bob. The parents were match makers for Bob and Julia, but couldn't make any headway. Finally Bob planned the romance by having Ned Graydon make him a visit and Marjorie Byrd change her name to Hannah Katshammer and becoming a domestic in his father's home.

Act III—Was where Mrs. J. Carroll became engaged to Colonel Byrd. Her daughter Julia eloped with Ned Graydon and left everything clear for the engagement of Bob Rudd and Marjorie Byrd.

The entire play was well performed. The proceeds, roughly estimated amounted to $280, while the gate receipts of the fair amounted to $1,960.

SAINT and SINNER

As the dinner progressed smoothly, urbanely, from one delicious course to another, Faith's heart lifted and lifted until she had a silly but almost irresistible impulse to burst into song. She could see herself as she must look to her sister, her husband, her guests—calm, serene, dignified, a perfect picture of the gracious hostess and beloved wife.

"We should entertain more," she reflected, as Cordelia, the colored waitress, deftly removed salad plates. "Company is good for a family, for it makes us see each other as others, outsiders, see us. And company forces us to put on our company manners, along with our dress-up clothes. Bob can't help seeing me in a new light, with George bending toward me, as if he adored me, with Bruce Patton forgetting Cherry every few minutes to study me as if he is surprised and fascinated. I wonder if I'm getting vain?"

"It's not fair to smile like that," George leaned even closer to murmur. "God knows you are irresistible enough as it is."

Faith smiled upon him brilliantly, archly, then, turning to accept the lordly ice-box cake from Cornelia, caught a keen, questioning, slightly troubled glance from Bob's blue eyes. Color rose faintly in her cheeks as she dropped her eyes.

As she was cutting the cake Bruce Patton challenged her across the table: "Do you dance the tango, Mrs. Hathaway? I think Cherry's an awful fibber! She says you don't!"

"And why do you think I do, Mr. Patton?" Faith, her head tucked on one side as she gravely eased the wide blade of the silver knife through the quivering ruby richness of the cake, flicked an upward, provocative glance at him from her big brown eyes, black in the candle-light.

"Because the tango was invented to set off beauty like yours," Bruce Patton replied gallantly, his smoldering black eyes narrowed ardently. "I've been asked to do the tango at a charity ball at the Randolph in November, and if you'll do me the honor to be my partner—"

"Faith in an exhibition tango!" Cherry laughed bitterly. "You don't know how funny that is, Bruce! Faith is just masquerading as a bird of paradise tonight. She's really a clucking brown hen—" She caught herself up short then, aghast for once at her own audacity, for three pairs of male eyes were bent upon her in shocked amazement.

All three men hastened to fill the awkward pause with irrelevant remarks, which clashed ludicrously as they were flung from three directions across the dinner table.

Faith, serving the colorful cake in transparent, octagon-shaped green crystal plates, smiled serenely upon them all, Cherry included, for she had caught a note of passionate championship in Bob's voice as he uttered his inconsequential remark, and her heart was suddenly healed of the hurt which Cherry had, in her jealousy, inflicted so ruthlessly.

Coffee was served in the living room, radio music from the Drake hotel in Chicago setting their feet to tapping before the tiny cups were emptied.

Bruce Patton set his coffee cup on the low Turkish table beside Faith's chair and bowed formally: "Shall we dance?"

DRESS

By MARY MARSHALL

A straight stitched belt with almost a tailored aspect appears on this evening frock of mauve transparent velvet. The belt is made of the velvet and is fastened with a jeweled buckle.

There was a lot of talk a few seasons ago about mannish dinner clothes for women, and tailored evening gowns. Some young—or not so old—woman of your acquaintance, perhaps, ventured to wear one of the mannish dinner costumes and assured you and persuaded herself that this was just the beginning of the end of the more feminine, individualistic sort of evening dress for women. Before long dressing for dinner and the evening would be as completely standardized for women as for men. Some people actually believed all this.

But judging from what I have seen so far, women's evening frocks are more feminine, more individualistic than ever before. They are actually fussy in some cases, and there has been a very persistent and so far successful effort in Paris to bring about a greater "elegance" and richness in women's evening modes. There is something intricate, not to say elaborate in all cases, about so many of the new frocks. And it isn't mere barbaric splendor. It might better be compared with the cultivated sort of gorgeousness that characterized the costume of the Renaissance.

There are times, of course, when a quite simple evening frock is most appropriate; but, as one of the leading men dressmakers points out, the simple, unpretentious little georgette evening frock is not suitable for really important occasions. Velvet is undoubtedly the most important evening material of the season, and to any woman who asks advice concerning the material of her new evening frock I say by all means velvet.

Save for most informal wear the tailored evening frock seems to have been banished, but there is one little tailored detail that persists—this is the straight stitched belt that is seen on so many of the new evening frocks. It is chosen, no doubt, because it is such an appropriate vehicle for the jeweled buckle.

HOROSCOPE

The Stars Incline, but do not Compel.

Friday, October 21,,1927.

(Copyright, McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

Astrologers read this as rather an unimportant day in planetary direction, but the dominant aspects are benefic.

It is well to delay important matters until late in the afternoon when the sway favors big enterprises.

There may be in the morning a tendency toward uncertainty in making decisions or directing commercial activities.

Lack of the impulse toward truthfulness may be apparent in dealings of a business nature this morning.

Women may be inclined toward intrigue and double-dealing in love affairs, if their interest is solicited before the late afternoon.

There should be good luck attending weddings on this date which appears to presage much help from prominent persons.

Women in search of employment should be fortunate while this configuration prevails, although they may meet with extreme standards of efficiency.

New types of beauty are to attain favor in the coming year in which spiritual and intellectual loveliness will be appreciated.

Modesty, reticence and dignity again are to become the fashion, if the stars are read aright, for extreme reactionary influences may be expected.

The evening promises fair success for theatres and those who play in them. There is a good sign, also, for dramatists.

Egotism may be even more apparent than usual in various personalities and it may easily cause criticism and resentment.

Quarrels may be precipitated to-day, which is especially menacing to domestic peace and happiness.

Persons whose birthdate it is have the augury of a happy year in which artistic hobbies may prove lucrative.

Children born on this day may excel in loftiness of ambition and sweetness of disposition. Success is indicated.

SAGE TEA DANDY TO DARKEN HAIR

It's Grandmother's Recipe To Bring Back Color and Lustre To Hair.

Common garden sage brewed into a heavy tea with sulphur added, will turn gray, streaked and faded hair beautifully dark and luxuriant. Just a few applications will prove a revelation if your hair is fading, streaked or gray. Mixing the Sage Tea and Sulphur recipe at home, though, is troublesome. An easier way is to get a bottle of Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound at any drug store all ready for use, for only 75 cents. This is the old-time recipe improved by the addition of other ingredients.

While wispy, gray, faded hair is not sinful, we all desire to retain our youthful appearance and attractiveness. By darkening your hair with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound, no one can tell, because it does it so naturally, so evenly. You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning all gray hairs have disappeared, and, after another application or two, your hair becomes luxuriantly dark, glossy, soft and luxuriant.

PIMPLES ON FACE 6 MONTHS

Itching and Burning Severe. Cuticura Heals.

"I had pimples on my face for about six months. They were hard, large and red and scaled over. The itching and burning were so severe that I could not keep from scratching the eruptions, which became quite sore. My face looked so bad that I was ashamed.

"I read an advertisement for Cuticura Soap and Ointment and sent for a free sample. It helped me so much that I purchased more, and after using six cakes of Cuticura Soap and three boxes of Cuticura Ointment I was completely healed." (Signed) Mrs. Dill, Box 9, Viceroy, Sask., Nov. 6, 1926.

U.S. DEMONSTRATES LATEST IN WEAPONS

Anti-Aircraft Gun Aims Itself Automatically By Sound.

ABERDEEN PROVING GROUND, Md., Oct. 20.—An anti-aircraft gun which automatically sights targets in the air is a type of weapon members of the Army Ordnance Association will be called upon to manufacture and operate if war should come again. The gun is controlled by a sensitive instrument which detects the position of a moving aeroplane by sound waves. At night a similar instrument is attached to a huge searchlight which throws its beam directly upon the aeroplane simultaneously with the discharge of the gun. This weapon was one of the new developments in fighting equipment on exhibit to those who attended the ninth annual convention of the Army Ordnance Association here.

The membership comprises active and reserve officers, manufacturers and citizens "pledged to industrial preparedness for war as the nations strongest guarantee of peace." Benedict Crowell, of Cleveland, is president.

Fighting equipment, far more powerful and destructive than that used in the Great War, churned the headwaters of the Chesapeake Bay or made literal valleys in the earth of the reservation with their deadly projectiles. Another new development was a 16-inch gun designed for coastal defense. The maximum range with a charge of 860 pounds of powder is over 30 miles. It maintains a rate of fire of one round a minute and is carried on a standard mount.

Another improvement in modern warfare were huge guns that are automatically loaded by a pneumatic rammer; weapons that were discharged by operators stationed some distance in the rear of the gun, and guns which were aimed at targets by the mere movement of a dial, obviating sighting by the operator through a telescopic sight. Flashless powder, which does not absorb moistures was another feature of the demonstration.

The chemical warfare service, the field artillery, the coast artillery, air and signal corps, engineers, infantry and quartermaster corps manoeuvre displayed their respective most modern equipment. Genuine powder was used in most of the events to show the ordnance association the effect the various weapons produce.

TWO CHARGES AGAINST VARE

U. H. Senator-Elect Spent Too Much Money—Opponent Claims Fraud.

UNIQUE SITUATION.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 20.—A decidedly unique if not unprecedented situation confronts the Senate in the case of William S. Vare, Senator-elect from Pennsylvania.

Vare's right to a seat is disputed because of huge expenditures in his primary campaign and by his democratic opponent in the general election, William B. Wilson, who charges general fraud in a number of counties.

The problem for the Senate, and more particularly for the democratic leaders, is which of the two counts shall first be considered. If the former member of the house and republican "boss" of Philadelphia, is denied the oath of office, parliamentarians say the Wilson contest cannot be pressed as the Senate in effect, at least, will have declared the seat vacant.

In that situation all of time, trouble and money expended in obtaining possession of the ballots in the Pennsylvania general election last November will have gone for naught. The ballots from both Philadelphia and Alleghany counties, including Pittsburgh, already are in possession of the Senate, having been transported to Washington last spring.

As a result of disclosures already made in the Philadelphia courts some democrats believe there is a strong possibility that if the Wilson contest is pressed, sufficient irregularities will be uncovered to bring about the seating of the former labor secretary.

On the other hand, others in the democratic ranks doubt that Wilson could be seated and they favor denying the oath to Vare or otherwise he will be a member of the Senate for most if not all of the coming session as it will require months to count the more than one million ballots cast in Pennsylvania.

Pointing to the Newberry case as an illustration, some senators assert that the hearing on the contest might well extend over two sessions of Congress. Should the evidence show that Vare was legally elected, the Senate, if it desired to oust him, would then have to fall back on the evidence presented before the Reed slush fund committee concerning expenditures in the primary campaign.

The question of seating Vare and Frank W. Smith of Illinois, will be the first to engage the Senate's attention. There is no formal contest in Smith's case, but he already has been denied the oath under appointment by Governor Small because officials of public utilities corporations contributed large sums to his campaign fund at a time when he was serving as chairman of the Illinois Commerce Commission.

Should both men be refused the oath, Pennsylvania and Illinois would have only half representation in the Senate, at least at the start of the session. Smith has made it known that he will knock at the door of each succeeding Senate until the six years' term for which he was elected has expired. Should he follow that course, Illinois would have only one Senator during the next six years. Vare has made no announcement as to his probable course should he be denied the oath. Until he tendered his resignation to the governor a successor could neither be appointed nor elected and if he did not resign Pennsylvania would find itself in the same situation as Illinois.

BIG EAGLE ATTACKS WOMAN AND CHILD

Throws Inhabitants of Souris Valley Area Into Panic.

GOODWATER, Sask., Oct. 6 (By The Canadian Press).—A huge prairie eagle threw the residents of the Souris Valley into a mild state of alarm recently by attacking a woman and a child.

The cap of Alan Brown, eight-year-old son of a Canadian National Railway surveyor, who accompanied his father on the survey party, was neatly plucked from the boy's head by the eagle. The bird was noticed by the party flying very high, but with the speed of a falling stone it swooped down, grabbed the boy's cap and as swiftly flew into the air till it was a small speck against the blue sky.

The boy suffered from nothing more than a bad fright, a scratch on his head, and the temporary loss of his cap which was found in the bush a few rods away.

A woman sustained severe scratches on her arm when the daring eagle swooped down upon her and ripped her sleeve open.

Schedule Drawn For Canadian-American Hockey League

PRO LEAGUE WILL OPERATE 6-CLUB CIRCUIT

Philadelphia Added To Last Year's League of Five Clubs.

SCHEDULES DRAWN.

Season Opens November 12th and Closes on March 24th.

BOSTON, October 20 (Associated Press). — The Canadian-American Hockey League will operate as a six-club circuit this winter with the addition of Philadelphia to last year's league of five clubs. President Charles C. Clapp announced last night. At the same time he announced a schedule of 119 games, opening on November 12 and closing March 24. The other teams in the league include Boston, Springfield, Providence, R.I., New Haven, and Quebec.

Clubs Strengthened.

Every club in the league has been strengthened with the addition of new players from some of the best amateur and professional hockey clubs of Canada, President Clapp said. The management of the Philadelphia club is still in the air, although Mickey Roach, former Boston player and member of the New York Americans National Hockey League Club last year, has been mentioned. The Philadelphia club will play in the old arena formerly used by the United States Amateur Hockey Association. Pending repairs and re-installation of ice-making machinery, the Philadelphia club will play on the Princeton rink.

WOULD ENGAGE YOUNG LEADER

Owners of Boston Braves Show Preference For Younger Pilot.

SPEAKER DROPPED.

NEW YORK, Oct. 20 (A.P.).— Casting about for a new manager of the Boston Braves, it was understood yesterday that owners of the club had reached a decision that it will be better to engage a younger leader perhaps one with a playing as well as a good managing future, in preference to hiring a veteran like Tris Speaker.

It seems fairly certain that Speaker while under consideration for some time, has been dropped from the list of possible successors to Dave Bancroft at the Boston helm. Color was given to the story of Speaker's possible engagement by the fact that Tris always has had a big following in Boston, where he played with the Red Sox for years, but Emil E. Fuchs, president of the Braves is understood to have reached the conclusion that Speaker's future, especially as a player, is mostly behind him. Even though the Braves desired Speaker there is the waiver obstacle which might prevent him from leaving the American League. Clark Griffith, Washington president, has not asked for waivers on the veteran.

Meanwhile "Hot Stove League" observers continue their suggestions for the consideration of Boston owners. The mention of possibilities not only has included Speaker and Eddie Collins so far, in spite of denials, but also added the names of Casey Stengel, ex-major leaguer, who piloted Toledo to victory in the "Little World Series," and Bert Niehoff, manager of the Atlantic Club of the Southern Association.

Goodsell Challenged For Sculling Honors

VANCOUVER, B.C., October 20 (Associated Press). — H. A. "Bert" Barry has challenged Major Goodsell, world's champ sculler, for another match for the world's championship, and has deposited $500.

The English contender, who was defeated on Labour Day, stated that if his challenge was accepted, the race would probably be held on May 24. He would immediately start preparation, he said, remaining in Vancouver for the winter.

VARSITY WINS FROM LAWYERS

Intercollegiate Intermediates Settle Dispute in Fast Game.

FINAL SCORE 13-3.

VARSITY STADIUM, Oct. 20. — Varsity 12, Osgoode Hall, 3, was the result of the Intermediate intercollegiate game played here yesterday. The blue and white were always on top and although guilty of numerous fumbles played a good game. They totalled a touchdown, four kicks to the deadline and three rouges. Johnston was the winners' star, his kicking featuring. Van Horne was good for the young lawyers. The cold raw rain kept the attendance down to a handful.

Officials—Parks and Carroll.

First Quarter.

With the wind behind them the blue and white kicked on the first down. With Jackson in good form they soon ran up four points, two from deadline kicks and two rouges.

Osgoode looked dangerous with their line play. Two or three plays gained 30 yards in a row but a fumble at the wrong time lost their advantage.

A heavy rain started at this stage, and chased the entire crowd to cover. Period over :Varsity 4; Osgoode 0.

Second Quarter.

Both teams kept up the kicking during this period with Varsity notching a single.

Osgoode totaled a safety touch and one dead line with Van Horne doing all the damage. The wet ball made it hard to handle and fumbles were numerous.

Half time score: Varsity 5, Osgoode 2.

Third Quarter.

Varsity counted twice in this period —both singles to the dead line. They had play in the Osgoode end most of the time but the lawyers proved good defensively on the line. Varsity tried numerous line plays but fumbled at the critical time. Period over. Varsity 7; Osgoode 2.

Fourth Period.

Varsity got five points on the first play on an end run; Johnson carried the oval over. It was unconverted. Osgoodes' point came when Johnson was forced to rouge on one of Vanhorne's lofts. Varsity were lucky to recover on several fumbles near the end of the game.

Game over: Varsity 12; Osgoode 3.

AIM TO SET TRAVELLING RECORD

This Planters "Peanut" girls' softball club did more traveling during this past summer than any other women's aggregation in Ontario and aim to set a traveling record next season. They visited twelve Ontario cities and towns and traveled about sixteen hundred miles. They created a real impression wherever they went and won the majority of the games.

WALKER WILL MEET FLOWERS

Middleweight Champion Ordered To Defend His Title Within Sixty Days.

CONVENTION CLOSES.

TOLEDO Ohio Oct. 20. — After approving Mickey Walker as middleweight champion of the world, the National Boxing Association yesterday ordered the New Jersey Bulldog to meet Tiger Flowers, the Georgia Deacon, in defense of his title within 60 days. If at the end of the 60 day period Walker has not met Flowers, the Board of Governors will decide whether or not Mickey shall be stripped of his title and barred in the 24 states and allied bodies of the association.

Walk Miller, manager of the negro appeared before the association yesterday and produced evidence that Jack Kearns, the champion's manager, had agreed to give Flowers a return match within 90 days after the Georgian lost his championship to Walker in Chicago in December of last year. Before closing the annual convention the association named champions in every division of the boxing game, with the exception of flyweight which is vacant due to the retirement of Fidel la Barba.

Approved Champions.

The approved champions are: heavyweight, Jimmy Slattery; middle heavyweight, Jimmy lattery; middleweight Mickey Walker; welter-weight Joe Dundee; light weight, Sammy Mandell; featherweight Benny Bass; Bantam weight Bud Taylor.

Slattery was named light heavyweight king through his victory over Maxie Rosenbloom. The National Association had arranged an elimination tournament but all withdrew except Slattery and his victim in a recent bout. Tommy Loughran is recognized as champion by the New York State Commission which is not affiliated with the N.B.A.

PHILADELPHIA Oct. 19. — "It's ridiculous," said Tommy Loughran yesterday when he heard that the National Boxing Association had not listed him as the world's light-weight champion and had recognized Jimmy Slattery as the title holder in that class.

"No one pays any attention to the National Boxing Commission and that is why I turned it down when it wanted to hand me the title long before I fought Mike McTigue," Loughran said

"The association has no authority in Pennsylvania, New York, Illinois, California and Massachusetts, where the real boxing public of the country live and where the big fights and big purses can be got, and where I am recognized as lightweight champion."

Uzcudum Will Not Meet Phil Scott

NEW YORK, October 20 (Associated Press). — Pauline Uzcudun, Spanish heavyweight, will not be able to go through with his scheduled match with Phil Scott, British champion, at Madison Square Garden on November 1, as a result of spraining his back in training, his "board of managers" announced yesterday.

TWEED'S NEW RINK TO HOLD 1,500 FANS

Will Fill Long Felt Want in the Village—Many Conveniences.

TWEED, Oct. 19.—Considering the great interest being displayed in the erection of the skating rink, the following items will be very interesting:

There will be a capacity for 360 people standing in single file around the ice fence, and as the platform around the fence is stepped, eight hundred people will be able to watch the game without crowding or obstructing the view. The gallery will have raised seats placed at such an angle that no matter where seated one can see the play right up to the end fence. Also, the gallery will be partially heated from underneath and will seat comfortably 225 people, and the whole building will easily accommodate fifteen hundred people.

In the construction there are thirty-four main beams. Each, including its own weight, supports approximately one thousand pounds, and is capable of sustaining four and one-half times this load with perfect safety.

The lighting will be an important feature, and it will be the best lighted rink in this part of the Province.

The comfort of the public has been the main thought of the directors in the design of the building, and there will be spacious heated dressing-rooms for both ladies and gentlemen, with complete sanitary conveniences. There will also be a canteen and check-room where belongings may be checked and skaters may indulge in an appetizing hot dog or cup of coffee.

There is no doubt the rink will fill a long felt want, and this season's hockey matches should fill the place to the rafters; for if the boys win the cup this year it will be the third time in succession and the cup will become Tweed's permanent property.

The directors are being complimented on the very business-like and careful manner in which they have fulfilled the duties, taking the time and trouble to inspect the Stirling and Frankford rinks in order that any weak or undesirable points should be eliminated in the construction of the Tweed rink. The rink will be four feet wider and twelve feet longer than the Stirling rink, and will have a much better system of ventilation.

Golfing Brother Will Meet Golfing Sister

WORPLESDON, Surrey, England, October 20 (Associated Press). — A golfing brother will oppose a golfing sister to-day in the finals of the annual mixed foursome tournament, when Roger Wethered and Mlle. Simone Thion De La Chaume oppose Miss Joyce Wethered and Cyril J. H. Tolley.

The finals bring together for the full 36-hole test an array of champions. Miss Wethered twice held the British women's title and Mlle. Thion De La Chaume is now women's champion of Great Britain and France. Both Wethered and Tolley have held the British amateur championship.

THREE CAUSES OF TUBERCULOSIS.

The bacillus of tuberculosis is usually found in the sputum of patients suffering from pulmonary tuberculosis, but with many well advanced cases it has often been impossible to find any trace of this bacilli which is so commonly cited as the cause of tuberculosis. The fact that it is not always present should show us that the infection with this germ is not the primary cause of tuberculosis.

One in every ten deaths in the United States may be attributed to this disease and, although the death rate is decreasing each year, there is still an appallingly needless loss of life from a disease which could be easily prevented if the fundamental cause were better understood.

From practical experience in diagnosing and treating thousands of cases of pulmonary tuberculosis, I have been forced to the conclusion that there are only three important underlying causes of this disease. I will mention them in the order of their importance:

Every tubercular patient has a tight, almost immovable diaphragm.

The diaphragm is a flat muscle separating the chest from the abdomen, and it is with this muscle that we do all of our breathing. As the diaphragm expands and contracts, the air is drawn in and forced out of the lungs. The lower ribs should open up and expand at inhalation, and be able to depress and contract at exhalation. This action of the chest the tubercular patient is unable to do satisfactorily.

The tendency to a tight thorax and diaphragm can be discovered early in life and corrected by suitable breathing exercises.

Enervation always precedes the state of tuberculosis.

Such weakness may be caused entirely by lack of exercise, and can be prevented by the use of calisthenic exercises, long daily walks, or any other desirable kind of physical culture training. Weakness simply means the absence of strength, and strength can only be produced by the requisite amount of physical exercise.

Dietetic errors create toxins in the blood which furnish the soil for the growth of tuberculosis.

Eating too much food and the use of the wrong kinds of foods are respojnsible for creating a catarrhal condition in the body which the enervated patient with the tubercular diathesis is unable to eliminate. A proper study of scientific dietetics will enable one to easily eliminate this cause, and would lpay a large part in pvreenting the development of tuberculosis.

Questions and Answers.

Question.—Torreon writes: "I have been dieting according to your instructions in the paper. I have lost 13 pounds—did weigh 183. I notice after eating, when digestion begins to take place, I have a very pronounced metallic taste in my mouth. What would cause this, and will it disappear?"

Answer.—You should lose still more weight, and if you will keep on dieting until your weight becomes normal the metallic taste will disappear. This is produced from an improper balance of your digestive fluids, and continued dieting will correct such trouble.

Question.—Mrs. Marilyn H. writes: "All of my family are being benefited by your diet and heatlh articles in our paper, and we wish to tell you of our appreciation. Also, just one question: What foods are meant when we use the term 'protein'?"

Answer. — Generally speaking, we mean the animal and its products, viz.: meats, milk, cream, cheese, butter, fowl, eggs, rabbit, fish, etc.

Question.—A. C. writes: "Please tell us the proper food and liquid to give in a case where there is pus in the urine. It has been going on for several year, sometimes the pus is quite heavy and sometimes there is scarcely any. I wish to thank you for your helpful advice on various subjects which we get through our paper.

Answer.—It is unwise for me to attempt to give you any specific advice as I cannot tell what is causing the pus in your urine. Go to a competent diagnostician and find out the cause of your trouble, then write to me again, giving your name and address, and I will send you suggestions from my point of view about a cure.

THEATRES

AT THE CAPITOL

"FIREMEN, SAVE MY CHILD" TOGETHER ONCE MORE

It wasn't any use. Paramount couldn't keep them apart. The world would not let natural affinities like Wallace Beery and Raymond Hatton be divorced no matter how greatly Adolph Zukor and Jesse L. Lasky wanted to have two laughs grow where one big one grew before.

So the King Team of Comedy, comes to the Capitol today as firemen brave, co-starring in another Edward Sutherland epic of hysteria "Fireman, Save My Child." They got under way in "Behind the Front" gained tremendous momentum in "We're in the Navy Now" and are now roaring along at full speed in a comedy vehicle that from the all reports should set things afire.

Trailing along to fan the sparks is the strongest comedy cast Paramount has ever assembled.

Tom Kennedy, survivor of the two previous Beery-Hatton riots and fresh from a part in Beery's lone-handed James Cruze triumph "The Big Sneeze" plays the fire captain. Josephine Dunn personification of blonde loveliness, has the feminine lead. Joseph Girard is Jo's father, the fire chief.

Kennedy's work is known wherever motion pictures are shown. The former contender for the heavyweight boxing championship of the world has become one of Hollywood's smoothest comedians; a big, good-natured comic who has built up a tremendous following. His recent work in Bebe Daniels' sensational novelty "Senorita" showed him to be one of the camera's cleverest workers.

Josephine Dunn, in this picture an island of beauty in an ocean of clowns and clowning, came to the screen from the New York stage, where she was a dancer. Her most recent work was Edward Sutherland's "Love's Greatest Mistake" where her work attracted favorable comment from critics everywhere. She is a graduate of the Paramount School.

Joseph Girard is Hollywood's official fire commissioner, police chief, admiral, captain or whatnot. His military bearing, piercing blue eyes and pugnacious chin command respect and uniform-wearing parts always. He played the admiral in "We're in the Navy Now" and did it so well that there was no argument from Sutherland, Beery or Hatton when it came time to cast the fire chief in "Firemen Save My Child". Girard has been trouping for twenty years on the stage and screen.

Scattered with a lavish hand all through the picture are squads, companies and battalions of fire fighters, policemen and civilians. Leading them along their merry celluloid way is the King Team of Comedy, Messrs. Beery and Hatton.

AT THE REGENT.

JUST A LITTLE BOY— JUST A LITTLE DOG

There hangs in the private studio of one of the really great painters of the country now living in New York, a group of sketches in black and white of different dogs In the centre frame is pictured a small, hairy unkempt little fellow looking much in need of a bath. The only way to describe him fittingly is to say he seemed to be just an ordinary yellow mongrel.

And such, in truth, he was some forty years ago when the man who sketched him from memory first saw him as he trudged from school of an autumn afternoon.

The man could never recall whether he saw the dog first or the dog was first to see him. At any rate, they became immediate friends. The dog jumped up and licked his free hand and the result was that the youngster took him in his arms and ran home with him.

Long before he reached the house his shouts of "Mother, Mother," could be heard all over the place and when his mother did come to the door she saw her boy all excited holding the dog in his arms. "Mother," he shouted, "see my grand dog!" The mother gave it one look and shook her head. She didn't mean to let that dirty little thing in her home. "Take him away from here," she said. At this the youngster burst into tears. "Mother, Mother!.. he screamed, "just look, he's a genuine yellow cur. Genuine!"

In a day or so after the little dog had been thoroughly fed he disappeared. Father blamed his disappearance on the gypsies, though there were none seen in that neighborhood at the time. The little boy grew up to become a great artist and to own many fine dogs, but the one that possessed his greatest love was the little tike of his boyhood.

Principal among the other pictures shown in the artist's studio is a fine portrait of Rin-Tin-Tin bearing the artist's signature. On a little card under glass at the side of the picture is this inscription. "The World's Most Intelligent Dog. If Reason Was Ever Given to Any Dog, Rin-Tin-Tin Surely Has It."

Rin-Tin-Tin comes to the Regent Theatre Thursday for a 3 days' run, in "Tracked by the Police," a Warner Bros. production.

AT THE GRAND

THE BIG PARADE.

Peterborough picture fans at last have been given a chance to see one of the greatest "smashes" in the history of the screen, "The Big Parade," which after making long runs in New York and other cities, is now duplicating its triumph as a "road" attraction. This super picture was screened at the Grand last night to the manifest approval of the large crowd present. "The Big Parade" has all the ingredients needed for a screen hit, abundance of action, thrills, a notable sprinkling of enjoyable comedy, and a love story that appeals. It may not always be convincing, but it at least is always interesting, and that, from a box office viewpoint, is all that really matters.

At the Grand Theatre last time tonight at 8.30.

It is an American picture, based on the Great War, but there is no undue glorification of the Dough boys, very little flaunting of the Stars and Stripes ,and not much of a Star-Spangled Banner effect to the musical embellishment. In fact the story might just as well have been that of a Canadian boy or of a young English Tommy. The chief characters, with the exception of the heroine, happen to be American it is true, but the action could have been staged with equal effect in the zone held by the Canadian Army and with Canadian characters.

The story is simple in the extreme. A young American of wealthy parents, enlists when the United States goes to War, goes to France as a buck private, becomes the buddy of a former steel worker and an ex-bartender ,falls in love with a French girl, sees his two pals killed in a desperate action in which he is badly wounded, returns home minus a leg, to find his former American sweetheart has learned to love his brother and goes happily back to France to marry the little girl of his war-days romance .

King Vidor, who directed the picture, has made of this straightforward little plot a master-piece of film genius. He has given "The Big Parade" a realistic war setting, in which large masses of men, hundreds of motor trucks, scores of aeroplanes and all the machinery of modern warfare, are effectively employed, some of the scenes being as impressive as anything the screen has brought us. The gruesome side has not been unduly stressed though there is plenty of action that keeps the on-lookers on the edge of their chairs. And he has found time, too, in the midst of all the feverishness of the fighting episodes to depict some strikingly beautiful scenes that are photographic gems.

The work of the fine cast is in keeping with the general excellence of the production. John Gilbert, who is starred, does some of the best acting of his career as the hero, and Renee Adoree is charming enough as the French girl to justify the girl back home being forgotten. The comedy is furnished by the two "buddies" of the hero, Slim Jemsen and "Bull" O'Hara, and these two outstanding characters provide many a laugh.

"The Big Parade," with its war setting, its rich comedy vein, and its appealing love story deserves the popularity it has attained. A splendid musical score finely played by an augmented orchestra, adds much to the effect.

The picture will be shown again to-night, and its last appearance here of the present run will undoubtedly attract a big crowd to the Grand.

made spotlessly clean without any tiresome brushing

TO keep false teeth glisteningly white, gold work unclouded—cleanse them every day by the easy HYGEOL method. Tiresome brushing is done away with entirely. The teeth are purified (completely sterilized, as well as cleansed) by a twenty-minute immersion in a solution of one part HYGEOL to three parts water. They can be left to clean while you dress. At the end of that time, remove and rinse. The teeth will be sweet and fresh, freed from all food particles, discolorations, germs, and that mucous film which resists brushing so stubbornly.

If you prefer, teeth can be left overnight—a much milder solution sufficing under this method—one teaspoonful of HYGEOL to a glass of water.

A trial costs nothing. Get a sample bottle by mailing the coupon and put HYGEOL to the test. The booklet which accompanies the sample will show you many other ways to use HYGEOL.

What Every Girl Should Know

by GISA PRUCHONE

Copyright, 1927, Warner Bros. Pictures, Inc.

"WHAT EVERY GIRL SHOULD KNOW," with Patsy Ruth Miller, is a Warner Bros. picturization of this novel.

SYNOPSIS

Mary "Elaine" Sullivan—slender, beautiful, red-headed—is a tennis champion. A poetical, spiritual girl is Mary, despite her physical prowess. Her mother died sewing for a living. Her spirit lives on in Mary. Wally Mason, a young reporter, loves Mary. But she disbelieves in love. Mary keeps house for her brothers, David and Bobby. David, the family support, hopes Mary will get safely married. David is sentenced to prison for an auto fatality. The Charity Department takes Bobby. Wally proposes; Mary goes to New York, but cannot find work.

Then Mary suddenly found a job. It was that same day that Mary wrote her first letter to Robert, and to lighten the small heart, dwelt upon the munificence that would be theirs when she was installed as cloak-room girl at the "White Ape," the night-club that was New York's dernier cri.

It was a very brave little letter. It spoke of the thrill and glory that was New York, and of the boundless opportunities that teemed on the very street corners. It was alive with hope for the future, and consoling in its acceptance of the present. It finished with love, and an urgent request for instant response. That same night Mary wrote to Davie, making no mention of the job but speaking brightly of the work she hoped to find as tennis instructress, in one of the city's largest stores. That would cheer Davie up immensely. And a letter to Wally, that mentioned not very much at all, and was a very hazy web, leaving him to fill in the space between sentences. When that was done she prepared the one dress suitable for her job on the morrow. It was a very vague job. The most she understood was that it was to bring her a definite sum weekly, which in itself would be sufficient for both herself and Robert, in addition to tips.

The tall thin man with the ridges of marcelled hair who interviewed Mary had been very glowing at mention of the "tips." It seemed that if she were wise she might be able to make as much as five and seven dollars a night, and if she were very wise, perhaps more. He was very vague as to just what constituted being "wise," and Mary was even more so. He had seemed quite taken with her appearance, very much pleased, too, to find that it was the job of cloak-room girl that she wished, and not a job in the chorus. Not that she couldn't have a job in the chorus if she wished—— Did she wish? No, Mary did not wish. Well, he for one was glad of that. Chorus girls were common, but it was rarely that a good looker like Mary came along for the job of checking the patrons' wraps. Did she know she was a mighty cute little looker? He put out his hand and laid it on her sleek head, and she withdrew a step involuntarily. The edges of his nails were rimmed with black, and the forefinger of one hand was missing.

"Understand that your work begins tomorrow night?"

"Yes." She was rather thrilled at the mere idea of such close association with a night club. THE WHITE APE at that, one of the best known of the lot. When the marcelled young man had left, walking lightly on thin patent leather shoes that caught the yellow light of the electric globes overhead, she looked around with eagerness. Over in the corner two girls in rompers, with enormous bows in their smartly shingled hair, were practising steps with arms about each other's waists. When the marcelled young man appeared they greeted him with shouts of "Hi Benny, come on!" and made room for him between them. He encloaped them both, and the three slid easily into their dance while the shirt-sleeved young man at the piano tore through the music. It echoed hollowly in the emptiness of the great barn-like place, that looked strangely tawdry in the mingled daylight and the pools of yellow shed from the bulbs overhead. The wooden tables were bare of any covering. Later Mary was to see them meticulously draped in the snowy folds of white linen, with the little pink lamps glowing gently above. But even now, in its undress, the place carried a fascination for her. Her breast rose with the thrill of it. It was better than instructress in the sporting goods department of a department store. That was routine. Here was life!

CHAPTER VIII

It was difficult, waiting for the night when she was to begin her duties. To start, to start! To begin earning. To feel the crispness of bills that she had earned herself, with no aid from anyone. To feel the independence of standing alone, and standing erect. That was what she longed for. Alone, free, dependent upon no one.

She went on duty at nine o'clock. "Not because there's anything doing, then, see," said Bennie, "but because some of the hayseeds think this is a circus and you gotta come early to get the best seats. Oh, you'll learn a lot, kid!" Mary wondered. Wondered if she would learn a lot, and the rapidity of her heart beats at the proximity of Benny warned her that in all probability she would. Bennie, she now discovered, was part owner and manager of the place, and also did an occasional specialty when they were short of artists. She was to discover that everyone in the profession was termed an "artist," whether their specialty was artistic or not didn't matter. They were artists, and Mary was duly impressed. The artists were now sauntering in, slim girls with reddened mouths, mouths that spoke of wisdom, and eyes that were steeped in it. One, a vivid little dark creature, with great brown eyes that snapped with the perilous vivacity of explosives, strolled towards Mary, settled behind her cage. As she came, she smiled—a smile that was more a grin.

"Hello!" Then she announced, "You're new."

"I am." Mary smiled somewhat shyly in return. This was all so new, and these were her first words to a young one of her own sex since coming to the city.

"Think you're going to like it?" the other asked, leaning over the cage. What a delightful pixie face the child had, Mary thought.

"I think I will."

"You probably will. You're the type. And they'll probably like you." This was spoken with a wisdom that came oddly from the little creature. She swung her flat beaded bag, and turned to go. After taking a few slow steps, she turned back.

"What's your name?"

Mary was amused. She told the child her name.

"Mine is Barbara Clement." She hesitated, then said, "You can call me Babs if you'd like." But it very evidently was not what she wanted to say to Mary.

"Thank you. I should like to. And may I say that it suits you perfectly? You're a very little young thing."

"Not as young as I look," said the other, succinctly. Then, "Listen, Mary. Don't let anybody around here like you too well—see?" After which she swung off with a careless swagger of her very seductive young person, the seductiveness an attribute of which she was very well aware.

"Now what," thought Mary, "can she have meant by that? Is it possible that she refers to the emaciated, pink-cheeked young man with the pipe-like ankles and paper-thin oxfords, known as Bennie? And if she means Bennie—why does she mean Bennie? And what can he possibly mean to me?" She concluded with the thought that it was all very puzzling, and not particularly interesting, in that it referred to Bennie. Had it been any one but him. But what did it matter?

At a few minutes before ten Mary received her first tip, and didn't know whether to laugh or cry. It was so ridiculous, being given a half dollar for nothing more than a smile, and if smiles were to bring in such high tariff, how long would it be before she could go for young Robert? Life was suddenly very good. It may have been the silver coin that she held tightly in her hand, it may have been the music that was tuning up with the arrival of the vanguard of guests. It may have been the soft glow of the lights that gleamed on spotless napery and sent forth an air of well-being, of comfort, and even serene luxury in which it was pleasant to bathe, despite its synthetic glow. It may have been all of these, and it may have been none of them. But life was good—and why bother delving into the reason for its sudden worth?

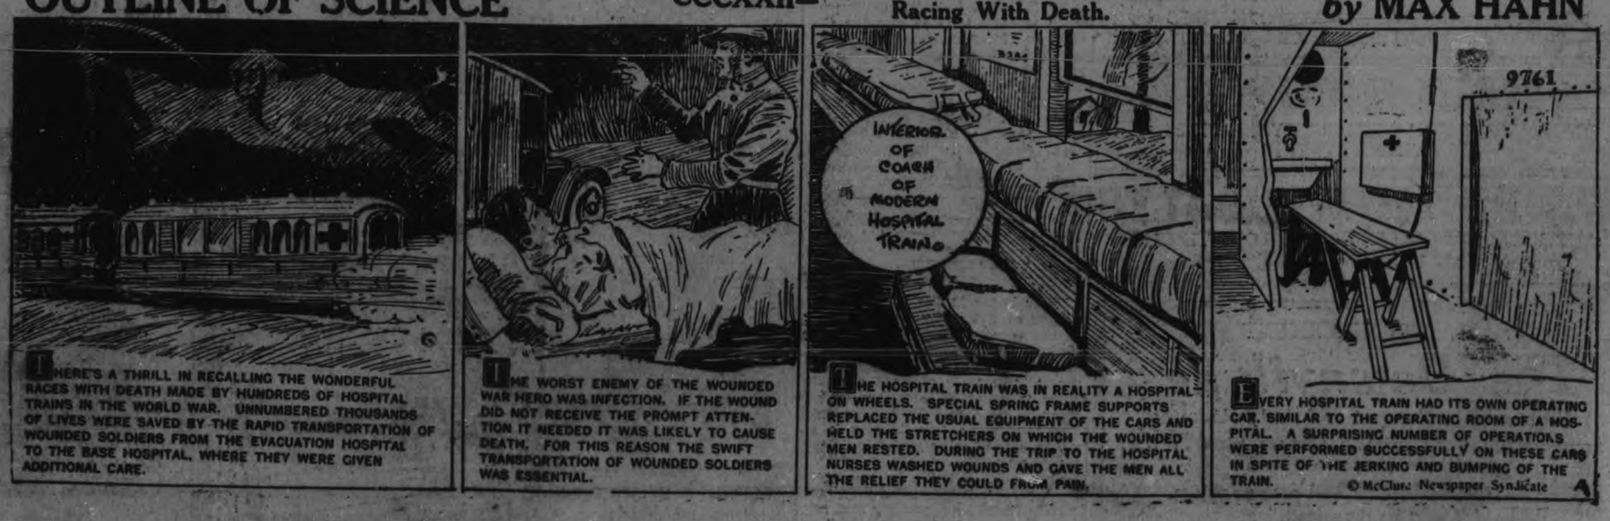
OUTLINE OF SCIENCE

CCCXXII—Science in the World War—LXX. Racing With Death.

by MAX HAHN



THERE'S A THRILL IN RECALLING THE WONDERFUL RACES WITH DEATH MADE BY HUNDREDS OF HOSPITAL TRAINS IN THE WORLD WAR. UNNUMBERED THOUSANDS OF LIVES WERE SAVED BY THE RAPID TRANSPORTATION OF WOUNDED SOLDIERS FROM THE EVACUATION HOSPITAL TO THE BASE HOSPITAL, WHERE THEY WERE GIVEN ADDITIONAL CARE.

THE WORST ENEMY OF THE WOUNDED WAR HERO WAS INFECTION. IF THE WOUND DID NOT RECEIVE THE PROMPT ATTENTION IT NEEDED IT WAS LIKELY TO CAUSE DEATH. FOR THIS REASON THE SWIFT TRANSPORTATION OF WOUNDED SOLDIERS WAS ESSENTIAL.

THE HOSPITAL TRAIN WAS IN REALITY A HOSPITAL ON WHEELS. SPECIAL SPRING FRAME SUPPORTS REPLACED THE USUAL EQUIPMENT OF THE CARS AND HELD THE STRETCHERS ON WHICH THE WOUNDED MEN RESTED. DURING THE TRIP TO THE HOSPITAL NURSES WASHED WOUNDS AND GAVE THE MEN ALL THE RELIEF THEY COULD FROM PAIN.

EVERY HOSPITAL TRAIN HAD ITS OWN OPERATING CAR, SIMILAR TO THE OPERATING ROOM OF A HOSPITAL. A SURPRISING NUMBER OF OPERATIONS WERE PERFORMED SUCCESSFULLY ON THESE CARS IN SPITE OF THE JERKING AND BUMPING OF THE TRAIN.

MANY FORTS AT WINNIPEG

At Least Nine Erected Within Limits Since 1735.

HISTORY ISSUED.

WINNIPEG, Oct. 20 (By The Canadian Press).—Dr. Charles Napier Bell, F.R.G.S., president of the Manitoba Historical Society, gives full and authentic information of the history of Winnipeg for the past two hundred years in an illustrated booklet, published recently.

Dr. Bell, who has been for 57 years a resident of Winnipeg, and is the best known authority upon her local history, reveals a quantity of entirely new matter concerning the history of this city.

He reveals that in the century between 1737 and 1835 there were erected nine, and possibly 11 forts, ten of them on the site of central Winnipeg, and one in St. Boniface. Dr. Bell arrived in Winnipeg with the Wolseley expedition of 1870. He gained valuable information from surviving members of the colonists brought out by Lord Selkirk in 1812-15.

Many of the old patriarchs, including Andrew McDermott of the 1815 party and Donald Gunn, Manitoba's most authentic early historian of the same party, were interviewed by Dr. Bell.

The interviews were taken down in writing and have been preserved in Dr. Bell's collection of rare old private collection in Winnipeg.

The author gives a list of all the old forts that once stood on the now business sites of the city and an old map sent to Paris by Governor De Beauharnois, in 1737, with Fort Maurepas plainly charted upon it, is reproduced in the booklet. Fort Rouge, which was originally supposed to be south of the Assiniboine fork, is shown on the map with Dr. Bell's well authenticated location of it north of the Assiniboine fork. This is, therefore, new matter to the historian.

In company with Corporal (afterwards general) Sam B. Steele, Dr. Bell, while walking along the bank of the Red River in 1871, personally located Fort Gibraltar built by the Northwest Company in 1807. The remains of the fort was discovered and most of it had disappeared into the river through the crumpling of the banks.

Descriptions of Fort Garry, Fort Douglas, which was swept away by the great flood of 1826, and Fiddler's Fort, also swept away by the same flood, are given in the booklet. Another fort or store of the Hudson's Bay Company, which stood on the east bank of the Red River, opposite the mouth of the Assiniboine, was also uncovered by Dr. Bell.

These revelations of the history of the forts, which once occupied the present site of the city of Winnipeg, raises the number of forts from a certain nine to probably eleven, instead of four or five as previously supposed.

IN POLICE COURT.

William Hooton, a thresherman, pleaded guilty to an infraction of the Highways Traffic Act, whereby he did damage to the road by not having proper clamps on the wheels of his traction engine and was fined $5 and costs. The farmers of North Monaghan appeared to aid Mr. Hooton, but as his engine did not meet the requirements of the act he pleaded guilty.

The Eureka Truck Company pleaded guilty to not having a proper tire on one wheel of its large 10 ton truck, and was fined $5 and costs. One of the hard tires of this truck had worn off and the rim was damaging the road, when the driver was arrested by Traffic Officer Hugh Wilson.

A misplanned hunting trip ended up in the police court this morning when two youths of Lakefield, Geo. Kinghorn, aged 19, and Royden Rowe, 18, appeared before Magistrate Langley charged with entering and stealing from four stores and one home in the village of Lakefield on Tuesday and Wednesday night of this week.

They pleaded guilty to all the charges and will come up for sentence on Thursday, Oct. 27.

On Tuesday night they entered the store of H. G. Fitzgerald and took two hunting knives, several pen knives, 500 cartridges, a Gillette razor and one dozen razor blades, three pair of scissors, two pipes, and several other articles of hardware.

The same night they entered the store of Theodore Crawford, and took six packages of tobacco and some woollen gloves. On Wednesday night they entered the store of W. J. Charlton and took the sum of $11.51.

When the accused pleaded guilty to each of these three charges His Worship asked Constable Webster of Lakefield if he did not think he had laid enough charges against these two young men, but Mr. Webster produced two more for each of them.

On Tuesday night they tried to enter the butcher shop of Frederick Crawford, and on the same night they entered the home of Frederick Amos in the Township of Smith, and took many small articles of clothing, including braces, neckties, mitts and a silver spoon.

Society Ladies Sell Clothes For Charity

CHICAGO, Ill., October 20 (United Press). — Yesterday was Rummage Day along Chicago's Gold Coast as the "Four Hundred" offered their old clothes for sale.

The prospect of buying the dress in which Mrs. Edith Rockefeller McCormick greeted the Prince of Wales brought hundreds of women to the event long before the "sales ladies" arrived in town cars driven by liveried chauffeurs.

One policeman was unable to keep the crowd under control.

Several thousand dollers was raised for a hospital fund the society women are promoting.

PUTTYING SASH LIGHTS

When replacing broken window panes or reputtying sash, be sure to notice whether the glass rabbet requires a coat of paint or linseed oil. If the old putty flaked off by itself, it is a certain indication that the rabbet should be repainted before attempting to putty in the glass. Putty will not stick permanently to unpainted or unoiled wood.

A little trick that will help the amateur in puttying is to dip the putty knife in water. Then it will slide better over the putty and leave a smooth surface. Use only the best grade of commercial putty or mix boiled whiting, a little white lead and boiled linseed oil.—Popular Science Monthly.

HORSE'S MUMMY IN COFFIN

Horses, as well as human beings, were preserved as mummies by the early Egyptians, according to discovery by British officials at Sakkara, near Cairo, Egypt. Popular Science Monthly reports that they found an eighteen-year-old Egyptian horse that had been mumified and ceremoniously buried about 3,000 years ago. It had been wrapped in cloth, and the doubled up legs were tied with papyrus ropes.

A.Y.P.A. DOMINION CONFERENCE IS OPENED WITH RALLY SERVICE WHICH FILLS ALL SAINTS' CHURCH

Lord Bishop of Niagara Preaches Stirring Sermon, Urging On Delegates Dedication of Conference To Christ and Carrying Of All Difficulties To Him.

REPENTANCE, FAITH AND OBEDIENCE ARE STRESSED BY SPEAKER AS NECESSARY IN LIFE'S PILGRIMAGE

Officials of Dominion Conference Read Lessons Specially Fitted For Service—Delegates and Local Members Join Heartily in Prayer and Praise.

All Saints' Church was filled last night for the great rally service which opened the twenty-fifth annual Dominion Conference of the Anglican Young People's Association, which is being held in this city. The lusty young voices, joining in the prayers and hymns of their beloved Church's beautiful ritual, filled the lofty nave of the spacious edifice, while they listened in rapt attention to a stirring conference message delivered by the Right Rev. D. T. Owen, Lord Bishop of Niagara.

"And the whole multitude sought to touch Him; for there went virtue out of Him, and He healed them all," the 19th verse of the 6th chapter of the Gospel according to Luke, was the text on which the reverend speaker based his discourse, in which he urged his hearers to look to Christ for guidance and grace for the conduct of their conference.

"We hear a great deal about the things that divide us, differences in race, in age, in politics, and in professions," he said. "These things make it hard for us to see eye to eye with others and to understand them. The most pitiful of these divisions is that between the different generations, between father and son, mother and daughter. There is a great deal said about this generation. You have read a great deal about how you differ from your fathers and mothers. When you are older you will be telling another generation the same things. It is pathetic that such a difference should come in a few short years, for a man's life is short compared to the age of the earth, but the fact remains that the difference is real and great, and it is difficult to reach across it.

"I wish to speak to you to-night," continued His Lordship, "not about the differences, but about that which unites us all. This first service of the conference is important, and those of us who are taking part in it have a great responsibility; we set the spirit or atmosphere of the conference. What have we been doing here? We have been worshipping God. He is the One Who understands perfectly. There is upon our Lord Jesus Christ eternal youth. We have gathered together as our first act to worship and adore Him. We are like the people of old, come to Him to ask Him to touch us because we cannot possibly do our work without the one who understands us all.

All Need Christ.

"This generation needs Christ; the last generation needed Christ; fundamentally we are the same ;our spirits and our difficulties are alike," he continued. "He enters every age in all its problems and details. There is nothing too big and nothing too small; the details of this convention concern Him. We make a mistake coming to Him as grown-up people, when He said the best way was to come as a child. Come to Him with each difficulty," urged the speaker. "I hope this conference will, as in other years, enthrone Him as God."

"He has messages for us, not new ones, but very old. The first is repentance. This is very far from being commonplace and ordinary. The man who is repentant is facing himself and trying not to be deluded. He keeps on with the pilgrimage he has marked out for himself. We can't build without knowing the foundation and without tearing down all that is old and bad.

"He is looking for faith in us. He can do mighty works where there is faith. What we need in this conference is repentance and faith. There are a great many things which distract us. We see exhibitions of bad spirit and wonder what it all means when it is being done in the name of God. Look at Him and keep Him in view, and your courage will be renewed and hearts strengthened to go on with the warfare."

The third message stressed by the Bishop was obedience, a stern, old-fashioned word. Christ, he said, never minimized the task nor pretended it was easy. It was hard for Him and is hard for everybody who follows Him. There can be no blurring of the distinctness between right and wrong, no playing with moral law without dreadful loss. He asks obedience, true living, pure living.

"Repentance, faith, and obedience," said His Lordship, in conclusion, "are incumbent on all who try to love Him. He stands among us asking us to come to Him for greater strength to go on with His work. Let this convention be dedicated to Him and His great service. Let the members take everything to Him for guidance and He will bring it to pass. We are called to be pilgrims, and if we would follow and be true pilgrims, we must be prepared to work in His way of repentance, faith, and obedience."

The prayers were said by Rev. G. S. Scivell and Rev. J. M. Crissall, while two officers of the Dominion Conference, W. R. Sproule, the president, and A. S. McConnell, vice-president, read the lessons. The Rt. Rev. J. F. Sweeny, Lord Bishop of Toronto, pronounced the benediction. All the local clergy and several visitors were in the chancel.

The hymns sung were appropriate for the occasion, and were heartily sung, with the choir of All Saints', augmented by some of the visitors, leading. The hymns were: "Who is on the Lord's side?" "Just as I am, Thine own to be," and "Thy Hand, O God, has guided." The choir sang the "Gloria" from Mozart's "Twelfth Mass" as an anthem during the offertory.

Mrs. Percy Hooper violinist, assisted in the service, playing also the prelude and postlude, accompanied on the organ by Mrs. Logan, organist of the church.

The Rev. J. Douglas Paterson, rector of All Saints', made the announcements of the services this morning and Sunday, when Holy Communion will be observed in all the Anglican churches of the city and the A.Y.P.A. will be in charge at 11 o'clock.

CHILDREN TELL OF MOVIE FIRE

One Declares Employee Stopped Those Coming Downstairs.

PERSON UNIDENTIFIED.

MONTREAL, Que., October 21 (Canadian Press). — Dramatic stories of how seventy-eight child victims of the Laurier Palace moving picture theatre fire last January were trapped and crushed to death, were told by witnesses when the trial opened yesterday of Ameen Lawrand ,the proprietor, and Michael Arie and Camil Bazzi, employees, on charges of manslaughter.

Nothing new, however, developed, save a statement that some children had broken window panes and climbed down a telegraph pole.

One witness declared Michael Arie had prevented children from leaving by the stairs, blocking their way and telling them there was no danger, but an eleven-year-old survivor said that although a man blocked his way, he was unable to identify any of the accused as the man.

Boy's Radio License Cancelled For Health

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21 (United Press)—The Federal Radio Commission heeded a father's plea and revoked the license of the "world's most enthusiastic radio fan, Eric Palmer, 17-year-old operator of Station 2ATZ, Brooklyn, N.Y.

Palmer's father appealed to the Commission to relieve the boy of the "radio mania" which he declared was ruining his health. The youth wouldn't eat, sleep, or pay attention to anything except his radio, the father said.

The Commission suspended the license until Palmer's health improves. "When Eric recovers he can have his license back," the Commission wrote the father, "as the United States depends largely on its 16,000 amateurs for radio advance work."

Mid-Ocean Airport Planned For Azores

HORTA, Azores, Oct. 21.—(Canadian Press).—Plans for the establishment here of the first mid-ocean airport have begun to take definite shape. The German steamer Furatoria had arrived with materials for airplane repairs, and these have been assigned a hangar where work of that kind will be carried on.

PILOT CLAIMS HE DEMANDED EXPLANATION

Former Naval Officer Did Not Know Dr. Logan Was Claiming Record.

SAW IT IN PAPERS.

He and Companion Then Forced Swimmer To Make Full Confession, He Says.

LONDON, Oct. 21. — (Canadian Press.)— The Daily Sketch to-day quoted Lieut. Commander L. S. Adam, retired, who acted as pilot for Dr. Dorothy Logan in her "hoax channel swim," as declaring that she confessed to the fake only when he and another member of her party demanded that she do so.

"I decided to insist that she make a full confession," Lieut. Adam said, after finding Dr. Logan was gravely compromising his honor by continuing to withhold certain facts about the swim. She had concealed from him the fact that she had got the thousand pounds reward, he claimed.

Adam said that only when he read it in the newspapers did he learn that Dr. Logan had received the reward and that she had signed a document stating she had made the swim in record time. Then he and George Woodward, another member of the party went to see Dr. Logan and demanded that the lie about the swim be withdrawn. He declared that the fact that he and Woodward were threatened with serious consequences induced him to make to-day's statement.

Miss Gleitz Crossing.

LONDON, Oct 21. — (Canadian Press.)—Miss Mercedes Gleitz, London typist, commenced a second channel swimming effort at 4.23 a.m. and at 10.35 a.m. was reported by the pilot of an airplane to be half way over.

Y'S MEN HEAR TALK ON FUTURE

N. R. Vinton, of Toronto Central Y.M.C.A., Addresses Local Club.

EVENTS ANNOUNCED.

N. R. Vinton, social secretary of Toronto Central Y.M.C.A. addressed the Peterborough Y's Men's Club at a supper meeting in the Y.M.C.A. last night. Although he warned his hearers that it would be a jumbled up address, the various points on which he touched all led to the same question, "Whither Bound." He took up this subject from a national standpoint, discussed the future of the Y's Men's Club and the Association, and also took up the matter of personal work.

The three points which Mr. Vinton stressed in his talk were loyalty, friendship, and sacrifice, which he said are necessary for the prosperity of any good work.

A vote of thanks was tendered by Arnold Lillow and Dick Hillman. President Roy White presided and Eric Fawcett was pianist. The decorations were arranged by Dick Hillman and Ed. Hall and called forth loud commendation. Announcement was made of Ladies' Night next Thursday, to take the form of a theatre party, and of a visit to the Belleville club on Nov. 4.

COUNTY'S EXPERT PLOWMEN COMPETE AT BIG MATCH

MAY FLY TO-DAY.

OLD ORCHARD, Me., October 21 (Canadian Press). — After receiving reports from ships at sea, Mrs. Frances Grayson set three o'clock this afternoon as the tentative time for the projected hop-off of the big amphibian plane Dawn on the flight to Denmark. A west wind makes the start difficult, but it was hoped it might ease down to permit of the take-off.

John O'Brien Wins the Burnham and Gordon Trophies at Plowing Match.

ON J. T. O'CONNELL'S FARM.

Victoria County Man Wins E. A. Peck Cup in Sod Class.

The annual plowing match of the Peterborough County Plowman's Association was held yesterday on the farm of J. T. O'Connell in the township of Otonabee. Every class was very closely contested. Twenty teams entered in the various sod competitions, three in the stubble, two three horse teams and two tractors.

The weather was ideal for the match and many citizens from the county and surrounding district visited the fields during the day. Plowmen were there from the Counties of Victoria and Durham.

The cup donated by E. A. Peck, M.P., for the best land plowed by high cut or sod plows was won by W. Short of Woodville, in the County of Victoria. The plowing of Mr. Short was admired by all. He had a perfect crown, a splendid finish, and his land was well set up with his high cut plow.

The Hon. G. N. Gordon Cup for the best plowing in sod under class three was won by John O'Brien of Indian River. This cup becomes the property of Mr. O'Brien as he has won it two years in succession in this class. Mr. O'Brien's crown was a little low, but he had a splendid land and finish.

The J. H. Burnham Cup, which is the real cup of the plowing match, was won by John O'Brien of Indian River, the winner of the Gordon trophy. This cup was for the best plowed land and there were two close competitors. John O'Brien, the winner, and Michael Leahy, the winner of Class Two. Mr. Liddle the judge, had to examine the lands several times before he could make the award. Mr. O'Brien was awarded the trophy on account of his splendid finish and his superior crown, the judge stated.

Duffus Special Prize.

Richard Rich of Victoria County, won the J. J. Duffus special prize for the youngest plowman ,being only 15 years old. He won over his twin brother in the plowing match held in Victoria county this week and he expects to have a try for first prize in the Durham match next week.

The closest competition of the day was in class two for common plows in sod in which Charles McLean gave Michael Leahy a hard run for first place.

There were two tractors at the match and both were Fordsons; the plowing done by the two was not the same but the work of Howard Quinn won over that of William Henderson.

The field in which the sod plowing was held was far from being good for a match and the judge complimented the men on the splendid work they had done in the rough ground.

Alex. Carlow of Indian River, did excellent work in the twin plow competition in stubble. Mr. Carlow is one of the winners at the recent provincial plowing match.

Oldest Plowman.

The oldest plowman was James Haverley of North Monaghan. He won second prize in the class for men over 65 years, first going to Edward Archer of Smith Township.

The officers of the Association are President Sidney Bennett; 1st vice-president, Robert Heffernan; 2nd vice-president, Harvey Webber; secretary-treasurer, J. B. Nelson; directors R. Dixon, R. T. Lillico, H. Quinn, Edward Archer, J. Crough, William Cavanagh, J. Hawthorne, John O'Brien, Ira Robson, W. Allen, T. H. Graham, E. Carlow, G. A. Gillespie and J. J. Duffus.

SOVIET CHARGE OF ESPIONAGE IS PROPAGANDA

Former Secretary of British Mission Says Charges Mean To Rouse People.

TO HATE GREAT BRITAIN.

Claims That Russians Are Employed Are Called Ridiculous and Impossible.

LONDON, October 21 (United Press). — The charges of espionage made by the Soviet Government against many Russians now on trial for their lives in Moscow and Leningrad, charged with action as British spies, are only chapters in the widespread propaganda plot to stir up the Russian people still further against Great Britain.

Edward Charnock, former secretary to the British Mission in Moscow, who himself has been charged by the Soviets with promoting the organization of a British spy system in Russia, declares that it is absolutely untrue that the British Mission ever engaged in espionage, and that the charges that they employed Russian spies are ridiculous on their face.

The Soviet accusation aaginst several who are now undergoing trial is that they were employed by the British Secret Service in order to obtain military and naval information about Soviet armaments. Mr. Charnock points out that if any Russian unconnected with the actual naval and military secrets of the Soviets would ever have ventured to have made the slightest inquiries showing curiosity about these things, he would have been immediately arrested and probably shot without any news of the trial being broadcast to the world.

The British Mission's relation with the Russian Foreign Office were always of the friendliest nature, Mr. Charnock says ,and British officials did nothing to violate the regular diplomatic rules.

LISBON, Portgual, October 21 (Canadian Press). — Ruth Elder, undaunted by the forced descent of her plane on the Atlantic last week, plans to fly from New York to Paris by air next August. Miss Elder says that after reaching Lisbon on the steamship Lima, now sailing here, she will fly to Paris and then to London, from where she will go by boat to New York to begin preparations for the next venture.

A.Y.P.A. HEARS GOOD REPORTS ON PAST YEAR

Greetings of B.Y.P.U. Are Tendered By Visitor From Brockville.

THOUGHTFUL PAPER.

Frank Stiling, B. A., of Brockville, Gives Address on National Organization.

This morning's business session of the twenty-fifth annual conference of the Dominion Anglican Young People's Association was held in St. John's Parish Hall, with the president, W. R. Sproule ,of Wycliffe College, Toronto, in the chair.

Adoption of minutes and reports of officers, with announcement of committees and an address by Frank Stiling, B.A., of London, Ontario, occupied the attention of the audience. Reports of the president, W. R. Sproule, of the secretary, Miss L. M. Moss ,of London, and of the treasurer, R. G. Towne, of Merritton appear in a later issue of The Examiner. All were received with applause by the memebrs.

Appointed on the Resolutions Committee were: Rev. J. N. H. Mills, B. A., of Goderich, F. Stiling, B.A., of London, Miss E. Oxley ,of St. Thomas, and R. G. Towne, of Merritton.

Names of the Nominating Committee are: Mr. Lewis of Thorold, Rev. F. Slack of Waterdown, T. H. Hollingsworth of Toronto, Mr. B. Graham of Peterborough, Miss L. M. Moss of London, Mr. H. Pettypiece of Paquette, Ont., and Miss Black of Kingston.

A. Reynolds, of Brockville, was present this morning to bring to the convention the greetings of the Young People's Council of the National Board of Religious Education, and also to voice the best wishes of the Baptist Young People's Union of Ontario and Quebec, of which he is secretary. He said:

"We appreciate to the fullest extent the spirit of friendship and cooperation shown by your organization, and we hope that God's richest blessings may rest on your deliberations. Your name of Anglican Young People's Association means so much. The word 'Anglican' carries with it a noble heritage from the past; 'Young' means that the youth of the country is challenged more than ever before, especially in the matter of the on-pressing tide of immigration at our doors, with these people looking to us for Christian ideals; 'People' stands for all the citizens of the nation who are willing to co-operate with the youth of the land in this great 'Association.'"

A. S. McConnell, first vice-president, acknowledged with thanks Mr. Reynolds' words of friendship, and also went on to ask that the greetings of the convention be sent to the Triennial Session of the Dominion Board of the Women's Auxiliary, now meeting in Toronto. This was done.

Frank Stiling, B.A., of London, Ont., delivered a singularly impressive and thoughtful address on "The A.Y.P.A. as a National Organization." He referred in introduction to the work done in foundation of the Association, three decades ago, by the late Canon Brown, and went on to point out that, although the society has widespread ramifications, it has not yet become as nationally active as it might, with greater effort.

Problems to Be Faced.

Speaking of the problem of the foreign-born citizens, he said that, although educated in their own land in Christian ideals, they do not always keep to these paths when they leave their native country. They become educated in our schools and they absorb some of our civilization. Then they regard their own parents as inferior because they do not understand our language and are not at ease in our community life. Organizations such as ours, particularly those situated on the prairies, may do much for these people.

"There is another problem that must be recognized. A clergyman speaking recently from the pulpit said 'The professing Christians of the twentieth century would not compare

Wife of Accused Unable to Endure Ordeal on Stand

Visibly Affected During Examination By Mr. O'Brien, Followed By Complete Break-down at the Commencement of the Cross-examination By Crown Attorney Hatton.

DR. YOUNG, M.O.H., TELLS COURT WITNESS IS IN EXTREMELY NERVOUS CONDITION

Lawyers For Both Crown and Defence Experience Considerable Trouble With Witnesses, All of Whom Were Aged and More or Less Deaf.

Charged with assault occasioning actual bodily harm to Sabina Calberry, an aged inmate of the House of Refuge, John Maize, until a few days ago Superintendent of that institution, was allowed his liberty on his own recognizance until Saturday next, when it is expected the case will be completed.

The case for the Crown was presented before His Worship Magistrate O. A. Langley yesterday afternoon and everything indicated that the case would be disposed of before the court adjourned. J. A. O'Brien, counsel for the defence, placed Mrs. Margaret Maize, wife of the accused, in the witness box as the first witness of the defence. He explained to His Worship that he was acting in direct opposition to the doctor's orders in doing so, but felt that her evidence was of vital importance. Mrs. Maize was visibly affected during the examination by Mr. O'Brien and when Crown Attorney Hatton commenced his cross examination, exclaimed that she was not able to endure the ordeal any longer.

His Worship called on Dr. T. W. H. Young, who was in the court, and asked him to examine the witness and ascertain if it would be possible for her to submit to the cross examination. Dr. Young, after examining the witness, told His Worship that it would be dangerous to put the witness into the box again, as she was in an extremely nervous condition.

The evidence of the three Crown witnesses indicated that the accused struck the old woman with a garden rake, the property of the House of Refuge, but this was refuted by Mrs. Maize, who stated that her husband struck Mrs. Carberry with his fist after she had thrown a stick of wood at him.

That members of the Peterborough County Council were interested in the trial was indicated by the presence of several of them in the court, including the Warden of the County.

F. D. Kerr, K.C., was also present. He holds a watching brief for the Peterborough County Council.

Trouble With Witnesses

The lawyers for both the Crown and the defence experienced considerable trouble with the witnesses, all of whom were aged and more or less deaf. It was only by constant reiteration of questions that they were able to obtain the information they desired. Answers to some of the questions were startling, coming as a bolt from the blue and apparently having no connection with the query. Perseverance on the lawyers' part finally won out, and intelligent answers were extracted.

Mrs. Calberry.

Mrs. Calberry, the victim of the alleged assault, was the first witness called by Crown Attorney Hatton. After taking the oath administered by Magistrate Langley, she was permitted to sit down in the witness box in deference to her age and apparent feebleness.

What is your first name? asked Mr. Hatton.

Frances.

You are an inmate of the House of Refuge?

Yes.

Carroll Is Released From Federal Prison

ATLANTA, Ga., Oct. 21 (Associated Press).—Earl Carroll was released from the Federal Penitentiary here last night on parole.

The New York theatrical producer was met at the prison by his wife and other relatives who had come here to greet him and return with him to Broadway. They left at once in automobiles for a downtown hotel, where Carroll had announced he would issue a prepared statement to newspaper men. Carroll walked through the penitentiary gates a free man after having served a little more than four months of his sentence of a year and a day for perjury in connection with his celebrated "bathtub" party in New York in 1926.

PLANE TURNS BACK.

Leak in Oil Tank Forces Return of Heinkle Plane To Azores.

LISBON, Portugal, Oct. 21 (Canadian Press).—The Heinkel hydro-airplane, D-1220, which took off for the Azores early today, returned shortly afterwards with a leak in the oil tank. The plane is en route to the United States, and it had gone but a short distance when forced to turn back.

POLICE COURT.

Ralph Patrick and Mary Anne Norris pleaded guilty to the charge of vagrancy this morning, and His Worship Magistrate Langley told them to leave the city. They claimed that they were going to Montreal to find work and His Worship thought it would be a good opportunity to get rid of them.

AVIATORS SET TWO RECORDS ARGENTINE HOP

Were First To Fly Across the South Atlantic Without a Stop.

MAKE SHORTEST TIME.

Forced To Make Two Extra Laps Because of Bad Weather.

BUENOS AIRES, Oct. 21 (Associated Press).—Dieudenne Costes and Lt. Lebrix, who left the French capital October 10, arrived in Buenos Aires yesterday with the first regular mail across the South Atlantic. The aviators set two records. They made the entire flight in the shortest time so far, and also were the first to fly across the South Atlantic without a stop. The hop from Africa to South America is considered here to be more remarkable in view of the failure of the several previous attempts and also because it was in a land plane.

The flight was scheduled to be done in four laps, but because of bad weather the fliers were compelled to make two extra laps, stopping at Caravellas and Pelotas, Brazil, in order to avoid reaching Rio Janeiro and Buenos Aires respectively at night, thereby losing two days.

The success of the flight is considered here a most important demonstration of the feasibility of a regular mail service between Europe and South America, for which a French company already has a contract.

Thousands of spectators, including many officials, cordially welcomed the aviators when they arrived. The fliers were met outside the city by an escort of naval planes which flew in with them.

Hop-Off To-Day.

LISBON, Portugal, Oct. 21 (Associated Press).—The German Heinkel plane D-1220 will probably take off from here this morning for the Azores. From there the German airmen will fly to Harbor Grace, Nfld.

The pilot of the D-1220, Hortz Merz, with his comrades, Rhode and Bock, was engaged all afternoon in the final preparations. All the men displayed the greatest optimism over the success of their flight. They went over the machine very carefully yesterday, examining every screw valve and stay and inspecting the instruments.

Merz thinks they will make the Azores within ten hours. The flight will start about 10 o'clock from within 100 yards of the Tower of Belem, from which town Vasco Da Gama set out on his voyage of discovery of the ocean route to India.

The members of the Portuguese aviation corps are tending every assistance in the preparations. The aviators themselves believe that they will arrive safely on the American side of the Atlantic, thus proving that the possibility of opening a commercial air route between Europe and America.

Revive French Aviation.

PARIS, October 21 (Associated Press).—The triumphant conclusion of the Costes-Lebrix Paris to Buenos Aires flight has sent the French people into ecstacies, not so much on account of the feat itself, but because it is regarded as a vindication of French aviation, which, critics have said, had fallen asleep on its past laurels.

The Petit Parisien, voicing general sentiment, says:

"For poor aviators of an unfortunate country, which appeared no longer to have any aviation, Costes and Lebrix have succeeded pretty well. The lesson to our professional or amateur pessimists is a good one."

The two French aviators, it is contended, have made a Paris - Buenos Aires air mail line a practical proposition, for technicians point out that if they were able to accomplish this feat with what to all intents and purposes was a military model, slightly modified for the occasion, it would be all the more easy for commercial machines specially adapted for the purpose, in which reliability is placed above mere speed.

The hope is expressed that with Government support no time will be lost in building such planes.

Paris Puzzles Over Prince Carol's "Affair" Neither He Nor Mm. Lupescu Can Be Found

PARIS, October 21. — Have former Crown Prince Carol of Roumania and his titian-haired mistress ,Mme. Lupescu, parted company, and is Carol planning to return to Roumania, and where is Carol and where is Mme. Lupescu? These questions are chasing each other all over the French capital to-day, and as yet no one has a satisfactory answer.

One thing is sure. The residence of "His Majesty," as Carol calls himself, on Boulevard Bineau at Neuilly is dark, and even a servant does not answer the door bell.

Up from Bucharest came the first report that Carol and the woman, who many say cost him his throne, had parted. A man of whom Carol has made a confidant, and who has helped him in some of his tangled affairs, said he could confirm the report.

He declared that the rupture came on Monday of last week, when Mme. Lupescu and Carol parted company for good. It was hinted that the reasons were partly personal on Carol's part, but perhaps largely political in nature.

He added that Carol had left Paris, but would not say where he had gone, but added that it was not to Roumania. As for Mme. Lupescu, he did not know where she had gone, whether to Vienna, as reported, or not.

Inquiries directed at the Roumanian Legation brought the reply that the story could not be true, because Carol and Mme. Lupescu had been seen shopping in a big downtown department store yesterday. It was even added that he had his arms full of parcels. Furthermore, it was said that a friend of his, a Roumanian Deputy, had seen them together yesterday.

And so the situation is about as clear as most of Carol's are.

FARMERS BUSY NEAR STIRLING

Apple Picking and Potato Digging Are October Tasks.

THRESHERS BUSY YET.

STIRLING, Oct. 21.—Farmers are busy with their plowing. The work is quite difficult in some parts on account of the hardened condition of the soil.

Apple picking has been a recent task, with a good yield in most cases.

Potato digging is also being attended to with good results. Very little complaint is made regarding rot.

The threshing machines are still on the move, completing their fall work.

The average price of cheese for September was $21.05 per cwt, 3 per cent milk being worth $1.46 net to the patron.

ST. ANDREW'S W.M.S.

Regular Monthly Meeting Featured By Address By Rev. D. Wren.

St. Andrew's W.M.S. held its regular monthly meeting on Thursday, October 18, which was quite well attended. The president, Mrs. J. W. Gordon, was in the chair.

After the devotional exercises routine business was transacted, the ladies deciding to hold a tea at the Manse on Wednesday, November 2. Mrs. Edwards read the Scripture lesson while Mrs. Elliott led in prayer. The beautiful vocal solo, "From Ocean to Ocean", by Mrs. Ross Williamson was a very pleasing feature of the meeting.

Rev. D. Wren, pastor of Trinity church, was the principal speaker of the afternoon, his address being greatly appreciated by the members.

The Watch Tower, under the leadership of Mrs. A. Porteous, was again heard from, Mrs. M. Breckenbridge responding for Africa, Mrs. Nelson for China, and Miss Best for Korea.

Prayers were offered by Mrs. J. John and Mrs. J. W. Gordon, after which the meeting was brought to a close.

BANDITS LEFT DUSTY TRAIL

No Clues Found of Robbers of Toronto Bank.

MAY BE MONTREAL GANG.

TORONTO, Oct. 21. — After their swift robbery of the Bank of Nova Scotia, Ossington Avenue and Dundas Street, yesterday morning of $6,900, the three bandits, accompanied by a woman, left nothing on their trail but a cloud of dust for the police to grope in. Inspector of Detectives Guthrie admitted yesterday afternoon that the identity or whereabouts of the bandits are both unknown.

Speculation as to the identity of the gang in police circles leans toward the belief that they are the second shift of the Montreal thugs picked up on Sunday in a Sherbourne Street rooming house. Three men and a woman were picked up then, and taken to Montreal to stand trial on bank robbery, jewellery, and pay-roll thefts.

MACNEILL SUCCEEDS CECIL IN CABINET

Financial Secretary of Treasury Becomes Chancellor of Lancaster.

LONDON, Oct. 21.—(Canadian Press).—The appointment of Ronald F. MacNeill, M.P., financial secretary to the treasury, as successor to Viscount Cecil of Chelwood in the Chancellory of Duchy of Lancaster and the Baldwin Cabinet was announced last night. It is regarded as a natural step from the position which he occupied.

WINNIPEG WHEAT

WINNIPEG, Man., Oct. 21 (Canadian Press).—Last minute hedging pressure upset the wheat market here yesterday. There was not enough buying power to take care of the offerings and as a result the fractional gains which had been held for the greater part of the session were wiped away. Final quotations were around the low point of the day at a decline of 7-8 to 1 3-8c.

Export sales did not exceed 600,000 bushels, but spreading operations were on the increase.

There was a revival of demand for barley, seaboard interests reporting sales amounting to 300,000 bushels overnight. The rye market also was moderately active.

OLD PASTOR WILL SPEAK

Rev. George I. Craw To Preach Anniversary Services on Sunday.

AT LAKEVALE.

The Rev. George I. Craw, of Victoria Harbord, will be special preacher on Sunday at the Lakevale anniversary. Mr. Craw is well known in this district, as he was the minister at Springville and Lakevale from 1914 until union was consumated. He was one of the three ministers in the Presbytery that stayed with the Presbyterian church when union came into effect. Service on Sunday will be at 11.00 a.m. and 7.00 p.m. Special music will be provided by the choir and those who attend are assured of hearing two excellent addresses.

MILLBROOK NEWS.

MILLBROOK, Oct. 21.—Mr. J. R. Eakins, who was a delegate to the Conservative convention at Winnipeg, has returned home.

Mr. E. Hansman, of Port Hope was a week end guest at the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Johnston, and assisted with the music at the United church special services on Sunday.

Mr. W. J. E. Gillott has recently had two parrots in window of his business premises, both of brilliant green plumage, the one imported from Cuba having vivid scarlet on head and neck; the other is an Australian bird. Both can be coaxed to talk a little when the mood suits them. During the days of the fall fair, when all the merchants in town had special window displays, Mr. Gillott featured Made-in-Canada goods entirely, furniture in upholstered and wicker designs being shown with a number of pieces, such as small rockers and doll's cradles, which were of particular interest to the children.

There was no service in Grace Presbyterian church, nor Saint Thomas Anglican church, on Sunday evening, the latter being withdrawn on account of the harvest thanksgiving service at Christ church, Bailieboro, Rev. J. D. Paterson, of All Saints' church, Peterborough, being the preacher. The congregation at the United church, which observed its anniversary occasion on Sunday was considerably augumented since this was the only church service in the village at night. Saint Thomas' church has changed its Sunday school hour of meeting from 9.30 a.m. to 2.30 in the afternoon for the fall and winter months.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Brock, and daughter, Miss Myrtle, of Peterborough, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. G.E. Burnham on Sunday and attended the anniversary services at the United church.

L. H. Winslow, second vice-president of the Ontario Plowmen's Association, attended the international plowing match at Langstaff last week. Others who went from here were Harry Ball, E. A. Fallis, Arthur Fallis, Leonard Henderson, and David Sharpe; the latter entered the competition but failed to carry off a prize this year. Mr. Winslow is acting as judge at a county plowing match at Napanee on Thursday.

Clare Winslow, David Sharpe, and Harry McCamus are entering as contestants at the Victoria county plowing-match near Omemee on Tuesday of this week, and will go on to the one for Peterboroug county on Wednesday. L. H. Winslow will also attend these matches. The local plowing-match is at F. Gibson's farm, (the old Shaw homestead) on the boundary between Cavan and Hope townships, on Wednesday, October 26.

Miss M. E. Needham who has been absent for some weeks judging ladies' work, domestic science, etc., at a number of fall fairs, under the Department of Agriculture, returned home on Saturday.

Miss M. Galbraith of Toronto, who judged the ladies' work, dairy products, etc. at the local fall fair this season, was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. I. Needham during her stay in town.

Hugh Kennedy is taking a trip to the West intending to go as far as the coast before his return. Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Kenney, their little son, Russel, Mrs. H. Russell, and Miss Luella Kennedy are on a motor trip through the state of Pennsylvania.

By decision of the council Councillor P. Stinson is acting Reeve while Mr. Wood is absent in the west on business.

The weekly social gathering of the 'west enders' was held at Mr. F. A. Kidd's on Thursday evening last week instead of Tuesday, the usual night for the meeting. The good time which characterises all these social evenings was enjoyed with music, dancing, and social intercourse featuring the gathering.

The agitation to have all the local merchants observe the early closing by-law, which means that all places of business are closed at 6 p.m. except on Wednesday and Saturdays during the winter months, is gaining strength and those alleged to be breaking the law are being notified that such action must cease immediately.

Misses Edith Deyell, Florence Fallis, and Laura Foley were among the teachers from this district who attended the teachers' convention at Cobourg last week.

Reeve W. T. Wood has left on his annual fall trip to Souris to look after his business interests in that section. Miss M. Kerr of Toronto is the guest of Miss Margaret Wood at present.

J. H. George's sale of farm implements, stock, etc., which was to have been held last Wednesday, was postponed until Thursday, October 20, on account of the heavy rain. H. Roddy is the auctioneer.

PRIMATE MAKES NO COMMENT ON BARNE'S LETTER

Impossible To Say Whether Archbishop Make Reply Public or Private.

DIFFICULT POSITION.

Suggested in Some Circles That Bishop Be Tried For Heresy.

LONDON, October 21. — Canadian Press. — The religious controversy continues to rage around the Bishop of Birmingham's letter to the Archbishop of Canterbury. Bishop Barnes in his letter declared that the doctrine of transubstantiation is untrue, and ranged himself on the side of scientists regarding the evolution theory as opposed to theologians who ignored scientific teachings.

In certain Anglo-Catholic circles, says the Westminster Gazette, it has been suggested that Bishop Barnes should be tried for heresy but the Bishops are not likely to adopt such a procedure, which has been in disuse for over two centuries.

The Archbishop of Canterbury's secretary informed the Westminster Gazette that the Archbishop had seen the Bishop's letter but had made no comment on it. It is impossible to say whether any reply the Archbishop might make would be public or private.

It is pointed out that the Bishop of Birmingham has created a precedent which places the Archbishop of Canterbury in a difficult position, because throughout the history of the Church of England there is no record of a Bishop having addressed a letter to the head of the church on a doctrinal question especially such a controversial doctrine as transubstantiation.

May Petition Archbishop

The Westminster Gazette adds that Bishop Barnes has also placed himself in a position of jeopardy, because his opponents may petition the Archbishop on matters contained in his letter and it would be the Archbishop's duty to act upon it.

The Rector of Birmingham, Canon Guy Rogers, preaching yesterday from the same pulpit from which the Bishop of Birmingham recently delivered his controversial sermon declared that the Christian faith would be exposed to severer shocks in the near future than ever in the past. He assumed that the Bishop of Birmingham was like the captain of a ship who was clearing his decks for action and throwing overboard what he deemed cumbersome or worthless.

Nansen's Work For Russia With Nobel Prize Brought To Nought By Soviet Opposition

GENEVA, October 21. — Dr. Fridtjof Nansen, famous explorer and humanitarian, has been weaned from his early sympathy with the Soviets by the treatment which he recently received at their hands. Dr. Nansen, who was appointed High Commissioner to Russia by the League of Nations, devoted his Nobel Prize award of 120,000 Swedish crowns, with $100,000 he had collected, to efforts to improve the condition of the Russian peasants.

With the object of teaching them modern farming methods, he obtained from the Soviet Governments in the Dneiper and Saratof regions concessions of land, upon which he founded model farms, with the latest equipment in machinery and tools. The Nansen stations soon began to pay their way, but the peasantry, instead of reagrding them as useful object lessons, saw in them a scheme to deprive them of their own lands.

When Dr. Nansen began to exploit a sandpit on his property on the Dneiper the local authorities inflicted such a heavy fine for not asking previous permission to work the pit that he was obliged to cease work on his farms temporarily to come to some arrangement. The Soviet authorities took the suspension as an excuse for withdrawing the concessions, and Dr. Nansen lost not only his money, but several years of hard work, as well.

TUG SINKS IN CANAL.

Suction of Large Freighter Causes Disaster To Small Vessel.

ST. CATHARINES, Oct. 21.—(Canadian Press).—The tug Escort, owned by John Harrigan of Port Dalhousie, was sunk in the Welland Canal at Ramey's Bend between Welland and Port Colborne, the crew being saved. The escort was towing the barge Thompson upward when a steamer travelling in the same direction endeavored to pass. The suction of the big freighter drew the tug against it, snapping the stem of the smaller craft and causing her to go to the bottom in a few minutes. The smoke stack and top of the pilot house of the tug was visible above water. She lies twenty feet from shore but does not obstruct traffic.

TALKS ON MISSIONS ARE GIVEN A.Y.P.A.

Rev. and Mrs. P. C. Howard Address Omemee Branch on Work.

OMEMEE, Oct. 21.—The missionary evening held by the Omemee A. Y. P. A. on Oct. 17 will be remembered as one of the most interesting of its kind ever attended by the members. The Rev. P. C. Howard, of Millbrook, assisted by his wife, were the special speakers.

Mr. Howard presented a strong argument in favor of missions in the Far North where he and Mrs. Howard toiled for several years. His account of the trip up North, the experiences of his work and of incidents which happened, formed a most interesting talk.

Mrs. Howard spoke delightfully on her views of the northern clime, and told some interesting facts touching on the lighter side of the great work of the missionary.

Both speakers dwelt on the importance of the calling, and expressed a hope that the young people might take a more serious view of missions. To add to the success of the evening, W. G. Stephenson favored the gathering with a solo in his usual excellent manner.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON.

THE CALL OF THE PROPHET

The International Uniform Sunday School Lesson for Oct. 23: The Call of the Prophet.—Kings 19:19, 20; Amos 7:14, 15; Isaiah 6:1-8.

BY WM. E. GILROY, D.D.
Editor of The Congregationalist.

I Kings 19:19, 20; Amos 7:14, 15; Isaiah 6:1-8.

So he departed thence, and found Elisha the son of Shaphat, who was plowing with twelve yoke of oxen before him, and he with the twelfth: and Elijah passed by him, and cast his mantle upon him.

And he left the oxen, and ran after Elijah, and said, Let me, I pray thee, kiss my father and my mother, and then I will follow thee. And he said unto him, Go back again: for what have I done to thee?

Then answered Amos, and said to Amaziah, I was no prophet, neither was I a prophet's son; but I was an herdman, and a gatherer of sycamore fruit:

And the Lord took me as I followed the flock, and the Lord said unto me, Go, prophesy unto my people Israel.

In the year that King Uzziah died I saw also the Lord sitting upon a throne, high and lifted up, and his train filled the temple.

Above it stood the seraphim: each one had six wings; with twain he covered his face, and with twain he covered his feet, and with twain he did fly.

And one cried unto another, and said Holy, holy, holy is the Lord of hosts: the whole earth is full of his glory.

And the posts of the door moved at the voice of him that cried, and the house was filled with smoke.

Then said I, Woe is me! for I am undone; because I am a man of unclean lips, and I dwell in the midst of a people of unclean lips: for mine eyes have seen the King, the Lord of hosts.

Then flew one of the seraphim unto me, having a live coal in his hand, which he had taken with the tongs from off the altar:

And he laid it upon my mouth and said, Lo, this hath touched thy lips; and thine iniquity is taken away, and thy sin purged.

Also I heard the voice of the Lord, saying, Whom shall I send, and who will go for us? Then said I, Here am I; send me.

The passages chosen for our lesson reveal to us much more than the circumstances of the call of three different men to be prophets. They may be said rather to suggest or typify the nature of the prophetic impulse and the way in which the call comes to men in general.

In two instances of the three the circumstances are not dissimilar. The call came to Elisha while he was plowing with oxen in the field. To Amos the call came when he was attending to his duties as a herdsman and a gatherer of fruit. In the case of Isaiah the call to the prophetic function seemed more in accordance with what we might expect. It came while he was at worship, in a vision that corresponded to his devotional mood.

These phases of the prophetic call, however, are not as different as they might seem. Had there been no worshipful spirit in Elisha and Amos as they went about their daily tasks there would have been no prophetic call or no capacity for hearing it and responding to it. Had there been in Isaiah simply a worshipful mood, with no great practical willingness to serve, his experience would have expressed itself in mere feeling, and he would not have responded to the voice of the call saying, "Here am I; send me."

The Call.

These indications of the way in which God called men to great prophetic service in the past are exceedingly important for today. We might be disposed to say that those who have been accorded a distinctive place in the record of the world's great prophets were surely specially prepared for their task.

We might at least be inclined to regard their office as one that arose through unusual circumstances and a very clear and distinctive call. The call, as a matter of fact, was clear and distinctive, but the outstanding impression of our lesson is that it came not in any extreme or unusual form, but as a profound conviction of call and duty experienced by men as they pursued their ordinary occupations.

One might even lay a certain stress upon the identification in ancient Israel of prophecy with vigorous out-of-doors life in field and vineyard. How often even in the cities, where men congregate, the really prophetic voice has come from the country or from the wilderness! It is out in the open spaces where men feel something of the vastness of the universe and the greatness of God; it is in the elemental experience of daily living, as men produce the means of life from the soil; that they come to real and clear perceptions of value.

There are few false assumptions or unrealities here. The conditions and foundations of existence are daily enforced upon the minds and consciousness o men and the mysteries of Providence are brought very definitely into the range of individual experience Hope and fear, service and devotion become emphasized when life is lived under such conditions and when without an elemental faith and willingness to work with Providence, the very conditions of life cannot be fulfilled.

It was some such rugged clearness of vision with a power to see things without sophistication and corruption that Elisha was brought from his driving of oxen to the larger office of the prophet. As he had learned to plow a straight furrow so his new task was characterized by a simple directness of purpose.

So also Amos brought from the fields a deep and wide range of vision. We might almost think in connection with him of the plainsman who went some years ago to San Francisco. He stayed but a few days. Every day when he got up in his hotel he looked out upon a brick wall, and he had to get out where, as he said in his descriptive fashion, he could "stretch his vision."

Real Progress.

Was it any wonder that Amos sounded a vital note of righteousness in Israel? That he came into the very center of the nation in a time of apparent prosperity and swept aside all the glittering unrealities of this assumed progress, reminding Israel of the only secure foundations of civilization and religion?

The true spirit of the prophet is revealed in the profound sense of duty that moved all three of these men. We find it emphasized in their great individuality, in their lack of all pretense, and in their emphasis upon the prophetic purpose rather than upon the mere outward office and any supposed distinction that might be attached to it.

Amos is almost rude in his insistence that he is neither a prophet nor the son of a prophet. Possibly he had a mild contempt for prim, conventional and ineffectual official prophets who gloried more in their office than in their essential tasks.

Moreover, the spirit of the prophet is emphasized in the directness with which they obeyed the call as it came. It is one thing to hear a call even from God. It is quite another thing to obey it. The prophet never stands forth in effectiveness until having heard the call and having sensed the need, he replied in humility as well as in courage "Here am I; send me."

THE AVIATION CLUB.

Peterborough's new Aviation Club, literally, may be said to have got away to a flying start, and the hopes that this city might be among the first in the country to secure the two light flying planes offered by the Department of Defence seem likely to be fulfilled.

The organization, which has as its objects the fostering of an interest in flying, the bringing together of men who have been flyers, the promotion of commercial aviation and the establishment of air force reserve, is headed by well-known citizens with a reputation of making a success of whatever they tackle, and there is every cause for confidence in their ability to secure similar results in the present venture.

Great enthusiasm is being shown in connection with the organization, and Peterboroughs reputation as a flying centre, already widespread as a result of the activities of the Canadian Air Services Company, will be enhanced through the formation of the Aviation Club.

RESEARCH PAYS.

The Examiner has for years advocated more financial support for research work in Canada, claiming that the outlay would be justified through the addition to the national wealth that could be expected from such a policy.

As proof of the truth of such an argument the recommendations made by the Grain Committee of the Canadian Research Council to the Board of Grain Commissioners may be brought forward.

Scientists of the Research Council have discovered methods of commercial drying of tough and damp grain that will prevent injury to the milling and baking qualities of the wheat.

It is estimated that these recommendations when put into effect will save millions of dollars in the marketing of each year's prairie grain crop.

Here is one outstanding example of what research work means to the people of this country; with proper financial support it could be duplicated often enough to make the investment decidedly worth while.

TAG DAY AT NORWOOD.

The attention of Norwood readers of The Examiner is called to the fact that tomorrow there will be a tag day collection in that village on behalf of the Children's Aid Society.

The people of Peterborough have already contributed liberally toward financing the operations of the Society for the coming year, and last Saturday the citizens of Havelock and Lakefield were also called upon, and responded freely.

There is every assurance that the good folks of Norwood will meet the appeal in the same spirit tomorrow.

The Children's Aid Society is not a city organization; it operates on behalf of neglected and dependent children no matter where they may be located.

As a matter of fact, it is more often called upon to investigate rural cases than it is to inquire into conditions in city homes, and many of its wards have come from the surrounding districts.

The duty of financing such an important work should in all fairness, therefore, be divided so that the whole county may participate, and it is with this object in view that the tag day campaign method has been extended to include the villages in the county.

PAMPERING THE APATHETIC.

The problem of how best to stimulate interest in civic elections is by no means peculiar to Peterborough.

Indifference on the part of a large percentage of electors toward municipal affairs seems to be a condition that is met generally throughout the Province, and the experiment that is to be launched by the Kiwanis Club of St. Thomas will, therefore, be followed with considerable interest.

As its contribution toward a more general expression of public opinion at municipal elections, the St. Thomas service club has decided to establish a central information bureau, and to furnish motor cars for electors who have no means of transportation to the polls.

It is a sad commentary on public intelligence that it has become necessary to go to such lengths to persuade people to use their franchise.

If men and women in perfect health will not walk a block or two to help decide the personnel of the civic bodies who will carry on the business of the public, they deserve to see their municipality governed extravagantly and inefficiently.

Such citizens have no right to complain of the manner in which the affairs of the city are managed, nor should they venture to utter a protest if their tax bills grow steadily larger.

They are willing to let other people decide the composition of the municipal governing bodies, and having taken that attitude, the least they can do for the balance of the year is to remain silent no matter how badly their pocket-books may be squeezed.

TOURISTS AND THE LIQUOR ACT.

In the Niagara Peninsula, there have been a few cases of breaches of the Act by American visitors, but the result has been far from an orgy. No complaint has been registered of all-night parties to the annoyance of others, from the lakeside resorts and cottage camps. The fact of the matter is that the American tourist who leaves home for an outing with his family is pretty much of a self-respecting citizen, the same as the Canadian tourists who can afford a trip away. The hard drinkers do not predominate among this class.

Ontario has other assets besides the privilege to purchase booze to attract the American tourist. Our good roads are becoming better known every year, our climate, our scenery, an atmosphere removed from industrialism, all afford a relaxation to the tired business man and worker, which constitutes an essential change to the making of a good wholesome holiday. In other words, nine-tenths of the tourists are just folks, like Canadians themselves, and further evidence will have to be adduced that beyond one or two notorious border points, this Province has become the mecca for gunsters.

There is no doubt, however, that the Liquor Control Act has been an attraction to that class of American who patronizes a home bootlegger for questionable stuff at exorbitant price. When Mr. Hanna makes his returns for the fiscal year, it will be interesting to note what revenue was received from the issue of tourist liquor permits. It is a tax which will not be regretted. There have been some very busy days at the St. Catharines store, consequent upon the arrival of Americans, but what percentage were these to the general volume of traffic flowing through at the rate of 700 to 1,000 cars per hour? The main concern of those in authority is to prevent disorder and to ensure sane and safe observance of the liberties enjoyed under the new Act. It will remain for public opinion in the Province to determine if the new system is a success or failure in that respect. It is an issue on which, no doubt, there will be sharp difference of opinion. Possibly more than one summer is required before final judgment can be passed.—St. Catharines Standard.

WESTERN MANNERS IN THE EAST.

Hiram W. Bingham, United States Senator for Connecticut, has been visiting China, the Philippines and the Hawaiian Islands, and his observations and reflections are most illuminating in regard to the relations between the Western and the Oriental races. At a dinner given in his honor in Honolulu he said: "I want to tell you right now that if a half-dozen of the prominent white people of Manila were to invite a few of the cultured Filipinos to be their guests at a tea the agitation for Philippine independence would die right then and there." In order to illustrate the wrong way of dealing with the Orientals he related an experience in Shanghai. He had called upon a wealthy and highly respected Chinaman, who had graduated from Yale, as had his two sons, and whose wife and two daughters had been educated at a first-rate girls' school in America. The Senator accompanied him to the bank of the International Banking Corporation, where the Chinaman presented a check for $1,800 to meet his payroll for the week. The teller cursed the swore at him, and told him to go down to the other end of the building with the rest of the Chinamen.

Later on in his address the Senator described a visit he paid to the parks of Shanghai—"parks on Chinese soil in a city where Chinese pay 60 per cent. of the taxes." In these parks he found himself confronted with signs reading: "No Chinamen or dogs allowed." He went on to tell of a conversation he had in Tientsin with another cultured Chinaman, also a graduate of Yale. He asked this man what was the real reason for the anti-foreign feeling in China. "The eyes of the Chinese blazed," he said, "when he replied that it was the insolence, the snobbery, and assumption of superiority of the white man, his insulting treatment of the Chinese on their own soil."

"Turning then from the Orient," says The New York Evening Post, "to Hawaii, where he was born and raised, and whose people are his own people, Senator Bingham uttered the warning: 'There's beginning to be too much of that kind of thing right here!'"

Too often, in discussing the relations of white men with Orientals in China, India and elsewhere, the official actions of Governments and their agents alone are considered. An ambassador and his staff are usually trained to be courteous. But the natives probably meet far more white men in business than Government officials, and they judge the white man accordingly. One would imagine that the heads of an institution like the International Banking Corporation in Shanghai would be intelligent enough to understand this, and would lay the utmost stress on the obligation of courtesy on the part of their clerks in dealing with natives. That a teller should have spoken as he did to a Chinese gentleman is a pretty clear indication that no such lesson was taught. And yet such businessmen, utterly careless about arousing racial hatreds, would probably be among the first to try to drag their own country into a war largely due to their own stupidity and arrogance.

Senator Bingham refused to attend a dinner in the Army and Navy Club in Manila as a guest of honor because no Filipinos were allowed to enter the building. He is the type of man who ought to represent the Government of the United States in their colonies. Personal insults and slights such as he refers to may be far more harmful to good relations than what are called substantial grievances. That lesson ought to be impressed not only upon Government officials, but upon all white men and women living in Oriental countries.

There is a lesson also for Canada. If we find it necessary to exclude Chinamen or Japanese, or greatly restrict such immigration, we ought to make it quite clear that our action is due, not to a belief in their inferiority, but to a desire to protect ourselves against the competition of equals, and to hold our sparsely-settled territory for our own race. That may appear, to the Oriental, selfish, but it will not be insulting, and insolence is far more likely to rankle than selfishness.—London Advertiser.

MONTREAL GRAIN AND PRODUCE

MONTREAL, Oct. 21 (Canadian Press). — A moderate amount of business was done in wheat with foreign buyers here yesterday, but the demand for coarse grains was slow. In the local market exporters took a few loads of Manitoba feed wheat at 99c per bushel, c.i.f. Montreal, and sales of American No. 2 hard wheat were made at 9½c per bushel over the Chicago December option, c.i.f. Montreal.

Owing to the further weakness in the Winnipeg future market for oats, spot prices for all grades of Canadian Western oats were reduced one cent per bushel with the exception of No. 3 grade. The demand was fair.

The local and export trade in Spring wheat grades of flour was quiet and values were unchanged. The trade in Winter wheat flour was moderate and the undertone was firm.

The millfeed market continued active and firm. The demand for standard grades of rolled oats was fair and values ruled steady.

The egg trade was inactive and prices were about steady. The receipts were 754 cases.

A feature of the potato trade was the stronger feeling that developed and prices in some cases were advanced 5 to 10 cents per bag. This was attributed to the increased demand from outside sources. Sales of Prince Edward Island Green Mountains were made at $1.45 to $1.50 per bag of 90 pounds; New Brunswick Green Mountains at $1.40 to $1.25 per bag in bulk; Cobblers at $1.30 to $1.35 per bag in bulk, and Quebec white at $1.25 per bag in bulk, ex-track.

The butter trade continued quiet but the undertone was steady and prices were unchanged. The receipts were 692 cases.

Extreme dullness again marked the trade in cheese and the undertone was steady and prices were unchanged. The receipts were 692 cases.

Extreme dullness again marked the trade in cheese and the undertone continued easy. The receipts were 3,220 boxes.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, Oct. 21 (Canadian Press).—Farm deliveries of wheat in Canada have suddenly jumped to above 5,000,000 bushels for a single day. Largely as a result, wheat prices here suffered a break yesterday to a new all-around low record for the season. Closing quotations on wheat were weak, 1⅜ to 1⅝ net lower; with corn ⅛ to 1 to 1¼ down; oats ⅝ to ⅝ off, and provisions unchanged to a setback of 12 cents.

Fine weather over all Spring wheat territory gave early impetus to increased selling from houses with connections northwest and predictions were current that rural offerdictions were current that rural marketings in Canada would soon reach 5,000,000 to 6,000,000 bushels daily. It was a general assumption that threshing operations in Canada had been greatly facilitated, but few traders were prepared for word which came later, that Canadian deliveries of wheat at country stations had Wednesday reached a total of 5,377,000 bushels, the largest yet on the 1927 crop.

Additional significance to the big expansion of the movement of new Canadian wheat was found in the fact that rural deliveries in Canada at this time last year amounted to but 3,748,000 bushels. A further bearish influence was a report that crop prospects in Australia had become less pessimistic owing to good rains and that Argentine offerings to Europe were larger. Export buying of North American wheat yesterday was estimated at 600,000 bushels, mostly Canadian.

Corn prices gave way with wheat and as a consequence of widespread favorable weather for maturing the corn crop. Besides, the Nebraska midmonth official report placed the State's crop at 13,000,000 bushels in excess of the October 1 estimate. On the other hand some corn from this country has been sold to Cuba in the last few days, and United States corn is reported as being offered in Europe at 4c under corn from Argentine. Oats were easier, sympathizing with other grain.

Provisions were easier.

AIRSHIPS INVENTED 20 CENTURIES AGO

Motion Pictures Were Used By Ancient Priests To Mystify.

The ancients stumbled upon many of our recent mechanical and engineering discoveries—steam, electricity, motion pictures, aircraft—centuries before Christ. The inventions which today run our factories, light our offices, carry our mail, and add to our comfort, were employed first to perform feats of magic to make people believe that the priests in heathen temples had supernatural powers.

Steam was used in the temples of Babylonia as early as the eighteenth century before Christ, writes H. C. North in the September Popular Science Monthly. Amid mystic rites, images of gods were caused to nod their heads, lift their arms and open their eyes. Hero of Alexandria, Greek writer and geometer of the firt century, A.D., described one of the earliest steam engines. He also told of the employment of steam to cause statues to pour libations and serpents to hiss. He described, too, how temple doors were opened as if by the gods, whenever a fire was kindled in the altar.

One invention of the priests, still used by the magicians of the modern stage, was the concave mirror. From it sprang the magic lantern and the motion picture. Damascius, a philosopher who taught in Athens during the sixth century, describes an apparition in the temple of Alexandria, Egypt, produced by placing before a concave mirror concealed in a darkened room a brightly illuminated painting or sculpture of a face, the image of which was projected on the wall. Still more startling was the illusion when pictures of the gods were projected upon smoke from the altar fires, the smoke acting as a screen does for motion pictures. As the magicians grew more adept, living images were cast upon the smoke.

One of the earliest of flying machines was the eagle, formed by Johann Muller, fifteenth century German astronomer, which greeted the Emperor Maximilian by flying three times around him.

Lighter-than-air machines contributed to the miracles of the Greek priests as far back as 500 B.C. A statue of Apollo, carried in religious festivals, raised itself into the air, then descended into the arms of the magicians. The statue was hollow and filled with natural gas.

More wonderful was the flying chariot which could be guided through the air by the magician who rode it. The chariot was suspended from a gas-filled bag and driven forward by huge artificial wings which were operated by machinery. The passenger furnished the power by turning a crank inside the chariot.

Numa, generally considered a magician by the Romans of 400 B.C., carried on electrical experiments under the guise of summoning Jupiter from the clouds. By placing swords upright on the temples of Juno, Numa was able to attract the lightning and cause it to crackle within the temples. Lightning rods for ships came as a result of his studies. That the early priests employed magnets in their wizardry we know by the statues of the Greek goddess, Diana, and the Egyptian Serapis, which were elevated to the tops of temples and suspended there by magnetic force.

HONEY BEES SIP POISON

Honey that poisons has been discovered in Asia Minor by Dr. K. Krause, German explorer. Eating it causes giddiness and sometimes temporary unconsciousness, he says in Popular Science Monthly. Poisonous species of rhododendrons are believed to furnish the nectar the bees turn into toxic honey. This same poisonous honey was described by the ancient Greeks, Xenophon and Aristotle.

"BALLOON BICYCLE" INVENTED

Now we have the "balloon bicycle." Devised by an English inventor, it is supported in the air by a cigar-shaped envelope filled with hydrogen gas. Below, on a lightweight aluminum bicycle frame, sits the pilot rider, turning with his feet the pedals that operate the propeller at the front. The unique craft, described in Popular Science Monthly, has a rudder worked by handlebars.

NEW BAKERY OPENED.

Royal Herman Starts Baking Bread in Stirling.

STIRLING, Oct 21. — Stirling Creamery is doing its share towards feeding the hungry. Last week they made over 5,000 lbs. of butter, having to churn seven times. Think of the amount of bread that quantity of butter would cover. Seven of the eleven groceries sell bread, and a considerable amount of this is imported from other towns, while our two local bakers take large truck-loads to other towns, but opposition is said to be the life of trade, and for fear the bread supply might be short in Stirling, Mr. Royal Herman has commenced to bake bread in Mr. W. Jones' shop, formerly operated by Mr. George Lagrow. So there is not much chance of Stirling going hungry for bread.

PILL-TAKER FREED FROM HIS HABIT

ALL-BRAN brought natural relief from chronic constipation

Constipation is almost a universal curse—father of more than forty diseases. Yet there is real assurance in Mr. Ladue's letter:

"After sixteen years of taking pills, it cured me. If the millions of people that suffer from constipation only knew what Kellogg's ALL-BRAN would do, some of the pill-makers would go out of business. Every doctor should recommend it. I tell all that I know so that they can get the joy out of life I am getting since I started on Kellogg's ALL-BRAN 3 months ago."

MR. JULIAN LADUE
(Address on request)

Hollow cheeks, pimples, listlessness are some of the symptoms. Don't risk it another day. Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is guaranteed to relieve constipation. Two tablespoonfuls daily—in chronic cases, with every meal.

Delicious with milk or cream—and add fruits or honey. Use in cooking. Comes ready to eat. Sold and served everywhere. Made by Kellogg in London, Ontario. Recipes on package.

LONDON AWES MAYOR WALKER

Has Greatness All Its Own, Says London Chief Magistrate.

GREAT AND FINE.

LONDON (United Press).—"London is great with a greatness that is peculiarly its own," Mayor Walker of New York wrote in an article to a local newspaper, following his recent hurried visit to this city.

During his visit Mayor Walker was entertained by the Lord Mayor of London and spent some time studying housing conditions in the city. Despite the shortness of his visit, Mayor Walker got very definite impressions of the one city in the world that rivals the one of which he is mayor.

"Its immensity is, in my opinion, the least part of its greatness," Mayor Walker wrote.

"One does not see the movements of these great machines of administration, commercial, financial, legal and social, which throughout the centuries have laid foundations of many a State now prosperous, now a recognized and respected national entity.

"There is no effort that is discernbile upon the surface of things when great London is on the job.

"Strangers rush to London on holiday expecting to plunge into a new and refreshing stream of social life. Many of them, however, when they arrive, must find themselves, as I have, absorbed in a study of its wonderful solidity, and of that smooth yet compelling way in which the right thing is done in a manner that here seems inevitable.

"Take the more artificial things peculiar to London that strike forcibly one who has been used to other towns. The manner in which floods of people, perpetually coming and going, are absorbed daily within this great metropolis without, seemingly, any special provision being made for them.

"Take the policing of the city. The London policeman uses an authority of which none would suspect him, so quietly does he perform his job. Take the maintenance of cleanliness of this old and enormous city—a tremendous job. It is just done, and few people notice how.

"Possibly the most intellectually interesting thing that compels the respect and admiration of the stranger in London is that fine ceremony, that slow and solemn ritual which goes with all the offices of administration.

"Who could fail to be inspired by the age-old magnificence which attaches to the office of Lord Mayor of London? Strangers may not appear to be impressed by all this traditional ritual, because they are busy looking and wondering.

"But in my opinion they are not only impressed, they are awed, for quickly they can see all its meaning, all its importance, just how it brings respects to the functions it adorns.

"Above all, London sways the opinions of men, and consequently of people, the world over. And yet London is a most human town. Everyone seems to find his level in London and to feel at home here.

"To strangers her undemonstrative hospitality, her calm way of making them welcome, is wonderful. It is all done so smoothly. I have never experienced greater warmth of welcome than that to which I have been treated during this short stay. It has been great. So keen have I been to meet all those people I wanted to meet that I feel a return to New York and hard work again will almost be a rest cure.

"To Americans, the name London means something great and fine. And often one wonders just what would be the state of things the world over, what would be our measurement of values, if, by some accident, London ceased to exist."

THE HALL STORE

FOWL SUPPER GREAT SUCCESS

More Than 800 People Attend Tabernacle Church Social.

GOOD PROGRAM.

Campbellford, October 21. — The Tabernacle United Church on the English Line were the first to start the annual round of fowl suppers for the season. With seating accommodation for four hundred at one sitting the tables were twice filled, and at a late hour stragglers were still filtering through the crowds of those who had already eaten their fill of the innumerable tasty dishes to both tempt and satisfy the appetite.

During the second sitting and till the time arrived for the regular program to begin, a five piece orchestra played in the auditorium of the church. That this feature was appreciated was testified to by the densely packed pews and standing room as well. The orchestra members were Messrs. Dolman, Frederick, A. Hazel and his son Ronald, and Cecil Searles.

The program of the entertainment in the church was very attractive. Rev. C. D. Daniels minister of the church, spoke briefly before announcing the initial number by the orchestra. Mr. John Storie appeared twice as soloist, and his numbers were both encored. Cecil Searles with his violin enjoyed his usual popularity. Mr. Searles has for some time being the favorite violinist of any audience in the district. Mr. Hazel's vocal solo pleased the audience very much indeed. As organist and choir master of St. John's United church here, he is well known in the musical realm of the community. Miss Cherry Turner's vocal solo with her accompaniment played on the piano by Mr. Hazel and the violin by Mr. Searles, was indeed worthy of special mention.

The Rev. Mr. Hinton, recently minister of the Tabernacle church, was a guest at the supper. Called upon to address the gathering he was somewhat unprepared and spoke briefly recalling his pleasant association with the members of the church during his time as their minister.

Unavoidably late the Rev. E. Harston regained the good will of the people as soon as he began to speak. His topic was "People I have Met, and would rather not have Met."

Rev. Mr. Harston dealt with the subject in his best semi-humorous manner, which was greatly appreciated by everyone.

Fowl suppers are now only a function of the rural communities. The city folk, unless they care to visit the country, are deprived of this very attractive social activity but the people of the smaller towns and villages are more fortunate and are not slow in making the most of the opportunity when presented. This, no doubt is one explanation which might be presented for the success of the members of the Tabernacle Church, and in particular the Ladies' Aid. They are responsible for all the innumerable details which are so necessary to the success of any venture. The proceeds will be in excess of four hundred dollars.

The airship will take off from Lakehurst Field, New Jersey, at eight a.m. October 29, arriving over Ottawa between three and four that afternoon. A stop of about one hour is to be made here.

DISTRICT CHURCHES

CHRIST CHURCH, OMEMEE.

OMEMEE, Oct. 21.—On Sunday evening a special children's service was held in Christ church, Omemee. Rev. A. T. Weir, the rector, delivered a very interesting address speaking on the boyhood days of Samuel. The children occupied the centre front pews. Appropriate hymns were used and the offering was lifted by two juniors, Charlie Weir and Willie Chatten. Beautiful floral decorations of chrysanthemus, marigolds and asparagus adorned the church.

TRINITY UNITED CHURCH ..

OMEMEE, Oct. 21.—The services in Trinity church were of special interest on Sunday. In the morning the Rev. Dr. Barber, of Victoria College, Toronto, was the speaker. He spoke along educational lines taking his text from Rev. 22-4, "And they shall see his face, and his name shall be in their foreheads", and John 3:2: "We know that, when He shall appear we shall be like Him; for we shall see Him as He is." Mr. Barber is a very gifted speaker and his address was enjoyed by all. The choir rendered a pretty anthem, "In heavenly love abiding" with solos by Misses Lowe and Parsons and Mr. C. Corneil.

The evening service was the W.M.S. thankoffering when the Rev. J. E. Todd of Peterborough addressed the large congregation. Mr. Todd directed his thoughts along missionary lives and chiefly to the work of the W.M.S. Special music from the choir included an anthem, "I Love to Tell the Story" with obligato solo by Mrs. Harold Laidley, a pleasing vocal solo "Lead Kindly Light" and a chorus by the Mission Band members, "Jesus Loves the Little Children."

CHRIST CHURCH, OMEMEE.

OMEMEE, Oct. 21.—Children's day was observed at Christ Church, Omemee, on Sunday, Oct. 16, when a special service was held in the evening. The children gathered in the basement and then marched into the church, occupying the centre aisle. The service was taken by the rector, Rev. A. T. Weir. In his address, the speaker set forth the child life of Samuel, of the Lord Jesus Christ and of a modern boy, showing how all three resembled one another. He also emphasized the responsibility of the parents and the work done by the teachers and officers of the Sunday School.

MOUNT PLEASANT

MOUNT PLEASANT, October 21.—Special rally day services in connection with the Sunday school were held in the former Methodist church on Sunday afternoon. The attendance was good and the interior of the church was beautifully decorated for the occasion.

The Sunday school pupils occupied the centre pews for the service along with the superintendent, Mr. Frank Gardiner, the pastor, Rev. John Riddell, and teachers, Mrs. T. C. Morden, Mrs. George Jamieson and Mrs. Richard Graham. The regular programme for "rally day service" was used throughout with the theme being "We would see Jesus." There were intermissions of music. The Sunday school taking part in the service was particularly interesting, the children each in turn taking the many individual parts, some reciting, some singing and some reading. Much credit is due those in charge of training the children.

Musical number included a solo by Mrs. L. Russell of Millbrook, a quartette sung in Dutch by Mr. and Mrs. Visee and two children.

The pastor, Rev. J. Riddell, gave his address particularly for the boys and girls, but interested the older folk as well.

A federal hospital ship, completely equipped and having aboard a competent physician soon will provide medical services for Alaskans in isolated communities.

"I CAN'T AFFORD IT"

LAKEFIELD, Oct. 21.—A crowded house greeted the play, "I Can't Afford It," which was put on by the young people of Bethel United Church, Dummer, in the Lakefield Memorial Hall on Monday evening, October 17th, under the auspices of the choir of Regent street United church.

Long before eight o'clock the hall was filled and extra seats were brought in until there was not room for even one small person.

The evening's programme was opened by a selection by Dr. Munro's orchestra from Warsaw, an organization justly famous in the district. Dr. Munro, who loves music as only a real musician can, has gathered around him a group of young people, who love music, also, and the result is an organization, well and favorably known, not only in Peterborough County, but in the entire district. The orchestra played between the acts of the play and the excellence of their performance was much appreciated.

The play, "I Can't Afford It" is a rural comedy drama, depicting the trials of the country minister, who sees that the country young people are made discontented by the lack of opportunities for a little harmless diversion. The minister evolves an idea of a community hall which will combine a hall for entertainment, a gymnasium, a swimming pool, library, etc., and be of community service in keeping the young people together, and on the farms. The money for this building was hard to get, the merchants of the village promised $10,000 if the minister could raise $20,000 in the country. This task seemed well nigh impossible as, while many of the farmers saw the advantage of the scheme and contributed, the majority proved obdurate, arguing, "I Can't Afford It" whenever approached.

The minister, who was rather a visionary, dreaming of this cherished enterprise which would help everyone and keep the young people on the farm, happy and contented was possessed of a good wife, full of practical common sense, which she used to keep the minister from utter despair.

Three of the farmers were an outstanding group to oppose any expenditure for this scheme of their ministers, in one breath deploring the fact that their boys and girls were lured to the city by its good wages and opportunities for amusement, and in the next berating their neighbors, who took occasional trips in their motor cars after their work was done, "wasting their time gadding around the country," as they put it. These men were Mark Tanner, the ringleader, Andrew Bonehead and Jim Colson.

Two visitors arrive at the minister's in one day; one, Jim Hartley, an old college chum of the minister's, who is "well fixed" in this world's goods and, Biddy McPhail, from Belfast, Ireland, who happens to come as a book agent, finding it a very difficult community to do business in. The kindly minister and his wife invite her to be their guest for a while, and a romance develops between the two young visitors, Biddys who is a loveable girl, shows in her defence of her lover, the spirit which has put Ireland in the "ginger group" of nations.

Jim hears the minister's tale of discouragement and plans a scheme to help him, or rather to make the "tight-wads" section help themselves by helping him, and succeeds, after a trying experience, during which he barely escapes lynching, but eventually wins the gratitude of the "down-trodden hard-worked farmers' wives and their families." He also wins the girl of his heart who remained true throughout the dark days, when he is suspected of being a swindler.

Miss Eliza Catnip played a difficult part well, when she gave the three "tight wads" a little plain speaking in regard to the manner in which they treated their wives, who once had been bright, high-spirited young women, and then had lost both health and looks from incessant hard labor, and no respite or pleasure. Calmly disregarding their remarks regarding "old maids who can always manage everyone's affairs," she spared none of them. All parts were well taken, and the acting was never overdone as is often the case in amateur dramatics. The play was in eight short acts, five laid in the home of the minister, and three on Mark Tanner's farm.

The following is the cast of characters: Rev. Thomas White, the minister: Rev. H. B. Herrington.

Mrs. White, his common-sense wife: Miss Marjorie Frankish.

Jim Hartley, the college chum of the minister: Mr. Ralph Hamilton.

Biddy McPhail, of Belfast, an Irish girl: Miss Eileen Hamblin.

Andrew Bonehead, a "tight-wad" farmer: Mr. Chester Hamilton.

Mrs. Bonehead: his hard-worked-worked wife, Mrs. Clayton Jory.

Billy Bonehead, their son: Mr. Garbutt Jory.

Jim Colson, another of the "tight-wad" group: Mr. Oswald Little.

Mrs. Colson, his wife: Miss Olive Little.

Harry Colson, their son: Mr. Ralph Garbutt.

Mr. Mark Tanner, the ringleader of the "can't afford it" section: Mr. Ralph Selby.

Mrs. Tanner, his wife: Mrs. Harry Garbutt.

John Tanner, their son: Mr. Leonard Dunford.

Miss Angelina Beaver, whose father owns a car and believes in giving generously to the church: Miss Velma Payne.

Miss Eliza Catnip, a strong-minded spinster: Miss Rita Watley.

In act five which showed the minister's parlor dimly lighted with a rose-shaded lamp and the lovers, Jim and Biddy, plighting their troth, Mr. and Mrs. Rufus Payne sang very sweetly from the wings, "Love's Old Sweet Song." This was a remarkably pretty scene.

In the last act, Biddy, a homesick little Irish girl, sings a song of her homeland, to which her heart turns in the dark days which are soon to be followed by sunshine.

390 GEORGE

SAINT and SINNER

By ANNE AUSTIN

Before they had circled the large living room, gracious and colorful and dim, almost cathedral-like with its Gothic windows, its vaulted ceiling and rich walnut furniture and Oriental rugs, Faith felt that she had never really danced before. The magnetism of Bruce Patton flowed from his trim, smart body into hers, drew her irresistibly into perfect accord with the rhythm of his pulse and the rhythm of the music.

She felt Cherry's eyes upon her, as her sister danced dispiritedly, sulkily, with George Pruitt. She felt, too, the blue, angry fire of Bob's eyes praying upon her, sending out mute, powerful waves of protest. But she could not subdue this rare brilliance that had come upon her, could not force herself to become awkward and breathless and tired of the dance.

He had been murmuring compliments upon her dancing, his voice a soft, insinuating caress, and she had been parrying them with a sudden new expertness that amazed even as it exhilarated her. But when he said, holding her suddenly more closely, so that the natural attitude of the dance became a deliberate embrace, "Gorgeous thing! And Cherry said you were cold! You!" She was frightened.

"I'm tired," she murmured, making her contralto voice plaintive. "Dance with Cherry now, Mr. Patton."

"You're afraid of me!" he exulted. "Dance with Cherry? I'm going to dance with you all evening, and I shall fight a duel with anyone who tries to cut in on us. Your husband, by the way, seems to be a master of plain and fancy glowering. Fearful habit to get into, really. How did you ever happen to marry a Nordic?" A teasing note crept into his ardent voice, but his smoldering eyes did not laugh at her. They drew her urgently, until she felt herself drowning in their black depths.

With a great effort she wrenched her own eyes away, half closed them as if to steady herself after a moment of faintness. "Because I loved him," she answered his spoken question, rather than the urgent demands of his eyes.

"And how you can love!" he murmured huskily, drawing her close again. "And how little your husband understands the magnificance of the treasure he has won! You—"

"Please, you mustn't!" Faith gasped. "I've had so little experience in the technique of flirting that you have an unfair advantage of me. I want to sit down, please—"

Fortunately the dance music came to an abrupt stop at that moment, and Bruce Patton's arm dropped slowly from her waist, his fingers trailing the length of her forearm to her wrist. Dazed, a little uncertain of her equilibrium, she turned half-blindly toward the couch where Bob sat. She was just in time to see Cherry fling herself into Bob's lap, her face ghastly white under her rouge, her eyes big, blazing disks of glittering gold.

"This seems to be a game of 'change your partners,' Bob darling!" her high voice rang out in the suddenly still room. "Come on! Let's show these amateurs what real love-making is! He thinks you're cold, but Cherry knows better! Kiss me—like you used to!"

Uncle Wiggily

By HOWARD R. GARIS

To-day's Bedtime Story

(Copyright, 1927, McClure Syndicate.)

UNCLE WIGGILY AND THE SAND SHOWER.

Slowly the Bear shuffled closer and closer to Uncle Wiggily. The shaggy bad chap had caught the rabbit gentleman, you remember, as I told you in last night's story, when he was out looking for an adventure and Wumple the yellow Wogglejig boy, had taken off his legs, tail, head—in fact, Wumple had taken himself all apart to show how smart he was. Wumple lay like a pile of kindling wood on the moss while the Bear got ready to nibble Uncle Wiggily's ears.

"If only Wumple had kept himself together and left his head on, he might have gone for the Police Dog to help me," sadly thought the rabbit gentleman as he saw the Bear shuffling nearer and nearer.

But what was that? Like the faint blowing of the wind a voice seemed to whisper:

"Don't be afraid, Uncle Wiggily! I'll help you! I'll save you from the Bear!"

The voice seemed to come from Wumple's yellow head and face lying there on the moss, apart from his body. For the Wogglejigs, being made of wood, you know, could take themselves apart without any harm.

"What was that?" snarled the Bear, looking toward the pile of wood that once had been jolly Wumple. "Who spoke?"

Uncle Wiggily pointed to the wooden head, and the Bear looked over his shoulder and laughed, for he was standing with his back to the loose pieces of the Wogglejig boy.

"Ha! Ha! Ho! Ho!" laughed the Bear. "Do you expect me to believe that? A pile of wood talking! Nonsense!"

"No nonsense about it!" said Uncle Wiggily. "That pile of wood as you call it, was once Wumple Wogglejig and he might have saved me!"

"Well, he can't save you now!" growled the Bear, who knew nothing of Wogglejigs. "Nothing can save you. I am going to nibble you and that's all there is to it. All I have to decide is which ear I shall nibble first. I think I will try the left one."

The Bear reached his paw closed to the bunny to hug him and pull him nearer and then, all of a sudden, the Bear changed his mind.

"No!" he growled, "I think I will try the right ear first. It looks a bit fatter." Again he stretched out his paw. And then, all of a sudden, once more the Bear changed his mind, which was fatal to his plans if you will allow me to say so. "On the whole," the Bear grumbled slowly, drawing back his paw. "On the whole I think I shall begin with the left ear after all. I'll save the right for last, as that is the best. Yes, I shall begin on the left."

"Well, I wish you'd start and have it over with!" sighed Uncle Wiggily. "It is terrible to be teased this way!"

Now, while the Bear was changing his mind about which of the rabbit's ears to nibble first, Wumple was getting ready to play a brave trick on the shaggy chap. The Wogglejig boy began to put himself together again. And he could do it without being seen by the bear, as the big fellow had his back turned. Slowly Wumple pulled himself together.

First the two egg-shaped pieces of his body, then his head on his neck peg, then his four legs one after the other and then he stuck on his tail, and he was complete. All this he did behind the Bear's back. But Uncle Wiggily, looking over the Bear's shoulder, saw what was going on and wondered.

"I shall save you!" whispered Wumple like a breeze blowing.

"Ha! What was the whispering?" growled the Bear. "But no matter, whoever it was cannot save you, Uncle Wiggily. Here goes for your two ears at once! I've made up my mind at last!"

"And so have I!" quickly cried Wumple. "I have pulled myself together and made up my mind to give you a shower bath. But not with water, Mr. Bear! Not with water!" Near where Wumple now stood was a pile of sand and gravel. Standing with his back to the Bear, who had turned around on hearing the voice, Wumple began to kick up the sand and gravel. In a regular shower he kicked sand in the Bear's eyes, and soon the bad chap was so stung and smarted with the sharp little stones and his eyes were so filled with sand that he couldn't see to get Uncle Wiggily at all.

"Oh, how foolish I was not to take the left ear first!" growled the Bear as he groped about, staggering and bumping into trees. And then Uncle Wiggily saw that it was safe for him and Wumple to run away which they did, leaving the blind Bear to get along as best he could.

"You are a clever Wogglejig, Wumple," said the rabbit gentleman when they were both safe at home.

DRESS

By MARY MARSHALL

At the top is a lovely vanity case—which may be used for cigarettes—made of green velvet, suitable for afternoon or evening. The little elephant in silver and rhinestones with its trunk up for good luck appears to be in a cage when the flap of the case is down. Below this is one of the new printed kid vanity cases—shown open and closed—and a silk flower with vanity case at back and a strap of gold cloth. The jeweled evening purse below is used for change or vanities.

It is a favorite trick of the author of the more sedate sort of novels of the day to describe the fast young woman, whom you are not supposed to like, in the act of powdering her nose or rouging her cheeks or lipsticking her lips; it is usually made perfectly clear in such novels that the really nice young girl, whom you are supposed to like, never applies cosmetics in public. Maybe she just uses soap and talcum powder and tooth paste and lets it go at that.

I am quite sure that if I were to write a novel the heroine wouldn't use cosmetics in public. Still I rather think she would have to carry a vanity case because almost all the charming girls I know do carry them. But anyway she wouldn't repair her face while she waited for the first course at luncheon or add carmine to her lips when the hero proposed.

In Paris just at present many of the smartest women are carrying bags of the finest petit point with jeweled clasps. And these are fairly large because there are a number of things that a woman may want to carry with her even in the evening. Although I understand that a good many European women are smoking less than they used to, still a cigarette case is looked upon as an essential of the evening bag among many smart women. I know some women who never smoke themselves who still carry cigarette cases for the convenience of their friends who may require them.

And some sort of cosmetic kit is a necessary adjunct to the evening bag, though there is a growing feeling that we must not be too brazen about using it. One's make-up would have to be very durable indeed to permit one to go through an entire evening of dancing without repowdering the nose.

HOROSCOPE

The Stars Incline, but do not Compel.

(Copyright, 1927, McClure Syndicate.)

SATURDAY, OCTOBER 22, 1927

If the stars be rightly read this is a day fairly fortunate in planetary direction. Astrologers find only one strongly adverse aspect.

While the sway is promising where money for business projects is concerned, there is a sign read as menacing to any sort of new activity.

Under this direction of the stars it is wiser to plan than to start execution in important enterprises.

Subtle forces that encourage conservative development along practical lines of work are discerned by the seers.

All the planetary influences appear to promise a stabilizing and crystallizing of American business affairs, making for tremendous mobilization of industrial concerns.

Today is held to be lucky to seek the society of ambitious and prosperous. It is a time for girls to make good impressions on millionaires who are marriageable.

Under this direction of the stars the imaginative faculties may be quickened and for this reason the sway is favorable to writers.

Two eclipses of December are held to presage much illness and many war clouds for the sworld with the beginning of 1928.

Revolutionary organizations probably will gain strength under the planetary government next year, it is forecast.

The seers preach for the United States the sort of patriotism which prevents disloyalty to established democratic institutions.

Seismic shocks for France and England as well as this country are foretold for the coming months.

Venus is to be in a sign that presages for England and other European nations grave danger of war in the new year.

Persons whose birthdate it is have the augury of success and plenty of money in the coming year. They probably will travel.

Children born on this day will rise rapidly in any vacation they choose, astrologers predict.

Feminine "highbrows" — women who can discuss dress fashions or the Quantum Theory with equal facility—were a marked feature of this year's meeting of the British Association for the Advancement of Science.

TALKING TO LONDON

Right Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King, Canadian Prime Minister at Ottawa, talking with the Right Hon. Stanley Baldwin, Prime Minister of Great Britain in London, England. Mr. King is sitting at his desk in his office in the east block and the 'phone he is using is the one which for years has been in daily use there. The connection with the British Prime Minister was completed in about three minutes and while all that Premier Baldwin said could not be clearly heard portions of his conversation were very clear.

The above handsome replica of the galleon of Tudor days was presented by O. Hall of the Mond Nickel Company Limited, to Hon. Chas. McCrea as Ontario Minister of Mines, at the dinner tendered to the visiting Empire Mining and Metallurgical Congress. The boat was built on the model of the "Great Harry", the flag ship used by Henry VIII. in departing for the famous conference, the Field of the Cloth of Gold. The three standards are: The Royal arms at the main mast, St. George's Cross at the fore, and the English rose at the mizzen mast. The custom of the knights in ranging their shields over the side of the boat is indicated by the designer.

Prince George's signature was added to those of royalty in the famous Bible of the Brantford, Ontario, Six Nations Indian reservation, the ceremony taking place on the occasion of the return visit of the princes to Toronto, Ontario. LOWER is a view of the box in which the Bible and Queen Anne plate were buried during the American revolution. The plate on the top was a gift from Queen Anne to the Mohawks. UPPER are shown the two Indian chiefs from the reservation, who presented the Bible for the prince's signature.

King Boris of Bulgaria, shown above, is said to be looking for a wife and is regarded as a high prize in the matrimonial market both because of his position and because of personal qualities. Two neighboring princesses, young, vivacious and pretty, are supposed to be the most likely bridal prospects at present. They are shown above, 17-year-old Yeovanna of Italy on the left, and Ileana of Rumania on the right.

GODFATHER TO EARL'S SON

Dr. George H. Locke, prominent Canadian librarian, is to be the Canadian godfather to baby James, son of Lord and Lady Elgin, and great-grandson of the Earl of Elgin, celebrated governor-general of Canada during the period of 1874-54. In a recent letter to Dr. Locke asking him to accept the responsibility, Lord Elgin says: "We are prompted to do this, first, on account of your personal friendship and of our knowledge of your love for children, and also because you will be representing the Dominion of Canada at the coming library conference.

DIES IN 101ST YEAR

Less than a month after the hundredth anniversary of her birth, Mrs. Maria Achison Nixon of the Aged Women's Home, Toronto, Ont., passed away at the institution recently. Mrs. Nixon celebrated her centenary on September 10 with a birthday party at which were present the members of the board of the home, all the inmates and a number of other friends as well. Born in Wiltshire, England, Mrs. Nixon came with her parents to Canada ninety-five years ago. The family first settled in Bytown, going afterwards to Kingston, where they were living at the time of the rebellion of 1837.

Doctor Made Indian Chief

Another Englishman has left Canada bearing with him the highest title of one of the famous Indian tribes of the Western plains. The title of "Chief Bear Head" was conferred upon Dr. Edward Brown, of the Poultry World, London, England by Chief Running Antelope of the Sarcee Tribe.

The ceremony took place on the Burns Ranch near Calgary, recently during the Canadian Pacific western tour of the World Poultry Congress Delegates of which party Dr. Brown was an outstanding member.

The photograph shows Dr. Brown shaking hands with Chief Running Antelope after he was accepted as a member of the Sarcee Tribe.

LIFT LOCK TRIP FOR DELEGATES

Young People Attending Conference Here Wish To See Locks in Operation.

BANQUET TO-MORROW.

Pursuant to the wishes of many of the delegates, the entertainment to be given the A.Y.P.A. Conference on Saturday afternoon will be a trip over the Lift Lock. The reputation of the great concrete monument, the work of a Peterborough Anglican, the late R. B. Rogers, has spread, and the visitors were willing to take a chance on the water trip being rather cool, as it is the first opportunity most of them have had to go over. The trip is made possible by the City Council's grant of $50.00 and also a donation of $10.00 from the Canadian Department Stores, made through C. W. Lapp.

The address by Sir George Foster will be the most important item of the evening's program. No announcement has been made of his subject, but as Sir George is an outstanding speaker, his talk is sure to be of great interest. It will be given at the Canadian Legion Hall after the banquet. Some of Peterborough's most prominent musicians will also be on the program. Dorothy Allan Park will sing; Miss Agnes Logan will play the piano, and Mrs. Percy Hooper will render solos on the violin. The community singing at the banquet will be led by Joseph Wearing, with F. G. Mann as accompanist.

RUGBY NOTES

An exhibition game has been arranged for Saturday afternoon between the P.C.I. team and the Peterborough Juniors. Both teams were unfortunate enough to draw byes in their series. Consequently both are in need of games. No charge will be made. This is the first Rugby game at Riverside Park this season and a large number of fans are expected to be out. This will be the first of a series of three games to decide the city championship. C. S. Browne and Max Sloane will handle the fixture, with "Red" Eastwood as head linesman.

Area Leader To-day; Amulet Also Firmed

TORONTO, Ont., October 21 (Canadian Press). — Area, up one at 60, was this morning's leader on the Standard Stock Exchange. Amulet advanced ten to 550, and McIntyre 25 at 28.50. Bidgood was off 3½ at 85 ,and Duprat and Granada Rouyn were each easier. Laval and Ribago firmed.

Wheat and Corn Drop Still Further To-day

Chicago, Oct. 21. — For the third day in succession wheat and corn today dropped under the season's previous low price record. Excellent weather to speed the threshing of wheat and to condition the corn crop was largely responsible. Starting at ¼c to 7-8c decline, wheat underwent a slight further set back and then rallied; corn opened ¼c to 7-8c down, sagged a little more and later turned upgrade. Oats were easy. Provisions had a downward slant.

Opening prices were: Wheat, December 124 1-8; March 127 5-8; corn, December, 83¼; March 87; oats, December, 45½; March 47 3-8.

Down Move Halted And Gains Resumed

NEW YORK, October 21 (Canadian Press). —The reactionary movement in the stock prices, which has been under way most of the week, was halted to-day. Phillips Petroleum led advance in the oil group by climbin nearly three points. The other oil issues advanced one to two points. Houston was an exception, selling off three points in the early afternoon. Extreme gains in a number of high-priced specialties, such as Abitibi Power, American Machine and Foundry, American Tobacco issues, and Fidelity Phoenix Insurance, ran from four to ten points. Pools were again active in a number of specialties. Underwood Typewriter advanced to a new high, and Christie Brown and Columbia Carbon also reached new peaks. Rails also moved upward after an early period of sluggishness.

Mine Market Attracts All Classes To Invest

One mining broker, in an advertisement, offers to tell prospective clients what $300 will do in the mining market. This is indicative of the times. The fortunes and near fortunes that have quickly been made in the Canadian mines in recent years have attracted the attention of every type of investor. Rich and poor, men and women, doctor and bootblack all want to make some money in the mining market. If you eat your noon day snack in an armchair restaurant you will hear them talking about the latest tip "straight from the feed-box" and it is more likely to be a tip on the miping stocks than on a horse that is sure to win. Milady having her hair waved is entertained by reports of how the operator has made twenty dollars last week on Area. In the smaller towns and on the concession lines, in the Maritimes and on the prairies, there are large holdings of Canadian mining stocks. The thing has developed the interest almost of the war-time, Victory bond buying.

Speculation in the mining shares has hardly reached the proportions of a menace to national thrift. A great deal of money will be lost and is now lost daily by those who rush in where insiders would fear to tread. But a great deal of money will be made. Large profits have accumulated to the mining share investors this year.

Amulet, which fell into disfavor and sank to 90 cents in April have been over $70. Area, from a low of 25 has gone to over 80. But Area at the present price represents a loss for those who bought it with their Christmas cheques last year when it was selling at over a dollar and a half. Abana has risen from a lowly 20 cents in January and only 60 cents as recently as July to around $4.00. Barry Hollinger, which was 90 cents at the beginning of the year dropped to 28 cents only to come back promptly to around a dollar. Beaver has risen from 75 cents to $2.00, Bidgood, a penny stock, fetching nine cents in January, is around 60 cents now. Bourlamaque from over $1.50 has gone down to 65 cents. Thus making only a few selections in the "A's" and "B's" we find a variety of stock market movements that suggest what has been going on in the whole list. Little wonder then that fortunes have been made and fortunes lost.

At present the mining market continues to boil. Prices on the whole are steadily rising. There is no indication that prices are too high for the good stocks. But let it be emphasized that by the term good stocks the proven mines, now virtually operating are referred to; such properties as Wright Hargreaves, Teck Hughes, Lake Shore, McIntyre, Noranda and we might even grudgingly add, Hollinger, which has not been acting well marketwise, but which is a good proposition nevertheless.

The man who busy a penny stock may get rich quick as a result. But his chances are small. It is only a small jump from glorious success to abject failure in mining; it is not far from three cents to $3.00 in the price of a mining stock. But the investor who will take the amount he has available for mining stocks and will divide it between a group of four or six of the high grade stocks such as those mentioned and then sit back prepared to wait for the fulfillment of his investment is practically certain to benefit. If his funds will permit, he may lay aside a small proportion of his total funds for out and out speculation, putting the money into two or three promising but unproven enterprises upon which he has obtained reliable and enthusiastic information.

Strong buying was responsible for the material rise in the shares of Consolidated Smelters. Well informed people were behind the buying of the stock. Smelters has a large programme of expansion on the coast. It will shortly build a smelter somewhere on the Pacific coast. This will follow the recent acquisition of the three additional British Columbia properties by the company. These are the George Copper, the Coast Copper and the Big Missouri. At these mines, the Consolidated is adding large numbers of men to the working forces and is laying out development programmes that will mean the expenditure of a great deal of money, but will place smelters in an even more dominating position in British Columbia mining.

Ontario's Attorney General's Department in continuing its campaign against crooked stock promoters has the support of the best men in the mining and brokerage communities. High pressure work by these share sharps has resulted in hundreds of thousands of dollars being taken away from different investors in exchange for which they have received worthless certificates. The most recent gang rounded up spread its operations far beyond the boundaries of Ontario and has been selling stock in other provinces. Its mode of procedure has been to get clients into a good stock and thus win their confidence. But the first rise of a few of a few cents a share in the good stock would be followed by telephone and personal calls, recommending the exchange of the good stock for the doubtful security, which of course was tripped off for an immediate and substantial rise.

SEARCH BRISK FOR AVIATORS

Planes and Ships On Lookout For de Lesseps' Party.

WINGS INDICATE CRASH.

QUEBEC, Oct. 21 (Canadian Press) —Dominion and Provincial authorities today were co-operating in a search over stream and forest for Count De Lesseps, his son, and a Russian mechanic, missings since Tuesday when they left in a hydro-airplane on a 75-mile journey from Gaspe to Valbrilliant in Eastern Quebec. The finding of wings of a similar plane at Sandy Bay, forty-five miles from Valbrilliant, leads to the belief that the airmen crashed and may be dead or injured. Ships in the gulf of the St. Lawrence are maintaining a close watch and both sides of the river are being thoroughly searched by other airplanes.

May Be Alive.

Count de Lesseps, missing aviator, and his mechanic, are probably safe waiting somewhere for a favorable opportunity to return to base, in the opinion of the chief of the Forestry Service. The Department of Lands and Forests to-day said that the part of an airplane wing found at Sandy Beach was very small and had yet not been identified as that belonging to de Lessep's plane.

Son at School.

TORONTO, Oct. 21. — (Canadian Press.)—Countess de Lesseps said today that her eldest son, Guy, reported as being with his father, Count de Lesseps on a flying trip, was attending school at Oakville, along with a younger brother. The other two children are at their home in Toronto. Count de Lesseps is thought to have met with a flying accident.

Bandits Hung From Trees As a Warning

MEXICO CITY, October 21—Canadian Press. — The newspaper El Sol says that six bodies of dead bandits who Tuesday morning attacked the Laredo to Mexico City passenger train, south of San Luis Potosi, and since have been captured and executed by the federal troops, have been hung from trees in villages near San Luis Potosi as a warning to other actual or potential bandits

The newspaper says the bandits secured 3000 pesos from an express car in the Tuesday morning attack in which twelve second class passengers were seriously injured, and one woman passenger killed when the bandits exploded a dynamite bomb under a second class coach.

Walkers and B. A. Oil Feature Toronto Market

TORONTO, Oct. 21. — (Canadian Press.)— Walkers, British American Oil, and Imperial Tobacco were the leaders on the Toronto Stock Exchange this morning. The biggest gains were shown by City Dairy, going up 4½ at 200, and Christie Brown five at 72. Walkers touched a new high at sixty, a net gain of 5-8. Northern Bakeries was very quiet, but advanced ¼ to 41½. International Utilities jumped 3 3-8 to 47½ and King Edward Hotel, in active trading, went up two to 59. British American Oil at 33 was up ¼. Imperial Tobacco was firm at nine.

CAMPBELLFORD NEWS.

CAMPBELLFORD, Oct. 21. — Mr. Cecil Watt, who has for some time been employed by the Hydro here, has given up his position and will return to Perth, Ont., where he expects to take an active interest in his father's business.

Mrs. James Dickson left yesterday morning for Niagara Falls, N.Y., where she will pay an extended visit to her daughter, Mrs. Earl Kingston.

Mr. James Allen returned from Toronto yesterday.

The Rev. James Grier returned to town after spending the last three days in Brighton, Grafton, and Toronto. Mr. Grier was travelling in the interests of the church and its business.

"The Son of the Sheik" is the feature picture for the week-end at the Regent Theatre. It stars the late Rudolph Valentino, and is his last picture. The plot is one of love and honor where a father and son are concerned. It is laid in the desert and is a picture of outstanding character. The "Our Gang" comedy is, as are all of that variety, extremely funny and affords a touch of the lighter side of life before the more serious part of the programme begins.

The special attraction, however, is Frank Traynor, master of handcuffs, shackles and straight jackets. In order to effectually demonstrate the genuineness of his stunt, Traynor invited the local police to handcuff and shackle him in any manner which would make it impossible for him to free himself. Constable Duncalfe and two citizens accepted the invitation, and after considerable pains, felt satisfied that escape from the fetters was an impossibility. But it was not. When asked about the affair later in the evening, the officer stated that he had been inclined to doubt, but was now entirely satisfied that Traynor was capable of performing the feats as advertised. Mr. Traynor's short lecture on affairs and conditions in some of the greatest prisons of the continent is very interesting and instructive.

A fad of the moment in London has had the effect of adding a touch of color to the rather drab exteriors of many of the stately old mansions where dwell the aristocracy. Just who originated the idea is a matter of dispute, but certain it is that red of the brightest possible tone is the color most used just now in repainting front doors of the great mansions in Mayfair and other of the fashionable and exclusive residential thoroughfares in the metropolis.

WOULD UPSET WHOLE LAW, STATES JUDGE

Judgment Reserved in South Bruce Election Appeal Case.

APPELLATE COURT.

Expenses Included Printing, Halls, Telegraphs, Besides Other Pocket Expenses.

TORONTO, Oct. 21.—Judgement was reserved yesterday afternoon by the first appellate court in the appeal of M. A. McCallum against the judgment of Justice Rose and Fisher, sitting as an election court, which unseated and disqualified him in South Bruce.

N. W. Rowell, K.C., again contended, in reply to the arguments of Col. T. H. Lennox, K.C., and G. G. Price, that there was no corrupt practice when J. G. Anderson, the Liberal candidate, was paid his "election expenses" in the South Bruce election.

On the question of expenses Mr. Rowell claimed that Anderson in saying that $1,250 would scarcely pay his expenses, said they included printing, halls., telegraphs and the damage to his car, beside out of pocket expenses.

Justice Hodgins: "Were all those included in the resolution?"—"Yes, I think so."

Justice Ferguson: "I think it would be a most unfortunate thing if anyone could get up and hold it as a legal thing to pay money to clear the field of candidates. I say if this could be done it would upset the whole law."

CROP REPORT.

MONTREAL, Oct. 15.—Below will be found a brief synopsis of telegraphic reports received at the Head Office of the Bank of Montreal from its Branches. The Branch Managers have complete and intimate knowledge of each local situation, and are in close touch with crop conditions in all sections of the districts mentioned.

General.

Throughout the Prairie Provinces very little progress has been made in threshing during the past ten days, owing to unfavourable weather, and there has been some deterioration through excessive moisture. The quantity and quality of the yields therefore have yet to be finally determined. In Quebec harvesting has been completed except in the northern districts, and threshing is well advanced. In Ontario good weather has prevailed and frequent showers have stimulated the growth of fall wheat and improved the root crops, without interfering with farm work, which is well advanced. In the Maritime Provinces favourable weather has helped the crops especially apples. In British Columbia continuous rains are delaying harvesting and crops generally will be below average. Details follow:

Prairie Provinces.

Alberta Western Area—Only 10% of wheat threshed; rain and snow flurries have caused a lowering of grades, but yields are reported satisfactory. In districts south of Lethbridge prospects are not promising.

Alberta Northeastern Area—Unfavourable weather is delaying the threshing and lowering grades. With a general average of 10% of wheat now threshed the yield reported is better than average. Coarse grain yields will be satisfactory if favourable weather is experienced.

Alberta Southeastern Area: Rye is all threshed, but weather is holding up wheat threshing. On the 10% wheat threshed the average yield is 35 bushels and grades are satisfactory.

Saskatchewan Northern Area—A small percentage not exceeding 20% of the crop has been threshed. Grain generally is grading low, and grain in stook will be further depreciated. Coarse grains are very irregular in yield.

Saskatchewan Southern Area—Possibly 50% of wheat has been threshed throughout the south, with a small percentage in southwest, and up to 80% in central and southeast with variation in yields. Most of the grain threshed from now on will be tough. The coarse grain yield will not be heavy.

Manitoba—Threshing has again been delayed and about 65% has been completed. Wheat yields show wide variation and grades are disappointing. The barley crop is fair, and oats a failure.

Province of Quebec.

Oats are plentiful, and of good quality. Other grains have yielded good average crops of satisfactory grade. Potatoes have been affected to some extent by rot and the crop in most districts is below average. Other root, vegetable and fodder crops are satisfactory. Apples are below average. The yield of tobacco is unusually good, and is drying under favourable conditions.

Province of Ontario.

Threshing operations continue, and the grain returns are satisfactory. Sugar beets, turnips and mangolds are good, but the potato crop is not as heavy as anticipated, although the quality is good. From all sections of the province, there are poor reports concerning the apple crop.

Maritime Provinces.

Hay has proved an average crop, but some is of under average quality. Pasturage is good and dairying conditions excellent. Oats are an average crop in New Brunswick and Prince Edward Island, but in Nova Scotia the yield will be slightly below average. Due to rot potatoes in all three provinces have suffered. Under ideal conditions in Nova Scotia late variety apples are maturing well, the yield is still estimated at over 60% of a five year average.

British Columbia.

A large percentage of the grain in the interior is still in the stook and has already suffered some damage from the wet weather. Threshing is completed in the Fraser Valley and an 80% crop has been harvested. Rains have also damaged onions, but other vegetables will show satisfactory yield. An Average root crop is being harvested. Apple picking is delayed, but no change in estimated yield of 75% of average.

WOMEN DISCUSS BAD LITERATURE

Banning of Such Books Found Difficult, Local Council Told.

REGULAR MEETING.

The regular monthly meeting of the Local Council of Women was held yesterday afternoon in the green room of the Young Women's Christian Association ,the president, Mrs. C. H. Edwards, in the chair.

The meeting was occupied mainly with the hearing by the members of a resume of the sessions of the recent National Council annual convention, held in Startford, and given by the delegate from the Local Council, Mrs. C. H. Edwards, who referred in a brief outline to the outstanding items in the Council's meetings.

Mrs. Edwards also spoke of the interest taken by the Local Council in the woman confined in the Peterborough jail, with her small baby, and spoke in this connection of a home in Ottawa where women of such type were kept, usually for several months at a time, and where a laundry is run.

Mrs. J. Wearing gave a review of the financial statement of the National Council, showing total receipts for the year of $16,983.83, and total disbursements of $12,822.00. In the list of National Council officers, the name of Mrs. C. H. Edwards again appears as Convenor of the National Committee on Equal Moral Standards.

A request for ladies in charge of a fund which will be devoted towards the erection of a building in Ottawa, to cost $250,000, and designed as a meeting-place for women's organizations,with special reference to the national Council of Women, was received, for further consideration. The land has already been donated for this building and the projected building will have contributions through a Golden Scrool fund on which names in gold will be inscribed of women contributing $25, while a name in the Book of Remembrance may be purchased for $1, and 50 cents will inscribe a name in the juniors' Book of Remembrance.

With regard to pornographic literature, discussion took place. Mrs. Edwards spoke of the work being done in this connection by the International Council, and said the international work was the cause of less interest being taken in this question, locally. The spread of obscene literature is hard to combat, she said, as so many of these publications are o nthe border line only, and are allowed to pass through the mails by the authorities, who are unable to determine just how far they can go in banning such literature.

Mrs. Edwards read an extract from a report of the Geneva Convention, speaking with regard to Traffic in Women and Children, and asserting that the spread of obscene pictures and literature was responsible for much of the recruiting done for brothels. With regard to her own experience in helping wayward girls, Mrs. Edwards said that she had often noticced a fondness for objectionable literature in the cases coming up for sexual offenses.

WIFE OF ACCUSED

How long have you been there?
I was there in Mr. Beavis' time.
How many years is that?
I can hardly tell. There's Dr. Smith (pointing to Dr. J. C. Smith, of Lakefield, who was in the court) he knows.
How many years have you been there?
I hardly know. Dr. Smith can tell you.
How old are you?
I was just 19 when I was married.
Just tell me your age.
I can't remember.
Do you remember October 9?
Yes
You were at the institution?
Yes.
Where were you sitting before this assault took place?
I was sitting on the bench outside.
Where?

Near a wood pile?
No. Right at the door of the house.
Did anything happen?
Yes. After dinner he hit me with a garden rake.
How many times?
Five or six.

What caused that?
The rake.
Would you know the rake if you saw it?
Yes.
Who was there at the time besides you and Maize?
I don't know. Both of us were fighting at once.
Was Mrs. Maize there?
I told you she was.
Is that all you remember?
Yes. Only Tommy Linton (pointing to another inmate of the institution) was there too.
What did he do?
He told them to leave me alone.
You say you were hit by the rake?
Yes.
What part?
The iron part.
What was the reason?
I don't know the reason.
You say it was after dinner?
Yes. I had the dinner dishes all washed up.

Gave Rambling Replies.

Cross-examined by Mr. O'Brien, counsel for the accused, the witness gave rambling replies to many of his questions.
How long have you been in the House of Refuge? asked Mr. O'Brien.
Since the year my husband died.
Was that in 1915?
I think so.
How long did your husband live after you were married.
He was hurt with a horse and wagon. That's what caused him to die.
How long did you live wnth him? Two or three years?
I hardly know. He died the year I went there.
Would you have lived with him five years?
I don't think so.
If what you have told me is correct you are only about 36 asked Mr. O'Brien.
Yes, declared the witness.
Not 56?
I hardly think so.
So you are about 36?
Yes.
When you were struck, where were you?
Right at the door of the house.
When?
Right after dinner. I had the dishes lone.
How close were you to the wood pile?
I wasn't near it.
Were you at the wood pile?
No.

Do you know Linton?
Yes.
Have you been told to keep away from him?

When did he tell you?
All the time.
How long before you were hit were you talking to these men?
I don't remember.
Did you tell Maize you would get even with him?
No. I didn't.
You have had lots of arguments with him?
Yes. He's all the time fighting and trying to keep me away from the men I waited on.
Did you ever say anything to him?
No.
What did you say to him when he struck you?
I just walked away. I thought I had had enough.
Where did you go?
Across the fields.
Did you have your supper that night?
Yes. And did my dishes afterwards.
Did you swear at Mr. Maize?
Not that I know of.
Re-examination by Mr. Hatton—
You didn't pick the rake up?
No.
You saw it in Mr. Maize's hand?
Yes.
Did he have the rake when he came out of the house?
No. He got it in the yard.

Thomas Linton.

Thomas Linton, the second witness called by the Crown, was also an inmate of the institution. He, too, was permitted to sit down while giving his evidence.
How old are you? asked Mr. Hatton?
I'm 87 past.
How long have you been in the House of Refuge?
Twelve years.
You are one of the inmates that has been accused of paying attention to Mrs. Carberry?
I don't understand you.
You remember October 9?
Yes.
What day of the week was it?
I don't remember.
Do you remember seeing Mrs. Carberry on that day?
I'm an Irishman, I can't understand that.
You remembered the other day said Mr. Hatton referring to the time when he got a statement from the witness. Has anybody been talking to you?
No.
Do you remmeber me being there?
I might have seen you but I wouldn't know you.
Do you remember Charlie Elliot?
I do well. He was there, too, pointing to Mr. Hawthorne, who was seated in the court.
You don't remember me?
There's too many there your size.
Do you remember me asking you questions?
After a long pause the witness said "Yes sir."
Do you remember Mrs. Carberry.
I do. I was right there. I was sitting on the bench beside her and the boss came out. He looked at us and I said "Probably it's me that's doing the damage. Mrs. Carberry got up and faced him then. He entered the house and came out and she faced him again, continued the witness. He picked up the rake and struck her over the head. I said "Don't you do it, but he hit her until that woman (pointing to Mrs. Hughes, another inmate) called out, "They're killing Fatty. They're killing Fatty."
Did he stop?
He kept on hitting her until she fell—just like you'd kick an old turnip out of your road.
Where did Maize get the rake?
He got it off the wall as he came out.
Why did he go into the house?
He wouldn't face her the first time.
What were you doing on the bench?
Talking, the same as usual.
Are you in the habit of sitting there?
Yes We get tired sitting in the house.
Would you know the rake?
Yes. That's it, when shown the rake which was received as Exhibit "A."
What did Maize do with the rake after she was struck?
He took it into the house.
Who took it out?
I did and hid it where nobody could get it. I afterwards gave it to Mr. Charlie Elliot.
Cross examined by Mr. O'Brien, the witness declared that the reason Mrs. Carberry left the bench was to "face the boss."
Why? asked Mr. O'Brien.
She though he was jealous of her and me sitting there.
What did she do?
She jumped at him.
What made her jump?
Well, he looked so fierce.
She thought he was jealous of her interrupting you?
Yes.
Had she got mad at the boss before?
Yes. There was a racket upstairs, but I didn't see it.
Did you hear it?
Yes.
Did you hear the boss tell her to keep out of the men's part?
Not to my knowledge.
I suppose they have lots of rows?
I guess so.
What did she say to him this afternoon.
I didn't hear anything.
You knew there was going to be a fight?
Yes.
You knew the boss did not want her at the wood pile with the men?
Yes.
The witness then told a rambling story, saying in part that they (the inmates used to often wrestle and scuffle with one another.

Mrs. Elizabeth Hughes

Mrs. Hughes told Mr. Hatton that she had been an inmate of the institution for four years. Do you remember October 9? asked Mr. Hatton.
Yes.
Where were you at the time of the assault?
Sitting on the bench at the woodpile.
Did you see the assault?
Yes. I saw her fall on the ground and him take the rake to her after she fell.
While she was on the ground?
Yes. While she was on the ground.
What made her fall?
He knocked her down.
What with?
The rake.
How many blows were struck?
I can't say for sure.
What caused this assault?
I couldn't say.
How did she get up?
She got up herself.
Did she complain about being hurt?
Yes. Both her eyes were black.
Cross examined by Mr. O'Brien, the witness declared that she didn't know whether Mr. Maize had told Mrs. Carberry not to sit on the bench with Mr. Hinton.
You have quarrelled with Mrs. Carberry?
Nothing to hurt.
You know something about the quarrels that take place?
Yes.
You did not see Mrs. Carberry on the bench at all?
No.
The witness told Mr. O'Brien that Mr. Maize had struck Mrs. Carberry with his fist after which she picked up a stick of wood and threw it at him. Then Maize, the witness said, struck Mrs. Carberry with the rake.
Has Tommy (referring to Mr. Hinton, a previous witness) grabbed you?
Yes. But nothing to hurt. It was just in fun.
Have you seen Tommy with his arm around Mrs. Carberry?
Witness, laughing heartily: Lots of times.
Mr. Maize has had lots of trouble with her?
A little.
She won't do what she is told to do?
No.

Dr. J. C. Smith

Dr. J. C. Smith of Lakefield stated that he had examined Mrs. Carberry at the House of Refuge on October 13. There was evidence, he said, of severe contusions in the neighborhood of both eyes, an abrasion over the left eye, contusions above and below the left elbow, and one above the right elbow. Two fingers on the left hand were swollen.
Did she suffer? asked Mr. Hatton.
It would be rather painful, replied the doctor.
Was it an ordinary black eye?
There were two of them?
What would cause them?
It was apparently caused by some blunt object.
Under cross-examination by Mr. O'Brien, Dr. Smith stated that Mrs. Calberry was of a very nervous type.
What do you say regarding her mental condition?
I couldn't say There's a border line between senility and insanity that is hard to define.
This concluded the case for the Crown.

Mrs. Margaret Maize

Mrs. Margaret Maize, the wife of the accused, was called as a witness by Mr. O'Brien. Mr O'Brien stated that he was calling her in direct opposition to her doctor's orders, but felt that her evidence was of such importance that it should be heard if at all possible
You remember October 9, asked Mr. O'Brien of the witness.
Yes.
Where were you about two o'clock?
I think I was upstairs.
What took place between your husband and Mrs. Calberry?
I went into the dining room and saw her coming from the woodpile with a stick of wood about a foot long and 7 or 8 inches across. She was also using very profane language. She told him she would give him the stick if he didn't go into the house.
How?
Had he anything in his hand?
No. I saw him ward off the blow with his hand.
He hit her and knocked her over.
Did you see a rake?
No.
How has this woman been behaving?
Very badly. She wouldn't obey me at all and has upbraided me with bad language. She has at different times threatened to burn the building down and has also chased me from the men's dining-room, threatening to throw the hot dish water over me, the witness stated.
What has been the reason for the strict discipline recently?
The witness hesitated, but on Mr. O'Brien telling her to tell the reason she said: "Several cases of bad conduct—we like to keep them as straight as we can."

Visibly Affected.

The witness was visibly affected and declared that she could answer no more questions when Mr. Hatton came forward to cross-examine her.
His Worship called on Dr. T. W. H. Young, who was in the court, and asked him to examine the witness and ascertain whether she was in a fit condition to submit to cross-examination or not. The doctor reported in a few minutes that the witness was not in any condition, and that it would be dangerous to put her into the witness box again.
His Worship ordered the case adjourned until 11 a.m. on Saturday when the witness will be submitted to cross-examination by Mr. Hatton.

Varsity Prepare For Annual Struggle With Queen's

SQUADS READY FOR SATURDAY

Varsity and Queen's Are Both Determined To Win.

TIGER-OTTAWA TILT.

TORONTO, Ont., October 21.—The card is a good one all down the line. The games in the Intercollegiate and Interprovincial Unions stand out, and there should be record-breaking crowds at both Kingston and Ottawa where the "big" game will be fought out. Many fans will take in the game at Kingston.

Finished the Heavy Work.

Varsity put in the hardest practice they have indulged in this season before a crowd of rail birds that went away satisfied that Queen's will have to step to defeat the wearers of the Blue. "Ronnie" McPherson sent his big blue machine against the "Orphans," and the two outfits went at it tooth and nail. The "Orphans" held for a while, but the "Firsts" finally started an offensive that had them backed into the shadow of their own goal posts and they could do little against the team led by Captain Francis Trimble. It was a workout that did both teams the world of good, and it put them right on edge for the tussles that face them on Saturday.

The Orphans have little to worry about. They are a smarter aggregation than Camp Borden, and they should win.

The Firsts face elimination and the ash heap. A victory and they will all be heroes. A defeat and they will be as highly regarded as last year's hollyhocks. They are facing the issue with a grim determination to give the best that they have. They are trained to the minute and if they meet a reverse at the hands of Harry Batstone and his team they should have no alibis to offer.

Queen's Are Confident.

Queen's held their stiffest practice since the game in Montreal. Despite a nasty drizzle Orin Carson and his associate coaches made everybody travel at top speed. There were no ill effects in evidence from the McGill game, and the squad will be at full strength for the invasion of the Varsity. "Chubby" Dunne, the Ottawa line-plunger, is still out, but it is not expected that his injury will mend in time to let him start against Varsity.

Gratton Mungovan, the former Argonaut junior and senior quarterback, a lad who likes the rough going and who is mighty cool under fire, will start at quarter for Queen's. Mungovan is a tackler who hits them low and his secondary defensive work stands out. He played his best football two years ago with Argonaut Juniors, and appeared to be in for a good season with the Double Blue this year when he departed for Queen's. Waugh, a big line man who was with Queen's Intermediates, will also line up against the Blue and White.

Queen's is swarming with graduates who have come to give the Tricolor their assistance, and Dr. Johnny Evans, the greatest quarter the Kingston seat of learning ever had, is grooming Mungovan for his task.

Tigers Are Ready.

The Tigers are all set for their trip to Ottawa and every player in the outfit is confident that they will come out of the capital with the Senators' scalps and the leadership of the Interprovincial Union tacked safely under their belts. Ottawa are just as confident that they can hand the Hamilton aggregation the trimming, and it should be a battle royal. All Ottawa and the surrounding territory is talking about the set-to and Lansdowne Park should be crammed.

Both the teams will be at full strength, there are no injuries in either camp. The Tigers are depending upon the line to stand up under the heavy attacks of the Ottawa heavyweights and give their speedy backfield plenty of protection. Ottawa plan to rip and tear the Tiger offensive to pieces. Looking at the teams from all angles, there is little to choose between them and may the best outfit win.

Bill Miles Hurt.

"Big" Bill Miles, the cheery captain of the Argonauts, is out with a badly sprained ankle and it is doubtful whether he will be able to start against M.A.A.A. at Montreal. If he doesn't his work will be missed as he is the most dependable man on the scullers' line. The double blue are working hard and they are going down to Montreal determined to emerge on top of the heap. If they play the brand of football they did against Ottawa in Ottawa they should come out on top.

Beachers at Hamilton.

The O.R.F.U. games this week are not causing much excitement, the race in the old union is a one-sided one, with the Beachers and Varsity playing the leading roles, and until they meet again on Thanksgiving Day there will not be much interest in the O.R.F.U. battles. The Balmy Beach crew should win by a good margin on Saturday when they meet the Tiger Cubs in Hamilton, and, as said before, Camp Borden should fall before the Varsity orphans at the Varsity stadium.

Hardest Workout.

KINGSTON, Ont., Oct. 21 (Canadian Press).—Queen's Senior Rugby team had their hardest workout of the week at the Richardson stadium yesterday afternoon, when every player was on the field, and two hours work was gone through. The practice was in the form of a game against a team managed and directed by Dr. Johnny Evans, former star quarter back of the team, who is in the city for the week. Evans donned a uniform, and appeared at quarter for his team, having such men as Dr. Muirhead, former inside wing, Trish' Monahan, Beano Wright, Jimmy Wright, Bob Basserman and others, and they gave the seniors the hardest workout of the year.

Batstone and Warren handled the backfield work for the seniors, while for the most part the regular team was on the field. The players were driven hard throughout, and the only casualty was when Jimmy Kilgour, husky middle wing, suffered a crack on the nose. In fact the practice was as strenuous as any ordinary game, though the only time Evans got into the defensive work was when he tackled Batstone. About the only points scored were on two field goals, by Batstone, the line plungers failing to come through as expected.

Coach Carson stated that the team was in splendid physical shape for the game with Varsity. He stated that Monahan would not be played on Saturday, and also that there was no chance of "Chubby" Dunne being in uniform. The former Ottawa player still has his right leg in a cast, and it will not be removed until next week. "Gib" McKelvey, who has had an injured leg all fall, was in the game, but it is doubtful if he will be able to play much on Saturday.

Five Regulars Missing.

MONTREAL, Que., October 21 (Canadian Press). — Five McGill regulars will be absentees from the line-up when the red team faces the R.M.C. on Saturday in the annual exhibition game with the Cadets. Captain Jack Little, St. Germaine, Curly Taylor, Blair and Munroe will not dress for the game. Coach Shaughnessy intends to give his second string players, particularly those on the backfield, plenty of opportunity to show what they have, and it will be mostly a second team that will carry the brunt of the battle against R.M.C.

Rezin, while being named on the substitute list, is not likely to spend much time in the game, and the McGill mentor will probably leave in Brown, the St. Andrew's recruit, to call the signals.

Sharp still nursing an injured back, will not likely be used much, and the work at middle will probably fall on the shoulders of McTeer and Moar. Carson will take Munroe's place at inside wing, with Spears at snap and Charlie Littlefield, the 200-pound American product, flanking him on the other side. Both regular outside wings from the West, Blair and Taylor, will not be in uniform, and Patch and Grainger will take their places. Doherty, Tremain, and Lovering will form the back division.

Makes Peace With Boxing Association

NEW YORK, October 21 (Canadian Press). — Mike McTigue, recently shorn of his light heavyweight title recognition here by Tommy Laughran, yesterday made his peace with the National Boxing Association, and paved the way for another "shot" at 175-pound honours.

McTigue's suspension by the N.B.A. for failure to fulfil a contract to box Larry Gaines at Toronto, was lifted by Thomas E. Donohue, president of the N. B.A., after the veteran boxer, through his manager, Jimmy Johnson, agreed to meet Gaines in the Canadian city between November 10 and 20.

At the same time McTigue's challenge for a match with Jimmy Slattery, of Buffalo, recognized light heavyweight champion by the N.B.A., was accepted by President Donohue.

Lifting of McTigue's suspension, Donohue said, clears the last obstacle to his scheduled match with Mickey Walker, middleweight champion, in Chicago on November 1.

PHELAN CUP-TIE GAME TO-MORROW

Quakers and Thistle Will Meet at King Edward Park at 3.30.

Saturday's soccer bill is the final of the Phelan Charity Cup between the Quaker Oats and the Thistle at King Edward Park. Kick-off at 3.30 o'clock. Referee, Alex. McKinley.

Last Saturday these two teams battled to a 2-each game after one of the most interesting cup ties that was ever played in the city. So again, to-morrow, the soccer fans will see a live issue from beginning to end.

In all probability the Quakers will place the same eleven on the field of play while the Thistle team will not be chosen until the last minute, because they do not know how many players can get away from business.

The proceeds are handed over to Charity.

All players are requested to be at the Pavilion not later than 3 o'clock.

Quaker and Thistle players please note.

PORTLAND, Me., Oct. 21 (Canadian Press).—Happy to be back on land again after a voyage fraught with danger, the crew of the three-masted schooner Flower Dew of St. John's, Newfoundland, landed at the State pier yesterday from the steamer Santa Veronica, which took them off the Italian steamer Brenta, which had rescued them as the Flower Dew was sinking under them. Capt. James Bellman of the Flower Dew was accompanied by five young men of crew.

NO MORE MONEY FOR LONG FLIGHT

New South Wales Premier Urges Aviators To Abandon Project.

SYDNEY, N.S.W., Oct. 21.—(Canadian Press).—Premier Thomas Bavin has cabled Captain Kingsford Smith, now in the United States, saying he cannot see his way to granting further financial assistance to the captain's proposed flight from San Francisco to Sydney and urged the aviator to abandon the dangerous project.

Smith Will Fly.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 21.—(Canadian Press).—Captain Kingsford Smith, Australian aviator, said yesterday that despite the suggestion of Premier Bavin of New South Wales that the flight was dangerous, he would proceed with plans for a flight from San Francisco to New South Wales, to begin about Nov. 5. Premier Bavin had furnished all financial assistance that had been required from him, the aviator said.

The change in ownership is generally expected to be a good thing for the Reading International League club, which for the past two seasons has played in very hard luck.

HOLDS LONDON CHESS LEAD

Increases His Margin To Full Point By Defeating Yates.

MARSHALL-RETI DRAW.

LONDON, Oct. 21.—Dr. S. Tartakower of Paris and F. J. Marshall of New Yoork, of all the twelve competitors in the International chess masters' tournament at the British Empire Club, remain undefeated after eight rounds of the eleven have been contested. By defeating F. D. Yates, the British champion, in a Sicilian defence after forty-seven moves, Dr. Tartakower increased his lead to one full point over Marshall. Yates lost a pawn in the middle game and could not recover thereafter.

The United States champion, playing the black side of a Zukertort opening, encountered stiff opposition in Richard Reti of Czechoslovakia. The result was a draw after thirty-one moves. The ending was one with bishops commanding squares of different colors. It was Marshall's fifth draw. He has won three games outright. Dr. Tarkower, on the other hand, has won five and drawn three.

Nimzowitsch is Beaten

While Marshall was held in check by Reti, he was, nevertheless, favored by the outcome of the game between A. Nimowitsch of Denmark and W. Winter of England. To the surprise of the gallery, Nimzowitsch met with defeat and was relegated to third place, leaving Marshall in second. Nimzowitsch opened irregularly and experienced trouble when Winter attacked him vigorously and won a piece. The game lasted forty-five moves.

Sir George Thomas maintained his good form of the last three days by drawing a hard-fought game with Dr. M. Vidmar of Jugoslavia. The baronet handled his side of a queen's gambit declined with correctness and precision, play lasting for thirty-eight moves. Dr. Vidmar, who has an adjourned game pending with Buerger, is fourth in the race.

Bogoljubow Held Even

Fairhurst, England, lost to Buerger, England, in a queen's pawn opening in which forty-five moves were recorded. A well-contested game between Colle, Belgium, and Bogoljubow, Germany, in which the former adopted the queen's pawn opening, was adjourned after fifty moves with honors fairly even.

The pairings, for the ninth round Thomas vs. Fairhurst, Marshall vs. Vidmar, Bogoljubow vs. Reti, Winter vs. Colle, Tartakower vs. Nimzowitsch, and Buerger vs. Bates. Adjourned games: Yates vs. Bogoljubow, fourth round; Buerger vs. Vidmar, seventh round; Colle vs. Bogoljubow, eighth round.

KITCHENER HAS STRONG TEAM

Will Operate in Senior Ranks As Usual This Coming Winter.

OFFICIAL ANNOUNCEMENT.

KITCHENER, Ont., Oct. 21.—The Twin City senior O.H.A. team will be operating as usual this winter in the Ontario Hockey Association. That hockey fans can take this for granted is the definite assurance given by Manager Harry Wisner who has piloted the team for innumerable years and the Greenshirts will again be strong.

It was thought with the advent of the Canpro team here and the loss of Roy Hinsperger of the seniors and Jack White of the intermediates to the monied ranks, that the Greenshirts would slip a notch to intermediate ranks. The club has no such intention. In fact the pros are welcomed in one sense, though it is known that they will cut into the senior patronage. However, in another way they will be an assistance in that expensive out-of-town trips for pre-season training will be eliminated with artificial ice here.

All of last year's team which met the Toronto Grads in the finals will again be available with the exception of Hinsperger and Hillman. The latter has retired. Hiller and Karges also wanted to hang up their sticks, but they have been induced to play again. The pros wanted Cammie Seagram, but the big Waterloo lad will never turn professional. In addition to Seagram, Hiller and Karges, there will be Chuck Roth and Goaler Klein, Pries, and Berner, the latter the former junior. The seniors also have two promising youngsters in the persons of Dick Farrel, formerly of Grimsby, and Wilfred Heller, who has played junior here for two years. Both are excellent prospects.

The Greenshirts may not win the championship, but they will have a distinct say as to where the title will ultimately go if present indications work out.

PRINCE OF WALES SOCCER CHAMPS

Defeated Central School 6 To 0 For the Alex Kay Cup.

"Three Cheers" all round, was the spirit that prevailed yesterday afternoon at the end of the Public School Soccer championship at King Edward Park when the Prince of Wales defeated Central schoolboys six goals to nothing, for the Alex. Kay Soccer Cup, before a large attendance of adult and juvenile soccer fans. It was very pleasing to watch the younger element play the scientific code with precision.

Prince of Wales School now holds the Soccer, Hockey, Relay Race and Baseball trophies.

First Half.

The Central boys won the toss and took advantage of the wind that was blowing right down the field from goal to goal. Mid-field play continued in the early stages with the half-backs dominating the play. On several occasions the forwards would break through to find a stubborn defence that punted up-field. Both custodians were called upon to handle from close attack. Finally a break-away on the right, by Stewart for Prince of Wales, was successful when he evaded the full-back on a dribbling play, and running at a fast pace let drive for goal. The goalkeeper failed to hold the ball in his hands that registered the only tally in the first half. Prince of Wales 1; Central 0.

Half Time.

After the customary respite, both teams lined up as in the first period. Central made straight for goal but their attack was frustrated by J. Pearson, who cleared up mid-field again. Dunkerley got the ball from the air, and sent Stewart away on the right, who shot from twenty yards out, to completely fool the Central custodian with the dropping shot. Immediately afterwards Eppes and G. Gatfield played combination inside the defence, for the former to finish with the third goal. All of a sudden the Central boys collapsed against the heavier team when the Prince of Wales increased their scores through Stewart and Gatfield. Prince of Wales 6; Central 0.

The Teams.

Prince of Wales: R. Pearson goal; I Pearson and F. Chambo, backs; K. Hope, G. Dunkerley and J. Gatfield, halves; H. Stewart, G. Gatfield, H. Eppes, G. Jay and G. Seabrook, forwards.

Central: R. Strong, goal; J. Thackeray and R. Whately full-backs; J. Butcher, R. Sturgeon and L. Yeates, halves; T. Wheeler, J. Smith J. Routley, W. Wyllie and J. Miller, forwards.

Referee: Mr. Coleman.

"HEART TROUBLES" FROM IRRITATIONS

In yesterday's article I explained how various forms of heart derangements may be caused by the mechanical crowding of a large meal, or because of the distension of the stomach and intestines from an abnormal amount of gas pressure. There are also outstanding chemical causes which are responsible for the development of myocarditis, pericarditis, angina pectoris, palpitation, and other functional disturbances as well as the organic heart diseases which may develop if such functional derangements are not corrected.

If one lives so that a general toxemia develops, it is easy to understand that the extra amount of poisonous waste which the blood carries through the heart must in time have some effect upon the tender membranes lining the heart walls. It is a well-known fact that those with the rheumatic diathesis eventually develop some kind of heart trouble. The majority of cases recovering from rheumatic fever will be left with heart murmurs or leakage of the heart valves. Of course, it is possible for one to pass through an acute fever, such as rheumatic fever, without having the heart valves seriously affected, but a complete recovery without some injury is seldom seen. I believe this is partially due to the strong drugs which are unwisely used during a fever when a patient would really get well more quickly with less danger of bad consequences following if he used only the simplest hygienic measures, such as fasting, sweating, frequent sponge baths, etc. The heart is only strained all the more in the case of the patient who pins his faith on stimulating drugs to cure his condition which will more safely correct itself if Mother Nature is given a chance in her own way.

Many cases of heart troubles are observed which are unquestionably caused by the use of too much alcohol and tobacco, and from the habitual use of common remedies taken to relieve pains and headaches. The regular use of laxatives and cathartics may produce sufficient irritation to chemically excite the heart and produce strain.

Cystitis, irritation of the neck of the bladder, or an inflamed condition of the prostate or uterus, are often the causes of tachycardia, or rapid heart. These are purely reflex causes, and the heart is whipped up to a state of palpitation through the action upon the sympathetic nervous system.

The secret of avoiding heart troubles which may come from chemical or reflex causes is to live so that acute fevers never develop, to eliminate the necessity for offending drugs, and to live on the right kind of foods to prevent the generation of any irritating toxicosis.

Questions and Answers.

Question: Mrs. S. S. S. R. writes: "I have had stomach trouble for nearly two years and very often I have distressing pains below the stomach. The doctor thinks I will have to have an operation and have the gall-bladder taken out before I shall be better. Do you think I shall be obliged to have this operation?"

Answer: It is unwise for me to attempt to diagnose your case through this column or to estimate whether or not you should have the gall-bladder operation. I find only a small percentage of gall-bladder cases require operations, as a diet treatment will usually effect a complete cure. The diet should be tried first and if this fails it is time enough to try surgery.

Question: J. R. M. writes: "I use two tablespoons of bran along with clabber every morning for my breakfast. This acts as a laxative. Is this combination all right?"

Answer: The combination of bran and clabbered milk is all right for you if you are getting results with it. I suggest that you use pulverized bran, and only the curd of the calbber, discarding the whey.

"Jew de quilles," an old Basque game bearing a resemblance to lawn bowling, has suddenly become a craze in Paris. Although for centuries it has been played in every village in the French Pyranees, it has never been seen further afield until its appearance in Paris a few months ago. The game requires little skill and is easily learned and as there is plenty ofa ction it never fails to afford a bundant amusement for the spectators.

THEATRES

AT THE CAPITOL.

"FIREMEN, SAVE MY CHILD!"

Wallace Beery and Raymond Hatton, who furnished hilarious amusement for their audiences in the feature picture, "Behind the Front," and had a good deal of fun in "We're in the Navy Now," are stellar actors in the picture running at the Capitol Theatre for this week end, in "Firemen, Save My Child!" The big galoot with the glasses and the puffy face and the little, sharp-nosed gentleman with a Yiddish cast of countenance make a real comedy pair for the picture which is introduced as: "Dedicated to those who enjoy a good fire; the owners of second-hand clothing stores." The sub-titles provide much of the amusement throughout.

Wallace Beery as Axel Wonstrup and Raymond Hatton as Roy Flumsgain meet when the latter is a confidence man and the former is an easy mark. Roy swindles the big man out of a hundred dollars, then pretends he has been held up, and Axel goes to prison. It looks for awhile as if the producers are going to repeat the action of "Behind the Front," in which the big rookie looks constantly for the thief who has stolen his watch, but this idea fizzles out and the two become very chummy as amateur firemen of the rankest type. They become enslaved by the Fire Chief's daughter, a very winsome young lady with a mischievous mind, who calls them to her aid, along with the lengthy ladder truck, when her parrot gets up a tree. Later they help her and her car out of a mud-hole, at much peril to themselves, and then they act as dancing partners for a bored bunch of amusement-seeking young ladies. They transport a piano up seven flights of stairs and then pitch it into the elevator shaft. Finally, a real fire occurs in the apartment occupied by the Chief's daughter and they act as heroes during the conflagration.

They are really funnier in this picture than they were in the navy feature, but the quality of spontaneity which made "Behind the Front" such a scheme has faded slightly into a determined effort to be funny at any cost.

Just as a hors d'oeuvre, perhaps, for the comedy which follows, the programme serves up a very pathetic little picture of a child who loses his dog in advance of the feature —Jeanette.

AT THE REGENT.

DIRECTOR IS "BRICK" GUESS WHY WARNER

"Brick!" That is the most natural way to speak of Ray Enright, director of Warner Brothers' production of "Tracked by the Police" starring Rin-Tin-Tin, for that is the name by which he has been known in cutting rooms and studios of Hollywood for fifteen years. Although this length of experience would seem to indicate that he is a grizzled veteran, he is only thirty-one years old. The reason for his nickname is quite a common one—he has red hair and freckles, but as in a number of similar cases, it carries its added slang meaning—that is, regular fellow!

To satisfy oneself that he is a "brick" in the most approved sense of the word one need only to have witnessed his resolute patience at the end of three gruelling weeks of filming in the Arizona desert when the company was frazzled out with the unaccustomed environment and everyone had had at least a touch of sickness. Add also the facts that it was his first directorial effort and the first time in eight years of happy married life that he had been away from his wife on thier wedding anniversary

"Tracked by the Police" includes in the cast Jason Robards, Virginia Brown Faire, Tom Santschi, Nanette, Theodore Lorch, Dave Morris, Ben Walker and Wilfrid North. The Rin-Tin-Tin classic is now playing at the Regent Theatre.

SOCCER NOTES.

The Thistle team against the Quaker Oats in the final of the Phelan trophy will be: Griffine, goal; McKenzie and McLeod, backs; Burgess, Binks and Bromley, halves; Lang, House, Dawson, Cameron and McPhate, forwards. Reserves: Waddell and Millar.

A special meeting of the Association will be held on Monday evening in Chamber of Commerce Rooms.

All players and officials of the Masseys F. C. will be at the banquet in the Paragon Hall to-night.

How to Play BRIDGE

Series 1927-28 by Wynne Ferguson

Author of "PRACTICAL AUCTION BRIDGE"

Copyright 1927 by Hoyle, Jr

ARTICLE No. 2

What does a bid of one club indicate? A bid of one club is a contract to take in the two combined hands seven of the thirteen tricks. Of these seven tricks the club bidder should have the expectancy of at least four. As there are thirteen tricks in all, and as the club bidder has indicated by his bid that he expects to take four tricks in his own hand if clubs are trumps, there are nine tricks remaining to be won by the three other players. Each of these three players is, on average, entitled to one-third thereof, or to three tricks. These three tricks are the so-called "Average Expectancy of Support" and constitute the basis of every modern bid.

Every original bid should include two elements: First, two quick tricks against any bid the opponents may make; second, the possibility of at least four tricks provided trump is the suit named in the original bid. These two elements are important for two reasons: First, when a bid is made, the bidder never knows whether or not he and his partner will win the final declaration. For that reason he must be just as well prepared to defend as to attack. Hence the necessity for sure tricks, that is, tricks which will win against any declaration. Second, the bidder must always be prepared to play the declaration at the bid first named by him. He must, therefore, have a suit that will take at least four tricks if it is trump, for he can, on the average, expect only three tricks from his partner. For that reason he must have length (at least four cards) as well as high cards to justify an original bid.

When a player as dealer bids one club, he tells his partner that he either has two sure tricks in the club suit (at least four cards) or one trick in the club suit and one trick in an outside suit. For example:

Hearts — 10, 7, 2
Clubs — A, K, 7, 6, 3
Diamonds — J, 4
Spades — 10, 9, 2

Hearts — A, 7, 2
Clubs — K, Q, 7, 6, 3
Diamonds — J, 4
Spades — 10, 9, 2

In the first example, there are two sure tricks in clubs, the ace and the king. In the second example there is one sure trick in hearts, the ace; and one sure trick in clubs, the king queen. By sure tricks is meant the tricks that will win against any declaration, and on the first or second round of the suit. If clubs are trumps, both of these example hands should win four tricks. The partner's hand is estimated on the average to be worth three tricks; thus a bid of one club should win four tricks in the bidder's hand and three from the partner's hand, a total of seven.

Here is an interesting hand that came up recently at one of the New York Clubs:

Problem No. 1

Y
A B
Z

Hearts — A, Q, 3, 2
Clubs — K, Q, 7, 4
Diamonds — A, Q, 3
Spades — Q, 9

No score, rubber game. Z dealt and bid one no-trump. A and Y passed and B doubled. What should Z bid?

Here is another hand that involves some of the same principles:

Problem No. 2

Hearts — J, 10, 7, 6
Clubs — J, 8
Diamonds — K, J, 8
Spades — J, 8, 7, 5

A B
Z

No score, rubber game. Z dealt and bid one no-trump, A and Y passed and B doubled. If Z redoubled and A bid two spades, what should Y bid? An analysis of these interesting hands will be given in the next article.

Problem No. 3

Hearts — none
Clubs — J, 8, 7, 6, 5
Diamonds — 7, 3
Spades — none

Hearts — 8, 7, 5, 3, 2
Clubs — none
Diamonds — 10
Spades — 9

A B
Z

Hearts — K
Clubs — Q, 9
Diamonds — J, 8, 5
Spades — 5

Hearts — A, J, 6, 4
Clubs — none
Diamonds — K, Q
Spades — 4

If spades are trumps and Z is in the lead, how can Y-Z win five of the seven tricks against any defense? Solution in the next article.

What Every Girl Should Know

By GISA PRUCHONE.

Copyright, 1927, Warner Bros. Pictures, Inc.
"WHAT EVERY GIRL SHOULD KNOW," with Patsy Ruth Miller, is a Warner Bros. picturization of this novel.

SYNOPSIS

Mary "Elaine" Sullivan—slender, beautiful, red-headed—is a tennis champion. A spiritual girl is Mary, despite her physical prowess. Her parents are dead. Wally Mason, a young reporter, loves Mary. But she disbelieves in love. Mary keeps house for her brothers, David and Bobby. David, the family support, hopes Mary will get safely married. David is sentenced to prison for an auto fatality. The Charity Department takes Bobby. Wally proposes; Mary goes to New York, and gets a cloakroom job in a notorious night club—

The leader of the band raised his violin in air, twirled it, caught it as it fell, nodded his head sharply with its restoral, and the gleaming instruments took life. The lights were dimmed, casting sinuous shadows on the dance floor. One by one of the few guests of THE WHITE APE threaded their way about the tables with the floor as their objective. There the women took on such softness of femininity, such charm of submission that Mary's eyes swam with the loveliness of it, the by-gone courtliness of it and the old-fashioned charm. Stalwart masculinity bending over the fraiiness of the feminine forms —"So beautiful," Mary thought it, and wondered wherein the harm my in the much-maligned night club?

"Roses are blooming in Picardy,
In the hush of the silvery moon."

The same old song that Mary knew, played differently somehow. Played to a certain lilt, a certain hiccough, that made the beat uneven and unconsciously raised your shoulders. Oh, the swing of it, the gayly swaying rhythm of it! In her thoughts she, too, danced on that waxed floor. With—with Wally. Quite naturally he slipped into her arms, and away they went to the intoxication of the hiccoughing saxophone. Wally — I've made this already, Wally, and the night not half begun. My first money earned, Wally, see? Need I depend upon you, or David anymore when I can do this with my smile and the swing of my hair?

"What's the matter, kitten, don't you like the show?"

"Miss." A perfumed wrap thrust at her. A wrap heavy with the languor of the body it had the moment before embraced. After that there was no time to dance with Wally on the golden floor. Wraps and hats and gloves thrust into capacious pockets and checks, checks, checks. It was a little bewildering at first, and there was the added anxiety of her nerves. Her fingers were thumbs, and there were so many of them. Then the discomfort, that internal twitching that comes with the concentration of an alien gaze, and Mary looked up to find Bennie facing her, which didn't help matters any. Would he think her inefficient? Oh, surely not. There! There was that coat neatly hung. "Your check, sir!"

It had grown unbearably close. The air had slowly grown foggy with smoke, and breathing was difficult. Strangely enough, the noise had also increased. Mary had been too busy with the rush of new comers to take notice of what was going on about her. The sibilance of electric fans could be heard between snatches of music, making long graceful curves in an effort to clear the air. The dance floor was a writhing mass. Shoulders tilted to the rasp of the saxophone, but feet remained in place. Nobody really danced. You stood in place, length of body against body, and made motions with your head and your shoulders and hips. There was a sudden commotion in a far corner and Bennie appeared, running out a befogged youth whose red eyes and lolling head brought a rush of aversion to Mary, quickly followed by pity. Four of his companions followed, more or less under the sway of liquor. Nobody paid any attention to them.

The bored look of an accidental party to the little scene was quickly shifted. A party of three men and two women took the places of the boys. These were drunk before they entered. The still writhing mass on the dance floor, twitching to the "come hither" of the band. A sudden shriek from an hysterical woman. "You let her alone, blast you!"

Oh. Oh. This was vulgar. This was low. The cat-like Bennie at her elbow.

"What's the matter, kitten, don't you like the show?" She wished he wouldn't come so close. She could see the part in his ridged hair, and the little oily drops on the coarse blackness of it.

"That's life, kitten. That's New York. Where do you come from, h'm, kitten? Tell Benny."

There was such an air of the serpent about to leap, gleaming from Bennie's heavy-lidded eyes, that Mary could not force the words Garden City from her mouth. He would think her untarnished lily-white innocence rampant. She managed, "Chicago," and had to repeat it close to his solicitously bent ear to make herself heard.

"Chicago, eh? Not so hot. Can't compare it with little old New York, eh Miss Sullivan?" Mentally Bennie was rubbing palm against palm in self-satisfaction at this city of New York, in pride of possession. He leaned an elbow on the little shelf of her cage, and jerked his head toward the dancers. "Heh—dirty!" It is difficult to describe Bennie's "heh—dirty!" It's simply one of those things that must be heard. In time to the rhythm of the music he jerked his head and twitched one shoulder, and Mary knew, though she could not see it, that his feet, those thin paper-like feet, were drawing queer figures on the floor. Bennie was not wedged in among the mass on the floor, but nevertheless, Bennie was dancing. At one-thirty Bennie, the artist, was called upon for his specialty.

Shouts greeted him, and whistles, and the clink of coin on the smoothness of the dance-floor. "Hi—Benny!" "Yay!" "H-h-oi! Boy!" "That-a-kid, Big Boy! Strut it!" One languorous weaving of his thin black legs about one another, out and about again, brought forth more cries, and hand-clapping, and further cries of "Do that thing!" He lifted his pink face from observation of those miraculous rippling feet, to be greeted by a storm of hand-claps. It was evidently a favorite step. Women were standing on the tables, supported by the arms of their men clasped about their legs. One girl slipped, and fell and was kissed all in a breath.

With Bennie's specialty at an end, the floor was once more taken possession of by the horde of dancers, and Mary turned to find Babs at her elbow. A transformed little elf, her brown body gleaming where the trappings of an Indian princess failed to hide it, and of trappings there were not much.

"I do a jazz on Pocahontas," she explained. Then, "Listen, will you, to that?" There were calls of "Bennie! We want Bennie!" from a group of men at a table near the dance-floor. Their heads were together, the light reflected on the pinkness of their scalps. Wine glasses were being thumped on the table in rhythm. "We want Bennie!" They were the source of much amusement to the dancers wedged in beside the table. One of them tapped a bald pate smartly with the toe of her slipper, and the hilarity resulting from this was loud and general.

There was pride in the snapping explosives that were the eyes of little Babs. Strangely softened eyes, with lids that were suddenly heavy. "The boy friend," she told Mary. "Bennie. Yeh—the boy friend. Don't you think him the greatest little stepper that ever slid on a floor? We're going to do a headliner for vaudeville one of these days. Bennie and me." The slur over "Bennie and me."

Suddenly Mary knew not what to say, but she longed to touch Babs, and did, taking and holding her little brown paw. This, she knew, was love, and felt herself unworthy. Unworthy of what? She did not know. But Babs had grown. No longer the little brown Babs with the body of an elf, but a woman, and taking Bennie with her to the heights. So powerfully did it emanate from her. So powerfully that it lifted Bennie, with his hair that reeked of oil and his slow repulsive suavity of tone, and the feet in the paper thin patent leather oxfords.

"You're a good kid." Thus Babs, suddenly, as she gripped Mary's hand where it held hers. Then she was gone, running on tiptoes toward the dance-floor, wafting toward it, rather, where the music was heralding her coming. A naughty pixie with snapping eyes and a heart that was heavy with love for Bennie. Bennie who called Mary "Kittens" and relished the morsel of word, rolling about on his tongue—favorably with those of the past century.' I dispute that statement. Perhaps our frankness in conversation and dress is impudent, but at least it is honest. An expression of the life of a past age may be gleaned from its literature, its history, and its diaries. From these, one gathers the impression that those people had defects as well as ourselves. They liked the company of the opposite sex and they loved as intensely, and sometimes as unfortunately, as we do. I think if we were transferred to an age as frank as this, with more leisure, we might be as they were.

A.Y.P.A. HEARS GOOD REPORTS

"Many young people do not become interested in the church because it is not as attractive as the life of the world; others are uninterested because they have been educated in ways that contradict the facts of religion, and others because they have had no encouragement in their own homes to take part in the activities of the church. For all of these, the A.Y.P.A. can be of help. It is of no use to get up in the pulpit and bewail the 'profligacy' of the present generation. It is better to use that plank in our platform which has the ambiguous term of 'edification.' Problems such as these are often side-stepped altogether for fear that the critical young people may step on someone's toes.

"There are two sources from which the A.Y.P.A. can draw membership, from the new Canadians and from the coming generation. What shall we say of our responsibility if in the generation to come we find sensuality, materialism and profligacy going hand in hand with the prosperity which seems inevitable to this country of ours.

"But if we look at matters solely from the utilitarian point of view, we must remember our motto 'For Christ and the Church,' and we shall go forward to erect a super-structure on the foundation that has been laid in years past. There are tremendous difficulties ahead of us and plenty of plain hard work. It means perspiration, as well as inspiration, but the things which we accomplish in this world are the things we will rely on in the next."

The closing devotional service of the morning was led by Rev. W. E. Kidd of Ancaster.

Communion Service

About two hundred young people attended the Celebration of the Holy Communion in St. John's Church on Friday morning at 8 o'clock. The celebrant was the Lord Bishop of the Diocese, who was assisted by Rev. R. C. Blagrave, D.D., Rev. G. J. Bousfield, Rev. W. E. Kidd (Ancaster), and Rev. R. J. Shiers (Bowmanville).

Following the breakfast, which was served in the basement of the schoolroom, the addresses of welcome were given. The Dominion President, W. R. Sproule, in the chair. Alderman G. A. Macdonald, representing the Mayor of the city, who was unavoidably absent, extended a hearty welcome on behalf of the city and expressed the hope that the delegates would carry away pleasant memories of the city. The speaker feels at home at Anglican gatherings, as it was at an Anglican gathering he met the lady who became his wife. He hoped the visit to Peterborough would be both pleasant and profitable. Of course there will be work as well as pleasure, as work is a necessary part of success. The movies and dance halls lure many of the young people and the object of such societies as the A.Y.P.A. is to draw them back. If we work we will worship, and as the natural consequence of work and worship is that we gain in fellowship and find edification. In welcoming the A.Y.P.A., Mr. Macdonald feels sure he is voicing the wishes of every citizen.

Dr. Blagrave welcomed the Dominion Conference on behalf of the A.Y.P.A. of Peterborough district. "We expect to be inspired by the Conference," said the speaker, "and the church will progress all along the line." The committees for this conference have worked for six months and with astonishing success have a splendid organization, and have solved and are solving the many difficulties which confront a conference committee.

"We welcome all because they belong to the household of faith, and we welcome them to our homes in the same spirit as we welcome them here because they belong to the same family to which we all belong."

Dr. Blagrave is a great believer in the A.Y.P.A. and paid a splendid tribute to the work of Messrs. Sproule and Wood, who made an appeal for the Association to the G.B.R.E. which, to again quote the doctor's words: "For thoroughness of preparation, for concision of argument and forcible presentation, could be equalled by few at the Board."

The A.Y.P.A. is true to the ideals and traditions of the Old Church. Emphasis is put where it ought to be. In these days when young people move from place to place, the A.Y.P.A. forms a link which unites the young people to their church in strange towns.

We hear constantly of service and there is no better or more effective channel for individual service than is offered by the A.Y.P.A. This is a restless age and there is a tendency to be going all the time; it is characteristic of young people. The A.Y.P.A. offers a splendid antidote for this restlessness in setting up as its standard of life: "For Christ and the Church," and the extension of the Kingdom of God.

Right Reverend Bishop Sweeney, the beloved Bishop of Toronto Diocese, was the third speaker, and expressed pleasure that this year's Dominion Conference is being held in the Diocese of Toronto and in the Parish of St. John's, which for a hundred years has borne witness for Christ in this district.

The Bishop brought a message of high resolve and definite purpose to the conference. He urged that the young people consecrate the spirit of optimism, which is an attribute of youth to the work of the church during this year 1927-28.

The Church needs also the tireless activity of the young in the work of the Church of the Living God.

There is too, the careful and guarded use of personal example and influence. There is nothing more inspiring for a clergyman than to see the bright faces of the young people at services among the older people. It ensures hearty singing and stimulates the service.

The Bishop urged the young people to enter into all parish activities; he referred also to an article by Archbishop Williams of Huron diocese, which said that of recent years all his candidates for confirmation were or had been at some time members of the A.Y.P.A. and if they are all as good as Dr. Sproule and the erstwhile "Prince of Wales," Mr. McConnell, it is a good sign.

"There are great movements pending in the Anglican National Commission, which will call into play all the activities of the young people in Canada; there is too the forward missionary movement, for which we must pour prayers and intelligent interest and activity. There are the little people on one side and the older and oldest people on the other and you are in the middle."

The Bishop left as a motto: "Be zealous in good works," and gave his good wishes for the coming year for greater progress under the Captain of our Salvation, who is himself going forward conquering and to conquer.

Mr. Sproule expressed thanks for the addresses of welcome and also the appreciation felt for the Bishop of Toronto "who is always present no matter who is absent."

STOMACH TROUBLES THAT ARE DANGEROUS
(CUT THIS OUT)

Some form of stomach trouble, if neglected, often lead to dangerous conditions—ulcers or cancers—then a surgical operation is about the only hope.

For this reason, even the most simple stomach ailments should be given prompt and careful attention. So, don't neglect acid stomach, sourness, gas or bloating! And don't waste time with unknown or unreliable treatments. At the very first signs of distress, go to any good drug store and obtain a few cents' worth of pure Bisurated Magnesia. This special Magnesia Compound is safe, and pleasant to take—quickly, almost instantly, effective, and does not act as a laxative. Be sure and ask for BISURATED Magnesia for stomach troubles only.

HAVE KIDNEYS EXAMINED BY YOUR DOCTOR

Take Salts To Wash Kidneys if Back Pains You or Bladder Bothers.

Flush your kidneys by drinking a quart of water each day, also take salts occasionally, says a noted authority, who tells us that too much rich food forms acids which almost paralyze the kidneys in their efforts to expel it from the blood. They become sluggish and weaken; then you may suffer with a dull misery in the kidney region, sharp pains in the back or sick headache, dizziness, your stomach sours, tongue is coated, and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine gets cloudy, full of sediment, the channels often get sore and irritated, obliging you to seek relief two or three times during the night.

To help neutralize these irritating acids; to help cleanse the kidneys and flush off the body's urinous waste, get four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy here. Take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days, and your kidneys may then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to help flush and stimulate sluggish kidneys; also to neutralize the acids in the system so they no longer irritate, thus often relieving bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; cannot injure and makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink.

ALLIED POWERS NEARLY BEATEN

Much Closer To Defeat Than Most People Realize, Says Lloyd George.

GREAT ESCAPE.

LONDON, Oct. 21.—(Canadian Press).—The Allied Powers came much nearer to defeat in the Great War than most people realized, declared Mr. Lloyd George, war-time Prime Minister, in unveiling a statue called "La Deliverance" in Finchley yesterday. Enlarging on the theme of the symbols he was eulogizing, Mr. Lloyd George continued:

"The French know the real meaning of the word deliverance. We haven't the visible aids to memory which they have in the destruction of their provinces, but the greatest escape of all was from the vassalage and enslavement of Europe by a great military depotism.

"If German statesmanship had been equal to German soldiering I do not know what would have happened. There would have been no America. Great Britain and France would have had the load to face, the most formidable military machine the world has ever seen."

DUNCAN'S WIFE SEEMED WELL

Witnesses at Preliminary Hearing Saw Her Night She Died.

PLEADS NOT GUILTY.

BRANTFORD, Oct. 21 (Canadian Press). — George Duncan was arraigned today on a charge of the murder of his wife, Margaret Brash Duncan, before Magistrate Blake in county court. He pleaded not guilty, and witnesses were called by the Crown.

Hattie Gannah, Hamilton, told of Duncan and his wife leaving her home on the evening of September 28, Mrs. Duncan apparently being in good health. A Caledonia hotel keeper said Duncan was in his hotel between 7 and 8 p.m., while David Chrysler said he was introduced to Mrs. Duncan at 9.30 p.m. when she seemed all right.

Mrs. Charles Summerhayes, sister of Duncan, told of the arrival of Duncan with the body of his wife, and declared the relationship between Duncan and his wife was always good. Duncan had told her, "She just died," she said.

That the clothing of Margaret Brash Duncan, who husband, George Duncan, is on trial, charged with her murder, could have been torn on the aluminum step of Duncan's car was evidence of Mrs. Charles Summerhayes. Little new evidence was brought out during the morning, but it was expected Duncan would tell his story after resumption later this afternoon.

Never Knew Father Little Girl Testifies

BROOKLYN, N.Y., Oct. 21 (United Press).—"I have never known my father, I have never called any man Daddy."

That testimony in Brooklyn Supreme Court by a seven-year-old, matter-of-fact little girl, won a verdict of not guilty for her mother, Mrs. Hattie Newman, defendant in a divorce action.

When her daughter Hazel denied the testimony of a private detective that she had called a strange man "Daddy" while he was in a room with her mother, impressed the jury, her mother smiled with joy.

Believed to be the oldest woman in England, Mrs. Sarah Collins, who is Queen Victoria's time was employed as a domestic at Buckingham Palace, has just celebrated her 106th birthday at the home of a daughter in London.

SOUTH AFRICAN LIFE INTERESTING

Visitors To City Describe Climate and Customs of Their Section.

Interesting visitors to the city this week, guests of their relatives, Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Hall, 88 London street, are Mr. and Mrs. N. E. Moffatt, from Namaqualand, in South Africa.

Mr. and Mrs. Moffatt are visiting Canada for a short time, after a year and nine months spent in travelling through other portions of South Africa, where they visited all the provinces of the Union and their ports, in England, where they spent over a year, and in the United States, where they visited Pittsburgh, New York, Chicago, Philadelphia and Akron. This is their first visit to either the United States or Canada. Mr. Moffatt, a native of Cornwall, went to South Africa in 1883, and has been or many years manager of the Port of Mamaqualand and of the privately-owned railway conducted by the Cape Copper Mining Company. Mrs. Moffatt was born in South Africa, of English parentage. They have one son, occupying a Government position at Capetown.

Namaqualand is a barren, desolate district in the Cape province of South Africa, with a capital in Springbrook, named after one of the species of deer which are indigenous to the country. There are many varieties of this animal, one being called a raabok, for its red color, and another, of a striped variety, called a blesbok.

In 1685, natives of the Namaqualand country were seen by travellers, wearing copper bangles and anklets. Investigation was made by the Dutch Governor of the time, Vanderstell, and an expedition by ox wagon was made into the section where the copper was later discovered, running in rich lodes which have been mined almost constantly from 1850. Owing to war conditions which placed them in the hands of receivers, they are now closed. Copper valued at £300,000,000 has been produced by these mines, the first of which was located in Copper Berg, the last word being the Dutch name for mountain, this eminence still bearing the ancient inscription engraved in the living rock. One of the modern copper mines has been christened O'Okiep and another is called the "Spectakel", the Dutch version of the English word "spectacle." An early explorer of this region, pausing at the summit of a hill to look down at the now extinct herds of buffalo grazing there, said: "What a spectacle", and thus named the mine.

Situated three hundred miles from Capetown, in the Union of South Africa, and about five hundred miles from Kimberley, these sections are called the "back veldt", and Namaqualand is a territory extending over a wide district almost denuded of timber, except scrub growth, and dotted with the kraals formed by the mud, beehive-shaped huts, of the natives whom the English people classify officially as "Bastards," owing to their mixed blood of Hottentot, Dutch and Bushman origin. At one time, the sole inhabitants of this section were the Hottentots and Bushmen, living by plunder, but the modern natives are of slightly better type, helped through the past century by the missionaries from both Protestant and Roman Catholic churches who have settled among them.

They farm a little, enough for their immediate wants, but they are of so improvident a disposition that when drought comes, as it often does, for the curse of this land is lack of rain, then there is famine and inescapable starvation, which Mr. Moffatt has witnessed many times during his sojourn of nearly half a century in that country.

Goats and sheep form the mainstay of life for the people, but a little wheat, oats and rye is grown, sown and plowed in the most primitive fashion. Oxen and donkeys are used for plowing operations, and these animals help later also with the harvesting, when a floor of clay, faced with cow-dung, is made, and here the hoofs of the beasts tread out the grain, which is later winnowed by the mild harvest wind and cleaned "time and again, for these people do not think of time."

Reaping is still done with hooks.

They are fine musicians in their way, also. They have a sort of reed instrument "which is like our organ pipe, in the manner in which they lengthen the sound", said Mr. Moffatt. "And they get not only melody but harmony, from this, while their women sing in two and three part effect."

The climate is exactly the reverse of ours. Summer begins at the end of October, with midsummer at Christmas time, and ends about the first of April. During this time, the temperature sometimes reaches ninety or ninety-five degrees and the atmosphere is very dry. Cold winds are usual in the winter, with snow only once or twice in Mr. Moffatt's recollection. When there is rain, the extreme heat makes a wonderful harvest, but often drought spoils the harvest. An average rainfall is seven or eight inches only, while six inches has been known to be the yield for three years of drought.

Mr. Moffatt was most enthusiastic over the kindness and hospitality shown him and his wife, "since we set foot on United States soil, and all through our stay in Canada. I admire both these great countries immensely, and another thing that strikes me as being exceptional is the provision made in both of them for education."

Mr. and Mrs. Moffatt leave on Saturday or Sunday for Ottawa, on their way to Montreal, to sail for England on the 28th of this month. They will probably stay in England for the future, but this depends on their son in Capetown and his wishes. "After forty years in Africa, we have many connections there that are hard to break," said Mr. Moffatt, who referred to the fear of himself and his wife last year that they could not stand the climate of England, after Africa, "that land of eternal sunshine."

Duncan Committed for Trial on Murder Charge

CITIZENS PAY LAST RESPECTS TO THREE PROMINENT RESIDENTS

Length of Corteges Show the High Respect Held For Deceased.

HELPED DEVELOP CITY.

Mr. Duncan and Mr. Lundy Spent Entire Life in This Community.

Three of this city's most widely known and respected citizens were laid to rest yesterday afternoon in Little Lake Cemetery in the persons of ex-Mayor George H. Duncan, Joshua D. Collins, and Douglas J. Lundy.

These old residents were landmarks in the city's history. The late Mr. Duncan and Mr. Lundy spent their entire life in this community, and Mr. Collins came here as a boy. They watched and helped Peterborough grow from a mere town to a thriving city. They all served the city but in different spheres. Mr. Duncan was alderman, mayor and utilities commissioner, and in all these offices he always had the interest of the people at heart. Mr. Collins was first a military man serving in the Fenian Raid, then he served as an alderman and for many years he was on the Central Charity Board, serving for a time as the vice chairman. Mr. Lundy, although he never sought municipal honors, he helped Peterborough grow by developing the estate that he was the head of.

Citizens from every walk of life attended the three funerals. The corteges were long and the homes were filled to capacity with many unable to gain admittance so as they might pay a final respect to those whom they had held in high respect and regarded as the city's leading men.

George H. Duncan

Hundreds of citizens paid their last tributes to ex-Mayor George H. Duncan at the home of the deceased on Hunter Street at 3.30 yesterday afternoon. The funeral cortege was one of the largest that ever followed a citizen of Peterborough to his last resting place on earth. Members of the city council and many ex-aldermen with whom he sat in the committee room of the council and in the council chamber were present. Citizens from every walk of life and representatives from the various organizations which the deceased belonged to paid their last respects to the departed. A short service was held in the house conducted by the Rev. J. H. Sutcliffe of Murray Street Baptist Church, where the deceased was an honored member. Two cars were required to carry the many floral tributes and wreaths to the cemetery.

The honorary pallbearers were: W. H. Bradburn, M.P.P.; C. Curtis, Dr. Morrison, George Stenton, Dr. Pentland and Fred Stenson, and the pall-bearers were P. Alexander, R. Denne, J. Graham, T. Hooper, G. Copping, and L. Dobbin.

Joshua D. Collins

The funeral of the late Joshua Durham Collins was held yesterday from his late residence, 194 McDonnel Street, to the Little Lake Cemetery.

Mr. Collins was born in Belfast, Ireland, in 1839, son of the late Robert Collins, Esq., M.D., and Elizabeth Collins. He came to Canada in 1857 and was married in 1871 to Anna Maria Hay, daughter of the late Thomas Hay, Esq., M.D., and Anna Hay.

Rev. William Allan of St. Paul's Presbyterian Church conducted the services at the house and graveside, while Dr. Blagrave of St. John's Church, read the lesson. The nine children were all present for the first time in a number of years and the sons, Charles, Robert, Alex., Fred and Durham, and George Greening, a son-in-law, acted as pall-bearers.

The following old friends of Mr. Collins, Messrs. E. H. D. Hall, Robert Fair, George Gladman, Evans Bradburn, David Moore, Col. J. W. Miller, and Dr. Charles Leeming, represented St. Paul's Church, Ketchecum Lake Hunt Club, Euclre Club, and the Veterans of '66 were honorary pallbearers.

D. J. Lundy

Douglas Joseph Lundy, businessman, financier and prominent citizen, was laid to rest yesterday afternoon in Little Lake Cemetery. The service commenced at 1.30 at the deceased's home, Burnham Street, and was conducted by the Rev. D. Paterson, Rector of All Saints' Anglican Church. Mr. Paterson, during the short service, spoke befittingly of the deceased as a citizen and a businessman.

The pallbearers were: A. Stevenson, R. G. Kingan, G. Gladman, E. A. Peck, M.P., and J. W. Fraser.

Citizens from all walks of life were present at the funeral, showing the high respect in which the deceased was held in the community.

VISITOR TELLS OF RUMANIA

Mme. Pantazzi, Canadian Living There, Addresses Women of City.

INTERESTING TALK.

Madame Pantazzi, a visitor from Roumania, who returned to her native land of Canada this year and is leaving for her foreign home again next week, was the speaker to the Women's Canadian Club at a meeting held in the auditorium of the Public Library yesterday afternoon. Madame Pantazzi, who was introduced by the president, Miss S. A. Tomkins, was born in Hamilton. She married a Roumanian naval officer and has spent much of her life in that country. She proved an interesting speaker, giving her hearers an outline of the work done in taking Canadian methods into some of the schools and hospitals of Roumania, in which work she takes an active part.

The difficulties met with in a foreign country whose people are inimical to methods other than their own, were outlined by the speaker, in connection with the Red Cross nursing work formerly carried on in the hospitals of Roumania. Princess Helene, wife of the former Crown Prince and mother of the little King Michael, takes much interest in this hospital and school work, and decided some years ago to build a training school for nurses, with Madame Pantazzi's co-operation. This was done, and the school, capable of accommodating twenty nurses, has now been doing training work for over a year. The methods employed, as described by the speaker, are largely along the lines followed out on this continent.

Madame Pantazzi is also especially interested in a hostel for foreign women managed in Bucharest, where 531 guests have been housed during the past year, these representing 21 different nations, and where 1,000 positions have been found for women.

Speaking of the recent visit to this continent of the Roumanian Queen Marie, Madame Pantazzi recorded some of her impressions, as learned from a lady-in-waiting. Although the Queen was delighted with the cordiality and hospitality shown her during her stay in the United States and Canada, she was more favorably impressed with the latter, where she found more of the spirit of loyalty to, and belief in, the tradition of royalty, and also more knowledge of the proper procedure to follow when meeting, or addressing, a sovereign. She was pleased with the action of the Canadian Press in delegating two or three people to follow her about and receive her impressions of the country, when she was not fatigued, and displeased with the contrary action in the United States, where "a mob of reporters" followed

Suspect Is Arrested Over Diamond Holdup

NEW YORK, Oct. 22 (Canadian Press).—Charged with being implicated in the $71,000 diamond holdup in the store of D. Shapiro, 429 Ste Catherine Street, Montreal, on August 6 last, a man describing himself as Samuel Jackson, salesman, of New York, was arrested here last night.

Taken into custody by detectives at Broadway and Ninety-Sixth Street, Jackson would not talk when taken to the police station.

The prisoner is alleged to be the man described in a circular issued by the Montreal Police as one of the party of five who, armed with revolvers, held up the Shapiro store early in the morning and escaped with cut and uncut diamonds valued at $71,000. The prisoner and three other men and one woman are said to have staged the affair.

DR. C. W. ROSE ACCEPTS CALL IN NOVA SCOTIA

Former Pastor of Murray Street Located in Native Province.

REV. DR. C. W. ROSE.

Kentville in the land of Evangeline. Dr. Rose at first took charge of the church for a temporary pastorate of six months, but on the expiry of that period, he found his health so much improved that he acceded to the request of the congregation to remain and has been duly installed as the regular pastor of the church. Dr. Rose still takes a keen interest in Baptist affairs in Ontario in general and Peterborough in particular, and has followed very closely the sequence of events that has led to a definite cleavage in the Convention of Ontario and Quebec.

In a letter which appeared in the Canadian Bapist of last week, Dr. Rose says:

"We are getting adjusted and hoping to find evidences of Divine guidance in our coming. The change has worked most helpfully for me physically. I have a wonderful opportunity for pastoral work, for we have the sanatorium here with nearly 300 patients, young men and young women, with only a few exceptions."

HAS HOME IN TREE.

MONTESANO, Wash., Oct. 22. — The old woman who lived in a shoe has nothing on E. A. Wade. He has built himself a home in a tree. A great log that was cut and hollowed out in a lumber camp near here has been made into a home about the size of a Pullman drawing room.

All Records Broken For Grain Weighed In

WINNIPEG, Man., Oct. 22. — (Canadian Press).—Breaking all previous records, a total of 4,356,000 bushels of grain was weighed into the elevators of the Canadian Pacific Railways Thursday, a million more than the amount weighed in Wednesday. The previous record was made in 1925 when 3,559,000 bushels was hauled to elevators on November 20.

Threshing is on in full swing throughout Western Canada, and it is probable that to-day will see a new high mark reached.

Although new records have not been made in car loadings so far, the figure is creeping closer with 1,860 cars loaded on the company's lines Thursday, as against 2,162, the high record established on October 16, 1915.

JUDGE URGES FIGHT AGAINST INTOLERANCE

Canada Can't Be a Great Nation Otherwise, He Tells Kiwanians.

LADIES' NIGHT HELD.

Presentation Made and Reports Given on Recent Produced-in-Canada Exhibition.

"Canada will never be a great Canada until this spirit of intolerance is wiped out. It would be a splendid thing if, right here in Peterborough, your club and the Rotary club or any other club could get together and send down for one of these scholarly Frenchmen to come up here and tell you just how the Quebec people feel towards you. He would probably tell you in faultless English and with a charming manner, and then, if you believe in reciprocity, you could get one of your men here to go down to Montreal and speak to them in French, as they spoke to you in English. But I think you would find it easier to get one of their men to speak to you in English than to get one of your own to address them in French. The Quebec people don't think of us so much as a helpful big sister, as of an arrogant, overbearing big brother with a stick. And, although I may be wrong, I am inclined to think that intolerance is manifested more in religion and politics than in other ways."

The above words formed some of the concluding sentences of a very fine address delivered to the Kiwanis Club last night by His Honor Judge Huycke, speaking to them at the Empress Hotel on the occasion of their first Ladies' Night of the season.

Members of the Bar Association of Peterborough were guests of the Club last evening, along with their wives, and several out of town people were present also. Eighty-eight covers were laid at the banquet, served in the usual very satisfying style of the Empress Hotel, which preceded the evening's programme of speeches and the dance and bridge party which followed, breaking up at midnight. President Isaac McNabb occupied the chair, Mark Bredin acted as sergeant-at-arms, and community singing was led by Herbert McCannan, with E. Haddow at the piano. The tables were decorated with flowers and Hallowe'en novelties in black and orange, paper caps in the same colors forming the headgear of the guests.

At the conclusion of the banquet, J. R. Marshall rose to present Dr. and Mrs. J. J. Craig with a handsome tambour clock, the gift of the Club in recognition of the splendid services given by Dr. Craig and his wife, when presiding over the fortunes of the club last year, the former's untiring efforts with regard to the recent celebration of Confederation in the city, and the success which attended his recent endeavors in making the Produced-in-Canada Exhibition a notable event in the life of the community. Mr. Marshall's address concluded with the singing by the audience in unison of "For He's a Jolly Good Fellow," while they sang "See Her Smiling" for Mrs. Craig.

Dr. Craig, in a brief, appropriate acknowledgment, spoke of his pleasure in working for the Club.

A. J. Reynolds was in charge of the stunt which followed, and which consisted of a short, humorously-worded speech extolling the virtues of Kiwanian Joseph Wearing, and the presentation to the latter of a unique gift, acknowledged in a style characteristic of Mr. Wearing, both speeches bringing forth much applause and laughter from the audience.

President McNabb spoke of the Club's appreciation of the attendance last evening of members of the local Bar Association, and B. D. Hall, president of the Association, responded for himself and fellow guests, remarking on the aptness of the Kiwanis Club's motto, "We Build," and on the spirit of comradeship and good fellowship which characterizes their meetings and endeavors.

Kiwanian Jack McNabb was booster for the evening, and explained his business in a two-minute speech. Prizes given by Mr. McNabb were won by Mrs. W. E. Taylor, Mrs. Charles D. Cook and Mrs. B. D. Hall.

Cup Presented.

Secretary J. R. Heron explained the presentation of the silver cup which was awarded the local Club this year at the annual meeting, when Peterborough Kiwanis Club won the silver trophy presented yearly to the club doing the most efficient work in its community. For the term for which this cup was presented, Dr J. J. Craig and I. P. McNabb were presidents in turn. Mr. Heron's speech, of a humorous type, was brief. He ended with the reading of the inscription on the cup: "To realize that I live, not for myself, but for others," and presented the trophy to the president and past president.

LOWER COAL RATE SOUGHT BY FERGUSON

Urge Upon Government Reconsideration of Findings of Railway Board.

ARRIVES FROM WEST.

Says Mistake in Figures Upon Which Board Founded Their Rate.

TORONTO, Oct. 22.— Conference of Provincial Premiers and Cabinet Ministers which is to convene shortly at Ottawa for the annual discussion of problems relating to uniform taxation laws and other problems, will urge upon the Federal Government reconsideration of the findings of the Dominion Railway Board in the application of provinces for a lower rate for Alberta coal coming east.

This statement was made by Premier Ferguson upon arrival in Toronto yesterday morning from Winnipeg. He arrived at the Union Station in his private car the "Timagami" on the 8.15 C.P.R. He was met by Attorney General Price, with whom he had a conference on the private car before leaving the station.

Mr. Ferguson is spending the morning at his home in going over an accumulation of work which has piled up during his absence in the west at the Tory convention and his subsequent trip to Edmonton. After consultation with the heads of the Alberta Government it was decided to press for further action when provincial Government leaders go to Ottawa.

Mistake in Figures.

"There was a mistake of some 47 cents per ton in the figures upon which the Railway Board founded their rate. It arose through an underestimate of the number of tons of coal carried in the average car. The board used a divisor of 32 tons, while 36 tons is the normal load per car. The cars used in making special and experimental shipments from Alberta to Ontario were loaded at 32 tons to facilitate delivery to the various communities in Ontario requiring this fuel. It would be unfair to make an estimate of cost for general purposes on this basis."

Mr. Ferguson said he had gone over these figures in Edmonton. He had not seen the denial made by Chairman McKeown of the Railway Board.

A passenger on the same train was Hugh Blain aged 70, who, 45 years ago taught the future Premier at Kemptville school. Mr. Blain says Mr. Ferguson acted right in his encounter with Mr. Meighen.

W.M.S. SECTION RALLY IS HELD

Ladies From Part of Cobourg Presbytery Gather at Bailieboro.

ENCOURAGING REPORTS.

NORHAM, Oct. 22.—The sectional meeting of the Cobourg Presbyterial of the Women's Missionary Society of the United Church was held at Hastings on Thursday afternoon October 20th.

Mrs. W. H. Ashton presided. Mrs. D. R. Clare of Norham was appointed secretary.

Mrs. S. L. Terrill of Wooler, third vice-president of the Cobourg Presbyterial, and Miss Ketcheson of Belleville, returned missionary from China, were introduced to the ladies.

After the singing of a hymn, Rev. W. W. Jones of Warkworth led in prayer.

Words of welcome were given to those present by Mrs. Metcalfe, president of Hastings Auxiliary. She expressed her regret that on account of change of boundaries, Hastings would be in another Presbyterial next year, but there was always work to be done.

The reports of auxiliaries, circles, and bands followed, and Campbellford, Dartford, Hastings, Hoard's, Seymour United, Warkworth and Norham gave reports from their various organizations of the work of the past eighteen months.

Mrs. Terrill of Wooler spoke of her appreciation of Mrs. Ashton's work in planning for the rally of the day.

She said the new text book spoke of the missionary movement as a living thing.

The Women's Missionary Society shows the vitality of the church; gives woman a place to work; it is world-wide in its work; it is educational; it is a social factor in the church; it is an inspiration by giving the opportunity of helping others.

Mrs. Kingston of Campbellford gave a very instructive paper on "The Relation of the Home to the Mission Band." The work of the church is to extend God's kingdom throughout the world. Every Christian home should be a missionary home. The home should have an atmosphere that

CECIL BEGINS SPEAKING TOUR

Will Deliver Several Addresses in Interest of Disarmament.

PEACE IMPOSSIBLE.

LONDON, Oct. 22.—(Canadian Press)—Viscount Cecil, who recently resigned from the Baldwin Cabinet in disagreement with its disarmament policy, today launched a personal speaking campaign in the cause of disarmament, making the first of half a dozen addresses he will deliver before Christmas. Speaking at a special meeting of the British League of Nations Union he declared that the object of his resignation from the Cabinet was to have greater freedom to press upon his fellow countrymen the urgency of disarmament, without which, he said, there could be no hope of enduring peace in Europe.

FORMER BRANTFORD POLICEMAN SOBS AS DEATH STORY RECALLED

Accused on Witness Stand Breaks Down, Had to be Given Witness Chair.

SUSPICIOUS CASE.

Doctor Tells Court Carbolic Acid Cause of Wife's Death.

BRANTFORD, Ont., Oct. 22. — George Duncan, accused of the murder of his twenty-six year old wife, Margaret Brash Duncan, while driving from Toronto to Brantford in his car on Sept. 28th last, was put in the witness box by his counsel, Louis F Heyd, K.C., yesterday. On two previous occasions, at the inquest on the dead woman, his counsel refused to let him take the witness stand, when the Crown wanted to examine him for the reason that the Crown refused to grant him protection. At that time no criminal charge had been laid against Duncan, but after the last night of the inquest, the provincial police laid the murder charge.

After hearing the evidence Magistrate Blake committed Duncan for trial.

Death Due To Poisoning.

Dr. W. G. Dedman was the first witness called yesterday afternoon. He told of making the autopsy on the dead woman. He declared that the death was due to carbolic acid poisoning. He found some scratches on the woman's body about the groin.

"None of these superficial bruises are of a serious character?" asked Mr. Heyd.—"No."

"Can you tell me how carbolic acid could be given to a person?"—"It might be given as a drink by mistake. It could be given in water or ginger ale."

"Would there be any smell?"—"The odor would be there."

"Could it be given against a person's will?"—"By force."

"Knocking into insensibility?"

Duncan On Stand.

George Duncan was then called and warned by the magistrate that what he said might be used against him.

"I appreciate that very much," said accused.

"I presume you have warned him Mr. Heyd, and now I have done so," said his Worship.

"I think you have done perfectly right," said Mr. Heyd.

Duncan stated he had courted his wife two years before he married her on March 5th, 1927.

"Did she ever expect to get anything?" asked Mr. Heyd.

"Nothing, except what she might inherit from her father."

Only One Quarrel.

Witness told of his home, and how he had spent $3,000 in furnishing. Only once in their married life did they have a quarrel.

"What was that?" asked Mr. Heyd.

Witness told of an intoxicated friend visiting them, and next morning wanting to send out for more liquor. His wife got "mad" then.

"She objected to turning her home into a home for drunks?" asked Mr Heyd.—"Yes."

Duncan then started telling of the trip that ended fatally. He went to Oakville first and after stopping there, he went on to Hamilton. Witness told then of going into a store in Hamilton to see about a speaking machine.

Accused Broke Down.

Here Duncan broke down, couldn't go along with his evidence for a while.

"I told her she had been my best pal and we had always been happy together," continued Duncan. He told of his prospects of going to Akron Ohio and she did not want him to leave her.

"She got out of the car. When she was getting back she collapsed on the mudguard. I got her into the car and she said she was sick and to drive as fast as I could. 'I'm sick!' she said. I drove as fast as I could and as fast as the car could go."

"George, I'm Dying."

"She suddenly threw her head in my lap and said 'George, I'm dying.'"

Here Duncan's voice broke and the tears poured down his face. He asked to sit down and when he continued his voice broke frequently.

"She shuddered, and there was a gurgle in her throat. I hollered and shook her. I pressed my mouth to hers and blew my breath down her throat. I did my best to try and revive her," said he.

"When did you realize she was dead?"

"When we got to the Cockshutt road."

Witness told of going to his sister's, and how his wife slipped off the seat. He told of taking her to the doctor's.

"I remember he asked me if she took fits, and I said she didn't," said he.

"I then took the body to the undertaker's and later telephoned the people at Plattsville."

He also telephoned to Oakville about his wife "suddenly dropping dead."

Did not Buy Acid.

Duncan drove to Plattsville and

LADIES TOLD OF WAR MEMORIAL

Rev. J. D. Paterson Describes Great Scottish National Monument.

WAS AT UNVEILING.

The first regular meeting of the season of the Women's Music Club was held in the studios at the Conservatory of Music yesterday afternoon, with a very large attendance of members. An exceptionally good program was offered, with a wonderfully fine address given by Rev. J. D. Paterson, rector of All Saints' church, speaking on the Scottish War Memorial dedicated this year in Edinburgh, and a musical program of song, with selections by Mrs. G F. Liddle, contralto, Mr. Douglas Carlisle, baritone, and Mr. Maurice H. Park, tenor. Accompaniments were played by Mrs. W. A. Logan.

In outstanding fashion, with an easy, fluent delivery, eloquent speech and a sincerity that showed the depth of feeling engendered in the speaker by his presence on the occasion, Rev. J D. Paterson described in detail the dedication in July of last year, during his stay in Edinburgh, of the National Scotch War Memorial designed to do honor to the hundred thousand of Scotia's sons who fell in the Great War, "a percentage," declared the speaker, "higher than that of any other participating nation, except Serbia."

Scotland's War, said Rev. Mr. Paterson, going on to describe it very fully, had three national characteristics: It was early planned, it was worked deliberately, and it had an unhurried carrying out. It was built at a cost of £117,000, solely by contribution from the people of Scotland, with contrasting gifts in the donation of £500 from a wealthy landowner and the half crown sent by a tinker now living in France.

On top of Castle Rock in Edinburgh the Memorial stands, on the north side of Crown Square, its foundation stones of an ancient chapel, its base of the coarse, crude living rock whose jagged peaks remain unsoftened and untouched. Of a cruciform shape, great circular steps lead to a terrace of stone on which gifts are deposited, these being barred from the shrine proper. Of Norman architecture, symbolism is the keynote of the whole, a low door with majestic decorations striking the leit motif. Here the "Survival of the Spirit" is symbolized in a phoenix rising triumphant from the ashes, and the crown of Scotland surmounting the thistle, with the inscription, "To the glory of God, in memory of Scots who fell, 1914-1918."

Through the door, one goes to the Halls of Honor, to left and right, and before one is an archway with wrought-iron gates, always open, that leads to the Shrine. Here is a granite floor of Hebridean origin, broken up by the jagged peaks of the rock beneath, and a marble slab is fastened to the rock, with a casket, the gift of the King and Queen, on top, bearing the figures of Margaret, Queen of Scotland, and St. Andrew. Four angels, placed some distance away, look with uplifted heads towards the Shrine, and seven windows of true stained glass carry out the symbolical atmosphere.

In the Hall of Honor are the "bays," where, on tables of stone,

UNITED STATES COMPLETE NEW TARIFF REPLY

Announcements Made Towards Meeting French Complaint Against Agricultural Quarantine.

HOPE EARLY SETTLEMENT.

Not Mandatory To Send Commission Investigators Into Competing Countries.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22.— (Canadian Press.)—With the United States reply to the last French tariff note virtually completed, announcements were made here yesterday which were regarded as meeting the French complaint against the United States' agricultural quarantine and the activities of tariff commission investigations in foreign countries.

At the White House it was announced that Attorney General Sargent had ruled that under the law it was not mandatory to send tariff commission investigators into competing countries to determine costs of production of goods exported to this country. Argentine recently protested against such a move and France in its note of Sept. 30 objected to investigations into production costs in that country.

The other announcement made by the state department dealt with a working arrangement with the department of agriculture with regard to agriculture quarantines which also were mentioned in the French note.

In effect the new arrangement creates machinery for joint centre by the two departments of future quarantines on imported agricultural products. The French note of Sept. 30, complained that these "sanitary or phyto-pathological restrictions were often "completely fatal to agricultural exports from France."

Go Forward To-day.

The new United States tariff note will go forward either to-day or early next week. Its contents have not been disclosed. It is believed, however, to be highly conciliatory in tone. The agreement with the department of agriculture is construed in some quarters as evidence of this attitude and that Washington officials are hopeful of an early beginning of commercial treaty negotiations with France to put an end to alleged tariff discriminations against the United States.

The last French note was viewed at the state department as unsatisfactory when it was first examined because of conditional stipulations presumably in connection with a formula under which treaty negotiations could proceed. There are now indications, however, that while Washington officials still are uncertain as to the significance of some parts of the French communication they are reasonably sure that its conditional provisions were not intended to preclude treaty negotiations except upon the basis of advance assurances of United States action in the way of lowered duties.

Costly Jewel Claimed By Lachine Resident

MONTREAL, Que., October 22 (Canadian Press).—The diamond-studded bracelet, valued by the owner at $1,600, which was found several days ago by a youngster in the uptown district of this city, who, not knowing its value, offered the gem for sale to a jeweller for $2.50, and which was subsequently placed in the hands of the detective headquarters for safe keeping, was claimed yesterday by W. P. Little of Lachine, Montreal suburbs. After proving his ownership to the satisfaction of the authorities, the costly ornament was handed over to Mr. Little.

HAMILTON, Ont., Oct. 22.—(Canadian Press.) — Edward Clarke, of Toronto, whose motor car ploughed through a group of school children on Thursday, injuring six, was charged in the police court with driving while intoxicated. He was remanded for a week on ten thousand dollars bail.

NEXT MEETING NOVEMBER 29

Date Announced For League of Nations Disarmament Commission Conference.

WILL FORM COMMITTEE.

GENEVA, Oct. 22 (Canadian Press).—The next meeting of the League of Nations Disarmament Conference Preparatory Commission probably will be convoked November 29, officials announced last night.

The programme, however, will be restricted to the designation of a special committee to study the general problem of security in relation to disarmament, according to the announcement.

Present plans are that the security committee will meet in January and the general disarmament committee in April for a second reading of the draft of the treaty on disarmament. It is expected that at the January gathering delegates of the Great Powers will endeavor to reach an agreement on the outstanding differences in regard to naval and army questions, and hope is entertained that the first general disarmament conference may be convoked in 1929.

Counsels Clash During Paris Trial For Assassin of General Simon Petlura

PARIS, Oct. 22 (Canadian Press).—A free-for-all fight with Henri Torres, attorney for the defence, and Cesare Campinghi, representing the Petlura family, leading opposing factions, yesterday nearly broke up the trial of Samuel Schwartzbard for the murder of General Simon Petlura.

Torres accused Campinghi of suppressing parts of a document which he read to the jury in an attempt to prove that the prosecution's star witness, Alexandra Shulguin was friendly to the French. Campinghi, reaching into his hip pocket, pulled forth the document and began re-reading it to the jury, Torres following him to face the jury box.

"Don't accuse me of suppressing evidence, Torres," shouted Campinghi, omitting the formality of calling his colleague "Maitre" which is the French term of respect given to lawyers.

"Don't force me to place in evidence your personal pedigree," Torres roared.

Judge Flory suspended the sitting amidst the most intense turmoil. A few fist-fights developed in the lobbies with the police acting as referees and the Jews and anti-Semitics faring about equally in casualties. There were a few black eyes and split lips, but no serious injuries.

The outbreak came after the emotional tension dominating participants and spectators had soared close to the level of hysteria with the self-styled avenger of the Jewish race faced Shulguin and heard his declaration that he shared any responsibility Petlura might had had in Jewish pogroms in the Ukraine. Shulguin, who is now Professor of History at the University of Prague, denied there was any such responsibility. He asserted that massacres of the Jews were committed by Bolshevik and Ukrainian irregulars over whom the government had no control.

CHANNEL SWIM.

Taken From Water on Advice of Physicians After Eleven Hours.

FOLKESTONE, England, Oct. 22 (Canadian Press).—A desperate and gallant attempt to vindicate the claims of British women swimmers failed heroically yesterday, when Miss Mercedes Gleitz, London typist, who once before had conquered the English Channel, was dragged from the chilling waters half unconscious but protesting against surrender.

After swimming for nearly eleven hours, the young woman was taken on the convoying tug by the advice of physicians. She had started from Cape Gris Nez, France, and was within eight miles of the cliffs of Dover. She seemed as though asleep then, but returned here after a brief rest.

"I won't cry over my failure," she said, half smiling through a semblance of tears, "although I am terribly disappointed and I will try again next year."

At 4.15 in the morning, Miss Gleitz dived off from Griz Nez and ploughed through wind and roughened waters scarcely above 50 degrees. She was accompanied by a jazz band and a group of newspaper reporters, who shivered under heavy wraps as the girl battled the tricky currents and icy tides.

Exhausted from Cold

Good progress was made for several hours, but toward noon the trainer and the two doctors aboard the tug saw that the girl was near exhaustion from the cold. The end came in sight of the Kentish coast, about eight miles off.

After reaching her hotel, Miss Gleitz said:

"I was not a bit fatigued, but I suppose my pilot knew what he was doing. I was terribly sleepy and felt that I could have gone to sleep there in the waves and thoroughly enjoyed it. I suppose I would have dropped off if I had been left any longer."

The deep interest which Miss Gleitz's attempt stirred up among the public was evidenced by the great crowd which gathered to cheer.

Miss Gleitz was attempting to repeat her Channel swim of October 7, as a gesture of "vindication," declaring that after the hoax perpetrated by Dr. Dorothy Cochrane Logan something must be done to restore the prestige which Dr. Logan's criticisms have impaired."

PLOWMEN INVITE ALL TO COMPETE

Match of Cavan-South Monaghan Association Open To Province.

MILLBROOK, Oct. 22.—The Cavan and South Monaghan Plowmen's Association, which holds its annual plowing-match on Wednesday, October 26, at F. Gibson's farm, is especially inviting the members of the Peterborough and Victoria County Associations to be present at the match and compete in the various events. A good prize list is being offered; competition is open to the province. The boys' classes receive particular attention, the officials being desirous of bringing along a good class of plowmen in the townships who will be able to compete successfully, not only at the local match but at those of neighboring counties or townships as well, and in time to take their places in the provincial and interprovincial competitions.

LAWYERS BLOCK DEFENCE COUNSEL

Hope to Force Fall or Sinclair to Take the Witness Stand.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22 (Canadian Press).—Slowly but persistently special government oil counsel are weaving the web which they hope will force Albert B. Fall, or Harry F. Sinclair, or both, to take the witness stand in the oil conspiracy trial in the District of Columbia Supreme Court.

Their plan of campaign began to develop clearly yesterday as they again blocked defence counsel in their repeated efforts to explain away or weaken the government's case by carrying prosecution witness cross examination far beyond the field opened up by direct questioning.

The lawyers for the former interior secretary and the wealthy oil operator became most persistent in cross examining K. C. Heald, a former government geologist, about a report he made to Fall in November, 1921, that there was no immediate danger of extensive drainage of Teapot Dome.

In offering Heald's written report to Fall, government counsel stipulated that it was not offered as an accurate presentation of facts, but merely to show that such a report was made to Fall, who has contended that the danger of drainage was the impelling cause of the lease of Teapot Dome to Sinclair.

Move Attack

Martin W. Littleton of New York City, on behalf of Sinclair, moved to the attack yesterday for the defence in place of George P. Hoover, who carried the brunt of the bitter fighting on Thursday, but he had only little more success than his colleague. Opposing him stood Owen J. Roberts, of Philadelphia, who is conducting the government's case with former Senator Atlee Pomerene of Ohio.

Littleton sought to show that Health made an erroneous report and that this was the reason Fall did not rely upon it. Roberts objected and was sustained by Justice Siddons time after time, in a proceeding which Roberts finally told the court that it was important for the government to show only that such a report was made and that it was for Fall to explain why he did not act upon it. With that view, Justice Siddons agreed.

Having won this skirmish, one they regarded as highly important, government counsel next turned to an effort to get before the jury evidence which Sinclair gave before the senate oil committee nearly four years ago. Defence counsel interposed vigorous objection. The question was argued for two hours and Justice Siddons took it under advisement before adjourning court until Monday.

Ford Offers to Buy Winning Flivver In Road Race Being Staged By Collegians

DES MOINES, Iowa, October 22 (United Press). — The Collegiate Ford ,which has become as much a part of higher education as balloon trousers and new thought, has obtained official recognition from its inventor.

It was announced yesterday that Henry Ford had telegraphed Fred L. Turby, auditor of Drake University,, to obtain options on all of the antique vehicles entered in the Des Moines to Grinnell road race to be held on Saturday morning. The winner of the race, Ford stated, will be purchased from the student owner, and given a place of honour in the automobile manufacturer's museum.

Twenty-two of the battered machines will be escorted to the city limits by police on Saturday morning, and will then be dismissed, without regrets. They will be permitted to travel to Grinnell, Iowa, as fast as their wheezy motors will permit. The cars are estimated to be worth $25.00 to $50.00 each when in running order. The price Ford will pay was not stated.

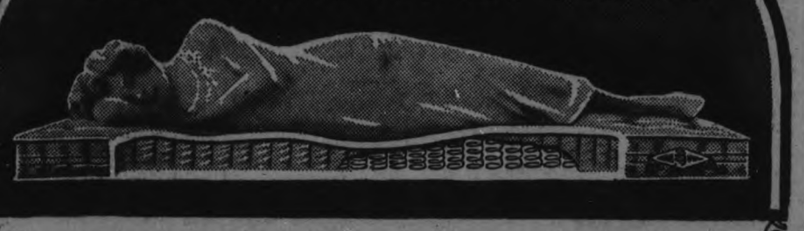
GREEN IGNORANT OF GENERAL STRIKE

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 22 (Canadian Press). — President William Green of the American Federation of Labor said today he was ignorant of the Toronto Carpenters' strike situation and does not know of any action being contemplated by the American Federation.

Toronto reports are that the Federation may call a general strike in Toronto in sympathy.

UNUSUAL Sleeping Comfort BECAUSE it fits the curves



Thousands never knew such sleeping comfort ever existed

Ask any Marshall owner what he or she thinks of the Marshall Spring Mattress. You'll probably be surprised at the heartiness with which this wonderful mattress is praised. But confirm their enthusiasm by asking others, and soon you'll believe there must be something unusual about a mattress which brings forth such enthusiastic replies as:

"I never thought a mattress could make such a difference."

"I wouldn't sell mine for five times what I paid for it if I couldn't get another."

The Marshall Spring Mattress is as different from the ordinary stuffed mattress as the old-fashioned broom is from the vacuum cleaner. The inner spring construction of the Marshall properly supports the body in its true and natural position.

The actual photograph above reveals the secret. Notice how the inner spring construction of the Marshall Mattress conforms to every curve of the figure. The body is not distorted, cramped or sagging as when sleeping on the ordinary hard, unyielding mattress—or unhealthfully smothered as in too soft a mattress.

You'll always be proud of the smart, neat appearance the Marshall gives to your bed. It will not sag, spread or pack, but always supports the covers evenly and smoothly.

A mattress that will give many years of extra service, produce better and more healthful sleeping comfort through a definite scientific construction is naturally worth a few extra dollars. When others are replacing their ordinary mattresses your Marshall will still be as good as new.

Present Marshall owners know that though their mattresses cost a little more at first—it is actually the cheaper mattress over a period of years, and the soundest investment they ever made in really restful and healthful sleeping comfort.

Examine this greatest of all mattresses today at your furniture store. Made in five grades from $25.00 up—all Marshall Spring Mattresses are guaranteed for FIVE YEARS.

MUSINGS AT A MANSE WINDOW

IN MY GARDEN I SPEND MY DAYS: in my library I spend my nights. My interests are divided between my geraniums and my books. With the flower I am in the present; with the book I am in the past. I go into my library, and all history unrolls before me. I breathe the morning air of the world while the scent of Eden's roses yet lingered in it, while it vibrated only to the world's first brood of nightingales, and to the laugh of Eve. I see the Pyramids building: I hear the shoutings of the armies of Alexander: I feel the ground shake beneath the march of Cambyses. I sit as in a theatre—the stage is time, the play is the play of the world. What a spectacle it is! What kingly pomp, what processions file past, what cities burn to heaven, what crowds of captives are dragged at the chariot-wheels of conquerors! I hiss, or cry "Bravo," when the great actors come on the shaking stage.

WHAT DO YOU SEE?

I am a Roman emperor when I look at a Roman coin. I lift Homer, and I shout with Achilles in the trenches. The silence of the unpeopled Syrian plains, the out-comings and in-goings of the patriarchs, Abraham and Ishmael, Isaac in the fields at eventide, Rebekah at the well, Jacob's guile, Esau's face reddened with desert sun-heat, Joseph's splendid funeral procession—all these things I find within the boards of my Old Testament.

What a silence in those old books as of a half-peopled world; what bleating of flocks; what green pastoral rest; what indubitable human existence! Across bawling centuries of blood and war I hear the bleating of Abraham's flocks, the tinkling of the bells of Rebekah's camels.

O men and women, so far separated yet so near, so strange yet so well known, by what miraculous power do I know ye all!

THE TRUE ELYSIAN FIELDS.

Books are the true Elysian fields, where the spirits of the dead converse; and into these fields a mortal may venture unappaled. What king's court can boast such company? What school of philosophy such wisdom? The wit of the ancient world is glancing and flashing there. There is Pan's pipe, there are the songs of Apollo.

Seated in my library at night, and looking on the silent faces of my books, I am occasionally visited by a strange sense of the super-natural. They are not collections of printed pages, they are ghosts.

I take one down, and it speaks with me in a tongue not now heard on earth, and of men and things of which it alone possesses knowledge. I call myself solitary, but sometimes I think I mis-apply the term. No man sees more company than I do. I travel with mightier cohorts around me than ever did Timour or Genhis Khan on their fiery marches. I am a sovereign in my library, but it is the dead, not the living, that attend my levees.

WHO IS RESPONSIBLE?

I wish that I had had the honor of first writing these lines—every sentence of which strikes a responsive chord within my soul. But the only credit I deserve is for bringing them, through the medium of these musings, to the attention of some who otherwise might never have known them

If you, my reader, have never read "Dreamthorp" you have a rare treat in store. It was written by a man with a very ordinary name. He was known among his friends as Alexander Smith. But "Dreamthorp" is an extraordinary book as you will discover if you ever get to know it. What stands at the forefront of my musings this week is a sample of what you may find running all through this literary gem.

I should be greatly interested to learn that some of my readers already know "Dreamthorp."

BOOKS DELIGHT US.

Richard De Bury says that books delight us when prosperity emiles upon us; they comfort us inseparably when stormy fortune frowns upon us. They lend validity to human compacts, and no serious judgments are propounded without their help. Arts and sciences, all the advantages of which no mind can enumerate, consist in books. How highly must we estimate the wondrous power of books, since through them we survey the utmost bounds of the world and time, and contemplate the things that are as well as those that are not, as it were in the mirror of eternity.

In books we climb mountains and scan the deepest gulfs of the abyss; in books we behold the many tribes that may not exist outside their native waters, distinguish the properities of streams and springs and of various lands; from books we dig out gems and metals and the materials of every kind of mineral, and learn the virtues of herbs and trees and plants, and survey at will the whole progeny of Neptune, Ceres and Pluto.

Why need we say more? Certes, just as we have learnt on the authority of Seneca, leisure without letters is death and the sepulture of the living, so contrariwise we conclude that occupation with letters or books is the life of man.

BOOKS AS TEACHERS.

This same writer, in "The Love of Books," says that we should consider what pleasantness of teaching there is in books, how easy, how secret! How safely we lay bare the poverty of human ignorance to books without feeling any shame. They are masters who instruct us without rod or ferule, without angry words, without clothes or money. If you come to them they are not asleep; if you ask and inquire of them they do not withdraw themselves; they do not chide if you make mistakes; they do not laugh at you if you are ignorant. O books, who alone are liberal and free, who give to all who ask of you and enfranchise all who serve you faithfully, by how many thousand types are ye commended to learned men in the Scriptures given us by the inspiration of God! For ye are the minds of profoundest wisdom, to which the wise man sends his son that he may dig out treasures. (Prov. 2).

BOOKS AS EARS OF CORN.

Ye are the wells of living-waters, which father Abraham first digged, Isaac digged again, and which the Philistines strive to fill up. (Gen. 24).

Ye are indeed the most delightful ears of corn, full of grain, to be rubbed only by apostolic hands, that the sweetest food may be produced for hungry souls. (Matt. 12).

Ye are the golden pots in which manna is stored, and rocks flowing with honey, nap, combs of honey, most plenteous udders of the milk of life, garners ever full; ye are the tree of life and the fourfold river of Paradise, by which the human mind is nourished, and the thirsty intellect is watered and refreshed.

Ye are the ark of Noah and the ladder of Jacob, and the troughs by which the young of those who look therein are colored; ye are the stones of testimony and the pitchers holding the lamps of Gideon, the scrip of David, from which the smoothest stones are taken for the slaying of Goliath.

Ye are the golden vessels of the temple, the arms of the soldiers of the church with which to quench all the fiery darts of the wicked, fruitful olives, vines of Engadi, fig-trees that are never barren, burning lamps always to be held in readiness—and all the noblest comparisons of Scripture may be applied to books, if we choose to speak in figures.

For a little while, at least, this week I have been in the best of good company. With them I have traveled back across the centuries, visited lands far afield, listened to strange tongues and forgotten the petty ways of the present while watching the parade of the immortals.

"The dust, smoke and noise of modern literature have nothing in common with the pure, silent air of immortality."

—Allan Fairbairn.

The pleasantest things in the world are pleasant thoughts, and the great art in life is to have as many of them as possible.

—Bovine.

A Book And a Mirror

THE BIBLE is a mirror of life—not the life of one period but of all periods. The Bible sets forth a gospel that gets under the skin and burns. Most people are not looking for that kind of a gospel. They want a talcum-powder, violet-scented, lady-like proposition. And the pity is that they can find plenty of preachers who will pass out the gospel done up in tissue paper and pink ribbons. It is the business of every real preacher to talk about sin as it is—not put a stained glass window before it.

Churches And Churchmen

ONE of the most distinguished of British Congregational ministers is about to make a three months' tour in the United States—from October to December—Rev. Arthur Pringle, who was chairman of the Congregational Union of England and Wales, 1924-5, and who has been minister of the Congregational Church at Purley, near London, for twenty-three years. This church is one of the strongest and most notable in English Congregationalism. The membership has grown from seventy, meeting in a corrugated iron building, to about 550. The handsome edifice has been enlarged from time to time, and now seats about 800. The church is widely known for its distinctly modern and liberal view of religion, and a large proportion of the congregation comes a long distance and represents various denominations. Mr. Pringle deprecates any suggestion that he has done anything remarkable in having established so strong a congregation in a place like Purley. But the achievement is there to see: a congregation which practically fills the church at the two services every Sunday, drawn together not by a man with the gift of magical oratory, but by one who preaches sincerely and simply a broad and liberal gospel, leading his people year by year into a wider knowledge of the truth.

The Secret of His Influence.

Such a church as Mr. Pringle has built up during the last twenty-three years could not, of course, have become so strong in numbers and so prosperous in every department by preaching power alone, and even his pastoral visitations, occupying four days a week, do not reveal the full secret of his influence. The real explanation is to be found in the character of the church services. There is a dignity and quietness about them which makes Purley Congregational Church a place of real worship. One becomes conscious of the invisible altar at which God meets men and the ascending incense of prayer and faith, with all the serenity of spirit born of such an atmosphere.

The spirit in which Mr. Pringle carries on his ministry is indicated by a quotation from R. W. Dale prefixed to the manual of the church—"There is no assembly in the world so wonderful and so august as a congregation that has met to worship God." His most characteristic intellectual quality is a sublimated common sense. He moves among realities, knowing that it sometimes calls for a finer courage to take things as they are and make the best of them than to devote oneself to the propaganda of the most heroic ideals which other people have the task of putting into practice.

Everything is a Sacrament.

He teaches that the common experiences of life are sacramental, that every day is a holy day, and that there is a soul of goodness even in things evil and a soul of truth in some things that are more or less false. His ministry is modern and virile, making a powerful appeal to ordinary men and women. He humanizes the Bible records, fusing their experiences into the circumstances of today and converting past events into living and universal symbols. Religion, he might say with Henry Drummond, is not a thing of the stars but of the streets; its work lies there, and its truth is tested and proved by the actual experiment of living it. He does not preach as though he had before him a congregation of exceptional sinners. He treats his people with respect, while showing them that even their pathway is beset with snares and has sudden pitfalls into danger and regret. He always keeps in mind the fact that for the majority of people life offers a series of small tests of character and will, rather than two or three supreme crises.

The essence of Mr. Pringle's teaching is found in two books from him—"The Faith of a Wayfarer" and "The Wayfarer at the Crossroads" (James Clarke, Essex street, London). He contributes from time to time to various periodicals.

Many Engagements in America.

Mr. Pringle is visiting America under the auspices and at the invitation of the Committee of Interchange. His engagements include sermons and addresses at various universities, colleges, churches and clubs, New York, Boston, Chicago, St. Louis, Minneapolis, Cambridge, Dayton, Ohio, Washington, are among the places to be visited. He is addressing the famous Sunday Evening Club at Chicago; spending a week at King's Chapel, Boston, lecturing each day; attending the annual meeting of the World Alliance at St. Louis, Nov. 10-12; and from Dec. 7-9, inclusive, the annual meeting of the Federal Council of the Churches of Christ in America. He sails from New York for England on Dec. 10.

In an article on Modernism and Missions in the Christian World, London, of Sept. 29, Mr. Pringle writes: "I know of no stranger paradox than the assertion, so frequently made, that Modernism has cut the nerve of the missionary motive. As I see it, the very reverse is the case. Of course, there is Modernism and Modernism, with plenty of scope for defining and counter-defining. But there ought to be no doubt about the real thing. To claim that our faith, in all its essentials, can welcome and assimilate and be strengthened by the widening knowledge of our time; that God not only has spoken but speaks; this is the true modernism. And directly you begin to work out its implications, you will see that, short of stultifying itself, it must be evangelical."

A Real Stimulus to Missions.

Indeed, so far from cutting the nerve of missions, it gives it a healthy stimulus all along the line. He says that Modernism is concerned "with the spirit rather than with the letter; and it says boldly that, whatever Jesus did or did not say by way of express command, He and the Gospel He preached and the revelation He brought are in their very nature universal. Not in any specified passages, but over every page and between every line the Christian faith demands to be preached. The only self-respecting condition of possessing it is to pass it on. It is a happy instinct that leads Dr. T. R. Glover to quote Ignatius in the connection: 'He that truly has the word of Jesus can hear His silence also.' And, as Dr. Glover adds, 'the Christians had heard it, and had gone into all the world, before Matthew wrote.' In face of such a missionary motive as that, textual criticism becomes irrelevant."

Unrelaxed Industry

THE great safeguard for nearly all of us is to be found in almost unrelaxed industry. It is pernicious also to despise certain forms of labour; Utopia itself will need scavengers. But "I will make thee ruler over leisure," is a great promise to be perfectly fulfilled on high, where endless service means endless rest. —W. R. N.

Without Rest Or Haste

HOW old was He when He said, "It is finished?" No one can tell to a year, though we all know He was young; but He had had the twelve hours of His day measured out to Him, and when the night came His work was done. He wished no more. Without rest He lived, but without haste; no one ever did so much, and no one was ever so free from the timorous hurry of unbelief. Time is always long enough, when we are sure that our times are in God's hand.

The Crucible of Experience

THE greatness of the Book of Job, that which won for it from Carlyle the eulogium that it is the finest thing ever written with pen, consists in the clear light it throws on human trial and its issues. It is a unique manual upon faith—not in a proposition, but in life itself, because life is in the hands of God, and represents

Machinery just meant
To give Thy soul its bent.
Try thee, and turn thee forth sufficiently impressed, as Browning with his glorious optimism has said. It teaches us an indescribable trust in the order of things. It does this through a great life—making a man, in his victorious struggle with adversity, provoke from our lips the saying, "God is my salvation, I will trust and not be afraid."

F. B. Meyer Says.

THE LORD JESUS cannot fully save you while there is one point of controversy between you and Him. Let Him have that one last thing, the last barrier to a life of blessedness, and glory will come filling your soul.

Lost In the Crowd

AN ARMY is a great, solid, incorporate phalanx. It is a heartless corporation. Corporations, we are told, have no souls. The soldier is lost in the army. One of the perils of our commercial life is the peril of a suppressed personality, the swallowing up of the individual in the great sea of things. Some one calls it "the anonymousness of industry." The workman is nothing but a shuttle in the great mill.

But not thus is it with the marching forces of the Kingdom. There is no mass meeting effect here. God's approach to us is personal. His forgiveness is personal. "Every man must give an account of himself to God." His praise is going to be personal. "Then shall each man have his praise from God."

Those who live on the mountain have a longer day than those who live in the valley. Sometimes all we need to brighten our day is to rise a little higher.

THE DRUNKEN DRIVER.

Penalties against Drunken automobilists are being increased by magistrates, and rightly so.

The accident on the Hamilton-Toronto highway in which an intoxicated driver twice sent his car through a crowd of boys on the roadside, injuring six of them, is an indication of how great a menace to the safety of the public is the man who attempts to drive a car while he is under the influence of liquor.

As more than one magistrate has pointed out, such a driver is a potential murderer, and it will be necessary to deal with him from that viewpoint.

If the jail sentence at present provided as a penalty is not severe enough to act as a deterrent, public opinion will demand an increase in the punishment.

It is legal under certain conditions to drink liquor, but the motorist who expects to drive his car must be made to understand that drinking and driving are two actions that cannot be possibly combined with safety to himself or to the public.

WILL THEY CARRY ON?

Indications that Peterborough will continue to be represented in the senior series of the Ontario Hockey Association, despite the loss of some splendid players, will appeal to most citizens.

Even those who are only remotely interested in hockey have a civic pride in Peterborough's being kept to the forefront, and they will welcome an announcement to the effect that the Senior Club will close up its ranks and march on.

There is a prestige about membership in a senior league, no matter what sport is considered, that is well worth preserving, and if the management and those players who are left of the splendid Peterborough machine resolv to stick to their guns and remain in the Senior O.H.A., they will deserve, and The Examiner is sure will have, the support of the whole city.

The fine showing of Peterborough's senior hockey and ball clubs has provided a vast amount of valuable publicity, and it would be a backward step if it were decided now that the city should no longer be represented in the senior section of the Ontario Hockey Association.

The city will be solidly behind a senior team for this season.

RHODES WINS HIS FIGHT.

Premier Rhodes of Nova Scotia has apparently won his fight to have the Legislative Council of that Province abolished.

The Judicial Committee of the Privy Council has ruled that the Lieutenant-Governor of Nova Scotia has the power to increase the strength of the Council as his advisors see fit, and that those members of the Council who were appointed prior to 1925 hold office only during pleasure and not for life.

The way is now open to Mr. Rhodes to appoint enough new Councillors to out-vote the old members, and thus wipe the Legislative Council out of existence, a step that he will undoubtedly proceed to take.

When Premier Rhodes assumed office in 1925 his announcement that he intended to abolish the Council was met with strenuous opposition by the Councillors themselves.

He failed, of course, in persuading them to vote themselves out of office, and cash bonuses were offered with no greater success.

Then he sought the help of the courts, and has finally triumphed; the disappearance of the Council will save the people of Nova Scotia $40,000 a year, it is estimated.

Canada has too much government, and the disappearance of the Nova Scotia Upper Chamber will be regarded by people outside that Province, as well as by the majority therein, as a step toward better things.

CANADA'S INFANT DEATHS.

The recently published report of the Dominion Bureau of Statistics on vital statistics in Canada brings home some arresting facts.

In the year 1926, Canada lost 23,671 babies under one year of age, and altogether 30,973 children under five years of age. No less than 7,089 children were stillborn. This total loss, a great part of which is preventable, amounted to 38,062 deaths. In the same fiscal year, Canada received 37,569 immigrants from the British Isles. In other words, Canada's heavy loss of 38,000 British-born infants more than offset, in actual population, her entire British immigration.

In addition, Canada lost 1,314 mothers in child-birth, or the high rate of 5.7 for every thousand living births. This is one of the highest maternal death rates among civilized states. That one Province in Canada should show an infant death rate of 58.6 per thousand living births, and another the rate of 142.0 indicates how much of this loss of life is preventable.

In an effort to reduce this heavy and unnecessary loss in maternal and infant life in Canada, the Canadian Council on Child Welfare, in co-operation with the Provincial Health Departments of different Provinces, has arranged for the free distribution of a series of prenatal letters.

These letters, prepared by a committee of physicians under the direction of the Child Health Section of the Council, give general practical information and advice on prenatal care, the necessity for which is so strikingly demonstrated by the above conditions. The Council's prenatal letter service also brings the mother in contact with her Provincial Department of Health, whose services in the way of the visiting-nurse, free literature, etc., are designed to give every possible aid to the prospective mother for the betterment of her own health and that of the expected child.

The Council has received many letters of gratitude from mothers, who have made use of the service, and women in the outlying districts, many miles from a doctor, are generous in their appreciation of the practical information and advice given them in the letters.

The series, which consists of nine letters, is sent out monthly on application to the Canadian Council on Child Welfare at Ottawa, or to the Provincial Health Department. The letters are published in English and in French.

LANGUAGE.

How much of the attraction of life is built up on language and the tongue? Dr. Parks, of Peterborough, brought this fact clearly before the teachers of South Hastings when in convention here on Thursday—that language is one of the most important of subjects on the curriculum, because it is a means of communication with the world about, it is the chief means by which the child arrives at intelligible consciousness, it is a means of developing the aesthetic, and it is a powerful moral agent in the life of the individual and the nation.

How much of civilization would disappear were human language to become by some manner unintelligible, no one can say. It would be the greatest of calamities for it would carry away all that is worth while.

If language is so important, then care should be taken in its use. Yet how many are careless in their manner of speech! Conditions may arise which make the amenities of life as regards conversation difficult, one may forget, yet language bearing as it does so much social, intellectual and moral importance, should be used with care.

Language is an index of character. The man of tenderness does not habitually use the blood-curdling oath, for the emotion seeks an outlet that is characteristic. Some men of suavity and soft words have, of course, been criminals, but their gentle words expressed their deceptive character.

References to the tongue are many, gossip and bitter speech that cuts like a knife. These but show what a potent weapon the tongue and language constitute.

Every subject taught in the schools uses language as its base, every school of thought utilizes it for the promulgation of its message. Take language out of the business world, advertising would go with all its appeal which can summon to the eye the prettiest and noblest of pictures and scenes. Take language out of the theatre and there would not even be a movie left, there would be but dumbshow, for the mouths of the actors would cease to move and the titles of the movies disappear. Take language out of the sciences and where would knowledge be? If language were lost, the word that can heal a heart that is broken would be no more. But that day can never come, for man has learned the art of combining sounds to express thought. Language is the most priceless possession and man should preserve it at its highest standard.—Belleville Ontario.

CANADIAN PRIDE.

Canadians have been given a strong lead from the advice of Honourable R. B. Bennett, the Conservative leader, when he says the greatest need of Canada today is for a strong, virile Canadianism. A full realization of the greatness of this country is one of the things that should be impressed on every Canadian-born and every immigrant citizen in the Dominion. Pride of country is justified in any land. Canadians in particular have honest reason to feel proud of their nationality.

Too often it is heard on every side that "if only" Canada were this or that. There are those who sort of live in the clouds of envy of other countries. Like the donkeys, there is the reaching over the fence and thinking that everybody else's grass is greener than mine. Instead of pausing to take stock of Canada's resources, possibilities, future—and above all, Canada's people—there are those who bemoan the fact that this is not so and that should be.

Canada, the country, needs no sympathy. The Canadian people have no excuse for sitting down and thinking they are inferior. Mr. Bennett tells us to forget this inferiority complex. He advises us to remember the things Canada possesses and the successes her people have achieved.

The new head of the Conservative party makes a plea for strong leadership. By this he does not only mean the leadership that is offered by the heads of political parties. He means leadership on the part of every man and woman. He would have every Canadian become an ambassador for Canada. By a full realization of the greatness of the Dominion every citizen would naturally become an enthusiast. An appreciation of country is the one thing that is most needed for a person to become a true Canadian.

The great need in Canada today is for more people. A country to become really great must be developed. The human factor is the most important part in the process of that development. Without population a country can never prosper. But it must be remembered that the people are coming. The setbacks of war are still felt. Four years of destruction require many, many years of reconstruction. Canada is still in the re-building stage. We will be for some time to come. But gradually we are getting over the effects.

There is one bright spot about the effects of the war. That is the new national consciousness that developed. Canada became a byword in Europe. The name Canadian became one to be regarded with more than usual respect. That feeling in Europe had its reflection in the minds of the people at home. And Canadians began to think in terms of nationhood.

The idea of Canadian strength must be developed further. Every person in Canada should realize that he or she is a citizen of no mean country. That thought, coupled with the leadership that such a state of mind will develop, will bring Canadians steadily to a full realization of this nation's possibilities.—Border Cities Star.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT

Sir George Foster is to address the Anglican Young People tonight, and his speech will undoubtedly prove that he is one of the youngest old men in Canada.

In 1926 Canada lost more population through infant mortality than she gained through British immigration. There is need of an explanation of such a condition.

Some of Toronto's banks are apparently being operated on the cafeteria principle.

"I am for care and courtesy. Are you?" Every driver should have a sticker to that effect and then stick to it.

That Massachusetts professor who has invented a thinking machine might now proceed to invent a fool-proof automobile.

The letter from J. F. Lillicrap appearing elsewhere today misquotes to some extent The Examiner's editorial which merely pointed out that it was inevitable that the legalization of the sale of liquor in this Province would be greeted with joy by some of the millions of thirsty people across the border. We did not say that such sale was attracting millions of Americans.

No doubt it will cause the Soviet Russian government pained surprise to be admonished by Ramsay MacDonald for its imperialism.—Hamilton Herald.

TORONTO LIVESTOCK.

TORONTO, Ont., October 22. — A run of over 9,000 cattle for this week's market was a bumper record run for the year. The fact that, with the exception of a small holdover of the rough common steers neither good stockers nor killers, such a heavy offering of cattle found a good market and the greater bulk of the cattle readily absorbed without any material lowering of the average price levels for the past few weeks, says much for the firmness and the general stability of the market.

Anything of good to choice quality in the killing class met an active demand at steady to firm prices.

The demand for stockers and feeders has continued quite active, and a large number of western stockers have moved out to Ontario points for fall and winter feeding.

The heavy offering of over 10,000 sheep and lambs for the week also found a good steady market. A little too large a proportion of heavy lambs tended to weaken the market slightly. Buyers are shying at lambs over 90 to 100 pounds.

Calves weakened to about a dollar lower than last week.

Hogs were strong, advancing a quarter for the week to $11.15, selects off cars.

General run of prices as follows:

Choice butcher steers, $8.25 to $8.75. Heavy beef steers choice, $8.50 to $9.00. Choice light steers, $8.25 to $8.50, and choice butcher heifers, $8.00 to $8.25.

Baby beeves, firm ,choice, $12.00 to $13.00.

Common steers and heifers, $5.00 to $5.50.

Choice butcher cows, $5.50 to $6.50; medium, $4.50 to $5.00.

Bulls, choice, $4.75 to $5.25; choice butcher, $4.50 to $5.00.

Springers and milkers, quiet and steady prices.

Stockers and feeders active, good quality feeders from $6.75 to $7.25; heifers, $5.50 to $6.75; delivery country points.

Lambs, choice, steady, $11.50 tops, best ewes and wethers.

Calves, easier and a dollar lower at $14.00 bid for tops.

Hogs, market strong at $11.15 off selects, and $10.25 f.o.b. selects.

Receipts.

Union Stock Yards—Total receipts for this week: 9,125 cattle, 1,619 calves, 3,338 hogs, and 10,062 sheep and lambs.

MONTREAL GRAIN AND PRODUCE

MONTREAL, Oct. 22 (Canadian Press).—The foreign demand for Canadian grain here yesterday was fair, and a moderate amount of business was worked with the United Kingdom and the Continent.

Extreme dullness marked the domestic trade in oats and prices were inclined to be easier.

The local and export trade in Spring wheat grades of flour continued inactive, and the undertone was easier, but there was no change in prices announced. The movement of Winter wheat flour was also small, but values were unchanged.

The millfeed market continued active and firm. The demand for standard grades of rolled oats was fair and prices ruled steady.

The egg market was slightly more active than it has been of late, and the feeling was steady. The receipts were 664 cases.

The tone of the market for all grades of potatoes was firm and the volume of business was moderate. Sales of car lots of Prince Edward Island Green Mountains were made at $1.45 to $1.50 per bag of 90 pounds; New Brunswick Green Mountains at $1.40 to $1.45 per bag in bulk; Cobblers at $1.30 to $1.35 per bag in bulk, and Quebec white stock at $1.25 per bag in bulk, ex-track.

Owing to the continued absence of any important demand for butter, a weaker feeling prevailed yesterday and prices were reduced ¼c per pound. The receipts were 1,368 packages.

The foreign and local inquiry for cheese was quiet, but there was some demand from the United States and sales of current receipts of Western were made at 19¾c per pound. The receipts were 9,026 boxes.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, Oct. 22 (Canadian Press).—Rushing of Canadian wheat to market almost twice as fast as a year ago, tumbled down all grain values yesterday in Chicago. New low price records for the season were again smashed, the fifth time within a week. Closing quotations on wheat were unsettled 1⅞ to 2⅛ net lower, with corn ⅛ to ⅞c down; oats ⅛ to ¼c off, and provisions unchanged to a setback of 25c.

Adding to the price weakness caused by swift progress of Canadian threshing was the fact that European demand yesterday for wheat from North America appeared slack. Winnipeg reported 25 lake vessels waiting to be loaded with wheat but still unchartered. Meanwhile, farm deliveries of wheat of Canadian country stations were announced yesterday as having reached a total of 6,091,000 bushels Thursday, against 3,954,000 bushels a year ago. On the other hand fresh export business in North American wheat yesterday amounted to only 600,000 bushels.

Bearish sentiment as to wheat was further stimulated by word that Argentine shipments this week had reached a surprising aggregate, 1,512,000 bushels, compared with 211,000 bushels on the corresponding day last year. Under such circumstances news that North America had cleared 12,440,000 bushels for the week had but little effect as a market influence, especially as weather conditions in Argentine and Australia as well as in Canada were reported as favorable.

Corn showed considerable resistance to selling pressure, but finally gave way with wheat. There was good buying of corn at times on account of persistent talk of export business via the Gulf of Mexico, with American prices to Europe reported as in line with Argentine. Auspicious weather prevailed in the corn belt, and indications pointed to a continuance. Oats sympathized with wheat and corn.

Provisions were easier, responsive to action of hog values and also of grain and cotton.

VOICE OF PEOPLE

Editor of Examiner:

Sir,—Your editorial of the 19th, "No Overcrowding here," is both interesting and instructive, in view of the much discussed question of the L. C. A. and the O. L. A. To quote from your editorial: "It is inevitable that the sale of liquor in the border cities should attract millions of people from the United States to Ontario." In other words, from the U. S. under prohibition to Ontario under Government control. To quote further from your editorial: "There is no overcrowding of the Peterborough jail as a result of the L.C.A.—in fact, only six inmates now in the jail here are for infractions of the Act."

During the many years of the O. T. A., how often did the record of Peterborough jail show six inmates for infraction of the Act?

Yours, etc.,
J. F. LILLICRAP.

If you must walk on the Highway

Walk on the left side of the road, facing the oncoming traffic

Accidents to pedestrians on the highways can be lessened if pedestrians will use the left side of the road. Then the oncoming traffic can be plainly seen.

Most cars run in comparative silence, and when the horn is used the pedestrian frequently becomes startled. Unless he is facing the automobile he may step the wrong way.

Motorists should always slow down and sound horn when approaching pedestrians. They should turn out so that the pedestrian will not be forced off the road. Don't try to pass vehicles and pedestrians at the same time.

ON CITY STREETS

Where there is a traffic officer or traffic signal, don't try to cross against the motor traffic. You may be successful 99 times—but the hundredth time may be your last. The minute you save does not make the risk worth while.

Cross busy streets only at intersections. Where there is no officer or signal, look after your own safety first. Don't try to dodge a car.

The Highway Safety Committee confidently looks for the co-operation of pedestrians as well as motorists in its efforts to decrease accidents on our streets and highways.

WORK IN EAST AND WEST TOLD AT CONFERENCE

A. Y. P. A. Members Hear of Expansion in Many Sections.

DISCUSSIONS HELD.

Rural and Urban Divisions Hold Meetings To Talk Over Difficulties.

Yesterday afternoon's session of the A.Y.P.A. Dominion Conference opened at two o'clock with the first vice-president, A. S McConnell, in the chair, after which Rev. P. C. Howard, of Millbrook, read the opening prayers.

George Pipher, of Brantford, second vice-president, gave a very interesting address on "A.Y.P.A. in Western Canada," which he visited during the summer. Mr. Pipher urged a greater co-operation with the West on the part of the East. Of the 550 branches in Canada, more than 400 are in Ontario and more than 200 of these in the Dioceses of Toronto and Huron . "We make annual resolutions to appoint a field secretary," he said, "and yet year after year the treasurer's report shows that only about a quarter of the branches are doing their share in paying the Dominion fees, and in consequence are not helping the A. Y.P.A. except in their own parishes."

Mr. Pipher read a number of letters from Western Canada, all the way from the Great Lakes to the Pacific, all anxious to get into the A.Y.P.A. work. They all want to do their bit for Christ and the Church. Local councils have been formed in Edmonton, Greater Vancouver, and Victoria and a central committee in Calgary. In many places visited by Mr. Pipher during his trip to the West, those who took charge of the meetings arranged were in nearly every case young people who never before had taken leadership ,and now are found active workers and leaders all the way from the Pacific to the East. The East is not taking its share of the responsibility, and has a tremendous obligation in this regard.

Rev. E. W. McKeguey, of Paquette, reported the receipt of a telegram from the Primate of All Canada, giving his good wishes and accepting the office of honorary president again for the coming year.

An Outstanding Exhibit at the Made-in Canada Fair

This pleasing display of three nationally known products—Purity Flour, Purity Oats and Hovis Bread—attracted considerable attention at the Made-in-Canada Fair last week. These high-class commodities are manufactured by Western Canada Flour Mills Co., Limited, branches throughout Canada. Mr. F. H. Dawson, local distributor.

A. Gundy, of Montreal, gave a short and earnest address on the A.Y.P.A. in Eastern Canada. Mr. Gundy thanked the Dominion Executive for their co-operation in the past and bespoke support again for the future .He extended the greetings of the Diocese of Montreal. The lack of support and leadership constituted the problem of the A.Y.P.A. There is no lack of support from the Bishop or the clergy, but the church itself gives little encouragement.

The need is leaders who are filled with the Holy Ghost and who are filled with zeal for Christ and the Church.

A new plan has been adopted in series of church visits, and there have been encouraging results. There is the annual Lenten rally, a dramatic group, and sports. In the latter the council excels, and in sports in Montreal Y.M.C.A. the Anglicans are in the majority. The problem of the Jews is a crying need, and offers a great opportunity for service. If on Christmas morning the A.Y.P.A. branches would dedicate themselves, in prayer, to service, the problem of securing men for the sacred ministry of the church, and leaders for the young people's work would be solved. That is the opinion of one who loves the A.Y.P.A. and wishes it success.

The second hour of the session was devoted to conferences, one of the rural and village delegates under the chairmanship of Rev. Mr. McKegney, and one for town and city branches under the chairmanship of A. S. McConnell. Many items were taken up at each conference, and later reports were given by the chairman of the problems discussed.

A great deal of the discussion at the city and town conference was around the questions of leadership and membership. It was felt that the attempt to build up a big membership was not entirely successful, as many of those gained in a campaign drop out in two or three weeks. Most of the branches reported that they had more lady members than gentlemen.

In the matter of leadership, it was suggested that the president see that the vice-president take some of the meetings, as too often he is a figurehead.

Although there was opposition to the rector or curate presiding as president of any branch, the members were loud in their expression of the opinion that he ought to attend the meetings, all of them if possible. It was felt that there would be more enthusiasm.

The matters of programmes and the A.Y.P.A. monthly were taken up by the rural section. It was felt that there was too much of the matter in the monthly provided by the G.B.R.E., and that it was not suitable for the purpose, while deliveries are also complained of. The country branches have difficulty in drawing up a programme for the year and sticking to it.

Miss Blanche Graham, of Lakefield, gave the closing paper of the session, on the subject, "The A.Y.P.A. Ever Changing." Her paper follows:

The A.Y.P.A. Ever Changing.

The world rolls on its way and we go with it, children grow up and young people wax old. There is no such thing as turning back the hands of time and achieving any measure of success at the same time. The A.Y.P.A. must keep up with the times ,each year brings changes in the membership. It has been said by many wise and learned men, both laity and clergy, after Confirmation, what? The A.Y.P.A. answers that question, and that is one of the reasons of its existence. Each year's Confirmation class should be a group of new A.Y.P.A. members, bringing their zeal for their mother church into its activities. Too many very young members make a branch top heavy, and it is apt to crash into a heap of debris if the controlling levers are all in the hands of a group of 'teen age young people, but too many old members mean dry rot, and again ruin faces a branch. It is the procession of new members which leavens the group and keeps it rolling onward to fulfil its destiny as a great asset to the church. The motto of the A.Y.P.A. is "For Church and the Church," and no organization in all the world can boast a more noble motto, one which points onward and upward. We are proud of it, of course, and it is ours to live up to, so let us as members of the A.Y.P.A. hold it higher and yet higher.

There is, besides the annual or bi-annual Confirmation class ,another source of securing new members, and one which often brings besides new blood, a rich experience in this work. Even country branches find the occasional stranger who comes within our gates, ours to seek, to make welcome, and to enlist in the great forward movement of the organization. Few branches are too small or in too remote localities for at least a small portion of this kind of work. We enlist in Christ's army and we must be prepared for active service in His name. Reaching out and encouraging the young communicants and extending a welcome to the stranger is the best preventative of a branch becoming a close corporation which is another certain backward movement. All organizations must move with the times or their fate will be that of utter failure.

The question is asked, "How long should I remain a member of the A.Y.P.A.?" And that might be answered b yasking another question, "Are you of use in your branch, are you a cog in the wheels of progress, are you making yourself a real asset or not?" If the latter, remain a member as long as possible, but when or if the time comes when you are looking askance at new members, when you want only your own chosen circle as members, or when the fact that you don't like Miss Blank or don't admire Mr. So-and-So constitutes a barrier to their becoming members of your branch, then most assuredly the time has come to end your connection with the branch.

The countless responsibilities which come as we grow older often bring with them good reasons why men and women are unable to keep up their connection wtih the branches in an active manner, there are such claims as young children, aged parents, invalids in the home, the pressing demands of business, ill health and heaps of others. Each year sees a few drop out for some of these or other perfectly legitimate reasons and because of this leakage in membership we need to spare no effort to secure the younger people as members New members bring new ideas and new blood into the organization and keep it from dropping backward. A leaven of old members is always a good thing, as their rich experience often saves the branch from falling into the pitfalls into which uncurbed youthful enthusiasm might lead it.

Some branches are failing to keep up with the procession because the officers are not changed often enough to admit new blood to the executive which is usually responsible for the season's programme. Consequently the programmes become stale and unattractive. There are many branches, too, where the older members are relegated to the workers' ranks, while the young folks are carefree to enjoy the social evenings with no thought of the preparation of the good time and no interest in the work of washing up afterwards.

The world rolls on and each year adds to the list of A.Y.P.A. members who are retiring from its activities, but who will remain faithful to the end to the society in which many of them were initiated into the active work of the church. The A.Y.P.A. is the recruiting ground of the rector for choir members, Sunday School workers, men to lead or assist in the work of the Brotherhood of St. Andrew, girls to assist in the activities of the W.A. and its Junior and Girls' branches, work for the Chancel Guild, and Church Women's oragnizations. Yes, if the A.Y.P.A. lives up to its pledges, that is where they come from willing, earnest workers eager to do their bit for our beloved church. Greater responsibilities mean that often the A.Y.P.A. is dropped as the younger people join it carrying on its high standards and often seeking the mature advice of those who were members for years and who have only sympathy and a little aid in big projects to give now owing to other pressing claims. Sympathy, that is the greatest need of our young people to-day, and with the sympathy of rector and parish the A.Y.P.A. can do big things. The hopelessness of the task ot trying to help the parish which shows no gratitude and makes the A.Y.P.A. the subject of rude jest is killing to youthful enthusiasm.

Branches change and their personal; on the average every five years sees a change of membership which usually amounts to 75 per cent. If one might be allowed to be personal for a moment I might say our branch of St. John's, Lakefield, has been in existence 16 years and retains on its list of active members four of the originals who joined up in November, 1911. As our good workers who served through the heat of the day go on to other activities or to the retired list, let them be remembered in the hearts and prayers of the association as friends, as older members of the same family who retain their interest in the organization and in whom the organization is interested.

One sees something of this spirit in the Dominion Council and we are proud to recall and reverently bow our heads in a silent tribute to such men as Canon Brown, Canon Gunn, Canon MacNabb, and those young men and women who have done their bit in the church militant on earth and who have joined the church expectant in Paradise. Then, too, there are the vast army of men and women still living who have served the council, are still interested and always will be. We can mention in this connection a few such as Mr. Clarence Bell, Miss Woodhouse, Miss Powell. Then we have a growing list who have heard the call to higher service in the sacred ministry of the church, Rev. Scovilly, Rev. Creighton McCallum, Dr. Sproul, Mr. McConnell and others who form a long list of those faithful to the A.Y.P.A. and who have served in the past and are among those we love to honor.

Even this year's conference will see the retirement of some who have counted the world, with its temptations and pleasures, well lost in their service to their Lord. We will miss them, and while others will rise up to fill those places which they have filled, there will always be a place for them in future councils, when we will hear their voices, perchance, again raised as was their wont to urge greater zeal in the cause of Christ and His church. There is a note of sadness in the passing on of those we have grown to know and esteem, but there is no standing still and we must keep up with the times if we desire to remain on the list of live organizations. Each year's army list sees a group of old soldiers put on the retired list and also the record of the enlistment of recruits who fill up the ranks, and so it is with life, and as life so with the A.Y.P.A. Welcome the new, encourage the young recruit, make him or her feel responsibility in a measure for the success of the branch and encourage them to act as standard bearers holding high the torch which has been flung to them, but in turn let us pay a tribute to those who have lived and served and who, in throwing the torch to the younger members are making a sacrifice; let us remember and honor those of the old brigade.

LEADERSHIP NEED, TRUSTEES ARE TOLD

Past President Says It Needs Proper Training in Home.

KEMPTVILLE, Oct. 22 (Canadian Press).—Intelligent leadership is the need of the hour in Canada and can only be developed by proper training in the school and in the home, declared J. G. Elliott of Kingston, past president of the Ontario Educational Association, in an address today at the school trustee convention.

To attain good citizenship, stated Dr. Elliott, it was necessary to have an educated people. Unless Canada had intelligent leadership, democracy was a failure only to be ameliorated by education. The proper place to begin training for leadership, Mr. Elliott said, was in the home where foundations may be laid.

Mr. Elliott spoke hopefully of the home life of Canada and said that the youth of the nation need not be despaired of, in spite of modern practices. Mr. Elliott told his audience that the attendance of school pupils in Ontario per thousand of population has doubled since 1920 with a consequent increase in expenditure.

MILLBROOK NEWS

MILLBROOK, Oct. 22.—The W. A. of Saint Thomas' church held its October meeting on Monday evening at the home of Mrs. John Allen, Sr., with over twenty members in attendance.

After the opening devotional exercises led by the president, Mrs. (Canon) Allen, the reports of officers were received, and arrangements were made for sending a Christmas bale to some needy clergyman in the diocese; this has been a custom of the Auxiliary for some years.

Mrs Allen's Travel Talk will be open to the public and will be given in the Parish Hall on Wednesday, November 2, the small charge going to swell the Auxiliary funds.

Several items of peculiar interest were noted in connection with the annual meeting of the Board of Managers in Toronto when the Monthly Letter was read by the secretary pro tem, Miss Rose Macnamara, who is acting in the absence of Mrs. Whyte.

Mrs (Dr.) Young kindly consented to have the packages for the Christmas bale left at her home where it will finally be packed early in December The baking sale and afternoon tea, which the Auxiliary is holding in a vacant store on King Street on Saturday, October 22, was arranged for in detail, and committees appointed. Mrs. Allen also announced that the Auxiliary from Trinity church (the Marsh) intends holding a similar sale in the village on Saturday, October 22, and asked the co-operation of the sister society.

Mrs. J. A. Vance read the first chapter of the new study book, "Africa and Her Peoples", and at the November meeting Miss Annie Armstrong will take up the second chapter. The book promises to be full of interest and instruction.

The November meeting will be at the home of Mrs. C. M. Westmacott.

Mrs. Allen served refreshments during the social hour which was enjoyed at the close.

A.Y.P.A. REPORTS SHOW PROGRESS

Organization Has Flourished Throughout Canada in Past Year.

That the work of the A. Y. P. A. in the Dominion is prospering is shown by the following reports to the Dominion conference:

President's Report.

Our coming together this year for our annual conference marks the twenty-fifth anniversary of the founding of the A. Y. P. A. From very small beginnings as a Diocesan organization to our present position as a Dominion organization, has been a time of steady, if not spectacular growth.

It is not my desire to weary you with a repetition of figures and statistics, already given in the reports of the Secretary and Treasurer. I would, however, like to call to your attention the fact that the year just complete d has been no ordinary one.

From the report of the Secretary, you will notice that the number of charters issued shows a 60 per cent increase over last year. A year ago 20 out of the 33 charters issued went to the Dioceses of Toronto and Huron. This year only 19 out of 66 charters went to these two Dioceses. Last year, charters went to nine different dioceses; this year to 19 dioceses. Twenty out of the 56 charters went west of Winnipeg. What I do want you to see is that charters have been going to the more scattered parts of the Dominion, particularly to the Great West.

There is, of course, one big reason why there has been such progress in the West. Since our last conference, Mr. George Pifher, Second Vice-President of the Dominion Association, took a trip to the West, visiting fourteen towns and cities in the interests of the A. Y. P. A. As a direct result of this trip, twenty charters have gone to the West and Local Councils in Calgary, Edmonton, and Greater Vancouver have been formed. In an indirect way it is hard to estimate the amount of good done by this visit. I hope this conference will not fail to show its appreciation to Mr. Pifher, who did the work during his annual vacation as a labor of love.

Arrangements are now being made for a similar, though not quite so expensive, trip to the East. Mr. Pifher has again offered to devote his vacation to the work of the A. Y. P. A. When I tell you that last year's trip did not cost our association one cent for traveling expenses, and this year Mr. Pifher has offered to look after his hotel accommodation as well as his travelling expenses, you will get an idea of the generous contribution Mr. Pifher is making to the Association.

From the Treasurer's report you will note that progress has been made. There is, however, still much to be done, that can be done. More branches can pay their fees! Some feel that a higher fee should be asked. There is one thing of which I am particularly sure, and it is this: that the existing organization can do a great deal more than it has done in the past to propagate the work of this Association. When one isolated trip covering one month brings in such results, what would continuous field work accomplish?

On Saturday morning, the Future Policy of the A. Y. P. A. will be discussed. That will be the opportunity to suggest ways and means by which our Association can steadily but surely make progress.

The A. Y. P. A. monthly is now in its second year. As a medium for the exchange of ideas, and for the giving of helpful programme suggestions and interesting news, it has been a great success. The number of subscribers, however, is still insufficient to meet the cost of publication. May I appeal to every member of this conference to do his or her part to increase the circulation of our paper. No words that I can utter will adequately express our gratitude to Mr. T. H. Hollingsworth for his untiring work in editing this paper. So, may I suggest that, at the proper time, this conference will try to express to our worthy editor our feelings in this matter.

In addition to the matters I have already mentioned, many others of importance will come up for your consideration, such as our missionary endeavor and life memberships. To these questions, I hope you will give your earnest consideration. While many problems still confront us, while there is yet much to be done, I do want to say that during the past year much progress has been made. We can look back with a great deal of thankfulness to Almighty God. We may look to the future with optimism—a future that lies before us with unlimited possibilities. Let us face that future with courage, with Faith. There lies before us a great work, a great responsibility, a great trust. May we, who are on the threshold of another quarter century, be faithful to those who have done the pioneer work.

I would like to express my personal appreciation and thanks to Miss L. M. Moss, our untiring general Secretary; to Mr. R. S. Towne, our Treasurer, and to each member of the Executive committee for the faithful performance of their various tasks. No president ever had a more faithful band of workers.

For the many expressions of appreciation and kindness I have received, I do thank you. My two years as President have been very happy, because you made them so. As I now pass on, and another occupies this position, I know that he in his turn will receive your hearty support and co-operation.

Secretary's Report.

The Secretary reported as follows:

In the year 1927, when all Canada is celebrating her Diamond Jubilee, all red-blooded Canadians are thrilled at the magnificent achievement of the history of past years. We all recognize the fact that our beloved Church of England has played no small part in its development. We are astounded at the vast natural resources but we do realize that Canada's greatest asset is her Young People.

For the past twenty-five years, the Anglican Young People's Association has endeavored to make four-square young women and young men striving earnestly "For Christ and the Church." Our growth has been gradual, nothing spectacular, progress being made through the personal efforts of enthusiastic members. We shall go on from strength to strength, praying continually for extension, until we are really and truly Dominion-wide with a branch in every parish from Victoria to Halifax.

The 1926 conference, held in Toronto, was a wonderful success from every viewpoint. Toronto has always been a stronghold in A. Y. P. A. affairs, and the fact that it is centrally located made it an ideal conference city. From the very beginning of the inspirational service at the Church of the Redeemer on Thursday evening with the Rt. Rev. D. L. Ferris, Bishop Coadjutor of Western New York as special speaker, until the benediction was pronounced at the various Sunday morning services, the conference breathed the Spirit of Consecration. This was the theme to be carried throughout the year. Nineteen resolutions were passed at the conference, copies of which were mailed to every known branch and to every rector in the Dominion.

Board of Patrons—Letters were sent to every bishop in the Dominion, asking them to act on the Board of Patrons; the replies were gratifying, showing that we had the support of the House of Bishops. We are endeavoring to keep the A. Y. P. A. work before the Synods.

Literature—The principal literature published during the year was, of course, our newspaper, "The A. Y. P. A. Monthly." We feel that this is filling a long-felt want. It has now passed its first year and although the work is still in its pioneer stages, we are hoping for great things. All the members are asked to co-operate both by news items and subscriptions. We appreciate very much the help given by the G. B. R. E. and also the faithful untiring efforts of Mr. T. H. Hollingsworth, who edits the paper and also his assistant, Mr. W. P. Wood.

Mission Pledge—The Mission Pledge was such a success last year that this year the objective was set at $750.00, and the fund designated to the support of the Rev. A. C. McCullum at Herschel Island. Mr. McCullum was an ardent A. Y. P. A. worker in Toronto, and has organized a branch among the Indians and Eskimo in the Yukon. Mr. A. S. McConnell was appointed as Secretary-Treasurer of this fund, and we hope to reach our objective.

Deputation Work—A great deal of deputation work has also been done through the agency of the Local Councils in the different centres, and the work accomplished by the different Executive Members is simply marvelous. At the present time, we have Local Councils in Montreal, Toronto, London, Hamilton, Greater Vancouver, Edmonton, Lincoln-Welland District, Peterboro' District, Brant Deanery, Essex Deanery, Elgin Deanery, Bruce Deanery, Oxford Deanery, Waterloo Deanery, Grey Deanery, Wentworth and Carleton Deaneries, and a Central Committee at Calgary. Rallies have been held in the larger centres during the year, one or more members of the Executive attending. A Diocesan Council was formed in Fredericton.

The most important feature of the work this year, in the mind of the Secretary, was the western trip taken by the second Vice-President, Mr. George Pifher, throughout the Western Provinces. He visited all the larger centres, organizing Local Councils, meeting key-workers and putting enthusiasm into the Young People's work generally. Branches are now writing in for charters giving Mr. Pifher credit for their organization and asking why some one was not sent to them sooner. This was real missionary work and meant much self-sacrifice and effort on Mr. Pifher's part, as he used his vacation to do this work, and the cost to the Dominion A. Y. P. A. was his expenses less railroad fare. We all appreciate his efforts very much. It is hoped that a similar trip may be planned to the Eastern Provinces.

Life Memberships—Much thought and discussion has been put upon a scheme for life memberships and Dominion life memberships in the A. Y. P. A. and we expect that if it is the will of the members, same will soon be in operation.

New Branches—61 charters (new) have been issued since the conference, making a total of 554 chartered branches. The new charters by dioceses are as follows: Algoma, 3; British Columbia, 1; Calgary, 1; Edmonton, 4; Fredericton, 1; Huron, 14; Keewatin, 1; Kootenay, 1; Montreal, 1; New Westminster, 6; Niagara, 6; Nova Scotia, 2; Ontario, 1; Ottawa, 4; Qu'Appelle, 4; Quebec, 1; Ruperts Land, 2; Saskatchewan, 1; Toronto, 6; Yukon, 1.

An Executive meeting was held this year following the conference, four other meetings have been held since, at Toronto, Brantford and Hamilton, respectively, with an average attendance of 18. Only one member of the representatives named by the G. B. R. E. to our Executive has attended a meeting.

Plans have been made for the 1927 conference to be held in Peterboro'. This will give the members in the East a better opportunity to attend.

Prospects for the future are very bright. The majority of the branches are flourishing and the Local Councils have, in most cases, well-organized plans for both summer and winter activities. May God give us strength that we shall not weary in well-doing, so that not only will our A. Y. P. A. members be good Canadians but good churchmen.

Respectfully submitted,
LILLIAN M. MOSS,
General Secretary.

PEASANTS SEEK CAROL'S RETURN

French Radical Paper Says Party Has Entered Negotiations.

PRONOUNCEMENT EXPECTED

PARIS, Oct. 22.—(Canadian Press)—French radical newspaper Loeuvre to-day says delegates of the national peasant party of Rumania have entered negotiations with former Crown Prince Carol for his return to Rumania and assumption of the throne. This possibility, however is discounted in competent circles.

Peasant party leaders are quoted being confident the maladministration of Premier Bratiano will eventually bring about Carol's return. Carol is reported as accepting the peasant party's stipulation that he break with Madame Lupesco, with whom he eloped two years ago, deserting his wife, Princess Helen.

The peasant party will hold a congress on October 27 when a pronouncement in favor of Carol's return may be issued. Le Journal says Carol has already left Madae Lupescu because of her memoirs being published in United States newspapers.

TRUE STORIES about LIFE INSURANCE by a REPRESENTATIVE of the MUTUAL LIFE

His wife was not to know

A WHOLESALE drygoods merchant was anxious to insure his life to protect his wife, but stipulated that she was not to know, because she did not like the idea of entering into a contract by which she would stand to benefit by his death.

"I believe it is my duty to protect her," he said, "whether she agrees or not."

When he died, a few years later, his widow was still ignorant of this Mutual Monthly Income Policy and it was my happy privilege to inform her.

When she found she was to have a monthly income from the Mutual Life of Canada for the rest of her days, she burst into tears of relief.

"I used to think of life insurance as 'blood money'," she said. "But now I see what it will mean to me."

I have found that, while wives may occasionally think as this woman once did, widows never do.

PRESBYTERY Y.P. WORK ORGANIZED

Young People From All Parts of Cobourg Presbytery Meet at Camborne.

A gathering of about one hundred young people from all parts of the newly formed Cobourg Presbytery of the United Church of Canada, met in Camborne on Wednesday, October 19 for organization.

Following the devotional service which was conducted by the pastor of Camborne, Rev. G. D. Campbell, the officers for the coming year were elected. Hon. Pres., Rev. J. S. I. Wilson, B.A. B.D. Chairman of Presbytery, Pres Franklin Bannister, Garden Hill; Vice-Pres., Melville Hancock, Port Hope; secretary Miss Margaret Pollard, Canton; Treasurer, Gerald Wright, Brighton. Convenors of the different departments of work were as follows: Christian Fellowship Thomas Fry, Campbellford; Missionary Lillian Russell, Cobourg; Christian Citizenship, John Darkness, Morganston; Literary and Recreation, Mrs. Reginald Crego, Roseneath; C.G.I.T., Mrs. H. B. Neal Wooler; J. S. E.T., John Brown, Brighton; Junior Department, Roberta Philp, Cobourg, R. R.

Rev. J. C. Robertson, D. D. of the Young People's Department, presented the Aims of the Young People's Work in the afternoon and at the evening session challenged the youth of to-day to always be their best and do their best. For the Presbytery organization Dr. Robertson said some aims should be: A Young People's Society at every preaching place; a Young People's Bible Class at every preaching place; all the Young People of the Presbytery regularly attending church services. The speaker pointed out the danger of thinking of only one part of the work. The Young People should be behind the Bible Class just as enthusiastically as behind the week-night meetings. In speaking of the unchurched, Dr. Robertson called attention to conditions in England where it was recently stated that 90% of the men were out of touch with any church, and to the United States where there seemed to be a definite trend away from the church.

Then the speaker declared that the United Church was responsible as perhaps no other for those who were not being reached by any other Christian organization. In speaking of the local societies Dr. Roberston mentioned the importance of getting all the young people of the community to attend the meetings, getting them to take part in public speaking or singing and encouraging them to lead in prayer.

Mention was made of the new Conservative leader, the Hon. R. B. Bennett, that he was helped in his public speaking by taking an active part in the league and Sunday school.

The ability to speak well in public, it was suggested, had somethir to do with the new leader's election. A stage whisper was heard: "At any rate he gave the best speech after his election." Gratification was expressed in the choice of one of Mr. Bennett's calibre.

Support Missionaries.

Miss Florence Hall presented the claims of the Maintenance and Extension Fund, showing how the Young People could be stimulated.

One-eighth plus was designated as "our share" which amount could be reached readily if certain suggestions such as systematic giving, linking the Missionary Committee with the similar committee of the Sunday School and the congregation, and sending the funds raised regularly to the treasurer were observed. Miss Hall reminded the convention that there had been some effort made to have certain missionaries assigned to the territory of Cobourg Presbytery for support so that the personal interest might be kept up between the various organizations and those workers. As W. E. Smith, M.D., of China, Roy McWilliams, B.A., of Japan, and George Williams, formerly of Formosa, had been supported in this territory it was requested that these be assigned to this Presbytery.

An effort was made to secure Miss Mary Haig under appointment by the W.M.S. to Japan, and formerly of Formosa, as the fourth Missionary, but owing to a separate policy of the W.M.S. it was found impossible to carry out the wishes of many in the Presbytery. The local societies were urged to keep in touch with the Missionaries for mutual help and inspiration.

The evening session saw about two hundred in the church and there was splendid enthusiasm shown in the sing song that preceded the regular service. The Y.P.S. of Port Hope conducted the devotions in a very creditable manner, several of their number taking part. The newly elected officers were called forward and an impressive induction service was conducted by the chairman of Presbytery J. S. I. Wilson, B.A. B.D., of Brighton.

The report of committees appointed at the afternoon meeting recommended the holding of training institutes in four sections of the Presbytery, at Warkworth Smithfield, Gore's Landing and Canton. It was also recommended that the Presbyteries request that Howard Veals of China be assigned to this Presbytery for support. The recommendations were adopted.

Announcement was made of the Bay of Quinte conference winter school to be held in Cobourg Jan. 9-16. In the absence of the newly elected president the vice-president ably filled the chair.

Evening Address.

Dr. Robertson gave the address of the evening. After pointing out that all wanted to be their best the speaker said that the thouht that was in their minds was in the heart of God. "If we can show young people how to be their best and do their best always, most of our problems will be solved," he said. "All our gifts God gave us and we should cultivate these. What qualities do we appreciate in other people? All these we can find in their finest development in Jesus Christ. We must direct our gifts to practical use meeting needs as we see them in our community, in our country, in the world. "Problems of Intemperance need solution, a better solution than has yet been found. Missions present problems. Should we hand all the work in China over to the Chinese Christians and become advisers only? China needs Christ and we must discover the best way we can make Him known. Problems of our own life work present themselves. If we would seek the guidance of the Spirit it would be given. Ask help in temptation and it will be found. Put it to the test and we will know we have a risen, living Saviour."

Last evening the Sunbeam Circle A.O.F. celebrated its fifth anniversary in the Knights of Pythias Hall. The first part of the program took the form of a banquet at which about forty members sat down. A very pretty birthday cake occupied the centre of the table and was cut by the youngest member of the Circle, Moira Read. After the members had done justice to the good things on the table a program was presented. Comp. Mrs. Sevens, Past District Deputy, occupied the chair for the program and explained the benefits of the Ancient Order of Foresters. A very hearty vote of thanks was given to Companions Mrs. Terrace and Mrs. Barnes for training the children and putting on such a splendid program. The accompaists for the evening were Comp. THIS IS A PRACTICAL MODERN HOME

(By Geo. T. Evans, Architect.)

Here is a practical modern home of moderate cost which possesses many characteristics to appeal to the prospective home-builder of average income. It is an example of the type of house which would not look out of place in any neighborhood. This is a factor of prime importance, for many very artistic, but somewhat unusual, homes have a tendency to appear simply freakish when erected in an average semi-suburban street.

Another important factor is its limited width of 24 ft. Ample width for a side drive and simple, effective landscaping would therefore be provided by a 35-ft. lot.

The plan simply abounds in commendable features. Entering from the verandah, which it may be noticed does not overshadow the living-room, one passes directly into the hall, and finds a coat-closet conveniently at hand.

A sliding door gives access to the living-room, which is well proportioned, contains a nicely designed fireplace, and is exceptionally well lighted.

In addition to a door from the rear porch the kitchen also has a side grade entrance, with stairs to the basement located under the main stairs. It is pleasant, bright, and well equipped, and could not fail to impress the lady of the house with its cheerfulness and convenience.

Ascending to the upper floor we find one large front bedroom from which ascend the stairs to the attic, and two smaller bedrooms at the rear. Each has a large clothes-closet, while a linen-closet opens into the hall. Over the rear porch is a pleasant balcony overlooking the garden and entered through one of the smaller bedrooms.

Chestnut was used for the downstairs trim and enamelled pine on the upper, while the doors are of mahogany.

The combination of materials used here is simple, but interesting and effective. It comprises red rug brick walls, green shingle roof, and white painted woodwork.

With hot water heating this home cost approximately $5,700 exclusive of lot.

Readers desiring further information regarding the plans and specifications of this house should communicate with the architect direct. Address: Mr. Geo. T. Evans, 310 Clyde Block, Hamilton, Ontario.

RUTH SNYDER WILL APPEAL

Lawyer To File Papers With Court of Appeals on Monday.

OLD CASE CITED.

NEW YORK, Oct. 22.—Joseph Leonardo, counsel for Mrs. Ruth Snyder, said yesterday the appeal from the jury's verdict of first degree murder will be filed with the Court of Appeals in Albany on Monday, and that among the precedents he will cite is that of the first case recorded in English common law of more than one person being tried on a murder charge. This was in the year 1682.

The appeal will be based to a large extent on the contention that the joint trial of Mrs. Snyder and Henry Judd Gray was improper and was prejudicial to Mrs. Snyder's interest. The couple were convicted of having killed Mrs. Snyder's husband, Albert Snyder, in Queen's Village, March 20.

The case in 1682 was tried at Old Bailey, London. Thomas Thynn, a wealthy London resident, had married one Lady Ogle, who repented her marriage and fled to Holland, where she met Charles John, Count of Coningsmark, Sweden, to whom she appealed for help. The count was alleged to have employed three men, Christopher Bratz, George Borosky and Charles Stern. All four were tried. The count was freed, but the three murderers were hanged from a tree at the scene of the murder, as was the custom.

Lonardo said he will contend that the confession of Gray implicating Mrs. Snyder should not have been read to the jury. Supreme Court Justice Scudder had, at the time, directed the jury to disregard those parts of Gray's confession which concerned Mrs. Snyder, ruling that it was the testimony of an admitted accomplice.

I.Y.P.A. CONCERT

A most enjoyable programme was provided by the Peterborough District Council, A.Y.P.A., for the entertainment of the delegates to the Dominion Conference last night. The concert was held in St. John's Parish Hall, which was filled to the doors, with Rev. G. J. Bousfield, of St. Luke's Church, as chairman. It was arranged by a committee, headed by Miss B. Dawson, and offered entertainment of great variety.

The opening number was provided by Messrs. Clarke, Curvin, and Livingstone, who played two selections on banjo and mandolin, with M. B. Chenhall as accompanist. They were loudly encored.

Walter Townsend, pianist, was the next to appear, this talented young pianist playing the "Valse Mignon," followed by another selection, and receiving much applause.

Mrs. H. F. Doig sang two solos in splendid voice. Her selections were "Starry Woods" and "Song of the Open." Miss Margaret Dickson's sweet voice was heard to advantage in the "Thrush Love Song" and "In Summer Time." Miss Grynne Donley was accompanist.

Possibly the most popular numbers on the programme were those given by the Hawaiian Glee Club, cries of "more" greeting them at the conclusion of their second group of numbers. This was featured by C. S. Thompson with a mouth organ.

The other musical numbers on the programme were furnished by Donald Greene, violinist, who played "Adoration," and was encored. Miss Mildred Greene was accompanist.

Five young people from Toronto added an unexpected number to the programme. It was supposedly musical, the performers singing at the tops of their voices a number of nursery rhymes, separated by a refrain, "Cry, Baby, Cry."

The features of the programme were a play given by the members of St. Paul's A.Y.P.A., of Lindsay, and a pageant, Britannia and Her Colonies, by a number of Peterborough young people. The play was entitled "The Law of the Tribe," and was based on Indian life. The first scene showed the council of the Massapequots, which decides that the tribe is being crowded out by other tribes and the white men, and must move West. Two old people are left behind, according to the law of the tribe that the old must not hold back the young.

In the second scene, Mineola, the granddaughter of the old couple, returns, followed by Brown Deer, her lover, and they decide to stay with the old people. When messengers from the tribe arrive to demand their return, Brown Deer breaks the arrows and refuses.

In the third scene the whole tribe comes back, after hearing the defiance of the young couple, voted the penalty of death. The old man reminds them that they must have a sign from the Great Spirit, and a great light in the north is taken as indicating that they are to be spared. The unusual formation of a number of geese flying overhead is taken to indicate that henceforth the old are to be taken along and protected, instead of being left to die.

The play is interspersed with a number of songs, the chief singing of his dream of death and the young people singing of love, and was well acted by the Lindsay young people.

Miss Dorothy Worboy and Jack Milbourn as John Bull were central figures in the pageant, "Britannia and Her Colonies." Several young ladies, dressed to represent various Dominions, recited verses composed by F. M. DelaFosse of the Public Library. A number of children dressed in white were grouped about the throne, and led the singing of "Rule, Britannia." Two redcoats held flags behind, and the whole was a fitting setting for the singing of the National Anthem to close the concert.

JUDGE URGES

Dr. Craig spoke briefly, then President McNabb rose, to give a great deal of the credit for the reception of the trophy to "J. R. Heron, our very efficient secretary. I have learned from experience that a club may be very, very active but unless the deeds are well recorded; the club has no chance of getting the Efficiency Cup. Jack Heron has won a name for himself during the past two years, not only in our club, but in the district and in the International Association. At the London convention, he was chairman of the District Publicity Committee, and later was chosen by the International as one of five men picked from Canada to serve on the Publicity Committee at the Chicago meeting. We have won the Efficiency Cup because of our efficient secretary, and also because we have a membership in our club of some of the finest men in the city."

The special speaker of the evening, His Honor Judge Huycke, was introduced by Kiwanian Joseph Wearing, and rose to give a very eloquent, fluently-worded address, based mainly on the example to the lives of succeeding generations in Canada afforded by the deaths of Wolfe and Montcalm.

In 1827, one hundred years ago, the foundation stone of a monument to these two men was laid at Quebec by Lord Dalhousie, then Governor General of Canada. The old adventurer, Jacques Cartier, sailing up the St. Lawrence towards Quebec, gave the city its name by his exclamation "My God, what a beak!" ("Mon Dieu quelle bec!") when seeing for the first time the jutting promontory that reminded him of a huge nose. And it is at Quebec that these two men are remembered the men who were dissimilar in every way and yet alike in their efforts for Canada.

To the almost miraculous genius of the younger Pitt, Canada owed the inspiration that sent out two men who were pioneers of Empire at a time when 'Little England" was the name aptly bestowed on the then inconsiderable nation. Wolfe came to Canada and Clive went to India and both laid on foreign soils foundation stones of a far-flung empire.

Tribute to French.

To the French people, His Honor paid a tribute, in his reference to their intrepid misionaries and dauntless explorers. Nowhere could more fearless and self-denying heralds of the Cross be found than in these Jesuit fathers who came to a new country to give their lives for the salvation of souls."

The epitaph which commemorates in stone the lives of Wolfe the conqueror and Montcalm the defeated, reads: "Their valor gave them a common death. History gave them a common glory and posterity gives them a common monument."

"These men were alike in their patriotism, their piety their loyalty and their affection. Montcalm was almost 50 years of age and Wolfe was only 30. Montcalm, the aristocrat, was a Catholic an affectionate husband and father and of rugged strength while Wolfe the Protestant was a confirmed invalid, unmarried, but affianced to a girl from whom he parted, as did Montcalm from his family ties, to come to Canada and serve his country in its defence'

Each was alike in his generosity, his magnanimity and his honor. They fought squarely and both met death in the conflict on the plains of Abraham that occurred in 1759 and finally decided the warfare that had been proceeding for some time.

To the recreant conduct of a junior officer who neglected to guard the heights of Quebec, Montcalm owed his defeat at the hands of the British. To his conquering enemy, but convinced of the magnanimity of Wolfe, Montcalm addressed a dying message leaving the French prisoners in the hands of men in whose chivalry he inscribed his trust. While Wolfe died on the field of battle, gladdened by the knowledge that the enemy ran from his men, Montcalm passed away a day later, relieved by the knowledge that he would not live to see the surrender of Quebec.

"As long as Great Britain, France and Canada exist," said His Honor, "these two men will be crowned by the immortelles that have lasted through the ages." He went on to outline his message to a modern audience, in this reference to long ago in a wish that the people of Quebec and Ontario and the rest of English-speaking Canada, might unite to a greater extent.

"A greater outlook is necessary for Canada. The spirit of tolerance that animated Montcalm and Wolfe even in battle, should be active among the English-speaking and French-speaking people of this country to-day. Canada will never be great as long as the spirit of ill-will and jealousy prevails among these two great people. The spirit of tolerance should be abroad in the land, instead of the spirit which animated a speaker in a recent controversy who said: 'Just watch them give blow for blow. Praise God from Whom all blessings flow'."

Kiwanian Charles Saunders paid a tribute to the "eloquent, inspiring address" of Judge Huycke, and went on to voice the appreciation of the Club for the presence of the members of the Bar Association of the city. He also referred to the excellent work done by the ladies in helping on the success of the recent Produced-In-Canada Exhibition.

Report on Fair.

Dr. J. J. Craig, chairman of the General Committee in charge of the recent Exhibition, reported on the financial returns of the week. He said that, measured in money, the totals were not as gratifying as those of the year previous, falling short by about $600. A net profits of about $2,000 was recorded this year, and, from the point of view of general public interest in the Exhibition, it had been a banner year. Enquiries from Canadian manufacturers and from the Canadian National Exhibition had already resulted from the endeavor, its effect on the community had been far-reaching, and a spirit of furthering a more united Canada had been manifested in the presence during the week of demonstrators from Quebec and from Alberta.

President McNabb also repeated the generous tribute paid to the ladies by Kiwanian Saunders, and said that much of the success of the Exhibition was due to their energy and hearty co-operation.

A vocal solo given by Hugh Nevin, entitled "Dream Ships," with an encore, and piano accompaniment by Martin Chenhall, was much enjoyed. Later, during the dancing programme, for which excellent music was furnished by Het Childerhose and his "Bluebirds," a much-applauded recitation, a parody on "Mary's Little Lamb," was given by a guest of the evening, Mrs. A. Bevington of Toronto.

A dance and a bridge party concluded the evening's programme. For the bridge, arrangements were in charge of Kiwanian J. John. Prizes, given by President McNabb, were won by Mrs. J. R. Marshall and Mr. E. Taylor and Mr. and Mrs. A. Moffatt.

Members of the Bar Association present, introduced by Kiwanian J. Wearing, who, with Kiwanian W. F. Huycke, represents the society in the club, were Mr. and Mrs. Basil D. Hall, Mr. and Mrs. J. Ozias de LaPlante and F. D. Kerr, K.C. In connection with Judge Huycke's suggestion of a co-operative speech in Quebec Mr. Wearing suggested Mr. LaPlante as a message-bearer to the French province from the local Club.

Other guests present last night were —His Honor Judge E. C. S. Huycke, speaker of the evening, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Wilson of the West Toronto Kiwanis Club, Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Liddle of Peterborough, formerly of the Kiwanis Club, Lindsay, Rev. and Mrs. Godfrey S. Scovell of Agincourt, Mrs. A. Bevington of Toronto, Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Niven, Mrs. M. McNabb and Miss Gladys Coon of the city, Mrs. D. G. Magee of Ottawa, Mr. Fuller Greenleese of Monteral, Messrs. George H. Griffin and R. L. Adams of the Belleville Kiwanis Club.

W.M.S. SECTION

is unselfish and a child should find a religious atmosphere in the home, where religion is not a sentiment but is lived. A child can be taught the love of sharing through song, exercises, or incidentally. There should be co-operation between the home and Mission Band. The leader must be an enthusiast—a lover of children. Parents can help a band leader by creating an atmosphere in the home that the teaching may be nurtured; by remembering band afternoon and seeing children are there; by realizing the leader is making a sacrifice, therefore aid by their presence at open meetings and by volunteering to help; by having missionary stories in home library; by keeping before the children the idea of world service; by refraining from criticising missions; by encouraging children to become life members; by trying to arouse public interest, and by putting Christ first in the home.

In the discussion, the following points were brought out: In the Mission Band, train the child to give systematically but do not exploit money; the book, "The Honorable Crimson Tree," by Ferris, was recommended for Mission Bands; is it necessary to close for long vacation?

Mrs. W. W. Jones of Warkworth gave a very pithy, interesting resume of the branch meeting at Pembroke. In the branch there are 200,000 members. Seventy-four new units were reported this year. Some claim there is too much organization, but evil is organized. Why not the W.M.S.? she said. The vital question is, "Is our church a praying church?"

Resolutions were passed concerning Sabbath observance, temperance instruction, making Canada Christian, and support of the League of Nations.

The Bay of Quinte Branch was over $37,000 in debt at the close of the year. Its work can only be maintenance. There is no money for extension.

Miss Ketcheson, who had charge of the kindergarten training department for the past four years in West China, gave a very interesting talk on her experiences, life, and work there. She said the work over there depends on the workers here, and made a strong appeal that those present would not forget the Chinese women and children.

Mrs. Ashton gave a short account of the branch executive meeting held in Belleville on Tuesday. Plans are being made for a circulating missionary library; next year there will be no allocation for supplies, it will be included in money allocation, although bales will be acceptable; advises a membership campaign to help reach allocation; the W.M.S. funds are divided as follows: 89½ per cent. to missions, 3½ per cent. to retirement or rest fund, 2 per cent. to administration, 2 per cent. for emergency, ½ per cent. for organization, secretaries, etc.; the new Presbyterials will meet in January and branch meeting in May.

It was carried unanimously that next year this section meet with the southern section instead of separately.

Mrs. (Rev.) Hie of Hastings sang a much appreciated solo.

Mrs. G. W. Hammond of Campbellford conducted the question drawer, which brought forth a number of practical ideas.

Mrs. Hammond made a strong appeal for sacrifice in order that salvation might be met.

The ladies of Hastings served a very dainty lunch to those present. A hearty vote of thanks was extended to the Hastings ladies.

FORMER BRANTFORD POLICEMAN, ETC.

later collapsed. "I knew nothing more till I was arrested" said he.

"Did you ever buy carbolic acid?"—"No."

"Did you know that your wife had any in the house?"—"No."

"Were you ever warned by any officer not to abuse your wife?" asked Mr. Charlton, cross-examining the accused on their cordial relations.—"No."

"Didn't your wife ever complain?"—"Not that I know of."

"What did the officer come to your house here for?"—"To remove a drunken man."

Do you remember your wife having a black eye and a bruised hip?

"Do you remember your wife coming to the police court and complaining?"—"No."

"When you were living in Hamilton didn't your wife run away?" —"Absolutely not."

Witness said he left Toronto at 11 and arrived in Hamilton at 2 p.m.

Claims no Motive.

"It means you will have to lie in jail a long time for trial," said Mr. Heyd. He pointed out also the actions of Duncan in the witness stand were not those of an actor but that his grief was sincere.

"What motive could Duncan have? There was no insurance or anything like that. There was no other woman in the case that he would want to get rid of this woman.

Mr. Heyd declared there was no prima facie case made out. He pointed out that there was no evidence of who purchased the carbolic acid.

"It would be expected that the Crown would have produced some evidence on this," said Mr. Heyd.

Crown Attorney Charlton suggested "that when the proper time comes we may find the domestic ties were not so friendly."

"Would not this woman have suffered the torments of hell after taking carbolic acid?" asked Mr. Charlton.

Mr. Heyd objected to the supposing of what the woman must have suffered.

"She must have suffered and struggled," said the Crown who pointed out the woman got out of the car twice.

"He could have driven for help to a neighbor's or gone to the nearest doctor," said he.

"It's the most suspicious case ever before any court."

"The woman left Hamilton in good health and arrived at Mrs. Summerhayers' dead," said the Magistrate. "The examination showed death due to carbolic acid."

"If I were sitting on a jury I would hesitate about finding him guilty but isn't there enough to put him on trial when there can be further investigation. I am going to take the serious responsibility of committing him for trial."

Listed Stocks Quiet; Losses Are General

TORONTO, Oct. 22 (Canadian Press)—The listed stocks particularly showed little activity on a very quiet market during the short session this morning on the Toronto Stock Exchange. The losses were general, though not large. International Nickel, losing ⅛ at 66, and Walkers easing a full point at 59 after opening at 60½, were the leaders. British American Oil was off ⅛ at 32⅜, and Imperial Oil at 60 lost 1⅛, Northern Bakeries at 41¾ and Gooderham and Worts at 58¾ each were down 1¾. Bank stocks held firm.

Wheat Stronger To-day On News From Abroad

CHICAGO, Oct. 22 (Canadian Press).—With Liverpool quotations today relatively firm, the wheat market here displayed considerable steadiness in early dealings. Indications of liberal export business in flour had some bullish effect and so likewise did an upward trend in corn. Opening at ⅝c decline to ¼c advance wheat kept near to yesterday's finish. Corn started unchanged to ⅝c higher and subsequently showed gains all around. Oats were firmer. Provisions slanted downward. Opening prices were: Wheat, December 123½, March 126¼. Corn, December 83⅜, March 86⅞. Oats, December 45½, March 47½.

LADIES TOLD

held by brass rests, are books representing the different regiments, engraven with names of the men in each. The women who helped in the war are commemorated in various windows and panels depicting their activities in detail, with "Charity" and "Sympathy" as symbolical figures. Various inscriptions were read by the speaker, who went on to describe minutely the wonderful ceremonial attendant upon the dedication itself, when the Prince of Wales, present for the occasion, took a second place to the men who carried the ancient Scottish colors, and when Sir Douglas Haig was of no more consequence than the women marching to commemorate their men, killed in battle. All the colonels of the many Scottish regiments presented in turn to the Prince of Wales, who deposited them in the casket, small rolls bearing the names of their men, and the entire assemblage of one hundred thousand people, standing four hours for the ceremony, which was relayed to them by amplifiers from the main section, joined spontaneously in the singing of "The Flowers of the Forest."

On the casket, inscribed plainly on the back with the words: "From the King and Queen," appears on the front surface the inscription: "Their name liveth," while inside one reads "The souls of the righteous are in the hand of God and there shall no evil happen to them."

An appreciation of the very fine address and of the splendid program of music which accompanied it, was voiced by Mrs. R. Gliddon, acting as chairman for the president, Mrs. J. Forbes Allan, absent from the city.

The vocal program rendered by the three artists was very pleasing, and received in each instance much enthusiastic applause from the audience.

Mrs. G. F. Liddle sang three numbers: "Cherry Ripe," "Drink to Me Only With Thine Eyes," and "The Lass with the Delicate Air."

Mr. Douglas Carlisle, whose resonant baritone was thrilling, sang: "My Love is Like a Red, Red Rose," "Charlie is My Darling," and "Blue Bonnets Over the Border." Mr. M. H. Parks three numbers were: "Flowers of the Forest," "Will Ye No Come Back Again," and "Draw the Sword, Scotland."

Mrs. Gliddon also referred to the recent loss by death of Mr. W. H. Hill, and the members stood in silent sympathy for the bereaved family.

VISITORS TELLS

her about at all moments and plagued her with questions like "How many pancakes did you eat for breakfast?"

The Queen was amused in British Columbia by the utterance of a Canadian lady, who told her she often ran "up to town to do some shopping," the Queen saying that the "town" referred to afterwards turned out to be London, England, and making her think the Canadians were more British than the British.

Of the little five-year-old King Michael, Madame Pantazzi told some amusing incidents. When taking tea with his mother, the Princess Helene, he told her on one occasion that he had that day seen "the most beautiful thing in the world," a toy yellow balloon. One of his most treasured possessions, among bits of china and glass such as all children save, is a pair of old curling-irons with which he tries to curl his mother's hair, and he likes to throw biscuits on the floor for his dog to eat.

Madame Pantazzi spoke of the odd "a" of the Roumanian language, with its guttural throat sound, of the curious clinging to the old Roman practice of placing the article at the end of the word, as instanced in the French usage of "the man," in "l'homme," which would be made "homme'l" in the Roumanian, and of the survival in the country of the ancient Dacian blood and of the blood of the conquering Romans who ruled the land in A.D. 101.

An instance of the Roumanian peasants' dislike of too much education was given in the reference to a projected school on her husband's country estate, where the land was given for the purpose and the peasants were to do the "arm work" or labor. They would lie under the trees in the orchard, and grumble over the foolishness of building a school, and later, when it was finally erected, the rural schoolmaster taught his pupils only half an hour daily, and made them work in his own truck garden during the remaining portion of the school day.

SAINT and SINNER

At one o'clock Faith Hathaway lay rigid and wide-eyed in her bed, wondering, with an intensity of anxiety that made waves of nausea pour over her body, if Bob would come home at all that night. She lived again and again that dreadful scene which had followed Cherry's insane exhibition of hatred and jealousy. Could she ever again desire the touch of Bob's lips upon her own, after having seen them fasten savagely upon Cherry's parted, quivering mouth? Could she ever look into his eyes again without remembering the terrible wedding of hate and love in them with which he had started at Cherry before flinging her violently from him and stumbling blindly out of the house? Could he ever forget that two other people besides Cherry had witnessed the shame, the degradation of that primitive exhibition? Grief for him almost burst her heart, crowding jealousy out of it for the moment. Poor Bob! What torment he must have endured for months, with Cherry—his sister-in-law now!—always within reach and yet as inaccessible to a man of honor as if she lived in China! He had kissed her as if he would have liked to drink poison from her lips, so that he should never feel pain and desire and shame again. Or, poor Bob!

The rest of it was not quite clear. Of course it had been George who had brought decency and normality into the situation. Dear George! If she could only have loved him, how safe her life would have been! He, at least, had never loved Cherry! He would have been one possession of hers untainted by the Cherry blight. But she could not love him, could not even feel for him the purely physical attraction which Bruce Patton had so fiendishly, so effortlessly, so gloatingly excited.

Of course Bob had been angry, disgusted, as ripe for taking revenge upon her as Cherry had been. She tried to draw a bleak comfort here, to convince herself that Bob's amazing actions had been the result of furious jealousy and disgust with her, his hitherto impeccable wife. But she remembered again the savage hunger of his lips upon Cherry's crushed mouth, the naked conflict of hatred and love in his eyes—

She forced herself to veer away from that picture to gratitude to George for his divine decency and kindliness in handling the situation. He had pretended to remember an after-dinner engagement, had, with casual courtesy offered to give Bruce Patton a lift. Within five minutes after Bob's ignominious retreat from an unbearable situation, the house was clear of guests.

Faith asked herself for the hundredth time, with dull wonder, why she could not hate Cherry. But only a painful swell of pity in her breast answered her. Cherry could not help it—any of these dreadful things she did: Cherry could not change, would always wreck havoc in every life that she touched intimately. But she, Faith, would always love her, unreasoningly, adoringly, as a mother loves even the child who grows up to be a murderer. But whom did Cherry love? Bob? Bruce Patton? If she loved Bob, why should her jealousy of Bruce Patton's flirting with Faith drive her to an insane exhibition? And if she loved Bruce, why couldn't she be content to let Bob go, to let Bob recover from the dreadful sickness of his infatuation for her?

The front door opened, closed, the sound magnified by the stillness of the house.

Varsity Leads in Intercollegiate Track Meet

VARSITY MAN SETS RECORD JAVELIN THROW

Blue and White Walk Away With the Athletic Championship.

FAST TIMES MADE.

McGill Put Up Strong Opposition Against Team Work of Toronto.

KINGSTON, October 22 (Canadian Press).—Varsity's track team walked away with the championship in the intercollegiate track meet at the Richardson Stadium yesterday afternoon, with 74 points, having a clear margin of twenty-seven points over McGill, with Queen's bringing up a poor rear with five points. Consistent, and at times spectacular work by the Blue and White athletes gave them the decided edge for only one event remains to be contested, that being the intercollegiate relay race, which will be staged during half time of the Varsity-Queen's game here to-day.

There was no question as to the superiority of the Blue and White after the first event, which was won by McGill. In fact it remained for McTaggart of Varsity to establish a new intercollegiate record for the javelin throw. The Toronto man hurled the javelin a distance of 168 feet 5 inches, more than twenty feet further than the previous record which was made by M. Gaboury of McGill in 1924.

For the most part McGill put up stubborn opposition, but the great team work of the Varsity athletes was too much for them. In nine events Varsity came home in first place, while McGill had four such winners. The best Queen's could do was to take second place in the shot put, and third in the half-mile and the mile runs.

Apart from McTaggart's record-breaking throw, no intercollegiate record was approached. Christie of Varsity came within two seconds of equalling the record for the 440-yard dash and Fitzpatrick of Varsity only missed equalling the 220-yard record by less than a second.

Fitzpatrick and Mitchell of Varsity were the only athletes to get ten points each. Fitzpatrick won the 100-yard dash easily, though he failed to equal his own record made in the inter-faculty meet at Toronto, and made the distance yesterday in ten seconds flat, and he also came home in front in the 220-yard dash, while Mitchell won both the half-mile and the mile.

Apart from the javelin throw, the most spectacular event of the meet was the three-mile race. Half-way round on the last lap, Baldwin of Varsity, in third place, was considerably ahead of Bobby Thompson of Queen's when the latter put on a sensational spurt, and came tearing around the track like a race horse, but when he got within fifteen yards of Baldwin, he almost collapsed, and it was with great difficulty that he staggered over the finishing mark.

Queen's poor showing was exceedingly disappointing to the supporters of the tri-color. Bobby Thompson, former intercollegiate champion, was expected to win many points for the college, but the best he could do was to gain two single counters.

Varsity worked well all through the event and certainly deserved their victory. In Fitzpatrick, Mitchell and Christie, they displayed three of the greatest runners Queen's have seen in years.

JACK WRIGHT IN OPEN GOLF

First Day's Play Results in a Tie of 36 Holes at 146.

INDIAN SPRING CLUB.

MONTREAL, Que., Oct. 22.—(Canadian Press.)— Jack Wright, Canadian tennis champion, will defend his intercollegiate title here to-day, when he meets Gilbert Nunns, of the University of Toronto, Canadian Davis Cup player, in the final.

Wright advanced to the final by defeating Donald Gunn, Varsity, in straight sets, while Gilbert Nunns had one of the tightest matches he has ever had with Brian Doherty, of Osgoode Hall, before he qualified to meet Wright.

The showing of the McGill champion, who is also the Canadian and Intercollegiate titleholder, was outstanding in a day of exciting tennis, which left the Varsity team in an uncounquerable position at the top of the ladder with only one more day to play. Varsity have scored ten points as against five by their nearest rivals, and no matter what happens now they will carry back with them to Toronto the Canadian intercollegiate title.

Four teams remain in the doubles event, the semi-finals of which will also be played to-day. Nunns and Martin, the hard-hitting Varsity pair, will oppose Tom Brown and Connolly, of Queen's, in the lower bracket; while Wright and McInerney, McGill, meet Valois and Couvrette, of the University of Montreal. The finals will be played immediately after the singles final.

The point score at the end of the day stood: Varsity, 10; University of Montreal, 5; Osgoode Hall, 5; McGill, 4; R.M.C., 2; Queen's 1.

Results:

Singles, Quarter Finals—

Jack Wright, McGill, beat M. Martin, Varsity, 6-2, 6-4.

D. D. Gunn, Varsity, beat A. Valois, U. of M., 7-5, 3-6, 6-0.

B. Doherty, Osgoode Hall, beat B. Couvrette, U. of M., 6-4, 6-0.

G. Nunns, Varsity, beat J. Thompson, Osgoode Hall, 6-1, 6-4.

Semi-Finals—

Jack Wright, McGill, beat D. D. Gunn, Varsity, 6-4, 6-3.

G. Nunns, Varsity, beat D. Doherty, Osgoode Hall, 3-6, 6-2, 7-5.

Doubles, Quarter Finals—

Brown and Connolly, Queen's, beat Gelimas and Laplante, U. of M., 6-2, 6-3.

Nunns and Martin, Varsity, beat Doherty and Thompson, Osgoode Hall, 6-3, 6-4.

Valdis and Couvrette, U. of M., beat Cushing and McAvity, R.M.C., 6-2, 9-7.

Wright and McInerney, McGill, beat Gunn and Beath, Varsity, 6-3, 6-4.

Inside Sportin Dope

By A Wise Cracker

Mister Sporting Editor:

Well, Mac, I hinted last week Peterboro's sr. hockey team looked to be on the blink, but she's going to carry on. With Mister Dwyer, Mister McLeod and Mister Ranger deciding to do their stuff in 'Kansas City, the chances of the Petes winning in the sr. race certainly wasn't improved, but the way she looks now the burg is going to be represented in the top class with a good outfit. They is enough material also for a fighting intermediate team, and we gotta try and develop a winning jr. combination, two.

From now on we might as well figger that the Ontario cities and towns is just running a training school for the pro. circuits. It ain't exactly a pleasant thought, but we gotta get used to it and get all the fun we can outa the game, knowing that as soon as a kid begins to show he knows his onions some scout from 1 of the cash-and-carry circuits is going to toss a contract in fronta him and tell him to sign on the dotted line.

It may not last, Mac, but right now a bird what can hit the top corner of the net with a drive from the boards is worth more on the hoof than a guy with a whole alphabet of degrees after his name. The way to teach the young idea how to shoot is to show them how to beat the goalie. A kid with an educated pair of skates and a few ideas about how the game is played is libel to graduate into the big money class any time the way the hockey market is now.

But while we're waiting for the hockey season, Mac, we oughta remember we gotta some rugby to look forward to. The Petes has a game next Sat. with Penetang here, and they deserve a lotta support for keeping the game alive.

By the way, Mister Sporting Editor, did you notice "barnyard golf" is getting a big place on the Winter Fair programme? They's a lotta people round this part Ontario that think they is the kitten's foundation garments when it comes to tossing horse shoes, and it looks to me, Mac, like as if this Winter Fair contest is going to be a showdown for some of them birds. If they're as good as they sez they is they oughta to grab themselves some of the prizes. Come on, boys, get into the game and bring back the bacon to Peterborough, sez I. Barn-yard golf is a major game and about the only sport where ringers is not barred.

It's too bad, Mac, in a way that the cyclone season'll be over before the Peterboro gang hits Kansas City. A lotta folks would kinda like to see Mister Dwyer in an argument with 1 of them Missouri wind-storms, and they's plenty of local money to say that Mister Dwyer could win in the 1st round and not need any Chicago count neither. Anyway, here's betting the same Mister Dwyer with his old baseball mit is going to make them American Hockey League fans sit up and take notice. They ain't many of them got much on the Sorrel Top, as I call him.

Well, Mister Sporting Editor, the customers will pardon me if I bring this here epistle to a close, seeing that they ain't much in the sport line right now to tell them about.

Sportfully yours,
A. WISE CRACKER.

Uncle Wiggily

To-day's Bedtime Story

By HOWARD R. GARIS

UNCLE WIGGILY AND LONG LEGS.
(Copyright, 1927, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

Bully No Tail, the green frog boy, hopped up the front steps of Uncle Wiggily's hollow stump bungalow so fast, one morning that he bumped his nose against the door.

"Ger ump er ow!" croaked Bully.

"What's the matter?" asked the rabbit gentleman, who was just getting ready to go adventuring. "What is your hurry, Bully?"

"Oh, Uncle Wiggily!" gasped the frog boy shaking a few drops of water off his left hind leg for he had come from the duck pond in a rush. "Oh, Uncle Wiggily, something dreadful has happened. Long Legs has come and is going to catch all of us!"

"Long Legs!" exclaimed the bunny gentleman.

"Yes, Long Legs!" croaked Bawly, who was Bully's green brother, and Bawly came hopping along in as much of a hurry as Bully had been. "I saw him—he nearly stabbed me with his sharp beak! Oh, it's terrible!" cried Bawly.

"What is it all about?" asked the bunny uncle, for he could see that the frog boys were much excited. "Who is Long Legs?"

"He is a big bird, with blue feathers, a long sharp beak and long legs!" croaked Bully. "Long Legs wades in our pond and whenever he sees my brother or me he tries to grab us in his beak and eat us. It was only by diving and swimming fast that I got away from him."

"That's what happened to me!" croaked Bawley. "Will you please come and make Long Legs go away, Uncle Wiggily?"

"I'll see what I can do to help you," promised the rabbit. "I have some idea of who this big bird is, but I'll make sure."

On the way to the duck pond where the frog boys lived, Uncle Wiggily, Bully and Bawly met Mrs. Hop, the toad lady jumping along in the grass.

"Oh, Uncle Wiggily!" she croaked when she saw him. "Long Legs has come and I'm afraid he'll eat all my little hop toad children. Will you help drive the big bird away?"

"I'll do my best," promised Mr. Longears. And when he and the frog boys and the hop toad lady reached the edge of the pond they found, huddled together in a quiet little cove, shaded by willow trees, a lot of tiny gold fish.

"Long Legs has come!" whispered the fish when they saw their friend Uncle Wiggily. "If we swim out in the open water he will stab us with his big beak."

Just then Bully croaked: "Look!"

Wading in the shallow water of the pond, Uncle Wiggily saw a large bird, with bluish feathers, marked here and there with black, and wearing a crest of black feathers on his head. The bird had long legs and a long, sharp bill.

"Ah, I know him!" whispered the rabbit. "Well is he called Long Legs, but his right name is Blue Heron."

"He makes me feel blue," sighed Mrs. Hop, the toad lady.

And, as they watched, the Blue Heron darted his beak into the water and brought up a little green frog, which he at once swallowed.

"There goes Jimpy Croaker!" sadly said Bully. "He used to play with us."

"And now Long Legs has him!" croaked Bawly. "Oh, dear!"

"Can't you do something, Uncle Wiggily!" whispered a fish.

Just then the Blue Heron again darted his long beak into the water after wading along a little farther. This time he brought up a wiggling fish which went down his throat.

"There goes Tillie Tail," sighed some of her playmates.

"It will be our turn next!" croaked Bully. "What can we do to make Long Legs go away?"

"It will not be easy," said Uncle Wiggily. "The Blue Heron is fond of catching frogs, toads, mice and other small animals. But perhaps I can play a trick on him!"

"Oh, hope you can!" croaked Bawly. "What kind of a trick?"

"That remains to be seen," whispered the rabbit. "All of you keep well hidden from Long Legs until I think of what I can do to make him go away."

The bunny gentleman began to think very hard and what happened I shall tell you in the next story, which will be called Uncle Wiggily and the funny frog. But, of course, if the cheese jumps out of the dish of macaroni and leaves it alone for the gas stove to tickle, I can't make any story. Though perhaps that won't happen. Let us hope so.

THEATRES

AT THE GRAND

The general opinion seems to prevail throughout the country that Captain Plunkett's latest Dumbells' Revue, "Oo, La, La!" is the greatest entertainment ever offered by this splendid organization.

As the Dumbells are booked to present this revue at the Grand Theatre for Friday and Saturday, October 28 and 29, we are reprinting in its entirety, the review of the show that appeared in the Buffalo Courier on September 27th, while The Dumbells were playing there.

Mr. E. S. Martin, the distinguished critic of the Courier said:

"Dumbells that are joybells—harbingers of good times, clean fun and at all times side-splitting entertainment, are back in Buffalo at the Shubert-Teck theater in O-O, La, La! a great revue that has more absolute and universal talent in it than any other production of its ilk that hase come here in some time.

O-O, La, La! is a revue—a giant revue, with a series of sketches, subsketches, vaudeville turns and playlets—all of them new, out of the ordinary, sometimes sensational and always surprising.

It brings to Buffalo favorites who were known and loved during the war surrounded by brand new songs, individual stars in O-O, La, La! halt the performance for a series of encores and each act merits enthusiastic applause.

Ross Hamilton "Marjorie" probably is the best female impersonator who ever came to Buffalo, with a soprano voice that is golden and a face that would put many a Lorelei to shame. Fred Emmey, he of the English voice and rollicking retorts, is featured throughout the show, always good, always acclaimed and revealing a host of unstudied personity and a fund of original humor. Red Newman brings down the house with a cockney soldier act that is a really remarkable character sketch and enhanced with an excellent tune, well sung, Oh, It's a Lovely War!

Harry Binns is one of the best things in the show, with a tenor voice that fills the house and enables him to put over two sentimental songs in great fashion. Al Plunkett also makes a hit with an individual, inimitable way of crooning melodies that, combined with a pair of sparkling eyes, bring him back time and again. Jack McClellan, country character and comedian; Glenn Allan, superb classic dancer; Captain Plunkett himself; Howard Fogg and his violin and the quartet singing Russian Lullaby are only a few of the outstanding hits in the show.

O-O, La, La! is an all male show very different and well worth seeing. It begins with a touch of sadness and present in turn all the elements of a good revue in diverting and pleasing fashion."

MENJOU A MERRY PANTRY MONARCH

New Farce "Service For Ladies" Presents Star as Maitre d'Hotel.

Coming to the Capitol Theatre next Monday for a three-day engagement is Adolphe Menjou's latest Paramount comedy-drama "Service for Ladies."

In this production, the sophisticated Menjou of "Sorrows of Satan" departs from the philandering roles that has characterized much of his work in the past. In his place is a serious, earnest Menjou, who, in the character of Europe's most celebrated head waiter, loves an American heiress.

Behind the scenes in an exclusive Paris hotel and winter sports in the Swiss Alps constitute the settings. We see intimate glimpses of the hotel and restaurant profession, glimpses that by their faithfulness and sympathetic under standing have won for Menjou the distinction of being the only motion picture star to be awarded an honorary membership in the International Geneva Association, an organization composed of leaders in the hotel and restaurant fraternity.

In the scenes laid in the Swiss Alps, Menjou appears in a guise different from previous characterizations. Temporarily the evening clothes of former roles are replaced by sports wear. Menjou is seen as a skater of unusual ability in one of the most brilliant ice carnival sequences ever filmed.

Others who appear in the cast are Lawrence Grant, Charles Lane, Sally Blane, Marian Ivy Harris and Lotus Thompson.

AT THE REGENT.

CONRAD NAGEL IN COMEDY ROLE.

After seeing Conrad Nagel in those Glyn pictures, I thought there was no one on the screen who could make love like him, but I do think he is just as good a comedian since I saw him in "Tin Hats," the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer production coming to the Regent next Monday That boy is proving to be one of the best truopers in the business. I don't know what he can't do.

Claire Windsor plays the beautiful Elsa Von Bergen in this Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer picture. I suppose Claire must get tired of being told she is the most beautiful woman on earth, though I'm sure I wouldn't. It does seem that she gets lovelier with each picture

The other two boys are played by Bert Roach and George Cooper, as capable a pair as ever swore at a top sergeant. You simply must see these two as the B-r-r-ave soldiers trying to explore a haunted castle. Anyhow, the whole picture is a riot.

I am told that Edward Sedgwick, the director, wrote the story. Be sure to see it if you want a real laugh.

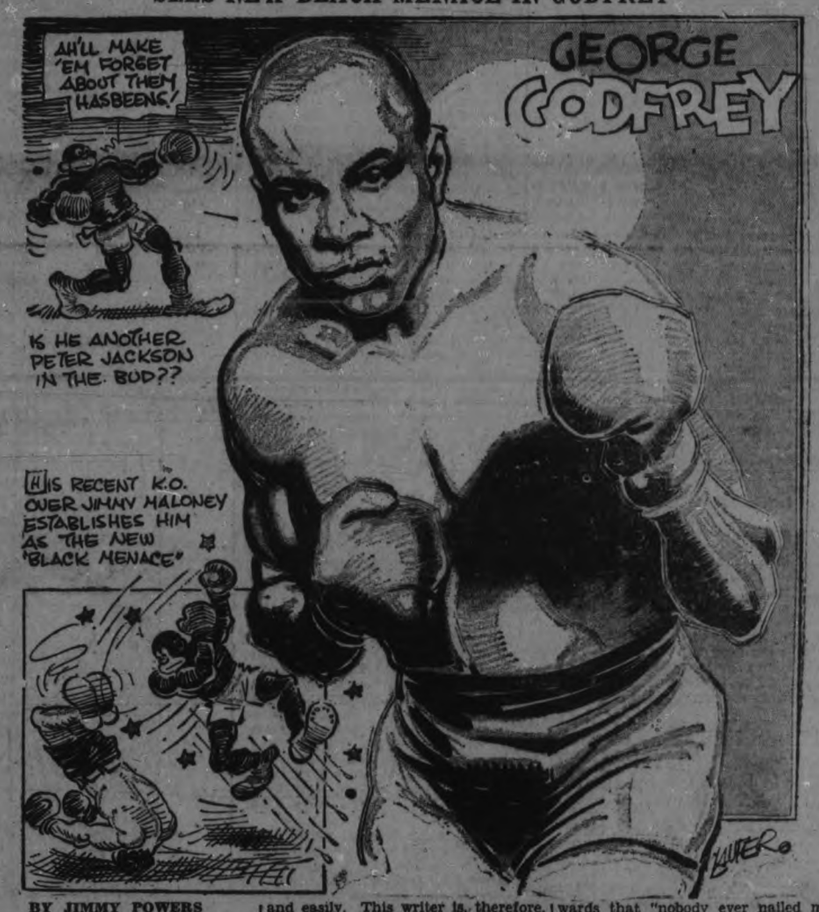
SEES NEW BLACK MENACE IN GODFREY



BY JIMMY POWERS

NEW YORK, Oct. 22.—Picture a man, a huge bulk of a man with skin like cocoa that has had an extra dash of cream added, a chest as round as a keg of beer, and a head, a head like an egg—a chocolate Easter egg.

That man is George Godfrey.

He is a quiet voiced, merry gentleman with a rollicking disposition, a wide ivory smile, utterly unlike anything resembling a "black menace."

To-day he is a potential box office attraction. He is the self-styled colored heavyweight champion of the world. He is a successor to that gallant lineage, Peter Jackson, Sam Langford, Joe Walcott, Joe Jeannette, Jack Johnson and Harry Wills.

Few know that George Godfrey is NOT George Godfrey. Neither is he three Hawaiians.

"My real name is Feab, sir—Feab Sylvester Williams."

Somehow you can judge a man easier listening to him talk. Feab Sylvester Williams you gather after a conversation, is no mug. He is well mannered and dangerously intelligent.

Now, in this Tunesque era, this writer has always contended that brains and boxing are dull combinations. This writer likes his fighters in the raw. He likes men who can catch and throw punches with equal alacrity and who bleed nice and easily. This writer is, therefore, against intelligence in all and any form, and wishes George Godfrey would not be so painstaking in his choice of words, selection of proper utensils at dinner and customer of the conservative tailor he all so evidently patronizes.

"I was born in Mobile, Ala., sir. A fine country, sir. A great city. I was born on Jan. 25, 1901 and my mammy says I was the biggest baby she ever did see, so I guess it was just natural that I turned to boxing for a living.

"I began my career in 1919 when I knocked out Eddie Jamieson in one round. I had four contests in 1922 and won all of them, four by knockouts. In 1923 I knocked out Bill Tate in eight, Battling Jones in six and K.O. Godan in two.

"Then I led with my chin against Jack Renault", he grinned widely, "and was clipped in the 11th round."

In the next three years he flattened Fred Fulton, Tut Jackson, avenged a defeat by Renault in eight rounds, outpointed Marty Burke twice and took Sully Montgomery, Tiny Herman and Boby Lawson.

"My favorite punch, sir, is a left hook. I stands like this, shift one step and wham—let's 'em have it in the belly!"

Jack Sharkey earned a close decision over the favorite punch one night up in Boston, but said afterwards that "nobody ever nailed me as hard as this guy Godfrey", which is no faint praise if you know your Sharkey.

Godfrey is inclined "to fatten like a hog", as Manager Jimmy Dougherty, quaintly termed the Baron of Leiperville, complains. His best scaling is 220 and he is six feet one inch. That makes him look like a mountainous chocolate sundae.

Every time Godfrey gets in a ring someone asks to know when the balloon is going up. The last two times the only thing to go up were the pantaloons of the opposition. They described a complete parabola and plopped on the canvas with great eclat still enclosing the customary portion of the anatory that ordinarily belonged on the corner stool.

He knocked Monte Munn, former Nebraska football star, for a field goal in the fourth, and pasted Jim Maloney's chin while the opening gong echoes were still ringing.

This writer hears conflicting reports about Mr. Godfrey. Some experts contend he is the coming champion.

Others maintain the two gentlemen he knocked down had hinges for knees anyway and that Mr. Godfrey would probably be doing the right thing by himself if he gave up boxing and took in washing.

Time, my dear classmates, alone will tell.

What Every Girl Should Know

by GISA PRUCHONE.

Copyright, 1927, Warner Bros. Pictures, Inc.

"WHAT EVERY GIRL SHOULD KNOW," with Patsy Ruth Miller, is a Warner Bros. picturization of this novel.

SYNOPSIS

Mary "Elaine" Sullivan—slender, beautiful, red-headed—is an orphan. Wally Mason, a young reporter, loves Mary. But she disbelieves in love. Mary keeps house for her brothers, David and Bobby. David, the family support, hopes Mary will get safely married. David is sentenced to prison for an auto fatality. The Charity Department takes Bobby. Wally proposes; Mary goes to New York, and gets a cloakroom job in a notorious night club. Babs, a young dancer, loves Bennie, the manager and star. Bennie makes eyes at Mary.

CHAPTER VIII—Continued

It was during the jass version of the Pocahontas dance that pandemonium swung down upon the sultry little WHITE APE, seeming to leap from the shadows couched heavily in the ceiling, springing forth from the obscurity of vague corners where the throb of the lights did not reach. There were screams and curses and the mad scrambles of escape toward the thickly draped windows, futile efforts from the scenes of which the hot-eyed youths were carried back by strong grasps on their coat collars, looking like so many helpless kittens, paws beating feebly in the air. Mary saw Bennie sliding past the little cage, hoping to escape through the kitchen, but thwarted by a blue uniform that threw him back into the room. The girl who had been kissed a few moments before now fainted, and her escort let her lie while he tried thrusting greenbills into the thick hand that clutched at his collar. The greenbacks were thrust aside, however, and fluttered to the floor where they were stepped upon and trampled beneath the scurry of feet.

The trip of Mary's heart. It seemed to emulate the music that had risen and fallen with such provocativeness but a minute before. Now the gleaming instruments were silent, being held between the knees and on the laps of the negro players, most of them quite calm, watching the scene before them with a wide splash of white teeth. Her heart tripped and fell and raced again, seeming to leap up to pulse in her cheeks, then sinking down until she couldn't breathe. What was it? What was happening, and why was she here? In particular, why was she here? In a panic, she slipped beneath the overlapping board of the cage, and was brought up firmly against it by a huge hand that caught at her. "No you don't."

"I—I—" she wrenched her shoulder from his grasp, that of another uniform, and flew. Directly in her path stood Bennie, hands manacled by a thin band of silver. "Take her," he snarled to the pursuing officer. He brooded. "Darn funny that this raid should be pulled off on your first day here. Darn funny." The lids of his eyes had grown even heavier with the load of hatred, and Mary wondered that the soft red lips had ever mouthed "kitten" at her.

She flung up her head. "You don't think I'm the cause of this, do you? Why—I—why" how to explain to him that not only the cause of the commotion, but the fracas itself was clouded with meaning for her? A raid? She had heard of raids, but why? Why the WHITE APE? What was it, and why was she here? And now what would happen?

Order had been managed somehow. With the butts of revolvers and strong fists, and numerous trippings of running feet, and now the guests were being searched. Soft quick taps from the shoulders down. Whisky flasks confiscated. Bottles crashed open to reveal the amber of the forbidden fluid.

"Got enough on you to send you up for life!" That to Beanie from the officer to whom he was manacled.

"I'm not the owner of this place," Bennie. "You haven't got a thing on me, brother!"

"Come on now—all of you." There was one who seemed to direct things. "Close this place up. We'll get you yet, and don't forget it," that to Bennie. "Come on—get on—get on there!"

Bennie and Babs, little Babs in the absurdity of the Indian trappings, and the remainder of the artists, frightened, wilted, with the red of their lips and cheeks standing out oddly against the fear in their eyes. "You too," to Mary, and she was being thrust into the group, thrust by none too gentle a hand laid on between her shoulder blades. The trapped look in her eyes, the bewilderment, the fear of these proceedings. "—I"—she lifted a piteous face from which the roundness of youth seemed to have departed. Couldn't she explain? What—why—she was Mary Sullivan of Garden City, Little Mary Sullivan whom Mrs. Tomlinson so loved, and Wally. Mary who was here for Robert's sake, so that more of the beautiful fifty-cent pieces might tinkle in those firm tanned hands. This couldn't be happening to her. It probably wasn't she. Is it possible to leap into another's body and personality, still with the trappings that were one's own, such as hair, and eyes, and the familiar feel of one?

The black hearse-like carriage that was backed up against the pavement, and the crowd, peering curiously. Surrounded by police, jostled and pushed, they stumbled up the stairs and into the patrol-wagon. Oh—oh—the shame of it! The mocking jeering shame of it! The taunts of the crowd, the whistles and winks and ribald comments! Huddled up beside Babs and one of the weeping girls, she hid her face in her hands, and endeavored to blot out what was happening.

It is difficult to blot out the solidity of the present, however. When once it has taken on the vagueness of the past, shrouded in dimness and fog, the very haze of it can be blown apart and into the mind's most obscure recesses where time will gradually make of it nothing. But the solidity of the present, the painful actuality of the moment that stops with you before going on—if ever it does go on—that moment remains with you during your life.

CHAPTER IX

The immediate events following the night of her introduction into a police court were a part of her life which Mary longed to thrust away into an obscurity which would grow dimmer with the past. It was difficult finding a place in which to lay away the occurrences of those weeks, however. It was like finding a resting place for cactus near a tender skin. Did she think the events forgotten and relegated to the dunghill in which they belonged, away from the beauty that was Mary, the wave of a backward thought wafted above the cactus would bring pain. The bristle of the cactus that pierced her thoughts and mind, and tore it to shreds. Mary never again felt the completeness of her individuality as being something perfect in its unity. There was ever present the knowledge that part of herself remained in the police court, cowering in abjectness, covered with shame.

Recollection of the experience carried terror with it. The huddled group before the judge, a stricken little group, with Bennie and Babs—little Babs in Pocahontas disarray with the red feather awry—Bennie and Babs sullen, defiant, the others cowed by the stern habiliments of the law—Mary preferred not to think of it, but as a murderer is drawn back to the scene of his crime, so did she revert to the police court on that one night that refused to leave her thoughts free.

They were all given calls for the night, to await justice in the morning. They didn't sleep—how, thought Mary, could one sleep with the knowledge of what was ahead? Babs prophesied heavy fines, but no more, and refused to be worried. The others wept. Strange white-faced children, far removed from the cockiness and surety that was theirs earlier in the night. Defenceless without the aid of their lip rouge and powder, somehow. Younger, more tender, more open to pain.

They were herded before the judge the next morning, Babs covered in a dress of the matron's, a heavy grey garment that swept the floor at her feet, and which she wore with a jauntiness that brought weak giggles from her companions. The judge sternly reproved the levity. The case was opened. Bennie, as part owner of the WHITE APE, was fined heavily, a ruling which brought forth a wink from Babs. The girls were reprimanded and forbidden to return to their jobs or any others like them.

PETES SENIORS WILL CARRY ON THIS SEASON

Decide To Remain in Higher Class Despite Loss of Players.

MUCH MATERIAL.

Petes Will Be Strong Enough To Give Them All a Battle.

Despite the loss of Dwyer, McLeod and Ranger, the Peterborough Senior Hockey Club has decided to "carry on" and the Petes will again be found in the Senior series of the Ontario Hockey Association.

The feeling among officers and players is that it would be a backward step to drop out of the Senior ranks, and there is hope of a team that will give them all a battle despite the loss of valuable material. Jack Lebarr is available for the goal job and Parker and Rose for defence, while among the forwards ready for the call to action will be Kenny Kane, Frankie Collins and McFee, while it is hoped that a reconsideration of his case will leave "Shrimp" McDougall also in line. Several new players are counted upon and all local puck chasers will be given a chance to make the team.

The decision to remain in the Senior ranks will be popular. The Petes have given this city a lot of sporting prestige since their promotion to the highest series and to drop out now would mean the loss of some of it.

Star of The Dumbells in "Oo, La, La," coming to the Grand, October 26-29.

Capital City Gives Pro League Dates

OTTAWA, Ont., Oct. 22.—The Ottawa Hockey Club has transferred two of its games in the approaching National League season which were scheduled to be played on home ice, to the new Detroit ice palace, home of the Detroit Tigers. Believing that the 22 games scheduled to be fought out in the capital might be more than local fans could support, officers of the Ottawa Club concluded arrangements with the Detroit Club for the transfer of date on which the Tigers were scheduled to invade the home ice of the world champion senators. Only 20 games will be played here under the arrangement, the Senators going to Detroit on December 31 and March 10, the dates on which the Tigers were scheduled to come here.

PLAYERS TIED.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22 (Canadian Press).—A former national open champion, who won the title nearly twenty years ago, Fred McLeod, of the Columbia Country Club of Washington, tied with Glen Spencer, long hitting professional of the Green Spring Valley Hunt Club of Baltimore, for the lead in the first day's play in the Middle Atlantic open golf championship at the Indian Spring Club yesterday.

McLeod and Spencer tied for first place over the first 36 holes of the 72-hole event at 146, four over par for the course.

Four strokes back of the leaders came Tommy Armour of Washington, national and Canadian open champion, tied at 150 with Craig Wood of Baltusrol, N.J., and R. Cliff McKimmie, unattached professional, of Washington. Leo Diegel of Fenimore, N.Y., defending his title, finished in a tie for ninth place at 154.

COMING — DONALD HEINS VIOLIN SOLOIST.

Lovers of good music should not fail to hear Donald Heins, the famous violinist, who will appear at the Conservatory of Music Hall, Wednesday, October 26th, at 8 o'clock. Read what the Chicago Herald says of this talented soloist:

"Donald Heins, well-known violinist-composer, recently appeared as soloist with the Chicago Symphony. His own composition, Concertino in D Major, was included in the programme."

Herbert Sanders, of the Ottawa Journal, says: "Donald Heins is not merely a technician; he is far more, he is a musician plus a personality." 1d-96-3106

GET YOUR HALLOWE'EN COSTUME READY

Make Hallowe'en This Year the Biggest Event of the Season.

It is not too early to start designing your costume for Hallowe'en.

The committee of citizens in charge of The Examiner Hallowe'en demonstration in Peterborough have things pretty well under way for the successful carrying out of the affair.

Everyone who is in costume assuredly will have a good time.

The prizes, which will be worth while competing for, will be on display in one of the show windows next week.

Bands are being engaged and the entire programme will run more smoothly than it did last year.

Fine weather should see literally thousands in costume, not only from the city, but from all the surrounding districts.

It will be a great night and you might just as well get your costume made and have a sane and happy time along with the rest.

IN MEMORIAM

YORK.—In loving memory of my dear husband, Pte. H. York, who departed this life October 23, 1918.
Sleep on, dear husband, thy work is o'er,
Thy willing hands will toil no more.
It was God's will, I will not complain
But hope some day to meet again.
Nine years have passed since that sad day,
God called the one I loved away.
Forget him; no, I never will.
As years roll on I love him still.

IN MEMORIAM.

BROWN. — In loving memory of Wilfred Brown, who died October 23rd, 1922.

Forget you? No, we never will,
For none on earth your place can fill;
Your thoughtful, kind and gentle ways
Are worthy of the greatest praise.
The face we loved is now laid low,
The fond, true heart is still;
The hand we clasped to bid adieu
By death is ever still.
Do we forget? Oh, no,
For memory's golden chain
Shall bind our hearts to the heart above,
Till they meet and touch again.
Brighter, fairer far than living,
With no trace of woe or pain,
Robed in everlasting beauty,
We shall see you once again.

ROTHERMERE'S PAPER FAVORS LLOYD GEORGE

Weekly Despatch Says Nation Can Look To No Other Leader.

REPLY TO BALDWIN.

Former Premier Prominent in Public Mind—Other Papers to Follow ?

LONDON, Oct. 24.—United Press.)—One of the most significant political announcements in some time is contained in an article in the Weekly Dispatch announcing that paper's decision to support Lloyd George.

The article, which appears on the editorial page, is written by "The Secret Historian," believed to be Lord Rothermere, himself. Rothermere is the most powerful newspaper proprietor in England. He owns the Daily Mail, with a circulation of about 2,000,000, The Evening News with 1,000,000 and the Weekly Dispatch 1,000,000.

Political observers anticipate that the Daily Mail andw Evening News soon will make a similar announcement in support of Lloyd George. All three papers have been considered as supporters of the Conservative party.

The article is interpreted as being Lord Rothermere's reply to Prime Minister Baldwin's question at the recent Conservative Congress at Cardiff, asking Rothermere where he declaring that "if the nation suddenstood politically.

The article eulogizes Lloyd George, ly decides it must escape from the industrial and economic wilderness at all cost, if agriculture wants action and industry wants action — where shall we look except to Lloyd George.

"What other man ever did anything big?" the article continues. "What young politician of any party gives promise to-day of even a tithe of Lloyd George's proven statesmanship?"

"It is not a question of whether Lloyd George can come back. He is back. He occupies in the public mind a position which has not been held since the eclipse of the Liberal party."

SIX DISPUTES INVOLVE LABOR

Twelve Thousand Men Involved in Troubles in Canada.

3,000 LAST MONTH.

OTTAWA, Oct. 24 (Canadian Press).—Six industrial disputes of a major character are engaging the attention of the Dominion Department of Labor. If the dispute between the railways and engineers, settled ten days ago, is counted, the total number of men affected by labor trouble this month in Canada is twelve thousand, compared with under three thousand for September. Actually five thousand workers are involved in dispute.

The largest of the présent disputes is the carpenters' strike in Toronto, which is precipitating a sympathetic building trades strike. Others are a strike of miners at Drumheller, Alberta, involving a thousand; of underground workers in Vancouver Island collieries, involving two thousand; of steamship clerks in the Canadian Pacific's Angus Shops in Montreal, embracing 270 men; a strike of the clerks and freight handlers of the Toronto, Hamilton and Buffalo Railway, and one of the deck hands of the Canada Steamship Lines at Toronto.

Jap Plane Forced To Descend In Sea

TOKIO, Oct. 24.— (Canadian Press.) — The Japanese airship N-3, while participating in naval manoeuvres yesterday, was forced to descend into the sea off Izu, peninsula because of engine trouble. Upon touching the water the airship burst into flames. The crew was rescued, but one member was seriously injured.

Mayor's Efforts to End Strike Too Late; Toronto Building Unions Go Out In Sympathy

TORONTO, Oct. 24 (Canadian Press).—Mayor Foster's efforts at settling the carpenters' strike and the sympathetic strike of the building trades unions in Toronto were made too late, he was told by the leaders of the trades union movement who are endeavoring to complete the sympathetic walkout. Building contracts amounting to twenty-five millions will be affected. Mayor Foster, however, continued his efforts to have representatives of the disputants confer at the City Hall.

Meanwhile reports show that the sympathetic strike is making only slow progress. The men are being called off the individual jobs and are being told to finish jobs that might spoil and leave ground for complaint.

CHICAGO MAYOR IS TARGET FOR MUCH SARCASM THROUGH PRESS

Writers To Papers Imply That He Lacks Common Sense.

OFFER TO BUY MACHINES.

Effort To Rid Libraries of Alleged British Propaganda Still Going On.

CHICAGO, October 24. Canadian Press. — "The man on the street," who hitherto was considerably apathetic toward Mayor Thompson's one-sided "war" against King George is turning to his pen and writing sarcastic letters to the papers, implying that the mayor and his cohorts lack common sense. A professor of American history at the University of Chicago, adding his word, writes to the Tribune that he is sure the present school history books are greatly to be preferred over those in use twenty years ago, and "because they allow the possibility of some intelligence and sense of humor in students and teachers which is more than the inquisitors of Mr. McAndrew (suspended school superintendent) seem willing to allow anybody."

Another writer to the Tribune notes that a machine has been invented which "outdoes" brains, and he wants to be the first to subscribe to a fund for the purchase of these machines, which he is sure can be placed to advantage in the city hall.

An Irishman wants to know if there is any danger of being shot as a spy since he expressed the opinion that the average Englishman was a pretty good fellow.

However, the "war" progresses and Carl B. Roden, president of the American Liberty Association, offered his assistance in Mayor Thompson's effort to rid the library of "pro-British" books warning, however, that there are thousands of volumes, gifts of Queen Victoria and British writers, given to help rebuild the library after the Chicago fire.

Sport Herrman library trustee and the mayor's right hand man, called a meeting of the trustees to-day to see what could be done about it. He is going to have a bon fire on the lakeshore some time soon.

'RIGHT TO KILL' CAUSES DEBATE

Most Newspapers Applaud Acquittal of Young Father.

EXCEPTIONAL CASE.

LONDON Oct. 24. — Canadian Press. — All England has been plunged into a discussion of the "right to kill" as the result of the acquittal on Saturday of a young widower, Albert Davis, on a charge of murder for drowning his three year old daughter to save her further terrible sufferings from an incurable disease. Most of the newspapers applaud the acquittal but insist that the case is exceptional and there should be no loosening of the laws protecting human life. On the other hand Sir Arthur Conal Doyle says there should be a law that three medical certificates would justify the putting away of any person who is in a hopeless position.

DEBATE EFFECT OF PRIMATE'S LETTER

Message Confirms Archbishop's Reputation as Diplomat and Peacemaker.

LONDON, Oct. 24 (Canadian Press).—The letter of the Archbishop of Canterbury, reproving the Bishop of Birmingham, who is an adherent to the theory of evolution, was regarded today as confirming the Primate's reputation as a diplomat and a peacemaker. Views differed, however, as to the effect the letter would produce upon the controversy. The Archbishop chided the Bishop on the manner in which he had voiced his views.

Denunciation by the Bishop of Birmingham of the dostrine of transubstantiation was legitimate ,the Archbishop writes, but he deplored that Bishop Barnes had spoken of the "Holy Communion in a way which, quite reasonably I think, gives offense to the great body of churchmen and churchwomen." The Archbishop adds he thought this was unintentional.

The plane would have a crew of seven including the captain.

ADDRESS BY SIR GEORGE FOSTER FEATURES CONFERENCE DINNER; A.Y.P.A. CONVENTION IN CITY ENDS

Veteran Canadian Statesman Tells Young People About League of Nations.

INSTRUCTIVE TALK.

Pride in Church and Association Expressed in Toasts—Parade Also Held.

One of the greatest adventures on which humanity has ever started out was Sir George Foster's description of the League of Nations, on which he spoke at the conference dinner which concluded the twenty-fifth annual Dominion Conference of the Anglican Young People's Association. Sir George dealt with the formation of the League, comparing its sessions with those of the A.Y.P.A. and stating that both organizations were beginnings of the great brotherhood of man.

Saturday night's banquet was held in the Canadian Legion Hall, the seating capacity of which was taxed by the large attendance of delegates and Peterborough members of the association. A. S. McConnell, who was elected president at Saturday morning's session, was chairman and toastmaster.

In commencing his address, Sir George said that he had accepted the invitation to attend for two reasons, first because he wanted to see what the Anglican young people looked like, and secondly to say a word or two to them about the League of Nations. He said it was a joyful occasion for him, but also sad, because it reminded him that his young days were past, but he thought that he might absorb some of the youthfulness and add five or ten years to his own life.

Youth of to-day is as willing as ever to take advice, he continued, as long as it is delivered carefully and tactfully. Advice in his youth had largely been administered by physical means, but nowadays an older giving advice must first see that his own life is irreproachable. His advice was that they ought never to say that religion is old-fashioned and not for young people, because the spiritual part of man is the oldest part of him and goes on after the body is dead. The soul is a priceless possession which should be cherished and developed as well as the body, making its horizon as wide as the world.

One difference that Sir George stressed between the present time and the days of his own youth is the way people are brought side by side who were formerly thousands of miles apart. Communications are quicker and pictures are improved. This gives greater opportunities for good, but also for evil and puts a great responsibility upon the people of to-day.

God Still Rules.

The great number and spread of young people's organizations, such as the A.Y.P.A., said the speaker, is an evidence of the spirit that is pushing outward for fellowship with ones fellow men. He is not going to despair of the future of the world when it is in the hands of those who are the young people of to-day. As long as the supreme spark of life comes from God and the people follow His guidance the country will be all right, as God rules the world.

The war has increased the responsibility of the young people. Canada lost 60,000 of her best men, who would now be leaders. Those older ones who are left and the younger ones who are coming on must do more than their share to make up for this tremendous loss.

Consideration of the great loss of man power caused by the war, ten million being the total death list of the two sides, led to the formation of the League of Nations. The best men of all the countries gathered to formulate the peace terms and they asked if the sacrifice was worth while.

Sir George Foster compared the cause of the war to a farmers' argument over a line fence. In olden days each man would gather his tenants and relatives and try to burn the other fellow's barns and inflict physical violence upon him. Now the two who dispute go to court and accept the judge's decision. The nation bears the stamp of the individuals composing it, so now the disputes occurring between countries are settled by discussion instead of calling up the men of each to be shot down.

The League of Nations is the outcome of the delegates' query about the value of the sacrifice. Twenty-two countries first entered it, but now fifty-five of the sixty-three nations of the world are included. It is not a mysterious, mechanical thing, but originated and grew like this society.

League Always Ready.

Once every year one of the fifty-five nations sends three men to the great assembly of the nations at Geneva, where they talk over and settle the troubles of the past year and plan to make it easier to keep the peace next year. Just as the A.Y.P.A. cannot be kept together simply by the

Forgot She Was Holding Bread Knife Says Woman Held For Killing Husband

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Oct. 24 (United Press).—Mrs. Eleanor Holby, 27, forgot about the bread knife in her hand when her husband, Joseph, hugged her until she saw it sticking out of his chest, she told the police.

When arrested in connection with her husband's murder, Mrs. Holby explained that Joe had slapped her in the face, after having a few drinks.

Then, repenting, he said: "Let's kiss and make up."

Not waiting to see if she were anxious to make up, he gave her a manly hug.

"Go away and let me do the cooking," she implored, as he continued to hang with his arms about her neck.

Then she pushed him, Holby fell backward and his wife saw the handle of a long, sharp bread knife protruding from his breast.

ANGLICAN PRIMATE CONDEMNS RECENT INCIDENT IN ST. PAUL'S

Archbishop of Canterbury Replies to Letter of Bishop Barnes.

OFFENDED MEMBERS.

Regards as Bishop's Error His Words Concerning Sacrament.

LONDON, Oct. 24.— (Canadian Press Cable.) — The reply of the Archbishop of Canterbury to the letter recently addressed to him by Rt. Rev. Ernest William Barnes, Bishop of Birmingham, supporting the theory of evolution, condemning the doctrine of transubstantiation and charging that religious leaders are ignoring the work of scientists, is contained in a statement issued to the press yesterday.

The Archbishop of Canterbury regards as the Bishop's chief error his words regarding the sacrament, which he declares has given offense to a great body of church members. He also condemns the recent incident in St. Paul's cathedral when Rev. Dr. Bullock Webster entered the edifice and, addressing the congregation condemned Bishop Barnes for moulding his interpretation of religious problems to conform to the theories of scientists.

The Archbishop of Canterbury's statement follows:

"You will not doubt my condemnation of the unseemly incident in St. Paul's. Not by an action of that sort can the cause of truth be reasonably set forward. But speaking generally I think you too are mistaken as to what it is that has been evoked from cultured men with scientfic, philosophical as well as theological knowledge judging from the vehement reprobation of some of your recent utterances.

Received Condemnations.

"Regarding these I probably have received, publicly or privately more condemnations than anyone excepting yourself. I do not attach great weight to what I have heard described as "The Gorilla Sermons." I believe you over-rate the adherence of thoughtful people to the creation theories of fifty or one hundreds years ago and I scarcely think that among those who listen to you there are a great number holding the opinions which you satirise. For myself I can say at least, your position on the biological question in outline and so far as I understand it, is one wherewith I personally have been familiar for over fifty years. This teaching, however admirable is to most not novel. I do not think those hearing you on the subject with interest and advantage would recognize themselves as 'wistful agnostics.' You may, I am certain, my dear Bishop, dismiss the fear that anyone in England desires to drive you either to Rome or Tennessee. The words giving rise to the sort of indignation referred to are the words you use in dealing with the sacrament of holy communion. It is on what you have said regarding the sacramental doctrine that intelligent and large-minded churchmen, lay as well as clerical, have daily approached me. I have an intense dislke of the use of the daily press for the discussion of such sub-

SONS OF INMATE DIED IN FRANCE

Mrs. Calberry Lost Two of Three Sons Who Entered Army.

ONE HAS DIED SINCE.

Mrs. Sabina Calberry the aged inmate of the House of Refuge, who was recently assaulted by John Maize, ex-superintendent of that home, had three sons enlist in the Great War. Two of them today are lying somewhere in Flanders and the third was unable to get into action but got as far as England. Gordon was the first to go overseas. He enlisted in the first year of the war and was killed in France. Herbert enlisted a year later and was also killed. Foster joined up in 1918 and when the war closed was in England ready to go to France.

Mrs. Calberry was left a widow with five boys and one girl to look after. She and her husband and little family had farmed in the township of Dummer and when Mr. Calberry died she was left in very poor circumstances. Three boys went to the war, the other two, although young, worked out and the daughter got a position in this city. Mrs. Calberry had no place that she might call a home so she went to the House of Refuge. Today the daughter is married and living in this city, one boy works in Peterborough, one has died, and the other works in the township of Smith.

MELLOR HELD WITHOUT BAIL

Former Picton Pastor Remanded When Witness Can't Appear.

TRIAL SET FOR DEC. 21.

BELLEVILLE, Ont. October 24. — Canadian Press. — J. J. Mellor, former pastor of the Picton United Church, appeared for trial today in the county court charged with a serious offence against Bertha Houck, but an affidavit was filed that Miss Houck was unable to appear as a crown witness, and the hearing was adjourned until December 21. An application for bail was refused. Miss Houck is ill.

THE WEATHER

Yesterday was an ideal day for October, or, in fact, for any month in the year. There was a feeling of early June in the atmosphere, combined with the variegated tints and brilliant autumnal foliage of the numerous trees of this section. As one gentleman who climbed the high hill north east of Jackson Park, told me, the outlook was beautiful—that no other section of Ontario could surpass it in picturesqueness. Because it is here at our doors we fail to appreciate it. Highest temperature yesterday 61 degrees; early in the morning 32 degrees. Late on Saturday night there was a particularly brilliant display of Northern Lights, and the colored, quivering streamers covered almost the whole sky.—W. P.

MAIZE FINED FOR ASSAULT ON OLD LADY

Pays $200 Without Costs For Striking Inmate of Home.

ATTACK UNJUSTIFIED.

Great Provocation, Says Magistrate, But Assault Unnecessary—Woman Had Stick.

John Maize, former superintendent of the House of Refuge, was found guilty on Saturday by His Worship O. A. Langley, of assaulting Sabina Calberry on Sunday, October 2nd.

His Worship in fining Mr. Maize $200 without costs said he could have sent him to jail, but he had taken into account his previous good record and that he was a man 60 years old who had never darkened the doors of a jail before, so he thought that justice to all would be met if he levied a fine.

In giving judgment, he said he must find that an assault was committed by John Maize on Sabina Calberry. "While I would have difficulty in finding from the evidence that a rake was used I do not believe that the assault was justified, although I find that it was committed under great provocation, and also caused actual bodily harm. I believe she had a stick of wood but not large enough to [illegible] the assault. I believe the county officials should exercise great wisdom in choosing a man for this position."

J. A. O'Brien acted for Mr. Maize; Crown Attorney Hatton prosecuted, and F. D. Kerr, K.C., watched proceedings for the county council.

Mrs. John Maize, wife of the ex-superintendent, was the first witness called. She was cross-examined by Mr. Hatton. Witness, although she said she was feeling better, it was very hard to hear her in the court.

Where did you first see the assault?

Through the women's dining-room window. Mrs. Calberry was approaching Mr. Maize with a stick. I went out, and when I got there Mrs. Calberry was getting up.

Did you see a stick in his hand after the assault?

I did not.

What did Mrs. Calberry do that night?

She washed the dishes, but not alone, as she always wanted a man with her. She was completely boss of me.

Did you and your husband ever talk about her?

No, we never did.

You never abused her?

No.

You know nothing of an alleged whipping?

No.

Who sent for the doctor?

I don't know.

Did you or your husband?

No.

Do you know the size of stick she had?

No.

Later, witness told of seeing her husband strike Mrs. Calberry and knock her over.

William Brown, the assistant superintendent of the house, was the next witness called. Although Mr. Brown did not see the assault. He said one day he was called from the workshop by one of the girls, as Mrs. Calberry was causing trouble in the house. When he got there, he found Mrs. Calberry coming down the hall and as she passed him she hit him a blow which made witness stagger. Her language on this occasion was very profane.

Daniel Easton, a former inmate, when called, said he had been there for seven weeks and was used by both Mr. Maize and Mrs. Maize fine.

John Maize.

The last witness called by the defence was John Maize. Mr. Maize said he was 60 years old and gave up a position on the Provincial Highway in July, 1925, to take over the job of superintendent of the House of Refuge.

Where was your home?

Township of Hope.

Have you ever been in any previous trouble?

No.

Was Mrs. Calberry at the House of Refuge when you went there?

Yes.

How old is she?

From her appearance I would judge 58 or 60.

How has she been acting?

She has been misbehaving very badly. In fact I could not control her. I reported her to the Board of Management at the April and July meetings.

What was her attitude towards you?

She seemed to be very vicious. She would not obey me. When I would say anything to her, she would answer me with a tirade of oats, and her temper was very violent.

Witness then told of the alleged assault on Sunday, October 2. "At 2.00 p.m. I saw Mrs. Calberry, Joe Linton, Mrs. Hughes and Joe Hearst sitting on the woodpile. I went out and ordered Joe Hearst away. He hesitated, and I threatened to send for a constable. He went away but later came back. I went out a second

GRAYSON PLANE IS FORCED BACK THIRD ATTEMPT

Driven Back to Mainland By Defective Motor and Fogs.

TEN HOURS OUT.

Able To Return On Her Own Power After Dumping Gas.

OLD ORCHARD, Me., Oct. 24 (A.P.).—The Grayson plane, The Dawn, which hopped off yesterday morning for Europe, landed ten hours later at the starting place after being driven back by a defective motor and heavy fog. Although he had but "one and a half engines" functioning, Pilot Wilmer Stultz made a perfect landing here on the beach shortly after 4 p.m.

Navigator Brice Goldsborough told the story of the experiences which drove the ship back after a most auspicious beginning of an anticipated flight to Copenhagen.

"We had made better than 90 miles an hour," he said, "from the take-off at 6.13 a.m. to a point off Cape Sable at about 14.30 a.m. Suddenly, for a cause we do not know as yet, one motor went bad and we could not run it at more than half speed.

"I sent out an "S.O.S." and we were quickly in touch with a ship. I think it was the Como City. By radio I told the skipper that a forced landing might be necessary and asked him to stand by. He told us if we did have to come down, to land on the starboard side.

"We dumped the gas in the tanks, which stream-line the two engines and with our lightened ship decided we could proceed to land under our own power. We found that the lightened ship rode fairly well, so we kept on toward Old Orchard.

"The first place we sighted was Bar Harbor. Things were all right, so we kept on."

Safe Landing

Even the landing on the beach was accompanied by a thrill, it was learned later when Mrs. Frances Grayson and her two companions sat down before the faithful fireplace which has warmed them for two weeks in the Hotel Brunswick, to review the happenings of the day.

"Did you use any of your soup or coffee?" Mrs. Grayson was asked.

"Did we?" she chuckled, "we had to pour it all into the hydraulic apparatus in order to force the landing gear down for the landing."

Mrs. Grayson said that no decision as to the future of the expedition would be made until today. That the flight has not yet been abandoned seemed to be indicated by the fact that T. Harold Kinkside, the Wright motor expert, and Igor Sikorsky, the plane's builder, were immediately notified by telegraph to return. Kinkside had flown back to New York yesterday morning after the take-off, while Sikorsky started over the road at the same time.

Mileage 984 Miles

The fliers estimated that their total mileage for the flight was 984. The first 500 miles was flown in little more than four and a half hours. They reached the Nova Scotia coast four or five miles south of Yarmouth and, crossing the tip of the province cruised for 200 miles again over the sea until only a short distance from Sable Island.

Pilot Stultz said:

"Everything was running smoothly when suddenly the left motor made a terrific noise and great quantities of smoke poured out. I did not know whether it was going to blow up or not, so I said: 'Goldie, pull the string.'"

"That liberated 260 gallons of gasoline and lightened the plane. I had seen a steamer a few minues before and I looked down to see if it was still there. I wanted to land as near it as possible, but before that was necessary we decided that we would remain in the air."

Wind Freshened

Navigator Goldsborough said that the plane had gained an altitude of 700 feet by the time it reached Nova Scotia and that the speed of the plane was picking up all the time. The wind had freshened from a mere whisper to 28 miles an hour from the northwest. After the engine trouble, however, only 300 revolutions could be had from the left motor, which is less than half the standard speed.

The crew rapidly gained confidence as they flew back, and were soon munching sandwiches which had been expected to sustain them on the flight to Europe.

"It certainly was a shame when everything was going so well," said Mrs. Grayson as she rose from her chair to wash the grime of the flight away before sitting down to her first real meal of the day.

Pilot Stultz said he was completely at a loss as to the cause of the motor trouble. Only after the motor is taken down and inspected today, could any definite explanation be given, he said.

EXPECTED U. S. TARIFF REPLY DELIVERED AT PARIS TO-DAY

Hope Entertained That Answer Possibly Terminate in an Agreement.

CONCILIATORY TONE.

Does Not Contain Any Proposals Not Already Brought Up.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24 (CP).—The United States note on the tariff controversy with France, number six in the series between the two countries, was on its way to Paris yesterday and will be delivered to the foreign office Monday by the United States embassy.

Washington officials declined to summarize the communication or discuss its character further than to indicate that it was conciliatory in tone.

Hope is entertained, despite early gloomy interpretations placed upon the French note of last Saturday, that the answer will possibly terminate the conversations in an agreement on a formula for commercial treaty negotiations. There is little question that officials here believe Friday's developments with respect to the Washington government's attitude as to both agricultural quarantines and the question of sending United States expert abroad to study the books of foreign exporters will prove to have created an increasingly friendly atmosphere in which the tariff conversation is proceeding.

It was learned authoritatively tonight that the new American tariff note does not contain any suggestion or proposals not already brought up in the exchanges with the French foreign office. Presumably, it is confined to the statement of the American attitude in connection with conditions discovered in the last French note which were at first said to make that communication unsatisfactory to the Washington government. Further examination gave a more favorable outlook, but the new note will serve to clear up, it is said, any doubt that may still exist as to the true significance of the French conditional statements.

THREE DROWNED IN GEORGIAN BAY

Crossing Lake to Victoria Harbour, Launch Destroyed By Fire.

NO TRACE OF BODIES.

MIDLAND, Ont., Oct. 24.—(Canadian Press.)—Leonard Perry, aged 21, and Frank Davis, aged 17, of Toronto, and Frank Mason, aged 31, of Ottawa, were drowned in Georgian Bay Saturday morning when their launch was destroyed by fire. None of the bodies have been recovered.

The young men had been visiting Leonard's father, William Perry, of Beckett's Bay, and were on their way to Victoria Bay from where they intended going to Toronto by train when the accident happened. Residents of Victoria Harbor noticed smoke coming from the launch but when they put out to investigate it was found that the craft had been burned to the water's edge and there was no trace of the bodies.

It is presumed the trio attempted to swim to shore when their launch caught fire and were drowned. Dragging operations were commenced shortly after and were continued throughout Saturday and Sunday, but without result.

Perry's Toronto address was 239 Arlington avenue, Davis' 49 Sellers avenue, and Mason lived at 126 Albert street, Ottawa.

MOUNT PLEASANT, Oct. 24.—Wilbert Murney, whose farm is located about three miles east of Ida, suffered heavy loss about 10.30 last night when his barn, together with whole of season's crop, also some pigs, was destroyed by fire.

The blaze started when a lantern exploded while Mr. Murney was in the barn doctoring a sick horse. The loss is estimated to be very heavy.

IRELAND MOURNS DEATH OF PRIMATE

Cardinal O'Donnell Succumbs at Age of 71 After Lingering Illness.

CARLINGFORD, Irish Free State, Oct. 24 (Canadian Press).—All Ireland north and south, is plunged in grief and mourning by the death of Patrick Cardinal O'Donnell, Primate of Ireland since 1925, when he succeeded the late Cardinal Logue.

Cardinal O'Donnell died here Saturday after an illness of several weeks, which developed into pneumonia. He was 71 years of age.

Windows were shuttered and all the houses had blinds drawn, and the dismal day, with a continuous downpour, seemed the proper setting for the sad event. So many messages of condolence were received that the post office staff had to be increased to handle them. Governor-General Timothy Healy wired:

"I am stunned by the news, which will affect all Ireland."

The Duke of Abercorn, Governor of Northern Ireland, and Viscount Craigavon, the Northern Premier, also telegraphed deep regrets and sympathy.

The Cardinal at first had made light of his illness, and had sought

THIEVES ROB OMEMEE MAN

Steal $2,000 in Bonds From the Home of Richard Poast.

ON SUNDAY NIGHT.

OMEMEE, Oct. 24.—Some unknown person broke into the house of Richard Poast, through the cellar window during the family's absence at church last night and stole $2,000 in bonds. The thief was heard by a neighbor, an old man, but he did not get up to see what was wrong, and the burglary was not discovered until this morning.

These bonds were in a tin box in a bed room. There was also money in the house, but only the bonds were taken. Lindsay police have been notified. The box of bonds has been in the bank all summer, and was just brought home last week.

Mrs. Grayson Outlines Its Purposes In Answering Criticisms of Flight

OLD ORCHARD, Me., Oct. 24 (A.P.).—Mrs. Frances Grayson, in a last minutes statement before she climbed aboard the Sikorsky amphibian monoplane, The Dawn, yesterday morning for its third attempt to fly to Europe, answered criticisms of the flight and outlined its purposes

"There has been much adverse criticism," she said. "It has been said that it is too late in the season for an attempt. It has been said that a woman has no place in such a venture. It has been said that my plans are imperfect and that the plane is not fitted for flight.

"The purpose of the flight is twofold: To prove the amphibian aeroplane the proper type for trans-Atlantic commerce and to prove that woman has her share, an equal one, in advancing science. In comparison with the other flights across the Atlantic, we regard ours as the only practical one. Ours is a plane fitted to land on the sea when the air becomes untenable and to float there in safety until the disturbance has passed and then to take the air again. It has two motors. In a three-motored ship certain vibrations set up which make extended flight a racking experience. It has radio equipment equal to that deemed adequate for ocean-going steamships. In the light of present day knowledge I feel that we are far ahead of other pioneers in trans-Atlantic travel.

"I refuse to believe that there is a 'season" for ocean flying. If there is a capable navigator aboard, a radio station capable of receiving weather reports while in flight, and sufficient preparation beforehand, then the season is of one's own making.

"My plans are as nearly perfect as they could be for an undertaking. After the discontinuance of weather bureau reports, I had organized a complete weather service extending across the Atlantic. I have carefully examined the records of preceding flights and have attempted to profit by the mistakes of others."

Carol Says That Political Reasons Brought About Resignation to Throne

PARIS, Oct. 24 (Canadian Press).—That political reasons and not his affair with Mme. Lupescu, had brought about his renunciation of the Rumanian throne, and that he would respond to the call of his country, was asserted yesterday by former Crown Prince Carol of Rumania, in an interview with a representative of the Havas News Agency.

The correspondent, with the Lupescu incident in mind, asked whether an event of sentimental character in the last few days was likely to have a certain influence on political activities in his country, and Carol replied:

"I have already said before, and I repeat that for me in my quality as a public man the sentimental question does not exist. This sentimental question is a screen that interested persons have set before the real reasons, which are of a political and family order, and which brought about my renunciation to the throne."

With regard to his present attitude on the question of the Rumanion dynasty, he said:

"Please made it clear that I am not a pretender, for a pretender is active in intrigues and schemes—acts I have vigorously refrained from since my departure from Rumania. That does not mean, however, that I have disinterested myself in the constitutional question, as is said in Rumania.

I repeat what I have already said: If my country calls me, I will respond at once."

When the correspondent objected that in view of his formal renunciation and his present passiveness it was hard to see how he could be recalled, the former Crown Prince smiled and answered:

"There are so many ways to call a sovereign when his return is agreed upon—by a vote in parliament, by a plebiscite and by an understanding between the parties."

ANGLICAN PRIMATE

jects. I purposely refrain from trying in such a letter as this to discuss the profound life giving doctrines involved, but of course I am more than ready to go into the matter with yourself if you desire. Your open letter forces me, however, reluctantly to some reply. Formally, publicly you invite me 'to consider what steps can be taken to help those of us who are giving of our best to fit the church to be in the future a spiritual guide of an educated nation.'

Difficult Matter.

"It is a large and difficult matter, needing time and care, but I can say at once that in my judgment one of the first steps is to secure a scrupulous use of the most careful language possible in dealing with doctrinal matters of deep solemnity affecting the devotional thoughts and prayers of Christian people. That duty, obligatory upon all Christian teachers, is a peculiarity incumbent upon Bishops who have to weigh the effect of our words upon all sections of the great body to whom we desire to be fathers in God. While, as you have truly said, 'smooth unctuous platitudes' are not enough, yet in all the range of our duties there is none called for more clearly than the exercise of tender, fatherly carefulness in word and act.

In your open letter you assure me of what you have been doing lately and have been denounced for doing it "as a bishop to uphold the traditional sacramental doctrine" and to affirm, as we all affirm, that "the doctrine of transubstantiation is untrue.' Do not suppose me to be unmindful of our duty to stem whatever trend there is in that way. But when I turn to your Birmingham sermon which aroused this criticism I find the statement you make to me fails to describe fairly what you there said. In your natural legitimate desire to denounce the few in the Church of England who hold or teach transubstantiation you were led to speak of the holy communion in a way which —quite reasonably I think—gives real offence to a great body of churchmen and women, not the least of those who are able to give scholarly as well as reiterent consideration to the sacramental doctrine which our church upholds. I do not believe you had any intention of wounding the souls of honest faithful English church men, but you ignore or belittle the position of teaching those within our church who stand with such English bishops as Andrews or Wilson or in our own day Edward King or Charles Gore.

"Your words seem to me capable of being so interpreted as to include in reprobation or almost in contempt the position of the great mass of church men who would associate themselves with the teaching such leaders as say, my own great masters, Bishop Lightfoot or Bishop Westcott or who have caught the devotional spirit of Charles Wesley's hymns. I prefer to think if you read your Birmingham sermon in the light of such criticisms as your letter has drawn from me you will feel that what I have said is not unfair.

'When I read your words about the grace of our Saviour's presence being in the whole act of worship they leave me wondering whether, if you were to consider what are their implications you would not find further cause to modify the width and scope of your negative and destructive statements. We all have been impressed in these recent months by the self-restraint and considerateness for others shown by many clergy and laity foremost in our prayer-book discussions. To the larger tasks which lie beyond these discussions we bishops must lead the way. But we shall lead only if we talk 'with all lowiness and meekness and long suffering,' being diligent to keep the unity of the spirit in the bond of peace."

Edward King referred to in the Archbishop's statement, was Bishop of Lincoln, who died 16 years ago and who many years previously had been tried and imprisoned for certain acts of ceremonial then deemed illegal. Nobody however, ever doubted his saintliness and personality.

Bishop Gore is still preaching and holding to evolution in much the same way as Bishop Barnes. Singularly enough Bishop Gore last year preached a series of sermons in St. Paul's cathedral on this very subject which though receiving the widest attention aroused no acute controversy. Bishop Gore, however, would probably take a strong objection to Bishop Barnes' sacramental views.

WIVES POPULAR.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Oct. 23.—The three wives of the former Sultan of Turkey, recently granted permission to return to this country, are the object of many suitors. Rumor has it that an American millionaire is among those pressing for the hand of one of the women. There has been no report of any of them being accepted.

IN MEMORIAM.

CARRRITE. — In loving memory of our dear father and husband, Andrew Carrrite, who departed this life October 24th, 1926, Trent River, Ontario.

Deep in our heart lies a picture
Of a dear one laid to rest;
In memory's frame we will keep it,
Because he was one of the best.

Our life cannot speak how we loved him,
Our hearts cannot tell what to say;
God only knows how we miss him
In a home that is lonesome to-day.

Husband, dear, I think of you,
And think of the way you died—
To know you could not say good-bye
Before you closed your eyes.

OLD MASTERS

O melancholy bird! a winter's day
Thou standest by the margin of the pool,
And, taught by God, dost thy whole being school
To Patience, which all evil can allay,
God has appointed thee the Fish thy prey;
And given thyself a lesson to the Fool
Unthrifty, to submit to moral rule,
And his unthinking course by thee to weigh.
There needs not schools, nor the Professor's chair,
Though these be good, true wisdom to impart:
He, who has not enough for these to spare
Of time, or gold, may yet amend his heart,
And teach his soul, by brooks and rivers fair:
Nature is always wise in every part

W.M.S. SECTION MEETING HELD

Ladies of Part of Cobourg Presbytery Meet at Hastings United Church.

INTERESTING ADDRESSES.

MILLBROOK, Oct. 24.—Rev. H. W. Foley, B.D., of Frazerville, led in the opening devotional exercises of the Sectional Rally of the W.M.S. of Section No. 1, Cobourg Presbyterial, which met in the United Church, Bailieboro, on Thursday, October 20, beginning at 10 a.m. Mrs. J. T. Field, of Cobourg, Presbyterial vice-President, was in the chair, and Mrs. Roberts, of Grafton, President of the Presbyterial, was also on the platform.

Miss Burnham, Millbrook, was appointed secretary, and Miss Lander, of Plainville and Mrs. P. Galbraith, of Port Hope, constituted the courtesy Committee.

Mrs. (Rev.) H. W. Foley was called upon for the address of welcome, explaining that for more than a year the Bailieboro Auxiliary had been looking forward to entertaining the convention because of the information and inspiration that would grow therefrom.

Mrs. Foley introduced Mrs. W. Barnard, president of the local Auxiliary, to the gathering and both ladies extended to the delegates, who had come in large numbers from many parts of the Presbyterial, a very warm welcome on behalf of the entertaining Society.

Reports from Branches.

Mrs. Mears, of the Port Hope Auxiliary, made response on behalf of the delegates, and the roll-call of Auxiliaries, Circles, and Bands followed. Of the Auxiliaries, Harwood, Bensfort, Garden Hill, Gore's Landing, Millbrook, Plainville, and Welcome gave two minute reports, the facts presented being most encouraging and offering evidence of increasing activity and interest along the lines of study, prayer, working and giving.

No Circles reported, but six Mission Bands presented encouraging accounts of the work being done by the boys and girls; the latest addition to this list is the "Light House" Band at Bensfort, organized on July 13 of this year with 30 members enrolled, and $10.00 in the treasury.

After the hymn, "Jesus Shall Reign," the delegates separated into a number of groups taking up, under the form of workers' conferences, the various phases of missionary activity in which each was specially interested. Mrs. Garland had charge of the group on mission band work; Mrs. Mears of the one on Christian Stewardship and Finance; Mrs. (Rev.) Barbour of the Associate Helpers'; Mrs. Roberts of the Presidents' group; and Mrs. Johnston led the discussion for those interested in the work of the Strangers' Secretaries.

Miss Henwood announced the sale and distribution of literature which had been sent her from Toronto by Mrs. A. M. Phillips; the table containing these supplies was near the entrance door of the church, and delegates were urged to obtain such books and leaflets as their respective offices in local societies called for, and which they would undoubtedly find of use.

That the conferences were most helpful was evident from the readiness with which the delegates joined the various groups, the questions asked, and the eager interest with which discussions were carried on.

Mrs. (Rev.) Barbour, of Gore's Landing, conducted the closing "Quiet Hour," the hymn, "O Master, let me walk with Thee" fittingly preceding the topic which emphasized especially the friendship of Jesus Christ, and our need of a practical experience of this rich blessing. Being true in human friendships, and the privilege of the world friendships which missionary labor has made possible, were also stressed.

The session closed with prayer, and adjournment was made for lunch, the delegates to convene again in the church at 1.30 p.m. The ladies of Bailieboro Auxiliary served dinner in the Community Hall, the menu being most inviting in character, and a social hour was enjoyed by all.

The Afternoon Session.

The opening devotional period in the afternoon was in charge of the Welcome Auxiliary, Mrs. Elgar leading in prayer.

Mrs. Kelly, of Port Hope, a missionary's wife with many years of experience in West China, was able to bring to the convention a message of encouragement from that land in spite of the unrest and the expulsion of the foreign workers. "Backgrounds in China" was Mrs. Kelly's subject—some of the permanent aspects under this heading dealt in detail with the illiteracy of the people; the extreme poverty of the masses in contrast with the great wealth and magnificent manner of living which form the other side of the picture; the status of womanhood, which is improving as education is being extended to the girls; the abolition of foot-binding, of concubinage, and of slave-holding; the lack of sanitation and the necessary conveniences in home and community life; the narrow, ill-paved streets, the absence of fire protection, and the outbreak of disease with the preventive measure which Christian workers are able to suggest and to see enforced.

"Anti-Imperialism has taken on a tinge of anti-Christianity, and missionaries may have to put their nationality in the background, and think only of being citizens of the Kingdom of God," was the concluding thought as the speaker stressed also the fact that any idea of Western superiority must be abandoned—the result, in the Chinese mind, of the years of Christian teaching and example.

"The Value of Mission Bands" was the title of an interesting paper given by Mrs. Offa Williamson, of the Millbrook Auxiliary. The need of a leader was pointed out, and some facts of personal experience when superintendent of a band were cited; the pleasure of working among children, their ready response, and their appreciation of the labor expended on their behalf, were also stressed.

"The great need of men and women to work for the Kingdom, and of filling the ranks of Auxiliary workers as others of the older ones pass out, were emphasized, and the fact that these are recruited from the ranks of the boys and girls was made plain. "Put education, and the pleasure of giving, first, and not merely the making of money in the foreground.

A quartette from the Port Hope Auxiliary, "Come to our Hearts," and a solo, "What will You Give to Jesus," by Mrs. H. W. Johnston of the Millbrook Branch, were the special musical numbers at the afternoon session.

Mrs. J. T. Daley, of Port Hope, Conference President, brought an inspiring message from the meeting of the Dominion Board which convened in Toronto last month. Prayer for, and co-operation with, the Dominion Executive were earnestly requested, and the speaker mentioned in detail three outstanding impressions she had received at the Board meeting: (a) The enormous amount of work that devolves upon the executive; (b) The great needs of the mission fields; (c), the responsibility that rests upon the Auxiliaries, Circles and Bands for the actual carrying out of the work. "We are some $38,000 behind in our allocation for last year and that means an added obligation during this year," she said.

Mrs. Mears appealed for a 'going over the top' in meeting the various allocations in order that the $1,300, which was unprovided for in alloting the $17,000 might be fully met.

The offering was received, and immediately afterward the "Question Drawer" was conducted by Mrs. Roberts, Presbyterial President, much enlightening information being drawn forth by this means.

Miss Lander, of Plainville, presented the report of the Courtesy Committee, thanking all who had assisted in any way in making the convention such a marked success. Mrs. Galbraith seconded the adoption of the report, and it was carried unanimously.

Resolution Passed.

Speaking on behalf of the group which had studied finance, Miss Estelle Hetherington asked leave to present the following resolution:

"We, the members of Section No. 1, of the Cobourg Presbyterial of the W.M.S. of the United Church of Canada, convened in Bailieboro, October 20, 1927, recommend:

"That the church conference schedules include a column showing the total givings to missions through the Women's Missionary Auxiliaries, Circles, and Bands, next to the one which shows the givings from the circuits to the Maintenance and Extension funds. We feel that in this way the very real contribution to the extension of the Kingdom through the W.M.S. activities would be recognized, and also that the total givings from the entire congregation would be thus recorded."

Mrs. Galbraith seconded the motion for the resolution, and it was passed by the convention, the secretary being instructed to send same on to the conference corresponding secretary, Mrs. George Jackson, of Port Perry.

Rev. Mr. Barbour, of Gore's Landing, closed the session with prayer. Lunch was served to those delegates who had a long drive before them on their homeward way.

SCARVES LEAD AUTUMN ACCESSORIES IN DISTINCTION

A scarf to wear with evening clothes; of silk, it is solid white with black edging. The new styles are square in shape.

A new silk scarf to set off the autumn topcoat; it is of contrasting stripes of black and white or green and white.

By CURTIS WOOD
For NEA Service

NEW YORK, October 24.—Careful that distinguished air that will lift him out of the ranks of the ordinary.

With raw autumn winds and winter blizzards coming on the scarf rises to become an important part in the well-dressed male's layout.

Silk this year has superseded all others. The heavy woollen and Scotch plaid fad has died a bit and white is still clung to desperately by middle-aged men who will protect their tonsils at any cost. Still the silk is making strides.

For silk is much neater, leaves less marking on a blue serge coat collar or lapel and turns the wind just as well as its woollen brother.

They Launder Well.

The most popular patterns are contrasting stripes or black and white or checks. The black and white design, too, will permit wear with evening clothes and thus becomes a money-saver.

These Scarves launder well and retail from $5 to $15 at the leading Fifth Avenue shops.

Another accessory that is enjoying a popular run is the leather garter. It is easily adjustable, is so lined that the buckle does not touch the skin, and is surprisingly light and will last almost a lifetime.

The recent international polo matches, while they revived the vogue for camel's hair polo coats with raglan sleeves and loose, seamless backs, also brought out the new polo belt.

It is a pretty bit of light tan cowhide about two inches wide. The buckle is silver-coated with white enamel and the excessive width coupled with selected thinness makes it easy on gentlemen with large girths. It also has an air of masculinity that is considered quite sporty.

Do not forget to lay in a fresh stock of gloves. Too many men spoil their appearance by practicing economy in the wrong place. They neglect their gloves and usually buy but two pairs and expect them to do. A soiled or tattered glove can ruin a man's reputation for dress.

A Variety of Colors.

The mode this autumn runs to coarse pigskin or buckskin. The latter is best for office and business wear of various kinds. The colors are canary, lemon and tan and the lighter the business suit the darker should be the gloves and vice versa.

The new "dindodger" cigarette lighters that are guaranteed not to blow out in the fiercest autumn gale are finished in leather to match the new gloves.

Speaking of leather, another new accessory out is a leather armband and a leather golf hose supporter. That Southern wardrobe for Florida or California links should include them both.

Don't Forget Collar Pins.

Probably the smallest accessory but the one that is running into the largest sales is the new collar pin.

The pins are made in various shapes to resemble miniature riding crops, polo sticks, tennis racquets, golf mashies, etc. They come in silver, gold and even platinum and lend a very dressy appearance, especially to the latest collars that have long points. Care should be taken, however, not to fasten them too closely under the knot of the tie and under no consideration are they to be used with bows.

"Yes—You Can Learn Shorthand In Two Weeks"

"I have a chance to get a wonderful job as secretary to the head of one of our largest hospitals, but I have to start in two weeks—and I must have shorthand."

A girl came in and spoke these very words to one of our managers. She wanted that job more than anything in the world—and she was worried over the shorthand qualification. She informed the manager that she used to write shorthand years before but had completely forgotten its puzzling signs and symbols. She had heard that Speedwriting was extremely simple and easy to learn—but could she learn it in two weeks?

"You can learn Speedwriting in two weeks," she was assured. He gave her a set of books and a little encouragement. At the end of 14 days she returned.

"I start work tomorrow," she announced. "I never dreamed shorthand could be so simple and easy. I can take dictation faster than I'll ever be called upon to take it."

GOOD TIME MADE IN LINDSAY RACE

Two Teams From Local 'Y' Make Distance Under Three Hours.

Two teams comprised of twenty runners ran in a relay race from Lindsay to Peterborough on Saturday. The starting point was two miles west of Lindsay, so many miles would be run and the finishing mark was the Y.M.C.A., Peterborough. Each boy ran three miles and the time of the race was 2 hours and 57 minutes, which is considered real good in such a large field. Some of the runners covered more than the three miles, Dick Bates going ten in 58 minutes, and Dorrington 6 miles in 36 minutes.

The runners were Bates, Dorrington, Hamilton, Sturgeon, Bradshaw, Adams, McGee, Palmer, Bacon, Dundas, French, Grose, Chenhall, Bearne, Outram, Peryer, Holland, and Tranter.

At the same time, one team of ten runners from the Lindsay Harrier Club ran from this city to Lindsay.

Lionel Brown and Stewart Widdess came to the rescue of the local Harriers' Club at the last minute with their cars or the race would not have been possible. Others who supplied cars were G. H. Roper, F. McNeely, C. Thorpe, and A. Adams.

The Peterborough Harrier Club has entered a team of ten men in the International Silver Trophy Team relay race, former known as the Toronto-Hamilton relay race, to be held at the Canadian National Exhibition Park on Saturday, November 12. This race starts at 2.30 p.m. and each man must run three miles.

BARN IS BURNED.

Apsley Man Loses Barn and Four Tons of Feed.

APSLEY, October 24. — A case of spontaneous combustion was the cause of a fire in Apsley on Sunday afternoon when Jim Downing lost a barn and four tons of feed. Flames bursting through the roof were the first indication of the fire. After liberating the fowls and a pig from the lower part of the barn, the neighbors efforts were directed to preventing the fire igniting the sawmill and other building in which they were successful.

Among the most active of the early session was Amulet, which closed at 536 for a slight advance. Barry Hollinger showed 1¼ better at 93¾, Hollinger Consolidated was steady at 17.30, slightly higher, Teck Hughes firmed at 10.29, Castle Trathewey was one up at 84, and Nipissing closed for a small gain of 755. Operators For Advance In Control In New York

NEW YORK, Oct. 24.—(Canadian Press.)—An over extensive short interest in many stocks was given a severe twist in to-day's stock market when operators for the advance mustered their forces for a vigorous campaign. Some liquidation of impaired margin accounts occurred at the outset, but the various stocks were staunchly supported and the whole list began to rise in spirited fashion. The banks called some fifteen million in loans without serious strain on the credit situation. By early afternoon a profusion of two to three point advances was scattered through the list. United Drug and Sterling products were up seven, International Harvester 6½, Commercial Solvents, Baldwin, and Houston Oil 5%.

Industrial Shares Weak On Toronto Exchange

TORONTO, Oct. 24. — (Canadian Press.)— Industrials were somewhat weaker and liquor stocks stronger in comparatively light trading on the Toronto stock exchange to-day. City Dairy led the recession with a drop of two points at 198. Goodyear, among the unlisted group, was two down at 114, International Nickel 7 weaker at 64¾, Brazilian one down at 190½, and British American Oil slightly lower at 32½. Trading was fairly active in the liquor group, with Walkers 1¼ higher at 60, Gooderham and Worts was one better at 58. Spanish River, in the paper group, showed among the best gains of the morning, being up 2 5-8 at 129 7-8, and Abitibi advanced one at 135.

Wheat Price Set New Season's Low

CHICAGO, Oct. 24 (Canadian Press).—With favorable weather facilitating rapid movement of the grain crop, all deliveries of wheat again cut under the season's low price record. Corn also turned easier, influenced by large receipts here, 525 cars. Opening unchanged at 1½c off, wheat later showed losses all around. Corn started at ⅝c decline to ¼c advance and subsequently underwent a general sag. Oats were easy. Provisions headed down grade.

Opening prices were: Wheat, December 121¾, March 125¾. Corn, December 82¼, March 87¼. Oats, December 45⅝, March 47⅝c.

ROTARY HEARS ABOUT BELLS IN SPLENDID PAPER

David Spence Tells Club How They Are Made and How Used.

CHRISTMAS SHOW.

Rotarian Fletcher Proposes Concert To Secure Funds For Relief.

Bells, their antiquity and composition, the manner in which they are made and the various uses to which they have been and are being put, formed the subject matter of a most interesting paper by David Spence before the Peterborough Rotary Club at its weekly luncheon today.

Mr. Spence has made a deep study of the history of bells and the results of his research work were found in an address full of unusual information. It was illustrated by a number of models which helped to make the speaker's explanation more impressive.

Mr. Spence, who was introduced by Rotarian Peder Westby, first dealt with the early history of bells, showing that they were first heard of thousands of years ago and tracing their introduction into various countries. Interesting figures as to some of the world's greatest bells were supplied by the speaker, who remarked that the largest bell in the world was to be found in Moscow, and the two largest on this continent in Montreal and Cincinnati.

The best materials for bell metals, Mr. Spence said, had been found to be copper and tin, in the proportion of about 3¼ to 1. The speaker gave the details of tests of other alloys that had been tried, none of them producing such satisfactory results as the copper and tin. He explained in detail the manner in which bells are made, taking as his example the manufacture of the big bell now in Cincinnati.

In conclusion, Mr. Spence pointed out the very many uses to which bells were put, showing that they entered into almost every phase of life.

A vote of thanks to the speaker was moved by Rotarian R. G. Kingan.

During the meeting Rotarian Doug. Fletcher announced that with the co-operation of the Rotary and Kiwanis Club, the Salvation Army and the Canadian Legion, he proposed to hold a Christmas Midnight Show, the proceeds of which were to be devoted to Christmas cheer for those in need of assistance.

It was announced that the Rotary-Annes would hold a dance in the new Ford building on Thursday night and a call for volunteers for Wednesday night to assist in decorating the building was enthusiastically responded to by members of the club.

MONDAY, OCTOBER 24, 1927.

THE HALLOWE'EN PARTY.

The Examiner, in making possible a second community Hallowe'en celebration, has been encouraged to do so because of the co-operation accorded the first celebration last year by citizens generally, and because of the splendid conduct shown by everybody.

There was plenty of fun—but no rowdyism or unseemly behaviour recorded, and the result was that the country correspondent's favourite phrase, "A good time was had by all," could be applied with every justification to last year's most successful event.

We feel quite safe in counting upon similar co-operation from the good people of the city and district a week from tonight, and in hoping for even a greater community celebration than last year's, wonderful as that was in view of the most disagreeable weather conditions.

The Examiner's invitation is to everybody to take part: we want the event to be a real community affair in which the whole district will participate and out of which everybody will be able to extract the last ounce of fun, without any aftermath of damaged property.

GETTING BETTER?

Is the safety campaign producing results?

Whether or not the publicity being given to the necessity of co-operation in preventing accidents can be assigned the full credit the fact remains that an improvement in driving conditions is to be noted locally.

A check-up at the corner of George and Hunter streets yesterday as to the manner in which the stop signs are being obeyed showed very gratifying results.

In the forty minutes this corner was under observation—and the traffic was heavy—only one car failed to stop, and it bore an outside number.

The conditions at this and other busy corners show an improvement over those prevailing before the stop street plan was adopted that is a complete justification of that method of dealing with traffic.

Whereas under the old haphazard system there were such frequent narrow escapes from collisions at intersections that on-lookers were continually holding their breath, it was noticeable yesterday that in spite of heavy traffic there were no such "close calls" as in bygone days.

The stop street plan, now that motorists are generally co-operating, is a thorough success.

BIG BILL AND HIS CAMPAIGN.

The task of American stage comedians in trying to produce anything funnier than Mayor Thompson's shadow warfare with His Majesty King George makes them subjects for general pity.

Chicago's Mayor is out-burlesquing burlesque.

He professes to see British propagandists everywhere.

The "decadent" British Empire is plotting, according to "Big Bill" to bring the United States back under the Union Jack.

King George is seeking to kick the props from under the Republic, Mr. Thompson professes to believe, and then he thumps himself on the chest and assures his constituents that they have no need to be afraid so long as he is on the job to put the British King in his place.

And to show that he means business he is going to make a bonfire out of every book in the Public Library that he thinks shows a British prejudice.

Mayor Thompson is succeeding merely in making his city the prize "boob" town of the world—and surely there are enough intelligent people in Chicago to see to it that he does not get another chance after his present term has expired.

PETERBOROUGH TO THE FORE.

The launching of the Peterborough Aero Club is making it possible for this city to be the first in Canada to qualify for the two light planes proffered by the Department of Defence, and the officers of the new organization will leave no stone unturned in their efforts to put Peterborough to the front in the realm of aviation.

The development of air services is likely to be rapid from now on, and the city that recognizes that fact and makes plans to be ready for such development is going to profit.

In this respect Peterborough is very fortunately situated.

The Canadian Air Services Company has already blazed the trail.

It has a registered air field, and its success this year in training pupils has advertised this city far and wide as a flying centre.

With the company decided on remaining here, despite efforts from other points to have its school moved elsewhere, and with a properly constituted Aero Club soon in a position to apply for the Government planes, Peterborough's prestige from an aviation viewpoint will be secure.

HYPNOTIZING CHICAGO.

Can a city be hypnotized?

Mrs. Kate Sargent, special investigator for the Forum Magazine, who recently visited Chicago, says that it can be done and that Mayor "Big Bill" Thompson did it when he got himself elected.

This is the way Mrs. Sargent sees it:

"It was a quite simple demonstration of post-hypnotic suggestion that Chicago gave at the polls last spring.

"The mayoralty election had all the earmarks of a national event. Big Bill, the master hypnotist, saw to that. He ventured upon only one local issue, the 'wide open' city. For the rest, he chose international matters; opposition to the World Court and a warning to King George to keep out of Chicago. It was swash-buckling in the grand style, and the fact that these questions had nothing to do with the mayoralty gave no trouble whatever. Chicago rose to him.

"Under the fascination of his peculiar genius it fell into a hypnotic sleep; sang when he told it to sing, groaned when he told it to groan, waved imaginary flags when he shouted 'America First!' and became obediently inflamed over the predatory designs of King George upon Chicago.

"Making his passes, the hypnotist commanded: 'You will now forget the real needs of Chicago until after the election. You will not think of traction or subways, Samuel Insull, campaign funds, graft at City Hall, or anything at all about my previous administrations. If these things are mentioned, you will not hear. You will bear in mind that King George wants to run your affairs and you will vote for Big Bill, and he will defy King George and protect you."

WINDSOR AGAIN.

Windsor, Ont., which has received some unpleasant notoriety, due to conditions said to have developed since Government control came into effect, has again come into the limelight with the announcement of the Methodist Board of Temperance, Prohibition and Public Morals of the United States, that conditions there are much worse than on the American side of the border. Were one to believe the report, he would find Detroit, with its 200 per cent. increase in murders, an earthly paradise compared to naughty Windsor. But many unprejudiced people, especially those familiar with conditions on both sides of the border, will doubt the accuracy of this report.

It is the business of this board "to find" that conditions are better wherever so-called prohibition prevails. Can anyone conceive of it reporting that conditions are better under Government control than under the Volstead Act? This is not the mission of the board. It starts out with the idea that America, under its dry law, is decidedly better than Canada under Government control, and it is a safe bet to say that it will discover nothing to make it alter its views. Prejudiced investigators can generally find what they start out to find. It has been often said that a person can buttress almost any kind of an argument with quotations from the Bible. And so the investigator can find facts and figures to support his theory.

Substantial citizens of Windsor, naturally, take vigorous exception to the report of this Methodist Board, which gives their city a black eye, while it seeks to pin wings onto Detroit. And many others who are familiar with conditions in both cities will not for a moment agree that the Canadian city is worse as regards immorality, crime and intemperance than its American neighbor.

Inaccuracies and mis-statements contained in the report of the board will cause many to doubt the accuracy of its findings. For instance, we are told that the citizens of Windsor "are encouraged to get drunk in their own homes, where they may beat their families uninterrupted." Those who know anything about the Ontario liquor control law know that it does not encourage drunkeanss in the home, and the beating of families. Provision is made for the cancelling of the permits of those who ill-treat or neglect their families through indulgence in liquor. The statement of the board savors of deliberate misrepresentation. Another section of the report, which is diametrically opposed to the facts, declares that "Ontario, betrayed by its Government, which acted directly contrary to the wishes of the voters expressed at the polls, has joined Quebec in the so-called Government control." Everyone in Ontario knows that the Government acted expressly in accord with the wishes of the electors when it placed Government control on the statute books. A board that can misrepresent things the way this Methodist board has done is quite capable of bringing in a report in line with its preconceived ideas.

Perhaps conditions along the Ontario border are not as good as they might be, but this is due largely to the fact that the lawless and thirsty of the United States are being attracted thereto. The Volstead Act has failed to make these law-abiding. So, if there is lawlessness in Ontario, it can be checked up against the vaunted dry law of the American Republic, which has not made its people sober or eradicated their thirst. If the Methodist Board of Temperance, Prohibition and Public Morals desires to be of a real service, let it cease to bury its head in the sand when prohibition is mentioned. If it keeps its eyes and ears open it will find it has plenty of work to do on its own side of the border without misrepresenting conditions in Ontario. — St. Catharines Standard.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

Mayor Thompson of Chicago will be getting after the billiard players next because of the amount of English they put on their shots.

A Moderation League friend says he always knew there was something crazy about a city that wanted to steal water. And now "Big Bill" Thompson has proved it.

The victory of the Tigers in Ottawa on Saturday has caused more pained feelings in the capital than anything ever said in an election campaign about the Civil Service.

Perhaps Mayor Thompson thinks those Canadian hockey players who will wear the Chicago uniforms this winter are also some of King George's propagandists.

Any day now you're likely to read something about doing your Christmas shopping early.

"Care and courtesy" might also be adopted as a slogan for the Inter-Provincial Conference.

With the Meighen-Ferguson bout and the Baptist convention over, the dove of peace will have a brief chance to flutter its wings before the U.F.O. annual meeting.

MONTREAL GRAIN AND PRODUCE

MONTREAL, Oct. 24 (Canadian Press).—The export trade in grain in the Montreal market Saturday was quiet, there being only a few loads of wheat sold over the cable.

The domestic trade in oats was also quiet, the demand being only for odd cars and prices were about steady.

A feature of the flour trade was the weaker feeling that developed for Spring wheat grades and prices were reduced 10 cents per barrel. This was attributed to the limited demand of late.

There was no change in prices announced for winter wheat flour owing to the fact that the offerings from Ontario millers for shipment in all positions continued small.

The undertone to the market for all lines of millfeed continued steady and the demand was good. The market for standard grades of rolled oats was steady from the Port of Montreal from October 13 to October 22, were 44,297 bales. All shipments were to United Kingdom ports. The local and export trade Saturday was fair.

A moderate amout of business was done in eggs and values were steady. The receipts Saturday were 409 cases.

An easier feeling prevailed in the butter market, but there was no further change in prices. The demand was quiet. The receipts were 564 packages.

A fair amount of business was done in cheese with United States buyers, but the English and local demand was dull. Prices were unchanged. The receipts were 5,096 boxes.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, Oct. 24 (Canadian Press).—Onward rush of Canadian wheat intensified on Saturday, and all deliveries of wheat broke again through the season's low price record. Corn values, however, turned upward, helped by estimates that 1,000,000 bushels of corn had been taken for export.

Closing quotations on wheat were nervous, ⅝c to ⅞c net lower, with corn showing ¼c to ⅝c advance; oats at ⅛c to ⅜c gain, and provisions varying from 30c decline to a rise of 10c.

It was announced that country wheat arrivals in Canada Friday had overtopped any previous figures for a single day. The aggregate was 6,489,000 bushels against 3,522,000 bushels a year ago. In addition, the market was bearishly affected by a Canadian forecast that ideal weather for threshing would prevail over Sunday, and by trade gossip that the maximum weight of the Canadian crop had not yet been felt.

Accentuating wheat market weakness were reports of welcome rain in Argentina, together with an official estimate that Argentina has seeded 400,000 more acres of wheat than a year ago. Besides, revised world crop estimates Saturday placed the yield of wheat in thirty-three countries of 3,024,000,000 bushels compared with 2,810,000,000 bushels last year. On the other hand, Liverpool wheat quotations Saturday were relatively firm, and there was talk current that breaks in wheat values on this side of the Atlantic had brought about considerable export business in flour.

Corn prices showed a decided upward trend throughout the day owing largely to persistent talk of corn export business. Continental Europe was said to have brought new crop United States corn Saturday, and a cargo was also said to have been purchased for December shipment to Liverpool. Assertions were also made that about 1,000,000 bushels of export corn had been worked from the southwest and that it was expected much more would follow. Oats were swayed by the action of corn.

Provisions were easier, sympathizing with hogs and grain.

NEW YORK HAD SLAVERY.

NEW YORK, Oct. 22.—Human slavery was abolished in New York State 100 years ago. As the result of ceaseless agitation by abolitionists, in 1799 the Legislature passed a bill for the gradual emancipation of slaves. This was amended by an act which slavery should not exist in the State after July 4, 1827.

A Thought For To-day

THE LITTLE THINGS.

The importance of the thing does not always depend on its size. The skeleton insect that rises from the swamp is a dozen times more dangerous than was the dragon of mythical days.

You can stab or slay a big animal, but a little ant will crawl up your pants and set you crazy.

You know your big faults and you defend yourself against them; but the sand-fly faults, the little mosquito faults bite you, poison you, and you swell up with the disease of selfkonseet.

A microbe can make you more trouble than a man-eating lion. You can shoot the king of beasts, but you cannot swat the microbe.

Keep both eyes open for the little things. The big things you can see with one eye closed.

One little word may mean more than a typewritten page. The short, snappy word, "No!" will often hurt you more than a thrust from a double-curved yataghan.

MOUNT PLEASANT NEWS.

MOUNT PLEASANT, Oct. 22.—On Sunday, October 23rd, special thanksgiving services were held in St. John's church, Ida, morning and evening, conducted by Rev Crissall of Perrytown. At the evening service there was special music by the full choir of the parish.

Mr. and Mrs. George White and children of Minden spent Sunday with friends in the village.

Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Courtney have returned to their home in Newburg after spending a few days at the home of the former's sister, Miss Margaet Courtney, in the village.

Miss Mabel Eggleston of Ida spent Sunday with friends in the village.

Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Handley and Mr. and Mrs. T. G. Lowe were guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Cann, Peterborough, on Sunday.

Mrs. George Jamieson spent Tuesday with friends in Peterborough.

On Wednesday evening a number of friends were entertained at the home of Miss Margaret Courtney in the form of a birthday party in honor of Miss Courtney. The guests included: Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Courtney, Newburg, Mr. and Mrs. S. Paragreen, Mrs. J. W. Thexton, Mr. and Mrs. T. W. Jamieson, Mr. and Mrs. R. Graham, Mr. and Mrs. J. Handley, Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Best and children, Grace Elias and Master Tom, Mrs. Rosenburg, Mrs. Rutherford, Mrs. Elson, Mrs. W. Downer, Mr. and Mrs. Jamieson, Mrs. G. McLean, Mrs. Joseph Lowe, Mrs. J. Fee, and Mrs. J. Best.

WISE AND OTHERWISE.

The government of Russia has fired Leon Trotzky again. We can't remember the day but understand that Trotzky usually gets fired on a Saturday night.

The American people spend ten times as much money for sugar as for books, some statistician has announced. The pantry is mightier than the library.

An eastern editor says the average driver would rather lose his right to vote than his right to operate a car. The distinction seems to be that he uses his car.

If this election graft keeps up, maybe we'll have to start appointing our public officials.

"SAFETY HIGHWAY CAMPAIGN"

To the Editor of The Examiner,
Dear Sir:

All are requested to endeavor to carry into effect the above. Such being the case I would draw the attention of those who use the highways of the County and the streets of the City to the fact that the large licensed motor cars that take the place of the street railway and other transfer vehicles, use very moderate lights and at the same time take advantage of the legal speed limit and find no inconvenience as a result of such moderate lights, whilst the majority of motorists use such strong lights, that it becomes necessary, for those whom they meet, to stop in good time and wait until such bright lights have passed in order to evade an upset into the ditch, due to being temporarily blinded.

Also I would respectfully draw the attention of those in authority to the parking of cars and trucks on McDonnell Street immediately west of the drinking trough on the north side of Confederation Park or at one of the most dangerous corners in the city, with numerous accidents reported at such corner. At almost any hour of the day or night from one to three motor vehicles are packed there, and there being a gas station directly opposite, necessitating cars stopping there practically constantly, leaves a narrow driveway which is sometimes filled with teams, waiting on one another in order to give the dumb animal a drink (the object of erecting and maintaining such drinking facility).

The gas station is a legal provision—the drinking trough a necessity, but why making a parking spot at so great a risk.

Respectfully yours,
City Ratepayer.

SAINT and SINNER

By ANNE AUSTIN

Faith waited for her husband, her body rigid on the bed that was separated from Bob's by only a few inches. Was it possible that he could come into that room made sacred by their love, undress, get into bed, lie so near her because of habit and convenience, in an intimacy that love had made beautiful but which now seemed indecent to her? She had the sudden conviction which comes to all wives when their husbands momentarily become strangers to them that sharing a room, abandoning all personal privacy was indecent, excusable only when love demands intimacy. The absurd thought came to her as she heard him moving about the dark room that there should be a chamber in every married couple's home where husband or wife could retire when spiritual ruptures came, so that that which love had made beautiful should not be made obscene by necessity.

He did not speak, but the room was suddenly heavy and pregnant with his pain, his anger, his shame and his disgust with himself and her. Through the dark it flowed over her, stifling the questions she had made up her mind to ask, questions which she knew might well complete the wreck of her house of love. She had vowed to herself to say: "Do you love me?" and "Do you love Cherry? Do you want her?" But suffocated in the miasma of his mood she could say nothing. And why ask, anyway? Were not these poisonous emanations of his mood answer enough—to both questions?

The suddenness with which his voice ripped through the dark as he flung himself upon his bed—he had made no effort to keep quiet, so as not to awaken her if she were sleeping—made her dig her nails into her palms.

"You haven't thanked me yet for clearing out and leaving your new sheik a clear field. Rather decent of me, I think. Quite the modern husband!"

She had no power at first to answer him.

"Oh, Bob! Please!" she spoke at last, in a strangled voice.

"Going to be tragic?" His jeer cut through the darkness into her heart. "I should think you'd be feeling quite triumphant, after having entertained brilliantly, fanned the flame of love in the breast of an old admirer, annexed a new one—your sister's erstwhile adorer—and sent your disillusioned husband storming out of the house in a jealous rage. Quite an achievement for a woman who is known far and wide as a model wife and devoted sister. It takes these patent-leather-haired experts in love to show up a poor, trusting fool of a husband!"

Anger so fierce that it seemed to consume every atom of her love for him flowed in a hot tide over her body, spilled out of her shaking lips:

"How contemptible you are, Bob Hathaway! How utterly contemptible! Pretending to be jealous of me and Bruce Patton and poor George Pruitt, one of the best friends either of us ever had! You—jealous because of me! You make me laugh!" And she did laugh, a terrible sound in the hate-laden dark. "How beautifully simple it would be if you were!" She paused, realizing suddenly to what incredible lengths they had gone in this first serious quarrel of theirs. Then her voice came again, a passionate plea for honesty, truth, from him, no matter what the consequences: "Bob, why can't you tell me what's really in your heart and mind? Be honest with me, for the sake of what little love you ever had for me!"

Uncle Wiggily

By HOWARD R. GARIS

To-day's Bedtime Story

UNCLE WIGGILY AND THE SCARE CROW.

(Copyright, 1927, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

Once upon a time, as Uncle Wiggily was hopping around in the woods, looking for some dried mushrooms that he might take home to his wife, the rabbit gentleman heard a noise behind him. It was a noise made by some one walking in the rustling leaves on the ground, and at once Mr. Longears hopped inside a hollow stump that grew near by and peered through a hole in the side.

"For," said Uncle Wiggily to himself, "that sounds like the Bob Cat walking in the dried leaves, and I don't want him to catch me."

But one look through the hole in the side of the stump showed the rabbit gentleman that it was only Baby Bunty who was rustling the dried leaves, and of course out hopped Uncle Wiggily to greet the little orphan rabbit.

"What are you doing alone here in the woods?" asked the bunny uncle.

"I am just coming home from school," Bunty replied. "I stayed in to help the Lady Mouse Teacher clean off the blackboards, and now I am going to your bungalow by the short cut through the woods and over the corn field."

"I'll go with you," said Uncle Wiggily "as I don't seem able to find an adventure today."

But an adventure was waiting for the rabbit gentleman just a little way ahead, though he did not know it. So Uncle Wiggily hopped along with Baby Bunty until, all of a sudden they hopped out of the woods and found themselves on the edge of a big corn field that was owned by a farmer man who lived not far away. The stalks of corn had been cut and piled into what looked to be small Indian tents, though they were called shocks.

Peering through the rows of corn shocks, Uncle Wiggily and Baby Bunty saw what they thought was a very ragged man with a gun standing in the field. Bunty pulled Mr. Longears by the paw and cried:

"Come on! Let's run! There's a hunter with a gun and he'll shoot you! Uncle Wiggily! Run! Hop fast!"

"I guess that would be a wise thing to do!" said the rabbit gentleman. He was just making sure that his pink, twinkling nose was fastened on tight

"I'm not a hunter," chuckled the ragged man.

so it wouldn't drop off as he hopped when the ragged man waved one flapping coat sleeve at the two rabbits and said:

"Don't be afraid. Don't run away I won't hurt you!"

"But you have a gun and it may shoot by accident," said Uncle Wiggily.

"Ha! Ha! That isn't a gun; it's only a stick made to look like a gun to fool the crows!" chuckled the ragged man. "I'm not a hunter."

"What are you then?" asked Baby Bunty.

Before the ragged man could answer Uncle Wiggily said:

"Oh, I know this gentleman now. I have seen him before though not lately because the corn was too high. But since the corn has been cut and piled into shocks I can see him more plainly."

"Who is he?" asked Baby Bunty.

"A Scare Crow," answered the rabbit uncle.

"That's just who I am," said the ragged man, "and I am so glad to have somebody to talk to. Please come over here and visit with me a while. Since the corn grew too big for the crows to pull up I have had nothing to do, and I am so lonesome. Come and talk to me."

As there was nothing to fear, Uncle Wiggily and Baby Bunty hopped toward the Scare Crow. They saw that he was nothing but an old ragged coat and trousers of the farmer filled with straw. The head of the Scare Crow was made of a bundle of rags with a white rag for a face, and the man's eyes, nose, and mouth were made of charcoal. As he had said his gun was just a crooked stick.

"But I like the Scare Crow just the same," whispered Baby Bunty. "He looks so jolly."

"I feel more jolly, now that you have come over to talk to me," said the Scare Crow. "I have often heard of you, Uncle Wiggily. Please tell me something of your adventures."

"Oh, he has wonderful adventures!" cried Baby Bunty, clapping her paws. "Tell him some, Unkie Wig!"

"Well, I might tell you a short one to keep you from being lonesome," said the rabbit gentleman slowly. But before he could start, all of a sudden Baby Bunty cried:

"Oh, Uncle Wiggily! Here comes the Bushy Bear to get us! Oh!"

Surely enough, stalking his way through the shocks of corn, shuffled the hungry Bear.

"Don't be afraid of him, Uncle Wiggily!" whispered the Scare Crow. "I will save you from the Bear!" And how the Scare Crow did that you shall hear tomorrow night, when the story will be about Uncle Wiggily and the Bear. But I do hope the kitchen faucet doesn't sprinkle water down the back of the rocking chair and make it catch cold; don't you?

PUPILS GO ON STRIKE

800 pupils of the Emerson High School, Gary, Ind., who went on strike for the most part of a week because the school permitted the entrances of 25 negro students, returned to school when the City Council passed a bill appropriating $15,000 for a new High School for the negroes. The photo shows a group of strikers at a protest meeting, before the City Council took action.

HOROSCOPE

The Stars Incline, but do not Compel.

Tuesday, October 25, 1927.

(Copyright, McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

Although the configuration for to-day, according to the reading of astrology, appears rather uncertain, there is a strongly benefic aspect dominant.

There is a sign read as favorable to those who buy, but forbidding for those who sell.

Machinery will be wonderfully developed by means of new inventions, it is forecast, and a great number of new patents will be issued in the new year.

Tremendous engineering feats will be planned and executed in 1928, the seers prophesy, and among them will be carried out novel ideas in national defense.

Russia is subject to a planetary government that seems to presage trade relations which will bring prosperity to the country.

English women will attract world attention, it is prognosticated, by demands for greater political liberty and important economic reforms.

The Prince of Wales will come into the limelight as never before when the new year is well advanced, it is foretold.

South Africa and Australia will attract many enterprising men and women of the United States, if the stars are wisely interpreted.

Discoveries of wealth in states long settled is foretold. The earth is to yield rare minerals for strange uses.

Again, public health will come much into national interest for the winter will bring more than one epidemic, it is forecast.

Both women and children may be peculiarly susceptible to disease in the coming winter and they should safeguard the throat and lungs.

Deaths, due to rapid transit, will continue to be as numerous as casualties in a war, if the seers are to be believed. Automobiles will kill an increased number of persons in the United States.

Persons whose birthdate it is have the augury of a year of adventures. Many pleasant experiences are forecast.

Children born on this day will succeed with little trouble in all probability. Many subjects of this sign wear uniforms.

Gardiner, Maine, reports a fastidious woman of that city who has had her automobile number plates repainted to match the deep orange which is the predominating hue of her costly car. The color is considerably darker than the yellow tint of the official Maine license plate, but apparently it is near enough to the original color to be sanctioned by the officials.

DRESS

By MARY MARSHALL

Conservatism and smartness are combined in this new maid's uniform of brown mohair worn with a cream organdie apron, cap, collar and cuffs edged with cream lace. A brown ribbon band holds the cap in place and fastens at the back in a flat bow.

To the seasoned housewife the question of what a maid can do usually counts for a good deal more than what she is willing to wear. The question of uniforms is more or less incidental where there is only a single maid. But to the young woman daughter of the family uniforms seem vastly important.

I have been reading Dorothy Scarborough's new novel, "Impatient Griselda." If you have been reading it too you may recall the twenty-year-old Lilith's attitude on the subject. She goes to dine at the Winthrops' in New York and sees "the footman in wine-colored livery, who opened the door for her, the butler in evening dress hovering by—the exquisitely appointed bedroom in which a maid, smart in her gray taffeta and crisp white apron, assisted her with her primping—all awed her with their perfection." And then: "The dinner was a shimmering delight, with its table softly gay with flowers and candles and silver, the easy talk in which she joined as deftly as the others, the laughter light as soap bubbles. As in a background, past three liveried footmen, Lilith saw the supper table at the parsonage, with Sheba in her sloppy dress and rundown heels, slamming the dishes on the table and leaving the family to wait on themselves."

Perhaps it would have been out of the question to expect the hard-worked Sheba to appear other than she did, but there is no reason in most families why the maid of all works cannot wear a trim uniform. And if there are twenty-year-old daughters in the family this bit of formality seems extremely important.

Today's sketch shows the afternoon uniform chosen by one well-informed woman for her one only maid. The mohair gown is of brown, but black or dark gray, dark green, dark blue or mulberry might be chosen instead. Such frocks may be bought ready made at a surprisingly low price or might be made at home for even less. The skirt is fairly long, showing an attractive margin below the short, smart little apron.

HEALTH ASSOCIATION HELPS UNFORTUNATE

Gives Medical Advice and Nourishing Food to Needy.

We like to refer to Peterborough as a city of homes. We like to take visitors for a drive around the city and show them our streets of comfortable houses with well kept lawns. We like to impress upon our guests the fact that the great majority of people in Peterborough own their own homes.

This may all be true, but in every city of this size there are some less fortunate than others, and it is among those the Peterborough Health Association is doing its self-sacrificing work. Not only is medical advice given them, but what is of equal importance, they are supplied with milk, eggs and other nourishments that will build up frames ravished by illness and suffering. There is also a kindly and understanding sympathy which goes with it all, and is perhaps of equal value.

This work is going on quietly and unobtrusively the year around. Each day brings new patients and sees others made well, and the general public knows very little of it. Business houses have their names upon their delivery vans, but the car driven by the Health Association nurse bears no insigna, as it threads its way through our streets day after day.

This is a work that affects every one, it touches our whole city, and when you are asked to purchase some health stamps, in order that this work so urgently needed, may go on, just remember those who are giving freely of their knowledge and skill, their time and energy the year around, without a thought of compensation, remember those whose suffering is eased and illness cured, and be thankful you are given an opportunity to share in the work.

BOYS WIN TRIPS TO WINTER FAIR

Junior Farmers of Durham Hold Judging Competition at Bethany.

About fifty Junior Farmers of Durham County took part in the annual Judging Competition on live stock, poultry, grain, roots, fruits and vegetables held at Bethany on Wednesday October 19th. Increased interest was taken in this event this year owing to the fact that the ten highest boys between the ages of 16 and 23 will be given a free, four day trip to the Royal Show in Toronto in November.

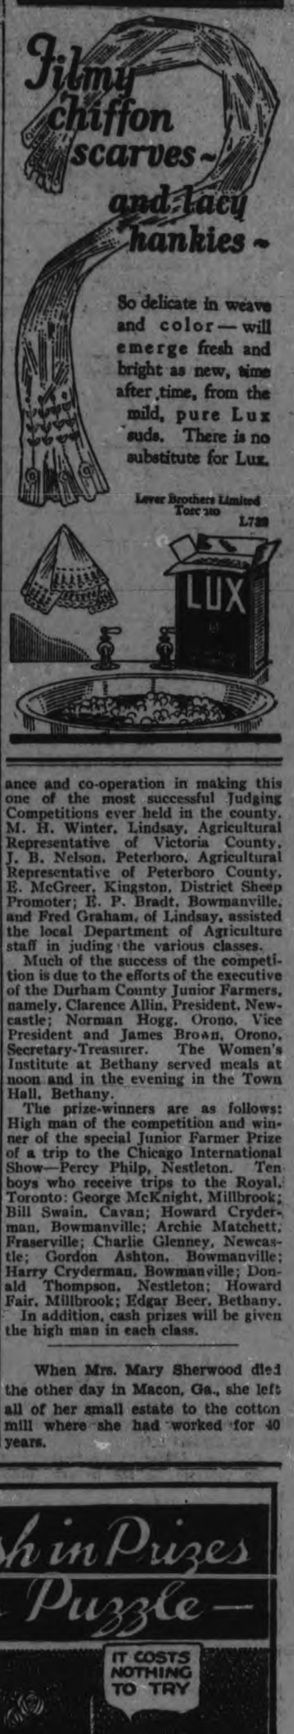
Splendid classes had been arranged by the Bethany Junior Farmers and Agricultural Representative J. Y. Kellough of Port Hope, assisted by Prof. J. A. Neilson, Port Hope. Live stock were obtained from R. J. McKnight, Millbrook, J. Smith, Clarence Neale and H. O'Brien of Bethany. Those in charge of the competition are very grateful to these men for their assistance and co-operation in making this one of the most successful Judging Competitions ever held in the county. M. H. Winter, Lindsay, Agricultural Representative of Victoria County, J. B. Nelson, Peterboro, Agricultural Representative of Peterboro County, E. McGreer, Kingston, District Sheep Promoter; E. P. Bradt, Bowmanville, and Fred Graham, of Lindsay, assisted the local Department of Agriculture staff in juding the various classes.

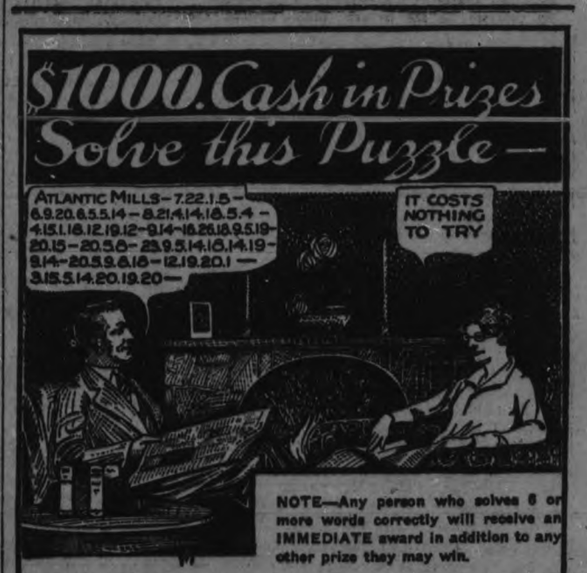
Much of the success of the competition is due to the efforts of the executive of the Durham County Junior Farmers, namely, Clarence Allin, President, Newcastle; Norman Hogg, Orono, Vice President and James Brown, Orono, Secretary-Treasurer. The Women's Institute at Bethany served meals at noon and in the evening in the Town Hall, Bethany.

The prize-winners are as follows: High man of the competition and winner of the special Junior Farmer Prize of a trip to the Chicago International Show—Percy Philp, Nestleton. Ten boys who receive trips to the Royal, Toronto: George McKnight, Millbrook; Bill Swain, Cavan; Howard Cryderman, Bowmanville; Archie Matchett, Fraserville; Charlie Glenney, Newcastle; Gordon Ashton, Bowmanville; Harry Cryderman, Bowmanville; Donald Thompson, Nestleton; Howard Fair, Millbrook; Edgar Beer, Bethany.

In addition, cash prizes will be given the high man in each class.

When Mrs. Mary Sherwood died the other day in Macon, Ga., she left all of her small estate to the cotton mill where she had worked for 40 years.





NOTE—Any person who solves 6 or more words correctly will receive an IMMEDIATE award in addition to any other prize they may win.

W.M.S. EXECUTIVE REGULAR MEETING

Presbyterian Ladies of Kingston Presbyterial Meet at Belleville.

An executive meeting of the Kingston Presbyterial Women's Mission Society, Presbyterian Church in Canada, was held in Belleville on October 14, Mrs. Duff presiding.

The Treasurer reported that receipts to date were $1,173.36. Mrs. Jenkins, Mission Band Secretary, gave an excellent account of the successful rally recently held at Madoc. Seventy-seven children were present, and great interest centered around the banner which was earned this year by the Picton "Little Messengers." This banner is of blue satin beautifully decorated with the burning bush in the centre. The Willing Workers of Burnbrae came second, and were awarded a picture.

Mrs. Leischman, Library Secretary, has sent 100 books to Cobden and 70 books to Cochrane. She would be glad of more contributions.

Mrs. Duff gave a most interesting account of the meeting of the Provincial Board held last week in Toronto. The total receipts for nine months are $47,724.00.

Maps, showing the mission fields, allotted to the Presbyterians will be ready by spring, and lantern views are now available for the cost of express.

It was strongly urged on all Presbyterial Secretaries to report promptly to the Provincial Secretaries.

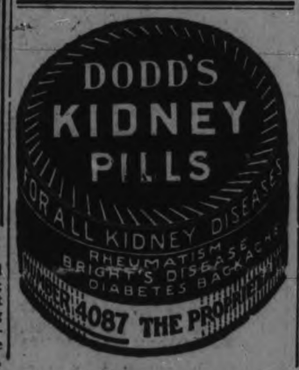
The annual prayer service will be held on the first Friday in January.

Mrs. Duff also gave an account of the missionary in British Guiana, one of the fields given to the Presbyterians. The country is a poor one, with bad roads, and the houses are built on posts to keep them out of the mud. The work done is mainly amongst the Hindus.

It was arranged that, if possible, the next Executive meeting be held in Gananoque in March, at the same time as the Presbytery.

Tea was then served and the meeting adjourned.

Contrary to popular belief, Switzerland has a navy, although no war vessels. A merchant marine plies up the Rhine as far as Rotterdam and even makes an occasional voyage to England.



YOUNG PEOPLE HOLD MEETING

Roseneath Orchestra Provides Musical Programme at Regular League Meeting.

LARGE ATTENDANCE.

ROSENEATH, Oct. 24.—The meeting of the Young People's League held this week was extra well attended. The president, Mrs. Reg. Crego, presided, which was conducted in the regular way. The Roseneath local orchestra were present and rendered several selections which were very much enjoyed and appreciated. Their music gave a pleasing variety and freshness to the meeting.

A motion was made that the Young People's Leagues of the district be invited to hold their annual convention at Roseneath next year. Mrs. Crego reported that the sum of $9.00 was made by the candy sale during the concert on Fair night.

It was moved and seconded that the vice-presidents purchase, as soon as possible, what material is needed to carry on the League work.

Mr. Howard H. Lapp then took charge of the meeting. Hymn 141 was sung, after which Mr. Geo. Turner read the Scripture lesson, Luke 11, verses 37-44. A violin solo was given by Mr. Borger and followed by a selection by the orchestra.

Rev. R. M. Brown gave a splendid talk on citizenship, bringing out a lesson for everybody, what it means to the community to have good citizens. It is evident that Rev. R. M. Brown has the young people interested in their new circles by the attendance given.

The Fenella people are holding a Hallow'een party on Friday evening, October 28th. A big time is anticipated.

St. James' W. A. meeting was held at the home of Mrs. Lottie Nichols on Thursday afternoon.

Mrs. Edwin Harvey is not enjoying very good health.

Mrs. J. Johnston returned to Toronto after a visit with friends and relatives in the village and community.

Mrs. Clarence Varcoe and Mrs. M. Adams went to Belleville on Thursday as delegates for the Women's Institute.

Mrs. Orra Varcoe was called to her daughters, Mrs. A. Comfort, Grimsby, who is seriously ill.

Mr. George Peters has the contract to build a new telephone office. He and his staff are progressing favorably.

Mr. Ezra Sherwin, who was badly burned is able to be out again.

The L.O.L. No. 261 are planning a dance in the hall here for November 4th.

WHO WOULDN'T JUMP?

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 24.—When a motorist passing through Niles Canyon saw a large tarantula in the road, he stopped and captured the poisonous spider in a coffee can. Later, while driving, he glanced down and saw the tarantula climbing up his trouser leg. The driver didn't wait to put on the brakes, but leaped out. The car and the spider went into a ditch.

WILL ORGANIZE BADMINTON CLUB

Lakefield Young People Are Interested in This Outdoor Game.

LAKEFIELD, Oct. 24.—A meeting was held on Thursday evening in the Memorial Hall to form a Badminton Club for Lakefield.

Badminton has become so popular and has had such a vogue in Canadian cities and towns that it was felt that a club in the village would be a great asset to the social life of the community. The popularity of the game and the amount of pleasure derived have induced several enterprising young people to make an effort to organize.

The attendance was not as large as one could wish, only about twelve being present, and it was decided to elect a committee to attend to the executive work of the club and delay electing permanent officers till the next meeting, which will be held on October 25.

Messrs. Kenneth Mackenzie, G. G. Connell, J. A. Creaser, C. S. Tanner and E. H. Northey were elected as members of the committee, with Mr. Creaser as Secretary-Treasurer pro tem. The Town Council are renting the hall to the club for $5.00 a month and only stipulate that the club will use the hall only when not otherwise required by the village. Enough fees were paid in during the evening to admit of a start being made, and the Secretary was instructed to have two courts marked out in the hall and to order racquets and balls. The fees are to be $2.00 each, and when two or more members of the same family are joining $1.00 for each additional member.

The next meeting, to be held at 8 o'clock in the hall on Tuesday evening, October 25th, will see the club regularly organized, and it is expected that the membership will reach at least fifty.

The present members are enthusiastic boosters for the fun which can be derived from the club.

WOOL RESEARCH BEING CONSIDERED

Plans Completed For Studies of Growing and Manufacturing.

Final practical plans for research work into wool growing and wool manufacturing in Canada, designed to help both farmers and the wool manufacturing industry, were completed at a meeting at the King Edward Hotel, Toronto, on Oct. 8th of a special committee of the National Research Council under the chairmanship of Dr. H. M. Tory of Alberta, president of the National Research Council.

One of the objects will be to determine why such a large part of Canadian wool is exported annually at favorable prices as compared to similar wool grown in other countries, while at the same time the importations of wool into Canada are even greater than the exports.

Basic considerations and methods of examination of Canadian wools were outlined in a report from Prof. J. P. Sackville, University of Alberta, with special reference to wools produced in the West. A. A. McMillan, Department of Agriculture, Ottawa, impressed the meeting with the importance of the sire in raising efficient flocks. Prof. Wade Toole, Ontario Agricultural College, Guelph, confirmed the impression that the ram was the most important study. Black fibre scattered through the fleece of some of the down breeds caused difficulties not only in Canada but in other countries. In this throwing of black fibre through the fleece some Shropshire rams imported from England had been bad offenders. And the same problem applies to other flocks as a result of imported rams of other breeds. He considered Canada should and could breed their own rams. Mr. Tisdale, of the Canadian Co-operative Wool Growers Association, confirmed this, stating that some imported Oxford rams had been guilty of the same offence so far as the occasional black fibre through the fleece.

Dr. Tory has for years been impressed with the necessity of breeding our own rams in Canada, that it could be done, and that organized assistance to that end would be given. G. E. O'Brien of the Canadian Co-operative Wool Growers, advised that great assistance could be given by devising methods for the elimination of black fibres in down breeds and to counteract the tendency of wool fibres to run out into course ends in some of the lower grades.

D. N. Panabaker, Canadian Woollen and Knit Goods Manufacturers Association, among other things discussed the basic statistics necessary for the National Research Council Work. J. C. McPherson, Dominion Bureau of Statistics, submitted methods used in other countries. An interim report on the quantities and qualities of wool used by Canadian mills was presented by Douglas Hallam, secretary of the Canadian Woollen Manufacturers' Association.

C. G. O'Brien, commenting on this report stated that undoubtedly the bulk of imported woollen goods was produced from types of wools which were or could be grown in Canada, at the same time the wools that are exported from Canada would and could make the bulk of the goods required by the Canadian people.

I. E. Westman, Canadian Colorist and Textile Processor, was of the opinion that there was a large and unexplored field for research work in the chemical properties of wool and D. H. Burton, London, of the Research Committee, of the woollen manufacturers, discussed methods of testing Canadian wools for their suitability for manufacture into types of cloths and knitted goods used in Canada. A. Dewhirst, Canadian Wool Dealers Association, G. B. Rothwell, Dominion Animal Husbandman, and F. E. Lathe, technical assistant to the National Research Council, added to the discussion.

Dr. Tory touched on the utilization for sheep raising of land in Canada unsuitable for other purposes, textile education through courses in technical schools, courses in universities, and the benefits of research work. Committees were formed to implement the plans outlined at this meeting.

In early Saxon marriages the father of the bride delivered one of his daughter's shoes to the bridegroom, who touched her head with it as a symbol of his authority. The present idea of throwing shoes after a bride and groom is a result of this custom.

CAVAN PERSONALS

CAVAN, Oct. 24—The Cavan Ladies' Aid held its October meeting at Mrs. James Douglas' home on Thursday afternoon. There was a good attendance. The chief business was in connection with the fowl dinner on Thanksgiving Day. Committees were named and plans made for the serving of the dinner and for the program following.

Miss Nettie Syer, Peterboro', is the guest of her aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. E. Syer.

Mrs F. M. Staples, on Sunday, motored with friends to Toronto to visit her sister, Mrs. H. Perrin, who is seriously ill

Mr. and Mrs. R. Matchett attended Bethany anniversary services on Sunday morning.

Dr. Edmund Syer, Hamilton, visited his mother, Mrs. M. Syer, Millbrook, recently. With his mother and sisters he motored to Cavan Centre and visited his aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. E. Syer, on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. T. Carscadden, Lindsay, with their two daughters, were recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. E. Syer.

Mr. and Mrs. R. Matchett attended the fowl dinner at Millbrook on Monday evening.

Messrs. Clare Winslow and Tom McCamus attended the ploughing match at Richmond Hill recently.

The Choral Class, which has met weekly in Cavan Community Hall, under the auspices of the Cavan Women's Institute, will have a concert on Friday evening, October 21. This will close the class for this fall.

The program will consist of choruses by the class; duets by Messrs. R. McCamus and C. Winslow; instrumental music; solos by Miss Daisy Murray; also a debate entitled, "Resolved, that the young man is justified in leaving the farm." The class has had a profitable and enjoyable time under the skilful teaching of Miss Daisy Murray.

QUEBEC MEN STILL MISSING

Engine Was Not Found Among the Wreckage of De Lesseps' Plane.

LIGHTED ON WATER

QUEBEC CITY, Oct. 24.—(Canadian Press).—Seachers Saturday were confining their efforts to find trace of the missing Count De Lesseps and his mechanic to the vicinity of Ste. Pelecite, Matane county where the wreckage of their plane was found Friday. The engine was missing from the plane and the opinion was expressed that they had attempted to remove it after alighting on the water but that the plane had probably overturned while they were doing so. G. C. Piche, chief of the Forestry Service, declared that it was possible the aviators had been picked up by a vessel unequipped with wireless. Both were experts at the work and the story of their flight against the treacherous conditions on St. Lawrence would be a remarkable one if it were known, he said.

ADDRESS BY SIR GEORGE FOSTER

yearly conference, however, but must have an executive to settle matters that come up in between, so the League has its executive committee of fourteen, which is always ready to act. This consists of one representative from each of five great powers and nine from the smaller countries, and Canada has been this year honored by election to a seat on this council.

An outgrowth of the League is the World Court, which sits in The Hague. When this was proposed before the war, men said it would not work because no great power would permit a dispute with a neigbbor to be settled by a bench of foreign judges. If it did permit the judges to consider the matter and lost out it would not obey the ruling and the court, without army or navy, could not enforce its decisions.

Incidents were cited by the speaker of procedure before the war and since. About 1906 Britain and France were on the verge of war, disputing for two years because a French officer had raised the French flag and claimed for his country a part of the Soudan which Britain claimed, and Kitchener had hauled the flag down. Since the war Britain and France have disputed heatedly about France conscripting the young British subjects living in Tunis and Morocco for service against the Riffs. They took this matter to the Court, however, and the decision against France was accepted. Even before Germany became a member of the League and of the Court she accepted a decision and paid a heavy fine for trouble arising from a dispute over the meaning of a clause in the Versailles Treaty.

People Behind League.

All this is possible only because the people are behind the League, whose success depends on the goodwill of the individual citizenship of its members. Briand could not have shaken hands with Stresemann in a friendly manner when Germany entered the League if the people of France had not been behind him and willing to accept and support his actions.

The engaging of the League of Nations in a number of economic and philanthropic efforts for the general good of mankind was also mentioned by the speaker as one of the things which resulted in people thinking peace. When the nations are working together on such things as the elimination of slavery and the combatting of social evils and various diseases, and discussing economic problems and labour difficulties, they are less likely to fight.

Sir George concluded with an invitation to all those present to join the Canadian League of Nations Society, and signed up a number of new members.

The musical part of the programme was of exceptional quality. Mrs. Dorothy Allan Park was forced to respond to two encores after her solo, while piano solos by Miss Agnes Logan and violin solos by Mrs. Percy Hooper were also well received and encores demanded.

The toast-list was short. That to the King was loyally honoured in the customary fashion ,and was followed by that to the Church, while that to the A.Y.P.A. followed Sir George Foster's address.

The Church.

George Pifher, of Brantford, the Dominion vice-president, proposed the toast to the Church. He said there were three things he wished to mention to show exactly what the Church is to-day. First he spoke of the opening of the Mohawk Church near Brantford in 1774 by Indians who had been Christianized in their old home in the United States, and who held the second Protestant church service in the Province. Then he mentioned the appointment recently of the Archdeacon of Aklavik, the most northern mission post in the country. His third point was the announcement by Bishop White of Honan that the church in that diocese is being administered by the Chinese clergy and laity, and that as a result the work had not been set back last summer when the foreigners had had to leave, as had occurred with the efforts of some other bodies. Thus, he said, the Church is moving westward always, and expanding.

The toast was honoured by the singing of one verse of "The Church's one foundation," after which Rev. R. C. Blagrave, D.D., of St. John's Church, responded.

Dr. Blagrave declared his belief that the Church of England is at the dawning of a great era. One of the symptoms of the awakening power of the Church is the A.Y.P.A., with its new life and vision.

The speaker urged the young people to be proud of their Church, although they should not be boastful about it. Many people are anxious to know more about the faith, heritage, and riches it possesses, he declared, and its members ought to become better informed about it themselves. There is something about the Church of England which is of interest to others besides the members themselves. It has everything other churches have, embracing all classes of people with divergent views and providing for all of them. Three things which the Church of England has that others haven't are its continuity, its comprehensity, and its episcopal background. Continuing uninterrupted through the ages, it still cherishes the present and looks to the future. It has a capacity for adapting itself to changing conditions and of toleration for those whose opinions differ. In its bishops the Church has a board of wisdom, loyalty, and devotion which acts as a steadying influence.

The A.Y.P.A.

The toast to the A.Y.P.A., was proposed by Miss M. Thomas of St. John's, Norway Toronto. Miss Thomas declared that the value of the A.Y.P.A. efforts during the past quarter century was own by the number of men who entered the service of the Master, and the parishes where the Association is regarded as the handmaiden of the church. It had, she said, given her an opportunity for work and worship, for self-development and for helping her fellow beings. It has ideals that the members can carry through every hour of their daily lives and which show them the way along the pathway that leads to the greatest life of all, that of Him who died that others might live.

W. R. Sproule, the retiring Dominion President, responded to the toast. It was, he said, an honor to do so in the closing hours of the first quarter century of the Association's life. He asked those present, who had been together for two days, talking, planning and praying for the Association, to look forward to the end of the next twenty-five years. In the past year there have been 56 new branches formed, so that now the membership is about 16,000, in 550 branches. Taking this growth as a basis, he estimated that the Association in 1952 will have 2000 branches, as the country is growing as well as the Association.

Referring to the text taken by Bishop Owen at the opening service of the conference, "And the whole multitude sought to touch Him, for there went virtue out of Him and He healed them all," he declared: "If as members of this Association, citizens of this Dominion, and members of this beloved Church, our aim is to touch Him we will be doing the things that this Association stands for, with its motto: "For Christ and the Church." Two means are suggested in the pledge ,he continued, by which the members can touch Christ. These are prayer and Bible reading.

Presidential Address.

The new president Mr. McConnell, made his presidential address during the banquet. After thanking the members for his election, he referred to the tasks to be faced, particularly by the rural members, as theirs is the more difficult. He pointed out that they had an opportunity to reach many who attend no church and those who have just come from the Old Country.

All the members must be optimistic, he concluded. Canada has just celebrated 60 years of confederation, and the next sixty years are in the hands of her young people.

Votes of thanks were moved by F. Stiling of London ,to the musicians, by the Rev. E. W. McKegney of Palette, Ont. and George Pifher, of Brantford, to the Rt. Hon. Sir George Foster, and by Clarence Bell, Toronto, to the other speakers.

Presentations made.

A neatly turned compliment featured the remarks of T. H. Hollingsworth, Toronto, when he presented Miss L. M. Moss London, the Dominion Secretary, with a bouquet of flowers. Referring to her sunny smile at all the meetings, he expressed his conviction that the roses (which love sunshine) would last for many days in her presence.

To the retiring president, Mr. Sproule, a presentation was also made —Purvis Wood, Toronto, the second Vice-President doing the honors. Mr. Wood compared "Bill," whom he said he was proud to call his friend, to a piano, he being upright and grand, and assured him that nothing was needed to remind the A.Y.P.A. members of their past president, but that the purpose of the gift, which was suitably engraved, was to remind him that he had many friends in the A.Y.P.A.

The thanks of the Dominion Conference to the committees of the Peterborough District Council in particular, but also to those who entertained the delegates, and the citizens in general, were expressed by the president and heartily endorsed by those present.

All was not seriousness at the banquet however. Community singing was provided on the program, with Joseph Wearing as leader and F. G. Mann as pianist, but between the courses of the dinner, which was served by the Downyflake Tearooms, the different branches exchanged yells, challenges and bright remarks generally. Particularly neat was the reply of the members of the Essex Deanery Local Council who were out in force to obtain next year's conference for Windsor, to the question from Toronto, "Where is Essex?" which was answered in chorus: "Where is Essex? Read your Bible." The presentation by the deputation of the claims of their city was good enough to cause the conference to accept the invitation.

The final act of Saturday's festivities was a parade around the streets, culminating with a snake dance and sing song on the market square. A big drum and a flag were borrowed from the Legion Hall, and the paraders first arm in arm in ranks and then in single file, disturbed the midnight air with their singing and shouting. The demonstration closed with cheers for Peterboro, this year's host city, and for Windsor, which entertains the delegates next year, and the singing of Auld Lang Syne.

Yesterday morning the delegates and local members attended communion at the various local churches while visiting members read the lessons and preached in the four city churches and in Lakefield and Havelock.

time and ordered him away, but Mrs. Calberry would not let him get up. When I got within 35 or 40 feet of them he broke away from her, and we walked towards the house together. Soon I heard Mrs. Calberry following us, swearing all the time. She had a stick in her hand, and when within four feet of me, she raised it as if to strike me. I put up both my hands and ducked. While doing so, I went as if to push her away and she fell. She tried to get the rake which was lying near, but I got it first. I never used it."

When asked if Mrs. Calberry ever made an effort to hit him before, witness told of a Saturday afternoon episode when Mrs. Calberry thought the maids had not washed the floor clean enough. She got a pail of water and the mop, and commenced to re-scrub the floor. The girls appeared to Mr. Maize, and he came in and picked up the pail. Mrs. Calberry struck him with the mop in the face, and while he was going down stairs she threw the mop again and hit him, this time on the head. He got a horse whip and hit her once. "I was angry with her at the time. She attempted to hit me with a chair, but I grapped it from her."

In cross examination, Mr. Maize said he weighed 218 pounds. At the time of the assault he didn't dare face Mrs. Calberry. He said he had nothing in his hands. Mr. Hatton wanted to know if she was any more vicious then than in the mop episode, but witness did not know.

Did you ever see a worse pair of black eyes than her's were?

I never did.

Witness then told of seeing Mrs. Hughes and Mrs. Calberry having a fight later that afternoon under an apple tree. In this fight Mrs. Hughes was wielding a stick.

Mr. Maize denied ever striking an inmate by the name of Williams at the time the barn was being built, and also several other alleged assaults on inmates of the Home.

Mr. Hatton called several witnesses in his rebuttal for the Crown but failed to get any material evidence as all the questions were ruled out by His Worship.

to conceal it. After pneumonia developed, he seemed to pass through the crisis successfully, but the influenzal condition continued for so long a period that his strength could not withstand the strain, and his end came with unexpected suddenness at 11.05 o'clock.

The first stage of the funeral today will consist of the removal of the body by road to Armagh, to lie in state until Thursday morning, when burial with his predecessors in the Primacy will take place. Nearly all the members of the hierarchy are now in Rome for the Irish College tercentenary, and they are certain to hasten their departure in order to be present at the obsequies.

Montreal Seniors Win Their First Game of Season

SENIORS CLOSE RUGBY SEASON BY 3-2 VICTORY

Toronto Argos Lose to Montreal in Inter-provincial Game.

THEIR FIRST WIN.

Gives Them Third Place—Scullers Now in

MONTREAL, Que., October 24 (Canadian Press). — Montreal Seniors closed their "Big Four" Inter-provincial rugby football season at home on Saturday with a 3 to 2 victory over Toronto Argonauts. It was the first win of the season for the locals, and it gave them possession of third place, Argos being relegated to the cellar.

The game was rather loosely played with Ralph Harrison's drop kick in the first period providing enough margin for a Montreal victory. The Argos' two points came by way of two singles, one in the second quarter and another in the third quarter.

The Montrealers were value for the win, their line outplaying the visiting front rank by a wide margin. The Toronto backfield, however, had an edge on the local rearguard, but it was not wide enough to offset the advantage gained by the Montreal line.

The local winged wheelers took the lead in the first quarter on Harrison's neat field goal from the 35 yard line. It was a splendid effort by the diminutive quarter, who gave the best display he has shown since entering senior football from the intermediate ranks at the start of the 1926 season. In the second quarter, when Argos were pressing and Montreal were in possession close to their own line, he broke through centre for a long dash which was only culminated when he had passed centre field.

Chantier Plays Well.

"Pee Wee" Chantier was magnificent in defeat. The former Queen's backfield star caught faultlessly and ran back kicks with monotonous precision. He was the fastest man on the field. Just before the final whistle, he caught a long hoist by Booth behind his line and, taking the ball on the run, ran it out to his fifteen yard line before being brought down. It was the dying effort of a splendid fight to keep Argos from defeat.

Loose play was evident at the first kick-off, Montreal and Toronto fumbling on ensuing plays, with neither side gaining any apparent advantage, the locals finally gaining possession on their forty-yard line. From there they marched towards the Argo goal line, a series of well-executed line plays ripping the Argo front rank to pieces. Finally the locals were in scoring position, and Paul Fraser was sent out to attempt a drop kick. His kick was blocked, but he recovered on Argos' 40-yard line. Johnny Bennettt then kicked, but his punt was short and Argos gained possession on their 30-yard line. Sinclair kicked to centre from where Harrison wormed his way through centre for twenty yards. On the ensuing play the Montreal quarter made his successful attempt for a drop kick.

Argos got a single point in the second period, the half-time count leaving Montreal with a 3 to 1 lead.

Argos forced play in the third period, and twice had the ball close to the Montreal line. A bad snap by Adams to Johnny Bennett on a third down gave Argos possession on Montreal's two-yard line. On the first down Douglas, Argos' premier middle wing, was stopped in his tracks, while his team was penalized a down for offside. Argos then attempted an end run which was promptly smothered by the local wings ,and a golden scoring opportunity was gone.

Montreal failed to get play out of their own territory, however, and Argos came right back ,and once again found themselves in favourable scoring position on Montreal's seven-yard line. This time an outside kick was tried. The ball, however, rolled in touch behind the Montreal goal line and the best Argos got out of it was one point.

The locals forced the play in the fourth quarter, Booth's long spirals keeping Argos at bay, besides being a continual threat to the Toronto goal-line.

BALMY BEACH DEFEAT TIGERS

Toronto Lose 26-3 in Ontario Rugby Football Game.

WEIGHT TOLD.

HAMILTON, Ont., October 24 (Canadian Press). — Balmy Beach of Toronto experienced no difficulty in disposing of Hamilton Tigers to the tune of 26-3 when the teams met in an Ontario Rugby Football Union here on Saturday afternoon.

It was weight that told, and the Toronto heavyweights repeatedly demolished the light Hamilton line, crashing through for yards time and again. Tigers fought gamely, and through strenuous efforts managed to hold the visitors to seven points in the initial half, but the strain began to tell as the end of the game neared, and Beaches went over for three more tries. The local men scored only twice, with a safety touch in the third quarter and a rouge in the fourth.

"Red" Moore, fast Toronto back, was the star performer of the day, contributing a long series of beautiful runs. "Yip" Foster was a close second, and Ponton and Billings were prominent . On the Tiger side, Smithson, Bewley, Crawford, and Hayward turned in the best games.

It was good rugby weather, with dull sky and light, but threat of rain kept the crowd to about 1,000.

Forced on Defensive.

Tigers kicked off and after an early excursion into Beach ground, they were forced on the defensive by the Toronto stalwarts, who three times plunged through for yards. Hawkins, Hamilton, and Foster, Toronto, were doing the kicking. Moore took the ball near the Tiger goal on a long run, and first score went to Beaches when Hawkins was rouged on Cawkell's attempted field goal. Tigers fought bravely for the remainder of the quarter, and prevented further scoring. Nice runs by Hawkins and Moore featured the play.

In the second quarter Reeves forged through for yards and Billings tried a punt which bounced back from the Tigers' goal post. Ponton made the score 2-0 with a touch in goal. The first touchdown came when Metcalfe recovered Hawkins' fumble, and Amer crashed over the Tiger line. Cawkell failed to convert ,and the score stood 7-0. Play again went into the danger zone for the Tigers, and Hawkins was rouged on Foster's kick. At half-time the score stood at 8-0.

The Second Half.

The second half opened with a kicking duel which kept play in the Beachers' ground . Billings fumbled outside his line, recovered, and was forced back for a safety touch, the first Tiger score. The Toronto men hit back with a crashing attack climaxed when Foster ran 15 yards to score a try. Cawkell converted, and the score went to 14-2. Another five points went to the visitors when Ponton stole the ball and Amer went over for a try. Metcalf failed to convert.

The Final Quarter.

The final quarter opened with the Tigers in fighting mood, but they failed to hold the Beachers, who travelled to the 25 yard line . Foster tried to drop, but it went wide, and Hawkins was rouged. The visitors then collected an easy try when Keith picked up a ball jolted from Hawkins' hands. He passed to Menzies, who went over. A last minute point came to the Tigers when Hawkins kicked a long one to Foster, who was forced to rouge. The game closed with the score at 26-3.

AERIAL TAXI WILL CARRY SPORTSMEN

SEATTLE, Wash., Oct. 22.—Miners and big game hunters of the northland who have been mushing over perilous, snow-covered trails soon are to have a de luxe method of travel at their disposal.

Andrew Cruikshank, former pilot in the army air service, plans a flight from Seattle to White Horse, on the Yukon, in a sound-proof, heated monoplane which he will operate as a taxi in Alaska. He expects to transport sportsmen from towns to hunting grounds, and in three hours he can carry them over territory that would require three weeks to cover with dogs.

While snow covers the country, Cruikshank's plane will be equipped with skils as landing gear. During the summer months he will use pontoons since there always are plenty of waterways on which to land.

DOMINION CHAMPIONS LOSE 14-7 GAME TO HAMILTON TIGERS

Ottawa Club Suffers First Defeat on Home Grounds Since 1924.

SHOW CHAMPION FORM.

Loss Practically Knocks the Senators Out of Big Four Race.

OTTAWA, Ont., October 24. Canadian Press. — In one of the finest games of Rugby seen in Ottawa for some time, the Hamilton Tigers Saturday afternoon won one of their greatest victories in years when they defeated the Dominion champions at Lansdowne park by a score of 14 to 7. More than ten thousand people jammed into the big stands, encircled the playing field, and were in turn sunk in the depths and raised to the heights as the yellow and black clad grey showed all the football that champions should show, and sent the Senators down to their first defeat on home grounds since 1924.

Out of Race.

The defeat practically knocks Ottawa out of the Big Four race. Tigers will have to drop one game to Argonauts and Ottawa will then have to defeat Tigers in Hamilton to let the Senators back in and judging from Saturday's display there is little chance of this occurring. There is no discounting the Tiger victory. They outplayed the Senators along the line throughout practically the entire sixty minutes, and Leadley was a whole backfield in himself.

It was the brilliant Leadley who spelled defeat for Ottawa, but in his scintillating display he was given valuable assistance by a front rank that presented a concrete front to Ottawa's plungers, and in turn tore the red line wide open for great gains through the line.

The former Queen's star "drop-kicked" his team into a commanding lead in the third period, after playing an important role in the even footing the Tigers enjoyed through the first two periods. He again came to the fore in the final minute of the game with a fifty yard dash and pass to Glen Small that put the ball on Ottawa's five yard mark making the Tiger touchdown possible that raised their total to 14.

The curtain was rolled down on Ottawa's big four hopes with a five-point score that came from the smashing attack of a Tiger line that had dominated their opposition practically all afternoon. It was a crashing culmination to a reign which had extended over a two-year period, in the course of which time the Senators had scored three victories and one tie in their four engagements with their Hamilton opponents.

Standing out in the Hamilton victory alongside Leadley were the "Big Three" of the front line, Timmis, Baker and Small, with Bowman turning in a wonderful game at outside wing. There was not a weak link in the Tiger chain and they made few mistakes at any time.

Only one man on the Ottawa team displayed a game that was on a par with the Tiger brand, that man being Ted Smith. The ex-collegiate player gave a brilliant display at middle wing and was one of the outstanding players on the field. Kehoe and Tubman played well, but the Hamilton heavies held the Ottawa plungers, Connell and Emerson, well in check, and the Senators' gains through the line were unimportant. The team lacked the dash and spirit that has marked some of their previous games, but that is where the Tigers scored—they jumped on to the attack at every sign of an Ottawa lapse and made the most of their opportunities.

Official Starts Game

His Excellency, the Governor General, Lord Willingdon, kicked off to officially start the game.

Tigers, with a strong wind behind them, scored the only point of the first period, Leadley booting to Tubman for a rouge with two minutes left to play. Ottawa's defensive play in this quarter was brilliant. Running thirty yards on a fake kick just before the quarter ended, Tubman put Ottawa in a commanding position, and on the first play of the second quarter he tied the score, booting to Leadley who let the ball roll into touch for a single point.

Forcing the attack by the aerial route, Ottawa went into the lead a moment later when Tubman returned Leadley's punt to the deadline. Tigers flught back against the wind and half way through the period the break, and the turning point of the game, came. Tubman made a bad pass to Kehoe, Bowman grabbed the ball, and the Ottawa reign was at an end. Tigers marched on by the plunging route and Leadley tied the score when he kicked to Kehoe from thirty yards out and the latter was rouged.

McKelvey's forty-yard dash, early in the third quarter, put Tigers in a scoring position again and Leadley dropped his first field goal to make the score 5 to 2. He planted another one over two minutes later and then hoisted a long punt to Kehoe for another rouge, making it 9 to 2 as they entered the final quarter.

A brilliant Ottawa Finish was rewarded with a touchdown with less than three minutes to go, when Tubman took Lynch's onside and ran forty-five yards for a touchdown. Two men touched the ball and the chance to convert was forfeited. With the score 9 to 7 against them, the home team threw everything they had into a last desperate attack, but when it was at its height, Leadley broke for a fifty yard run and then passed to Small who did ten more, putting the ball on Ottawa's five-yard mark. Baker plunged over for a touch, the final whistle halting the play and the game, and Tigers had raised their total by five to make the final score read 14 to 7.

WOLVERINES WIN SATURDAY GAME

Well on Way Towards Third Western Conference Football Championship.

CHICAGO, Oct. 24. — (Canadian Press.) — Well on the way toward their third western conference football championship in a row, the Michigan team stood out last night as the only one of the Big Ten which has not been scored on in its first four games, two of them against conference foes. Both scoring and defensive power have marked the Wolverines this year, the first in which Coach "Hurry-Up" Yost has not been at the helm for 27 years, Tad Weiman is Yost's successor.

The Wolverines are tie with Chicago in the conference standing, each with two victories, while Illinois has a single winning marker for its only conference contest, the defeat of Northwestern Saturday by the slender margin of 7 to 6. Minnesota also has to taste a conference defeat, but of the Gophers' two starts they have won one and tied one, the latter against Indiana.

The other six teams, barring a series of upsets, have faded out of the championship picture. They are Northwestern, Indiana, Ohio State, Purdue and Iowa.

WRIGHT DEFEATS GILBERT NUNNS

Varsity Star Loses in Final for Intercollegiate Tennis Championship.

MONTREAL, Oct. 24 (Canadian Press).—Jack Wright, Canadian and Intercollegiate tennis champion, Saturday defeated Gilbert Nunns, ranking University of Toronto star, in the final of the Intercollegiate tennis championship tournament and retained the title which he has held for the past three years by a 6—2, 6—0, 6—1 score. It was Wright's last match for his university, as he graduates next spring.

Swept Opponents Off Courts

Wright simply swept his opponent off the courts. In the first set Nunns won two games, both on his own service, and both after the score had gone to deuce. Wright simply stayed at the back line and returned everything that Nunns had to offer with accuracy and speed. Nunns scored several points on his deadly forehand drives, but he was bothered by Wright's cuts and drove many out or into the net. The second and third sets were but a repetition of the first, except that Nunns won less games and Wright played even more brilliantly.

In the final of the Doubles, Wright, in partnership with J. P. McInerney, lost his first match of the tournament, when Nunns and Martin, the first string Varsity pair, captured the title at 6—4, 6—4, 4—6, and 6—1. The match was close all the way and geatured by fast and exciting rallies.

The final point score in the meet was: Varsity 13, McGill 7, U. of M. 5, Osgoode Hall 5, R.M.C. 3, Queen's 1.

Results:

Singles Final: Jack Wright, McGill, beat Gilbert Nunns, Varsity, 6—2, 6—0, 6—1.

Doubles: Semi-finals.—Wright and McInerney, McGill, beat Brown and Connolly, Queen's, 6—0, 6—2. Nunns and Martin, Varsity beat Valois and Couvrette, U. of M., 6—1, 6—1.

Final—Nunns and Martin Varsity, beat Wright and McInerney, McGill, 6—4, 6—4, 4—6, 6—1.

CORNELL LOSES TO PRINCETON

First Game Played Between These Two Rivals in 20 Years.

SEE-SAW STRUGGLE.

ITHACA, N.Y., Oct. 24. — (Canadian Press.)—Flashing an attack of brilliant power and versatility featured by the thrusts of a 175-pound sophomore half-back, Ed. Wittmer, Princeton, scored a thrilling victory over Cornell Saturday, 21 to 10, in the first football game between these ancient rivals in 20 years.

A record breaking Cornell crowd of 32,000 banked high in the great crescent stadium, saw the Ithacans outplayed, outrushed and decisively defeated in a see-saw struggle after they had passed and kicked their way into the lead twice during the first half. It was a smashing battle, with the tide ebbing and flowing with swift suddenness, but the Tigers, packing the greatest punch and exhibiting a more alert defense, took the lead near the close of the second period and held it to the end.

SWIMMING MEET WELL ATTENDED

Miss Viola Harvey First in Speed Tests at Y.W.C.A.

A large group of swimmers took part in the Y.W.C.A. swimming meet last evening, with a good crowd of spectators. Many of the pupils are practising now for the big exhibition to be held early in November, when competitions for four special trophies will be held, the Morrow cup for Senior Championship, the Gordon cup for Junior Life Saving, the Baby Championship trophy, and a new cup donated by Miss Margaret Hamilton, as well as many other prizes.

Friday evening, Miss Viola Harvey came first in speed tests. The next swimming meet will be held on Wednesday at eight o'clock, and also a special life saving practice.

A large number of swimmers are trying the Royal Life Saving Society's examinations this month, with four girls trying the Award of Merit test, one of the hardest examinations. The Y.W.C.A. pool has a splendid group of swimmers who have passed the many tests of the R.L.S. Society.

A meeting of those interested in learning how to make reed baskets was also held at the Y.W.C.A., last evening. Mrs. Dobson, teacher of the class, outlined the course which will include fern baskets, serving trays, waste paper baskets, sandwich baskets, and other articles which members may wish to make.

It was decided to have the class meet on Tuesdays, starting November 1, from 7.30 to 9.30 p.m. Because of the large registration, another class may be formed for Wednesday evenings. Those who have not yet left their orders for reed are asked to do so at once, as the order must be sent by Tuesday next, October 25.

ATTENDANCE SMALL AT SOCCER GAMES

Rain Over British Isles on Saturday Cuts Down Crowd.

LONDON, England, October 24 (Canadian Press Cable). — General rain in the British Isles on Saturday cut down the English soccer attendances, and even such a fine attraction as Everton versus West Ham United only drew ten thousand into the Everton stands. These select few saw the Londoners humiliated and the home team indulging in a carnival of scoring in a First Division fixture the seven goals netted by the Everton coming from the boots of Weldon and White before the interval, and Henderson (through his own goal), Critchley, Forshaw, and O'Donnell. The last-named registered his goal from a penalty. The West Hammers were weak before the goal, while the Everton played with great dash.

Newcastle United, who met Sheffield United at Newcastle, owe their one goal to Gallagher, who displayed great cleverness in getting it. It won the match. The Scot got through to within shooting distance right after the interval. Fifteen thousand saw the match. Manchester United were another team who went on a scoring rampage, taking five and whitewashing Derby County. All the scoring was done after the interval. Johnston started it two minutes after resumption, then Spence put in three and McPherson added the fifth for good measure.

Bolton Wanderers won before a home crowd, beating Liverpool by two goals to one, their first victory since September 3. Scorers for the winners were Vizard and Blackmore, while Edmed counted for Liverpool. All the tallying was done before the interval, the struggle in the second half being tense. Liverpool were in dire straights several times, and Riley, by brilliant goal-minding, was the means of saving his team from a more severe drubbing.

How to Play BRIDGE

ARTICLE No. 3

"Under what conditions is a Singleton opening advantageous against a trump declaration?" writes a correspondent. Probably the question will cause a wide variety of answers, but the experts are pretty closely in agreement.

A Singleton opening is seldom, if ever, justifiable unless the opener holds exactly three trumps. With less than three it is a bad opening, for the declarer usually can lead two rounds of trumps before you or your partner obtain the lead. For that reason a Singleton opening is seldom advantageous with less than three trumps. On the other hand, if you hold more than three trumps, you have a very strong hand and should take the offensive. For that reason, with four or more trumps, always open your long or strong suit, or your partner's suit if he has made a bid, never a Singleton.

The following hands are good examples:

Hand No. 1

Hearts — A, 10, 4, 2
Clubs — 7
Diamonds — J, 9, 5, 4, 2
Spades — 10, 7, 2

No score, rubber game. Z dealt, bid one spade and all passed. What should A open? A should open the seven of clubs. His is an ideal hand for the Singleton opening.

Hand No. 2

Hearts — A, 10, 4
Clubs — 7
Diamonds — J, 9, 5, 4, 2
Spades — J, 10, 7, 2

No score, rubber game. Z dealt, bid one spade and all passed. What should A open? A should open the four of diamonds. With four or more trumps, always open your long suit, unless, of course, your partner has bid a suit, in which case it usually is better practice to open that suit unless your own suit is one that will set up in one round. In this hand, the Singleton opening would be very unsound.

Hand No. 3

Hearts — A, 10, 4, 2
Clubs — 7
Diamonds — J, 9, 8, 5, 4, 2
Spades — 10, 7

No score, rubber game. Z dealt, bid one spade and all passed. What should A open? A should open the seven of clubs. With four or more trumps, always open your long or strong suit, or your partner's suit if he has made a bid, never a Singleton.

The following example hands, given in the preceding article, are well worthy of careful study:

Answer to Problem No. 1

Y
A B
Z

Hearts — A, Q, 3, 2
Clubs — K, Q, 7, 4
Diamonds — A, Q, 3
Spades — Q, 9

No score, rubber game. Z dealt and bid one no-trump. A and Y passed and B doubled. What should Z bid? Z should redouble to tell his partner that he has a much stronger hand than his original no-trump indicated and to play for penalties if A bids Y's long or strong suit.

Answer to Problem No. 2

Hearts — J, 10, 7, 6
Clubs — J, 8
Diamonds — K, J, 8
Spades — J, 8, 7, 5

A B
Z

No score, rubber game. Z dealt and bid one no-trump, A and Y passed and B doubled. If Z redoubled and A bid two spades, what should Y bid? Y should double. The purpose of Z's redouble is to give Y the information that Z's hand is much stronger than his original bid indicated and to play for penalties if A happens to bid Y's long or strong suit. Y's long suit is spades. This fact, coupled with his outside strength, is sufficient to justify a double. The hand in Problem No. 2 is the hand held by the partner of Z in Problem No. 1. Together they represent a sound redouble and the proper response by partner.

Answer to Problem No. 3

Hearts — none
Clubs — J, 8, 7, 6, 5
Diamonds — 7, 3
Spades — none

Hearts — 8, 7, 5, 3, 2
Clubs — none
Diamonds — 10
Spades — 9

Y
A B
Z

Hearts — K
Clubs — Q, 9
Diamonds — J, 6, 5
Spades — 5

Hearts — A, J, 6, 4
Clubs — none
Diamonds — K, Q
Spades — 4

If spades are trump and Z is in the lead, how can Y-Z win five of the seven tricks against any defense? Z should lead the ace of hearts and the king of diamonds. He should then lead the four of spades, forcing A in the lead. A must then lead a heart. If he leads either the 8 or 7, Z allows him to hold the trick. A must then lead another heart and Z wins the jack and six. As Z's queen of diamonds is also a winner, A cannot win another trick. If A's first heart lead should be either the 3 or 5, Z would win with the 4 or 6, take his jack of hearts and queen of diamonds, and give A the last heart trick. Played in this way, Y-Z must win five of the seven tricks against any defense.

DARKNESS ENDS JAGS-QUAKERS SOCCER GAME

Both Teams Displayed Sound Tactics Throughout Two Hours' Grind.

NO GOALS SCORED

Ball Visibility Compelled the Referee to Declare Game in Extra Time.

Two hours of real keen soccer was provided the local soccer fans at King Edward Park on Saturday afternoon between the Quaker Oats and the Thistle in the Phelan Charity Cup before a fair attendance. After playing the specific time, the two elevens were still standing at a no-decision, and played extra time until visibility compelled the referee to declare a halt, thereby making them play again next Saturday. The previous week resulted in 2 goals each.

All the soccer fans were delighted with the exhibition given by the players, and stated that they would return again to witness the final encounter. It was defence against attacking forwards from start to finish.

Opening Very Fast.

The Quakers made straight for the opponents' goal from the kick-off. After the first brush, the Thistle soon got into the game, and raid after raid initiated by James led to a determined assault on the Quakers' fortress. Lang shot strongly across, the ball being diverted into goal by Rob. His dropping shot compelling Curtis to concede a fruitless corner-kick. The Quakers' defence replied energetically, while the efforts of the contra-half-backs confined the play inside their area. At this period, the Quakers were playing ten men against eleven, but their quota was completed a little later. Soon, the Quakers side-attacked again, without finding the "bull."

Defence Against Defence.

Exchanges were even thereafter, with the forwards on both teams finding an invisible defence that allowed no latitude in the proximity of the goal. Both full-backs put in a power of work in spite of the close dribbling near desired area. Away went Lang on the right again, with Blowers in attendance, to the delight of the spectators, who appreciated the individual tactics of clean sports. The Thistle outside right rattling the upright with a terrific drive. From the goal-kick, Robb carried the sphere to the other end that finally tested Griffin from long distance. No sooner did he relieve the pressure, than Mitchell went through on his own to have hard luck in not registering.

Both Teams Pressed.

Following this the Thistle came once more into the picture, principally through good play by McPhate and House, but the best try was a shot from Bromley, who made Curtis grab a hot one. Mitchell responded with a solo dash right down the centre of the field, McLeod tackled him and was successful in the result. James trapped the ball, sent his left wing away up field who evaded the full back nicely, but his parting shot was weak. As time rolled on towards half-time, the respective forwards endeavoured to break through the solid defence, but only found hard body charges, and counter methods their only reward. Half-time—Quakers 0; Thistle 0.

HALF TIME.

The exchanges in the opening minutes of the second moiety saw the Thistle forwards the more dangerous raiders, but both goals were threatened without either falling. Play continued to favour the Thistle, the Quaker defenders being kept busy, but their efforts were spoiled through Tait shouting for infringements, when he should have played the ball. Free kicks and foul kicks then came in abundance to both elevens, with Millar and Blowers being the prominent artists.

Half-backs Perfect.

The exchanges were now rather more even, with each ground going under a bombardment. This brought out the superb qualities of the half-backs on the field of play with Millar carrying the honour in both aggressive and counter attacks. It was a real cup tie game with Griffin saving a rocket drive, then Curtis doing likewise in less minutes than you could explain it. One minute, it would be James making for goal and missing by inches, while Mitchell enacted the same performance at the other end.

Last Minute Rallies.

Encouraged by the enthusiastic supporters, the players strained every muscle in their body to gain the decision, but the defence conceded no opening before the end was announced with the teams still standing at a no scoring. Result—Quakers 0; Thistle 0.

EXTRA TIME

After battling for an hour and a half, the referee immediately instructed the players to change goals, and proceeded in another ten-minute battle. They made no progress in the first extra half. In the turnover, darkness came down upon the hemisphere that completely shut out the ball from the horizon, thereby compelling the referee to use his prerogative in declaring the game finished as the result of visibility. Final: no scoring.

Quakers—W. Curtis, goal; S. Maker and H. Curtis, backs; Carmichael, Robb and Blowers, halves; Avis, T. Wilson, A. Mitchell, Davis and Foster, forwards.

Thistle—C. Griffin, goal; McLeod and McKenzie, backs; Burgess, Millar and Bromley, halves; Lang, Tait, James, House and McPhate forwards.

Referee—A. McKinley.

Linesmen—H. Fowler and S. Laidler.

Defeats Orillia 15-0 in Exhibition Game at Lake Simcoe Town.

WINNERS PLAY WELL.

ORILLIA, Ont., Oct. 24.—Peterborough C.I., 15; Orillia C.I., 0, was the result of an exhibition rugby game played here on Saturday. The Garnet and Grey were always on top and although guilty of numerous errors, played a good game. The score included two touchdowns, a field goal, a convert and a rouge. Gemmell, Merrett and Cuthbertson were outstanding for the winners. Richman, Mulvihill and Boyd were the pick of the Orillia team. Although the day was ideal for rugby only a small crowd turned out for the game.

First Quarter

After the kick-off Gemmell took the ball from under his own goal to the Peterborough twenty-five-yard line. The visitors opened an offensive that soon carried the ball into Orillia territory and in spite of a stubborn defensive were finally rewarded by a touchdown. Hewett carried the ball. Hyatt converted neatly.

Second Quarter

Peterborough continued their aggressive game but were not giving the ball carrier as much protection as in the earlier stages of the game. Orillia looked dangerous but were called back repeatedly for offside. Their tackling and defensive play, however, kept the ball away from their goal line. The only score was a field goal. Gemmell making the play from the thirty-yard line.

Third Quarter

The Orillia team started strongly after the intermission. Two or three plays gained forty yards in a row but a fumble at the wrong time lost their advantage. The Peterborough tacklers were finding great difficulty in bringing down Boyd. His play during this period marked him as the best ball carrier on the field. Had he been used consistently throughout the game, the score would have been very much closer.

Before the quarter ended, Cuthbertson carried the ball to the Orillia five-yard line. Cowan plunged over for a touchdown. It was not converted.

Fourth Quarter

Both teams adopted a kicking game and play was very even. Good running by Mulvihill saved numerous singles during the dying moments of the game. On a good tackle by Cuthbertson he was finally forced to rouge for the last score of the game.

The Orillia team and their supporters entertained the visitors to a banquet at the Y.M.C.A. after the game.

CANZONERI FAVORITE.

Expected To Beat Dundee in Unofficial Title Bout.

NEW YORK, Oct. 24 (Canadian Press).—Tony Canzoneri enters the ring against Johnny Dundee tonight a decided favorite in their unofficial featherweight championship battle at fifteen rounds. Odds on the youthful Brooklyn boxed were 8 to 5 today. The winner will probably have as much claim to the title as Benny Bass, recognized title holder by the National Boxing Association, because Dundee has not been beaten since he won the title from Criqui.

JACK McCLELLAN,
In The Dumbells' Greatest Revue, "Oo, La, La!" coming to The Grand October 28-29.

THEATRES

AT THE GRAND

In nine years of catering to the theatrical tastes of Canadian theatre-goers, The Dumbells have never really provided a poor entertainment. Naturally, some of their revues have been better than others, and there has often been a difference of opinion among those who make it a rule to see every new show, as to which show, or even which portion of a show, was best.

If it were not for a difference of opinion most of our entertainment, our sports and our political parties, would die a natural death. However, there are times when the overwhelming majority seems to be of one mind—and that is just what appears to have happened to those who have seen The Dumbells' current revue, "Oo, La, La!" The consensus of opinion, not only of Toronto and the other Canadtian Cities where the company has visited, but from Buffalo other points south, as well come to us en bloc, unanimous and undisputed—i.e. that this revue, "Oo, La, La!" is the fastest moving, cleverest and most completely enjoyable entertainment that this wonderful company has ever presented.

Captain Plunkett has assembled a noteworthy company this season. In fact, they say it is the finest aggregation of talent ever enlisted under The Dumbells' banner. The old favorites—Al. Plunkett, Ross Hamilton, "Red" Newman, Pat. Rafferty, Jock Holland, Morley Plunkett and Glenn Allan, have all been retained, while several new stars, notably Harry Binns, Fred Zimmey, Jack McClellan, Cameron Geddes and Charlie Jeeves have been added to the constellation.

With this added strength in the acting line, as well as in individual song numbers, The Dumbells are qualified to present a series of one-act plays calling for unusually long casts of characters, while the vaudeville portion of the program has been materially strengthened, as well.

The Dumbells will present "Oo, La, La!" at the Grand for two days commencing next Friday.

AT THE REGENT.

END OF WAR AS A DISAPPOINTMENT

When the Armistice was signed, the whole world cheered,—and gave a long, pent-up sigh of relief. At least almost the whole world did.

But there were a few, a very few men who were just the least bit disappointed and disgusted to think they never had an opportunity to get into the argument. It is about these few that Edward Sedgwick spun his yarn, "Tin Hats," the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer picture, now playing at the Regent Theatre.

The story concerns three doughboys; one a rich man's son, played by Conrad Nagel; another a New York yegg, drafted into the service, played by George Cooper, and the third, the American son of a St. Louis Dutch brewer, played by Bert Roach. These three arrive in the front line trenches just in time to hear the referee announce that "That's all there is, there isn't any more."

However, the plot thickens when they are sent into Germany with the Army of Occupation, and their subsequent adventures make the war look like the Saturday Evening Strawberry Festival, back in Pawtucket.

Claire Windsor as Elsa Von Bergen, a titled German girl, is the heroine of the story, and with Nagel supplies the love interest.

PILE SUFFERERS

Can You Answer These Questions.

Do you know why ointments do not give you quick and lasting relief?

Why cutting often fails?

Do you know the cause of piles is internal?

That there is a stagnation of blood circulation in the lower bowel?

Do you know that there is a harmless internal remedy discovered by Dr. Leonhardt and known as HEM-ROID, now sold by McDermid and Jury and McDermid Drug Store, and druggists everywhere, that is guaranteed.

HEM-ROID banishes piles by removing the cause, by freeing blood circulation in the lower bowel. This simple home treatment has an almost unbelievable record for sure quick and lasting relief to thousands of pile sick sufferers, and saves the needless pain and expense of an operation. There is no reason why it should not do the same for you.

ROBBERS LOOT SARNIA GROCER

Make Escape in Car After Robbing Till of $55.

POLICE ON LOOKOUT.

SARNIA Ont., Oct. 24.—(Canadian Press.)—City police are hunting for three young men who on Saturday night robbed the till of the Watson Grocery, corner of Edgar and Lacroix streets. A young girl was on duty behind the counter when the three entered and called for drinks of ginger ale. While she was busy around the ice box the three stepped towards the cash till. One scooped up the cash, about $55, while a second is alleged to have produced a gun. They escaped in a waiting car. Mr. and Mrs. Watson were in the living apartment adjacent to the store, at the time.

MODERN HEALTH HABITS

There is a common tendency to cling to old ways and methods. This is not because men hate progress, but rather because they do not want to exert their minds to think. We are always trying to avoid new thoughts. Every good thing has been condemned in its day and generation by those who did not wish to make the effort to understand its meaning.

When railroads were first introduced, many said it would ruin the farmers because the demand for horses would be killed. Today, everyone will admit that the railroads have benefited humanity immeasurably. Fifty years ago, because it was hard to take a bath, many lazy authorities claimed it was unhealthy—that one would catch a cold through too much bathing. The daily bath is now recognized as one of our best health habits.

When the first cold-storage meat was shipped from Brazil to France seventy-five years ago the French would not let it land, claiming that the meat would be unwholesome. It was finally landed in England, and this no doubt contributed very greatly to the present good habit of the Englishman in eating so much roast beef. The arguments against meat eating that you hear today are remnants of the same reasoning used at that time—that flesh food spoiled soon after it was killed and became poisonous if kept too long. Those who have dared to investigate have found that properly killed steer meat is made more wholesome if refrigerated for several months.

Some people still believe that acids and milk make a bad combination. I recently read an article by one health "expert" who said that he had proved there was nothing to good or bad food combinations because he found patients could drink milk and eat fruit at the same time without any bad consequences. He did not know it, but he was simply stating a discovery made by practical dietitians many years ago that milk combined perfectly with acids, being more easily digested in this combination than if used alone. He apparently did not know that if bread is added to this otherwise good mixture that excessive fermentation is set up, often producing very serious consequences.

Even today many physicians teach that athletes die young because of taking too much violent exercise. The truth is that their deaths are caused by not continuing to exercise, and hastened by overeating.

Some doctors are still advising weak patients to go to bed and eat plenty of nourishing food. The new idea is to encourage the weak patient to exercise to gain strength and at the same time reduce the quantity of food used and select food of a better quality.

Breathing night air was only a short time ago considered very—dangerous. We know now that this is the purest air and everyone is advised to sleep out of doors winter and summer.

Study your health problems carefully and be ready to accept a new viewpoint if it seems reasonable to you. Above all, do not be unwilling to use some effort in understanding the needs of your body. We starve not for lack of food, but for lack of understanding.

Questions and Answers.

Question: A. Dun asks: "Will you please tell me the name of the rosin and wax preparation for removing superfluous hair, and where it can be procured?"

Answer: There are many such preparations on the market and I am sure any druggist can supply you. My policy is not to recommend any particular advertised remedy in this column.

Question: T. B. writes: "I have heard that in Russia they take the liver and lungs of a young calf and seal them up and boil for 24 hours. This is then used in treating tuberculosis patients. Do you think this treatment to be harmful or useful?"

Answer: There can be no special advantage in taking the food you have written about. A tubercular patient needs to be dieted very carefully, but the main object of the diet should be to supply calcium deficiency and provide the best tissue building elements.

Question: Miss L. R. asks: "Will you please tell me what I can do to cure myself of rickets? I am not quite sure if that is what I have, but I thought that maybe you would explain just what 'rickets' is."

Answer: Rickets is a disease usually caused by faulty metabolism, but may be due simply to a lack of the proper amount of bone-building minerals. Only a careful diagnosis of your case would reveal what is causing the trouble. Go to a good diagnostician, or write me again, giving a more complete description of your case.

What Every Girl Should Know

By GISA PRUCHONE

Copyright, 1927, Warner Bros. Pictures, Inc.

"WHAT EVERY GIRL SHOULD KNOW," with Patsy Ruth Miller, is a Warner Bros. picturization of this novel.

SYNOPSIS

Mary "Elaine" Sullivan—slender, beautiful, red-headed—is an orphan. Wally Mason, a young reporter, loves Mary. But she disbelieves in love. Mary keeps house for her brothers, David and Bobby. David, the family support, hopes Mary will get safely married. David is sentenced to prison for an auto fatality. The Charity Department takes Bobby. Wally proposes; Mary goes to New York, and gets a cloakroom job in a notorious night club. It is raided. In the morning the owner and dancers are let off with fines and reprimands.

CHAPTER IX—Continued

Joyfully they turned to go. It had been so much less harrowing than they had thought. No mention had been made of Mary, who had watched the proceedings with the beat of her heart sounding loud in her ears. When the others joyfully kissed and tightened their wraps to leave, she too, felt the sudden letdown, the dropping of the weight that had crushed her. She swallowed, and closed her eyes. Well Well, she thought. What an experience. Mary, walking the high places in a prison cell. She smiled a bit wryly. The feat had been difficult of accomplishment.

The judge leaned back in his high chair, wearily. He placed his spectacles more firmly on his nose, and droned, "Miss Sullivan."

"Yes?" said Mary, startled. The sudden shock of her name spoken with such easy familiarity in surroundings such as these brought her hand to her heart. He had addressed none of the others by name. She felt the weight again, as though it had been lowered with a vicious jerk by unsympathetic hands from above.

"You will please remain, Miss

The court matron placed a strong arm under her elbow when she sank

Sullivan." The strange glances of the girls as they passed through the double doors, hurt her. They were thinking—what were they thinking? That Mary had been the cause of this, perhaps? The doors closed behind Bennie, who waved a taunting good-bye.

The inquisition of the judge. She was Mary Sullivan, formerly of Garden City, was she not? Yes, oh yes.

Mary Sullivan, whose brother, David Sullivan, had been sent up for manslaughter? Yes. The fearlessness of Mary's eyes as they held those of the judge. The mention of Davie acted as a buoy.

"I have examined your case Mary Sullivan. I have concluded that owing to the unfortunate happenings that have taken place in your young life and considering the influences under which you are bound to react because of your extreme youth, it would be wisest and best for you to be placed in an institution such as the St. Mary's Home for Working Girls. There you will receive the care proper for one in your position and tender years."

Fortunately the court matron was standing behind Mary when the sentence was uttered. She placed a strong arm under her elbow when she sank. "It's all right," whispered Mary. "I shan't fall." Nevertheless her hand grasped the matron's arm as she was led from the court-room.

"You're leaving for the Home this afternoon," said the matron kindly. Mary looked so pitifully young there in the strong light from the high barred windows. "Would you like something to eat now to keep your strength up?"

"No," said Mary.

"Just a little cup of tea my dear. It will hearten you up wonderfully. Do. I've discovered that a hot cup of tea during the heaviest part of my day, it doesn't matter how heavy, will just make the blood flow again. Do. Just a little cup of tea. I've some on the burner now."

"No," said Mary.

"Well—if you won't." The matron looked at the girl helplessly. "Is there anything you'd like to do now? Telephone or write a letter perhaps?"

"No. Thank you."

"Well dear—just make yourself comfortable here. You don't go until four this afternoon and you may as well rest a bit." She hesitated, then continued. "Have you no one to telephone to? The people you live with—?"

"No."

"Well, then I'll be going." She beamed and left the room, taking with her a fresh duster. Mary heard the key being carefully turned in the door.

To die! That was the one desire in life now. To die. Shame could go no deeper. There remained no depths that had not been pierced by the events of the last few hours There remained nothing of Mary The Mary who had swung her racquets with such vigorous aim in the outpour of sunshine had been killed by a judge! How queer Killed by a judge. The high potentate of the law. Would he be disturbed if he knew? You judge, you killed Mary Sullivan Not I, quoth the Judge, not I. You, Bennie, you helped her to her death. Not I, disclaimed Benie hurriedly, not I. Who then? Well then, it must have been Cock Robin. I sent Mary to her death said Cock Robin, 'twas I. And twittered his wings and chirruped madly and flew off into the blue of the heavens, where Mary tried to follow. I shall bring you to trial Cock Robin But Mary couldn't fly Weights dragged at her. Her shoes were leaden and bound with chains Where were the silver tipped slippers touched with flame? If she had the silver tipped slippers touched with flame—where oh where have my little slippers gone, oh where oh where have they gone? With his tail cut short—no. Mary found the silver slippers and slipped out of those fashioned with lead. Then she leaped into the sky I shall bring you to trial Cock Robin, for having killed the soul of Mary Sullivan. Do that, chuckled Cock Robin, do that thing? Yay Bennie! Attaboy, Bennie! Strut it, strut it! And if I can't see you very quickly, will you come to me, Mary?

Robert! Oh young Robert! What good your silver lance now? Can your lance slash at heavy chains and cut through doors that are locked on the outside? The door was locked The door was locked. Mary had been locked in from the outside. Mary was wicked, wicked wicked! Mary was to be sent to a home for working girls where an eye could be kept on her wanton youth Wanton youth. Mary had youth and because of it she was wanton. Oh for shame, Mary! Does Wally know that your youth is wanton?

"Miss. Miss." They were shaking her so that the wantonness might drop out. You can have that, but what shall I do with my youth?

"Miss. It's time to go."

Time to go? Time to go where? Time to go riding with Wally. "Just a moment, just a moment Wally, while I powder my nose."

"Why gild the lily," laughed Wally. Smuggled deep in the little green car, racing with the wind How the car jolted.

"Miss" They were shaking her again, shaking out her wantonness. Take it, take it, oh take it all, take everything I own for Cock Robin has killed the soul of Mary Sullivan, and what is left?

"If you don't get up dear, I will have to carry you out. Imagine carrying a great big girl like you."

Carry me. Carry me as if I were a little girl. My mother carried me, my mother did. What ho, Sir Lancelot, and whom have you there? Tis Elaine, Sir Gwen, Elaine the fair, Elaine the lily-white whom I have found like the pallid lily for whom she is named, floating downstream. Floating downstream, Sir Lancelot? And how? Floating downstream easily, Sir. Gwen Floating downstream easily, for she has lost her wantonness. Has she youth, Sir. Lancelot? She has youth, Sir. Gwen, but it has become soiled with the slime from the depths of the river. Shameful, Sir Lancelot. Shameful indeed, Sir Gwen.

"I don't know what to do with her," helplessly. "I don't know what to do. She acts kind of dumb, Mrs. Brody."

"Poor child. I've always said, and I say it now, it ain't fair that such young ones should be left alone to be knocked around, it ain't fair and it ain't right. Well, it's her looks Mrs. Brennan. It's her looks that dragged her into that sink of sin. That kind of hair ain't been given to girls for no good purpose. And a Sullivan, too."

"I don't know what to do with her I swear, Mrs. Brody."

"Try a strong cup of hot tea. I've always said and I say it now. A good strong cup of hot tea——"

SCIENCE CAME TO THE RESCUE OF MANY A SOLDIER WHOSE FACE WAS SHELL-MARRED. IF FACIAL SURGERY HAD NOT BEEN DEVELOPED THE MUTILATED HEROES UNDOUBTEDLY WOULD HAVE PREFERRED TO WEAR BANDAGES ALL THEIR LIFE RATHER THAN TO SHOCK THEIR FRIENDS.

THERE WERE TWO METHODS OF DISGUISING A BATTLE-SCARRED FACE. ONE WAS TO WEAR A SILVERED COPPER MASK, MOLDED BY A SCULPTOR, TO CONCEAL A DISFIGURED NOSE, CHEEK OR JAW. THE MASK WAS PAINTED THE SAME HUE AS THE SOLDIER'S FACE.

THE OTHER METHOD OF REMODELING A FACE IS MORE INTERESTING. IT CONSISTED IN MANUFACTURING SUBSTITUTES FOR THE DISTORTED FEATURES. FOR INSTANCE, TO REPLACE A NOSE, THE SURGEON MIGHT TAKE A PIECE OF SHOULDER BONE AND SOME SKIN FROM THE PATIENT'S CHEST AND GRAFT IT ON THE FACE.

LOCAL JUNIORS PLAY PENETANG

First Rugby Game of Season Is Scheduled For Next Saturday.

IN O.R.F.U. SERIES.

On Saturday afternoon the first Rugby game of the season will be held at James Stevenson Park, when the local juniors will clash with the Penetang boys, winners of the Northern O.R.F.U. district. The Petes were given a bye and have not been in action yet, but they are turning out to practice well, and have been working for the past six weeks. Coaches Max Sloan and Jack Deannard have rounded together the strongest Rugby team that has represented this city in the junior Rugby association for many years.

RUGBY FINALISTS APPEAR ASSURED

But Race Is Far From Over in Three Eastern Unions.

Toronto, Oct. 24. Canadian Press. The Eastern Canadian Senior Rugby race is far from being settled yet, but as a result of Saturday's games some idea of the leaders can be obtained. Barring upsets, the finalists appear to be McGill in the Intercollegiate, Hamilton in the Big Four, and Balmy Beach in the Ontario Union.

In the Intercollegiate, Varsity by winning the next two games, might tie up the race, but this is a remote possibility.

Ottawa may threaten Hamilton's lead in the Interprovincial but to do this will have to beat Hamilton at home, while Argos would also have to beat Hamilton.

Balmy Beach's only threat is the Varsity 2nd team, which by defeating Balmy Beach in the next fixture would tie with them. The Bleachers incidentally beat both McGill and Hamilton in exhibition fixtures.

BACON HOG FAIR WELL ATTENDED

Animals of Good Quality Shown By Northumberland Breeders.

TWO CARLOADS SOLD.

CAMPBELLFORD, October 24. — The annual bacon hog show was held on the Seymour agricultural grounds on Friday afternoon. The judging began at two o'clock, with Mr. Dunk of Port Perry and Mr. McKinnon of Toronto as chief judges. Each of the sixteen classes was well filled and high-class animals made the exhibition an affair of the greatest interest to those engaged in the breeding and marketing of hogs.

The bacon hog fair is held under the auspices of the Dominion Live Stock Branch and the Provincial Department of Agriculture. It is held in the interest of the breeders and the judges were very pleased to explain the reasons for their decisions. Thus the breeder of market hogs is able to obtain information gratis which would otherwise be difficult to get at a moment's notice. The facilities offered for marketing at the fair were also of benefit to the farmers. Two car loads were sold, the buying being Nelson of Warkworth and Scott of Campbellford. They paid $10.50 per hundred.

PRESS ATTACKS BIG AIRSHIPS

Government Plans Are Under Fire By Various Journals.

DEFENCE ISSUED.

LONDON, Oct. 24 (United Press).—Persistent attacks, which are being made by various prominent newspapers here on the Government's plans for building the great airships R100 and R101, are arousing considerable alarm among those concerned in the development of an Empire air service in which all the Dominions are vitally interested.

The campaign has reached such a stage that it has been suggested in official quarters that Sir Phillip Sassoon, British Under Secretary of Air, who will shortly visit Canada, should induce the Canadian Government to make an authorative pronouncement emphasizing the need of such a service to Canada and pointing out the expense and trouble which the Dominion has already undertaken in connection with the construction of airship mooring masts.

The most recent attack on the Empire air scheme is made in The Daily Mail by Edward F. Spanner, a well-known aviation authority who describes the Government's scheme as "A two million pounds gamble doomed to failure."

He argues that the history of airships has been linked with disaster everywhere.

Lord Thompson, former Air Minister in the Labor Government, comes out in defence of the Government's airship plans. He declares that Great Britain cannot afford to neglect such a form of transportation, possessing, as it does, a far greater speed than ocean liners, and a much longer range than air planes. He emphasized that the British airship R34 has been the only aircraft so far to make a double Atlantic flight.

It is also pointed out in answer to the critics that the Germans are now building a Giant Zeppelin for service in South America which might easily be extended to North America, thus putting the Germans in the lead if Britain delays now.

A.Y.P.A. PLANS FOR EXPANSION

Two Hundred New Branches by 1930 is Objective Set.

RESOLUTIONS PASSED

The committee appointed by the Dominion Executive to draw up a plan of endeavor for the A.Y.P.A. for the next three years presented the following report, which was adopted at Saturday's session:

Re Monthly—To make the "A.Y.P.A. Monthly" self-supporting by endeavouring to increase subscription list to two thousand this year and maintain this at least for the following two years.

Re Dominion Fees—To put forth an intensive effort to bring home to branches the responsibility for payment of fees.

Re Extension:

1. Interest young people's societies now organized to affiliate with the Dominion A.Y.P.A.

2. Attempt to re-organize dormant branches.

3. Endeavour to organize Local Councils wherever possible.

4. 200 new branches by end of 1930.

5. Increase membership in all branches 25% each year for three years.

6. Organize a Young People's Bible Class in every branch.

7. Endeavour to have representatives visit all Synod and Deanery Meetings.

8. Organize a Dominion Class to train leaders who will sponsor similar classes in local councils and groups of branches.

Re Deputation—Endeavour to arrange visitation to every Local Council and individual branch before the end of 1930. A prepared list of subjects to be presented to those visiting well in advance of these visits.

Among the resolutions passed were:

That a letter be sent to each clergyman requesting his support and regular attendance at A.Y.P.A. meetings, as it has been found that without his hearty approval no branch can prosper, and that the branches be reminded that the rectors have control.

That a publicity man be appointed to take care of the extension of the A.Y.P.A. in various ways, and that the position be divorced from that of editor of the A.Y.P.A. Monthly, the official journal of the association.

Adopting a budget for the coming year and stressing the necessity of all branches paying their per capita tax by Feb. 1.

Appreciation

We wish to convey to the buying public of Peterboro, our hearty appreciation of the response made to our big four-day sale of last week, commemorating our 44 years in business. The splendid success of our sale, showing the confidence the people have in Fair's high quality goods, and statement of values, was gratifying in the extreme. It was a great satisfaction to us to witness the pleasure of the hundreds of buyers as they realized the reality of the bargains offered. Such a remarkable influx of business, we accept as a tribute to the long sustained policy of the store, "Greatest value for least possible money," which was of course magnified by our Commemorative Sale.

IN POLICE COURT.

Two boys and a young man pleaded guilty this morning in the police court to being intoxicated, and were fined $25.00 and $5.87 costs each or 30 days in the common jail.

He reported that they had been in a motor accident in which they claimed most of the road, and forced a car with three people from Brighton in it into the ditch. After the accident the three went to sleep in the ditch and were sleeping when arrested by the constable. Provincial Officer Joseph Stewart investigated and found ten empty bottles which had contained moonshine whiskey, along with a quantity of potatoes, cabbage and turnips, in the back seat of the car.

In the County Court on Friday, judgment was given in the case of F. W. Adlam vs. R. Milne and J. A. Wylie by consent for the amount of $475.00, and costs up to trial.

This action arose by reason of an accident on the Kingston Road, on the 23rd day of July last, near Whitby, when Mr. Adlam, who was motoring to Toronto, was struck by the car of Mr. Milne. As a result Mr. Adlam's car was badly damaged. Mr. Milne was driving in the same direction as Mr. Adlam and endeavored, it is said, to cut in. Mr. Adlam also sustained personal injuries. J. O. An interesting demonstration of chintz-cretonnes in the Simcoe street window of the J. C. Turnbull Company's establisment on Saturday drew the attention of large crowds of people during afternoon and evening. Miss Mamie McCarthy, artist, made charcoal sketches in the window, using the demonstrators as models, during both sessions.

Thomas Reid of James street was hurt at the Canadian Air Services flying field yesterday morning at 11.45 when a small hoist fell upon him, injuring his back. Mr. Reid was taken to the hospital where his injuries were attended to.

VOL. LX., No. 97 — PETERBOROUGH, TUESDAY, OCTOBER 25, 1927 — PRICE THREE CENTS

SAYS EXISTENCE OF ARMAMENTS ALWAYS THWART WORLD PEACE

Former Premier Lloyd George Declares in Speech on Disarmament.

BREACH OF FAITH.

Are at Present Many Dangers Which Threaten Peace of Europe.

LONDON Oct. 25 (Canadian Press).—The existence of great armaments will always thwart the League of Nations, former Premier Lloyd George declared last night in a speech on disarmament.

"The present size of armaments in Enrope," he said, "is a breach of faith on the part of the nations who entered the war largely to uphold the canctity of treaties."

Mr. Lloyd George was the chief speaker at a meeting arranged by the League of Nations Union. The vast crowds were far beyond the capacity of Queen's Hall and an overflow meeting accordingly was held in Philharmonic Hall.

"Are there any dangers which threaten the peace of Europe?" the magnetic little Welshman asked. "Yes; many, and grave.

"The Continental newspapers ring with disputes and outstanding differences which menace the peace of Europe," he went on. "Hence the growing zeal for arbitration which led to such a remarkable demonstration by the smaller nations at the recent assembly of the league. They are genuinely frightened by the snarling sounds which disturb the nerves of Europe."

Mr. Lloyd George points out that when peace was framed in 1919, it was recognized that adjustments would be required later.

"That settlement," he continued, "left some raggedends, which unless smoothed out are bound to irritate and inflame the canker. The League of Nations alone can straighten out this situation.

Result Would Be Fatal

"League of Nations which excludes from its operations all questions that are inconvenient is a shame and a snare. If that contention is upheld, the result most sooner or later be fatal to the peace of Europe."

The great source of peril, the former Premier argued, comes from either too harsh an interpretation of treaties or from failure to give an honest effect to the clauses in treaties which impose obligations on a victorious nation.

"I am referring particularly," he explained, "to cases like the wholesale defiance of provisions for the protection of racial and deligious minorities in annexed territories and also to the continued occupation of the Rhineland after Germany has made a sincere and successful effort to abide by the obligations imposed upon her."

But above all, the causes of disturbance, Mr. Lloyd George declared, "is the flagrant disregard of promises given in reference to disarmament."

The military strength of the allied nations, said the speaker, was more formidable and more destructive now than the 1914 war equipment ,and he asserted that the defeated powers' armies were most insignificant in comparison.

"Should there be any dispute, the just settlement of which might involve the surrender of any advantage now enjoyed by one of these fully armed nations," he went on, "there would be a natural desire on their par to avoid arbitration They have overwhelming forces on their side. The existence of great armaments will always thwart the League of Nations.

Breach of Faith

The present size of armaments in Europe is a gross breach of faith on the part of the nations who entered the war to uphold the sanctity of the treaties. Moreover, we have always the Balkans to reckon with as a source of permanent anxiety."

Turning his attention to Russia, the wartime British leader warned that when that huge country emerges from her internal entanglements," she will be the most redoubtable country on earth."

He urged the importance of bringing Russia back to the fraternity of nations ,admitting that this was one of the risks of peace, "but not to be compared to the risk of leaving her out in the dark."

Mr. Lloyd George predicted the most terrible war in the world's history unless the nations made up their minds to seek justice and protection from established right and not from force.

Alluding to the recent naval disarmament conference, he termed it "an incalculable calamity to the cause of peace and good will.

"If either Great Britain or America had said 'war between Great Britain and the United States is so inconceivable that we will agree to any proposal so long as it reduces armaments,' what would have happened?" asked the former Premier. "You would have substituted mutual trust for insular suspicion and pride between three of the greatest nations of the world, and none of the three would have built even to the limit of the agreement arrived at between them. And what an example it would have afforded other Powers who have for months been haggling about insignificant chips and shavings on their naval navies."

Heavy Damage Done To Farms By Fires

MEDICINE HAT, Alta., Oct. 25 (Canadian Press)—Sixty thousand acres of grazing lands were destroyed, a number of granaries and two farmhouses razed, by prairie fires which swept over the Ronlane and Lomand areas, west of Medicine Hat, on Saturday.

Extensive damage was also done to stooked grain and a whole herd of antelope which was known to have been on the plains, is believed to have been wiped out.

The fire swept through the dry grass with alarming rapidity, and only the sudden veering of the wind prevented more serious damage.

MARTIAL LAW IS PROCLAIMED

Government Claims To Have Discovered Plot To Restore Carol.

EX-MINISTER ARRESTED.

BUCHAREST, Roumania, October 25 (Canadian Press).—Martial law has been declared throughout Roumania as a result of the Government's discovery of a plot to bring about the return of former Crown Prince Carol, who renounced his rights to the throne. The Government is declared to be the master of the situation, which was revealed as the nation was celebrating the sixth birthday of King Michael, Carol's son, who was made monarch because of Carol's renunciation. The plot was discovered in letters in the possession of M. Manoilescu, a former Minister, whose arrest yesterday caused a sensation throughout Roumania.

In letters addressed to the Opposition leaders, Carol demands that a referendum be held throughout Roumania to learn the will of the people in regard to his return as King. The Cabinet has stated that reports regarding a Carolist movement are without foundation, and adds:

"The truth is that former Crown Prince Carol attempted to send an invitation to heads of the various parties, including the Premier, with the object of inducing the Roumanian people to give up their decision on the question of his recall to the throne. Since such an act was a direct attack on the constitutional order and safety of the State, Manoilescu, the agent through whom the letters were sent, has been arrested and brought before a court. The Government is firmly determined to preserve national order and it will take all necessary measures to prevent any further attempts of a similar nature."

Complete calm prevails but underneath is a feeling of undisguised anxiety and uncertainty and the Cabinet held several momentous meetings today in the bedroom of Premier Brataino, who is indisposed.

To add a dramatic touch to the situation to-day was little King Michael's sixth birthday, and the event was celebrated at a solemn service in the Patriarchal Cathedral in the presence of the Foreign Ministers and the diplomatic corps.

Once a Millionaire Campbell Tries Again

GREAT FALLS, Mont. October 25 (Canadian Press).—Rated a millionaire six years ago, Gordon Campbell came home broke from prison yesterday, but he had hardly arrived when fortune seemed to be smiling upon him again.

News reached him that an oil well he located last summer at Alderside, south-east of Calgary, Alta., had struck wet gas at 1,600 feet, and was bringing up a cupful of oil at each bail. Campbell is credited with the discovery of the Kevin-Sunburst oil fields of Montana.

He was released on parole recently from Fort Leavenworth Penitentiary, where he was serving two years for using the mails to defraud. A fine of $1,000 was paid by Campbell's Montana friends. He said yesterday he planned to start anew in the oil game.

Mark Dobson Drowns From Bank of River Near Smith Street

Aged Man Thought To Have Slipped Down Steep Slope Into Deep Water—Body Recovered From Stream By Railway Men.

PULMOTOR USED WITHOUT AVAIL BY FIRE MEN QUICKLY ON THE SPOT

Victim Was Seen Shortly Before Fatality Walking Along the River's Edge; Then Body Was Seen in the Water.

Mark Dobson, an elderly stone mason, living on Bonacord Street, was drowned this afternoon at 2.30 in the Otonabee River just below the Smith Street bridge. The body was in the water only a few minutes, but first-aid efforts by the C.N.R. shunter crew and by firemen with a pulmotor were unavailing.

The first to give the alarm were Mrs. G. Downer, Mrs. Lockington, and Mrs. H. Bertram, who were crossing the bridge and saw the body in the water near the foot of the steep bank below the bridge. Joseph Meagher, yard foreman for the C.N.R., went into the water a short distance down stream and pulled out the body, which was floating face downward. He was assisted by A. Clegg, engineer, and W. Strickland, of the train crew, and Ben Revoy, 292 Woodbine Avenue, who was passing.

The trainmen applied first-aid, getting a little water out of the lungs, while waiting for the pulmotor and Dr. H. M. Yelland. The doctor and firemen also worked on the body, but life was extinct.

Police-Sergeant Deannard and Constable Naples investigated the death, and Coroner Dr. T. W. H. Young was also on the scene. The Coroner was unable to state whether or not there will be an inquest until he made a further inquiry. None of the officials could say whether or not it was a case of suicide, as no one could be found who saw the man enter the water.

ROYALTY IN MOURNING OVER DEATH OF QUEEN'S BROTHER FOLLOWING SERIOUS OPERATION

Marquis of Cambridge Been in Poor Health For Some Time.

LIKED QUIET LIFE.

Court Functions Will Cease For Whatever Period Mourning is Held.

LONDON, Oct. 25 (Canadian Press). — The royal family was plunged into mourning yesterday by the rather sudden and unexpected death of the Queen's brother, the Marquis of Cambridge, after a serious abdominal operation.

The death leaves the Queen with only one surviving brother, the Earl of Athlone, now Governor-General of South Africa.

The Marquis of Cambridge had been in poor health for some time but his condition was not considered serious. Yesterday, however, he was removed from his country home to a nursing home in the adjacent town of Shrewsbury, where he underwent an operation from the effects of which he died later.

It had already been announced that owing to the illness of the Marquis, the projected visit of the Prince of Wales to Shrewsbury Wednesday and all ceremonies in connection with the visit were cancelled, but that a fatal termination of the illness was quite unexpected was shown by the fact that the Prince with his two brothers, the Duke of York and Prince Henry, were out hunting yesterday. Naturally all Court functions will cease for whatever period court mourning is held.

Was German Prince

The Marquis was a German prince in his paternal line, but his education and breeding were English. He held many official positions during his life and had considerable military service, notably in the Boer War and the World War, but his preference always was for the quiet home life of an English country gentleman.

He was fond of agriculture and spent most of his time in his latter years at his country estate.

Disinclination of the Marquis for royal pomp was illustrated some years ago when there was talk of offering him the throne of Hungary. He burst into laughter at the bare suggestion of his quitting a quiet country life for the troubled career of a foreign king and declined to entertain the notion.

Occupied Many Positions

Despite his disinclination to high position, the Marquis had a very interesting life as he occupied many diplomatic and official positions and saw much war service. He was present at the relief of Kimberly, the Battle of Paardeburg, and several other actions in the Boer War. He was awarded the Gideon's Medal with six clasps for his service in South Africa. He acted as military secretary at the War Office during the World War and also was military secretary to the British Expeditionary Force canteen with the rank of Brigadier-General. In 1914 he was appointed Governor and Constable of Windsor Castle.

The Marquis, who was known after his father's death as the Duke of Teck, was granted the privilege of being addressed as "Highness" in 1911 and was known as the Duke of Teck until 1917, when at the King's request he dropped his royal title and was called the Marquis of Cambridge, Earl of Eltham, and Viscount Northallerton in the British peerage. His younger brother at the same time was given the title of Earl of Athlone and Viscount Trematon.

In addition to many British orders the Marquis held several foreign orders and was a commander of the Legion of Honor.

He was fond of agriculture and spent most of his time in his latter years at his country estate.

The elder son of the Marquis, Lord Eltham, who succeeds to the Marquisate, also inherits the same taste as his father and has his home in the same county at Bridgenoth. Both Lord and Lady Eltham are actively interested in agriculture and run a very successful chicken farm. They have a three-year-old daughter.

Grayson Plane Will Be Ready In Two Days

OLD ORCHARD, Me., October 25 (Canadian Press). — Within two days the amphibian plane, Dawn, forced by engine trouble on Sunday to turn back after taking off for Denmark, will again be mechanically right, T. Harold Kinkade, Wright motor expert, said last night after an examination of the damage.

The motor went bad when the plane was off the Nova Scotia coast on Sunday. It was removed from the plane yesterday, and studied in the hangar of Captain Harry Jones here. After this examination Kinkade said he would prefer to install a new engine rather than attempt to repair the crippled machine.

The expert telegraphed the Wright factory at Paterson, N.J., and yesterday afternoon received a reply informing him that a new engine was being shipped last night by train. It will be delivered at the hangar here today ,and Kinkade said it would be installed by nightfall.

Government Plans To Beautify Capital

Andrew Moffitt Is Committed For Trial

SARNIA, Ont., Oct. 25 (Canadian Press).—Andrew Moffitt, 51, of Courtright, was committed for trial at the next competent court of jurisdiction by Magistrate Woodrow yesterday afternoon on a charge of manslaughter, resulting from the death of Samuel Dennis, 61, of the same place. Dennis died at the hospital here September 29 of a fracture of the skull, caused, the Crown alleges, by a blow from a shovel in the hands of Moffitt. The principal Crown witness at the preliminary examination yesterday was Fred Royle, another employee at the plant of the Western Salt Company, Courtright, where the altercation occurred. He deposed that he twice separated the pair when they were quarrelling about the firing of the boilers, and he later saw Moffitt strike Dennis on the head with a shovel.

BORDER GRACE EXPIRES DEC. 1

Many Non-Native Canadians Have Not Obtained Places On Quota Lists.

FEW DECLARE INTENTION.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 25 (Canadian Press).—It is understood that the Government's policy regarding Canadians born out of the Dominion, who have not qualified under the quota law to commute daily to positions in this country, will shortly be revealed. The six months' grace allowed these border crossers to get themselves on the quota list expires on December 1, and it is a foregone conclusion that many non-native Canadians who were working on the United States side and living in Canada when the order was issued in Washington will not have obtained places on the quota by December 1.

It is said there are five or six thousand who will not be on the quota list in time, only a few hundred having been actually regularized under the law since that time. The Canadian Press learns that only a few hundred more have applied, and this suggests that Canadians have not shown any great anxiety to conform to the law. Officials remark that the failure of non-native Canadians to declare their intention of getting entry as soon as possible is difficult to understand. Whether or not the Labor Department is prepared to grant further extension is not known, officials declining to discuss that point, but Canada has the assurance that such an extension will be recommended by the Secretary of State, if December 1st finds any considerable of non-native Canadians in danger of losing their jobs.

LOCAL MACHINE GUN UNIT HOLD BANQUET IN ARMORIES

O. C. MACHINE GUNNERS.

MAJOR H. DODDS,
Commander of No. 3 Company, 4th Battalion, Canadian Machine Gun Corps which held its annual banquet last night in the Armouries.

Officers and Men of Company Receive Many Guests at Dinner.

TOASTS PROPOSED.

The Soldier Dead, the O. C., and the Suicide Outfit Among Those Duly Honored.

The first annual dinner of the local company of the Fourth Battalion, C. M. G. C., was held in the armouries last night.

Over ninety men, officers, guests, and other ranks, were present. Addresses were given by Col. Miller, Lt.-Colonel Cordon Hall, officer commanding the Peterborough Rangers, Capt. John Dewart, Mayor Holloway, Major Dodds and others, while men of the company made several of the toasts.

Representatives were there from the Peterborough Rangers, the 4th Battery, the Third Prince of Wales Canadian Dragoons, and other Canadian Militia units.

After the toast to the King there was a silent toast to "The Canadian Soldier Dead," and the response "In Flander's Fields," was read by Lieut. John R. Heron, the toast-master.

Then followed "The Lament" played by the Machine Gun Pipe Band. The O. C. was toasted by Sergt.-Major W. R. Piercy, who said that although there had been many obstacles in organizing the local unit, and it had been an uphill fight, Major H. Dodds, the popular commanding officer, now had the unit second to none in the Dominion.

Musical numbers were given by Vernon Morphet, Pipe Major John Smith and Bob Hendry, and Colonel Miller read a reading entitled "The Crutch in the Corner Yonder."

Lieutenant J. Turnbull acted as song leader and John Crane was the accompanist.

Major Dodds, in a short address, told of a few bright spots in his military career, but as O. C. of the unit last night he thought it was one of the happiest moments of his life.

Major Dodds told of joining up in 1903 with Col. Hall and many others. In 1904 he got his stripes and certificate signed by Col. Miller. Later he became color sergeant under Major McLean and then in 1914 he went to France with Major Bennett. In 1919 when the local unit was formed he became an officer under the command of [illegible] Preen and three years ago he took over the command.

"Last year headquarters passed very favourably on our work. Our success has only been due to the co-operation of the men, the press which has assisted the Canadian militia and the cadet movement in every way possible, the interest taken in the company by Instructor Q. M. S. Thomas and Sergeant F. Trape, the caretakers and many others who have been interested in the success of the local militia. Let our motto be, "What we undertake we carry out," said Major Dodds in conclusion.

Sergeant E. A. Hatcher proposed, and Col. J. W. Miller replied to, the toast, "Our Country."

"Every man is proud of his native land," said the Colonel, "and he will fight for it. The Indian defended the bad lands of the west as well as flowery Missouri. Back in 54 B.C. the early Briton waded into the surf, and with crude weapons they fought against the invading Romans. These were our early forefathers. The Romans held sway for a time, but they had not the hearts of the people. In time things improved, the people forced the Magna Charta from King John. British sailors bridged the seas, Christianizing the nations, always defending justice and right. It was such men as these who came to Canada. The Indians were treated right. Rich lands have been opened up and to-day we have a country that we are proud of.

"We may say we have peace, but there is no peace. After the Great War some of the leaders formed the League of Nations so we might have peace. God laid down a plan, and when that plan is fulfilled we will have peace.

"Our boys crossed the seas to stand by a flag that has never been unfurled except in honors' cause. Many lie over there, but they are in God's keeping, and to-day what are we doing to pay the debt we owe to them? This is a great land, so let us go ahead and develop it, making it a nation of the British Empire," concluded Col. Miller.

Lt.-Col. Gordon Hall, in replying to the toast to the Militia, which was proposed by Sergt. L. Gilders, said that in spite of the fact that there are Agnes McPhails the Canadian militia is carrying on. "Here we have the necleus of different units throughout this part of the country, and all we need is a little public support," he said. "We may be called toy soldiers, but it was the so-called toy soldiers that answered the first call in 1914."

Mayor W. T. Holloway replied to the toast, "Our Guests," proposed by Lieut. Stan C. Kerneghan. His Worship had come from Huron county that day in order to be present at the banquet. He wished the [illegible] much success and prosperity [illegible] and was pleased to see that [illegible] all is able to [illegible] "My term [illegible] and its [illegible]

DIVER CAUGHT BETWEEN LOGS

T. A. Northey, of Lakefield, Has Harrowing Ordeal at Dam 24.

HELD UNDER LONG TIME.

To be confined for the best part of an hour under a stop log at Dam 24, just south of Lakefield, unable to get out because of the force of the water, was the harrowing experience of T. A. Northey, Lakefield diver, employed by the Engineering Construction Company, contractors for the new dam being built at that point, late yesterday afternoon. Except for minor injuries to his leg, Mr. Northey is to-day little the worse for his ordeal.

The diver was employed in closing up the east end of the old dam to keep the water away from the site of the new dam, when his leg became wedged between two of the stop-logs. The men up above were at first unaware of his predicament, but when they found out that they could not raise him they took immediate action.

The lockmaster, receiving permission from Superintendent A. L. Killaly, let the water down a few feet, and another diver on the job, who had just arrived from Toronto a couple of days before, went down and tied a rope around the imprisoned man. The end of the rope was carried up the bank so that the pull might be direct, and the united efforts of five men were needed to pull Mr. Northey out.

Dr. J. M. O'Brien was called to the scene and attended Mr. Northey.

WATCHES TRAIN CRUSH HER BABY

Mother Too Late in Effort To Save Child at Port Arthur.

BODY BADLY MANGLED.

PORT ARTHUR, Ont., Oct. 25.—A mother gave her two and one half year old boy his Sunday morning washing, dressed him up for the day, and set him down on the kitchen floor, while she went about other household duties. Two or three minutes later, noticing freight cars moving along a Canadian National Railway siding near the home, she looked around for her little boy, to assure herself that he was safe from harm, but was horrified to see him sitting calmly on a rail as the cars approached.

Dashing toward the track in an effort to effect a rescue, the woman was too late and became a witness of the cars crushing the life out of the child, severing the head and one arm and leaving the parts of the body on opposite sides of the rail.

The mother is the wife of Joseph Thibeault, watchman of the C.N.R. shop at Long Lac, the child bearing the same name.

TOWNS JARRED BY TREMBLORS AND COMMUNICATIONS SEVERED

Complete Reports Lacking of Destruction in Western Alaska.

VOLCANOES ACTIVE.

Indicated That Centre of Destruction Was in Pacific Ocean.

SEATTLE, Wash., Oct. 25 (Canadian Press).—Earthquake shocks of considerable intensity rocked southeastern Alaska yesterday, severing cable communications in the far north and interrupting household activities of the inhabitants.

Complete reports were lacking yesterday from Western Alaska, which includes a score of active volcanoes, and there were indications that the centre of the disturbance was in the Pacific Ocean, off the Alaskan coast. Dishes and windows were broken and clocks were stopped when several towns were jarred.

Cables maintained by the United States army signal corps between Ketchikan and Wrangell and between Juneau, Haines and Skagway were severed.

In Honolulu, Hon. T. A. Jaggar, director of the Mount Kilauea Laboratory, notified the hydrographic office that tidal waves dangerous to shipping would occur in Hawaiian waters between 1.30 and 3.30 p.m., Pacific coast time.

Cable Broken.

Reports from Petersburg, Alaska, said the Ketchikan-Wrangell cable had broken near Wrangell, where the shock was believed to be severe.

The main shock was felt in Juneau at 7 a.m., followed by three lesser ones. Many residents rushed from their beds in night clothing. Dishes rattled, light chandeliers swung and clocks stopped.

Cordova, Alaska, several hundred miles west and north of Juneau, reported pictures hanging on the walls swayed slightly, but the phenomen was not identified as an earthquake until despatches telling of the disturbance in south-eastern Alaska were received.

Wrecked Households.

Petersburg reported the shock at 6.51 a.m., but the damage was confined to broken dishes and windows and stopped clocks.

Residents of the Nickeyville residence section of Ketchikan reported feeling slight earth movements about 8 a.m. of about the same intensity of tremblers which rocked Alaska in February, 1925.

Felt in Germany.

POTSDAM, Germany, Oct. 25, — (Canadian Press).—The Geodetic Institute recorded a violent earthquake at 6 o'clock yesterday evening, the tremblings continuing until 9 o'clock. The place of origin has not yet been located.

OLD MASTERS

They sailed. They sailed. Then spake the mate:
"This mad sea shows its teeth tonight.
He curls his lip, he lies in wait,
With lifted teeth, as if to bite!
Brave Admiral, say but one good word:
What shall we do when hope is gone?"
The words leapt like a leaping sword:
"Sail on! Sail on! Sail on! and on!"

Then, pale and worn, he kept his deck,
And peered through darkness. Ah that night
Of all dark nights! And then a speck—
A light! a light! a light! a light!
It grew, a starlit flag unfurled!
It grew to be Time's burst of dawn,
He gained a world; he gave that world
Its grandest lesson: "On! Sail on!"

No Work In 30 Years Lifeboat Crew Paid Off

BRANTFORD, October 24. — Canadian Press. — The crew from the life-saving station at the east end of Long Point has been paid off for all time. In over thirty years, it is claimed, there has not been an occasion to run the lifeboat except for practice. The fishermen, however, are requesting that the government install a bell on the reef at Port Dover.

U. S. PROPOSALS WIN APPROVAL

For Allocation of Wave Lengths To Various Radio Stations.

BY NARROW MARGIN.

WASHINGTON, October 25. — Canadian Press. — After the liveliest debate yet generated in the international radio conference, proposals backed by the United States for the allocation of wave lengths to the various radio services were approved yesterday by a technical sub-committee.

European proposals to enlarge the boarcasting wave length bands by curtailing tnose of ship and airship communication were only defeated by the narrow margin of 7 to 10 votes.

The approved proposal, the outcome of previous consultations between British, Japanese, Canadian, United States French and Italian delegates, would allocate to broadcasting the wave lengths between 1550 and 1875 meters and between 230 and 545 meters. All other frequencies between 200 and 3000 meters would be reserved for ship and airport communication.

At yesterday's meeting United States representatives explained the enormous importance which ship-board traffic has assumed in wireless in defense of their stand against the European proposals. Figures were given to show that from the stations of Louisburg, Chatham, East Hampton and New York a daily traffic of 17,000 words is handled. Between New York City and Southampton alone 3600 words pass daily. Such traffic it was said, will increase still more in future and therefore ample provision should be made for available channels.

A group of European countries, led by Germany and France however, pointed out that a large part of Europe's broadcasting is on wave lengths ranging between 1000 and 2000 meters and demanded that they be allowed to continue. A French representative argued that the changes in wave lengths were impossible since mountainous areas like Europe could not be served on short waves except at an expense which Europe could not afford.

After much debate all delegates present agreed that the frequencies between 1500 and 1875 meters be allocated to broadcasting, but Germany France, Sweden, Norway, Austria, Holland and Czecho-Slovakia, urged the committee to allocate in addition also the frequencies between 1550 and 1750 to broadcasting. The motion was defeated by only three votes, raising the possibility of a reversal when the question comes before the full technical committee.

U.S. Dirigible May Not Pay Call To Ottawa

WASHINGTON, Oct. 25.—(Canadian Press.) — There is a possibility that the proposed trip to Ottawa of the United States navy dirigible Los Angeles may be called off. The difficulty of landing the huge craft on the ground has made necessary stringent regulations governing the character of the field to which the dirigible is permitted to go. The Canadian Press learns that it is by no means certain that a suitable landing field can be found near Ottawa. Officials of the aeronautics bureau are now in Ottawa looking over possible grounds. The regular aviation field on which Col. Lindbergh landed has been rejected as too small and the Rockcliffe Field may not be dry enough to permit operations of the huge force of men required to anchor the Los Angeles. The trip was planned primarily as a compliment to Sir Phillip Sassoon, British under secretary for the air now in the United States. United States' air board and other officials planned to accompany him. Plans are now held up awaiting the decision of experts as to the suitability of the Ottawa field.

FEW DUCKS YET AT RICE LAKE

Birds Have Not Come Down From North—Threshers Busy.

ROSENEATH NEWS.

ROSENEATH, October 25. — A few ducks have made their appearance on Rice Lake, but owing to the unseasonable weather the number is not very large, although some have been shot. A few weeks will see more hunters and game at the lake.

The sound of the threshing machine can be heard from every locality, as the farmers are finishing the last operation of their harvest. The grain is up to the average of previous years and each farmer is granted goodly results for his labour.

Sunday School was held on Sunday morning at the usual time, but there was no service in the United Church here owing to the anniversary services at Centenery, where Rev. McKee of Baltimore took charge. Rev. R. M. Brown conducted services at Baltimore.

YIELD OF GRAIN GOOD THIS YEAR

Alsike Only Crop Not Up To Average in Bailieboro District.

POTATOES ARE POOR.

BAILIEBORO, Oct. 25.—The farm crops of this district are mostly all threshed. In most grain, the yield has been better than it has for a number of years. The yield of alsike is much smaller this year than it has been for some time and the quality of the seed in most cases is only fair.

Fall wheat has averaged from thirty to fifty five bushels per acre, barley from forty to fifty-five bushels per acre, and oats from forty-five to sixty-five bushels an acre, while peas varied from twenty to forty-five bushels an acre. In each case, excepting wheat, the quality of these grains has been excellent. Fall wheat is not grading as high as it did last year.

Alsike is averaging anywhere from two to seven bushels to the acre, which is a small yield for alsike, but red clover in this immediate district promises to be a good crop.

The farmers are well up with their work. Already the roots and corn are mostly off the fields, while a large percentage of the fall ploughing is already done. The threshing is nearly finished for this season, with the exception of the red clover and some buckwheat.

There was not as large an acreage of fall wheat sown this fall as there was last fall, owing to the weather remaining dry until it was too late. The farmers, however, are getting their land in excellent condition to sow an extra large spring crop.

The potato crop is not as good this year, owing to the blight which caused the plants to die before the potatoes were fully matured. In almost every potato field there is a large quantity of rotten potatoes to be found. Some farmers have taken up as many as forty-five bags of rotten potatoes out of a hundred bags.

The apple crop is not as large as usual, but the quality of the various kinds of apples is excellent.

PIE SOCIAL HELD.

Function Under Auspices of Lasswade Church Very Successful.

APSLEY, Oct. 25.—A very successful pie social was held in Lasswade Club rooms on Thursday evening under the auspices of St. Paul's church, the net proceeds amounting to nearly thirty dollars. An interesting program of Ontario Government films was shown.

Rev. Rural Dean C. A. G. Spence was presented from attending the Dominion A.Y.P.A. Conference in Peterborough by sickness which confined him to his bed.

REGULATIONS BRING PROTEST

Workers Not in Position To Buy Six Bottles at Time.

WINE PURCHASE.

TORONTO, Oct. 25.—Regulations restricting the sale of wine by wineries to six bottles at a time and prohibiting single bottle sales have brought protest from working men, who declare they are not in a financial position to purchase six bottles at one time, and that with the closing hours set at seven o'clock they are unable to make their purchases before having supper.

As one prominent Labor man put it: "It is class legislation. The rich man never bought single bottles. We have to if we are to have a drink at all.

Several of the wineries offered objection to the new regulation. After November 1st, however, they will sell only in lots of six, but they feel the regulation is not fair.

Competition Now

Investigation revealed the fact that under the old Ontario Temperance Act the wineries were permitted to sell their products in case lots. At that time there was no competition from Government stores, but with competition it has been ruled that they should close three hours before the Government liquor stores and 30 minutes before the beer stores. With the new closing hours in effect it has been established that men who desire to purchase native wines, finding the stores closed, immediately went to the brewers' warehouses.

Some time ago Attorney-General Price pointed out that it was the desire of the government to encourage the drinking of native wines rather than spirits, and it is held that such regulations do not tend to create that atmosphere and is legislation against the wineries, who can sell only in quantities of cartons of six, while the government stores may sell single bottles.

The new regulations, it is claimed is a move to put the wineries out of business in favor of imported wines for which preferential duties have been provided.

It has been said that the brewers must sell in quantities of cartons of six, but wine is held to be of a different nature. A man will drink more than one bottle of beer where he would not drink more than one bottle of wine, and in many cases the workingman does not desire spirits, but wine which has a greater alcoholic content than beer.

Application is being made to have the position of the Liquor Control Board detailed, the wineries declaring that after the regulations were issued they made large expenditures to meet their business and without warning the "axe" fell and left them with heavy investments in plant and equipment.

NEW RECORDS SET MARKET FIGURES

Western Farmers in Race Against Winter To Save Crop.

WINNIPEG, Man., October 25 (Canadian Press). — In the most desperate race against winter ever waged by the farming population of the Prairies for the salvaging of the grain, marketing figures on the Canadian Pacific and Canadian National Railways soared beyond all previously recorded high levels on Saturday. A total of 8,020,909 bushels were hauled to the elevators.

Of this figure 3,380,000 bushels were marketed on Canadian National lines, constituting a new high record for this season. Canadian Pacific lines failed to break their previous high record established on Friday, but came within a hundred and some bushels of reaching the mark when a total of 4,440,909 bushels entered the elevators.

The number of cars loaded also constituted a record on the Canadian National system, 1,593 cars being loaded. The Canadian Pacific loadings totalled 2,090.

The use of motor trucks capable of carrying much larger loads and making three to four trips a day in place of one waggon trip, is declared to be responsible for the avalanche of grain descending upon the elevators.

STEAMSHIP FIRM REPLACES STRIKERS

OTTAWA, Oct. 24. — Replacing 60 dock hands who went on strike on Saturday in Toronto by men brought from Sarnia, the Ontario Canada Steamship Lines ended their dispute with their employees. The latter had refused to return to work pending consideration of their demands by a committee, it was stated in the reports to the Department of Labor to-day.

WEDDING BELLS.

HERLIHEY—DEVINE.

DOWNEYVILLE, Oct. 25.—On Wednesday morning at 9 o'clock St. Luke's Church, Downeyville, was the scene of a very pretty wedding when Miss Mary Devine, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. P. A. Devine, became the bride of Joseph Herlihey, son of Mr. and Mrs. Neil Herlihey, both of King's Wharf. The church was beautifully decorated with autumn foliage. The bride entered the church on the arm of her uncle, Mr. Martin Devine, of Lindsay, to the strains of the wedding march played by Miss Loretto Harrington, cousin of the bride, and was attired in peach georgette with hat, hose and shoes to match. Miss Anna Devine, the bride's sister, was bridesmaid, and Ambrose Herlihey was his brother's best man. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Father Galvin and at the signing of the register, Mrs. Patrick Perdue, cousin of the groom, rendered Gound's "Ave Marie". Immediately after the ceremony, the bridal party left for Rochester, N.Y. and Buffalo for a short honeymoon and on their return will reside at King's Wharf.

OBITUARY.

MRS. HENRY PROUT.

APSLEY, Oct. 25. — Death came with tragic suddenness on Friday to Mrs. Henry Prouty, who died from heart failure about one o'clock in the afternoon. The deceased lady had been in her usual health and spirits right up to the time of her death. The funeral which was very largely attended took place on Sunday afternoon, Rev. J. W. Ogden officiating, the service being held in the school grounds at Owenbrook to accommodate the many friends and interment being made in the cemetery there. The deceased leaves to mourn her loss two daughters, Viola at home, Mrs. Earl Whitmore, and one son, Percy. She had been a life-long resident, and her genial disposition won her a host of friends who will miss her keenly.

ISABELLA WILSON.

OMEMEE, Oct. 25.—A most estimable woman in the person of Isabella Hooten, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. William Hooten, of Cavan, and beloved wife of Mr. Samuel T. Wilson, of Omemee, passed to her eternal reward on Tuesday, October 18th, at the age of sixty-three years. The late Mrs. Wilson has been in poor health during the past year and for over four months was confined to her home, so was unable to attend any social functions or church duties. Her presence was at all times missed, and will yet continue, as she was a woman who was admired for her lovable manner and kind Christian spirit which she at all times demonstrated. A good and pious woman has passed from earth and one who will be missed most by her kind, sorrowing husband, who must be content with the ruling of a higher authority, that does all things well. Deceased was a consistent member of Trinity United church and an active worker in the Woman's Missionary Society and Ladies' Aid.

The funeral, which was largely attended, was held on Thursday afternoon from her late home. Rev. E. W. Rowland had charge of the service and spoke very earnestly to the living from the words found in Hebrews 13: 14: "For here have we no continuing city, but we seek one to come." He also made brief reference to the good Christian life of the departed and during the service sang as a solo, "Heaven is My Home."

Messrs. Richard Poast, William Connell, F. G. Sandy, David Weir, Samuel Connell and Percy Race acted as pall-bearers and tenderly laid the remains in their last resting place beside her three children in Emily Presbyterian cemetery.

Many floral tributes were placed on and around the casket.

Those left to mourn her passing beside her sorrowing husband, are two sisters, Mrs. George Haygarth of Omemee, and Mrs. Midwood of Cleveland, Ohio, and two brothers, Messrs. George and Robert Hoten of Fairmount, also Mr. Fred Bowker of Toronto, who had made his home with Mr. Wilson since a small boy, and who feels the loss severely.

Among those who attended the funeral were: Dr. A. Jemison, Millbrook; Mr. and Mrs. M. Harry of Peterborough; Mr. Fred Bowker of Toronto; Mrs. S. T. Jemison, Mr. William Lee of Bethany; Mrs. W. H. Windrim and son of Lindsay.

Scout News and Notices

DELORO TROOP.

MARMORA, Oct. 24.—The Deloro Boy Scouts have by now settled down to their winter program. The boys who have completed their second class tests are starting in on proficiency badges. Two classes have already been commenced, namely, ambulance and first aid and signalling. A class for the Pathfinders' badge will soon be under way, so that next spring should see several badges of merit among the boys. A new patrol, namely, the Otters, has been formed from new recruits. Second Lawrence Paquet received promotion to the leadership of the new patrol, while Scout Fred Calleny received the appointment of Second. The newcomers are keen and will be treading hard on the heels of the veterans before spring.

Every alternate week is given over to badge instruction, the other meetings at present concentrating on the program for the concert and display which the lads contemplate holding before Christmas. Up to last Tuesday night, the Rams had the edge on the rest in the matter of points for the patrol competition, but this week Bulls and Otters pulled ahead, although Scout G. O'Neill did his best to keep the Rams in the lead with odds five to one against him. Despite their youth, the Otters are travelling fast. It took a hard struggle for the Bulls to win their blindfold hockey, 3-2. Scouts wishing to take their examination for the cyclist's badge, as well as for the Pathfinding and Starman badges, should hand their names in by the twenty-fifth of this month.

WHEEL RUINS RAILS.

TECUMSEH, Neb. Oct. 25. — A broken wheel on a fast freight train has caused a loss of $30,000. For a distance of 20 miles, the wheel left a deep impression every nine feet on one of the rails and finally derailed two cars. The rails were so deeply dented that the entire 20 miles must be replaced with new rails.

INSTITUTE IS TOLD OF WHITE PLAGUE

Has Been Proved Not To Be Hereditary, Says Speaker.

WARSAW, Oct. 25.—At the regular Woman's Institute, Miss Stewart of the Good Samaritan Club, Toronto, addressed the ladies on 'Tuberculosis.' She gave a number of statistics to emphasize the need of trying to eradicate this terrible white plague. She told that it now is absolutely certain that the disease is not hereditary. No child is born with it, but may contract it from some one very early in life. Where several in a family have it, it has been communicated from one to another. In answer to the question whether any diseases were hereditary she said some were.

The United Church Missionary Society was entertained by the Cottesloe Missionary Society on Wednesday afternoon. The Warsaw M. S. gave the program, which consisted of readings, music and a contest.

600 ATTEND FOWL SUPPER

Millbrook United Church Ladies Hold Successful Social.

GOOD PROGRAM.

MILLBROOK, Oct. 25.—Over six hundred people attended the annual fowl supper under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid Society held on Tuesday evening in the basement of the United Church.

The decorative scheme was carried out in the spirit of Hallowe'en, orange and black streamers twining the large pillars, and forming the runners which centred the three long tables. Hollowed-out pumpkins were used for flower holders, alternating with the brass candlesticks which were placed at intervals down the length of the tables, and pumpkins and fall flowers filled the window ledges and hanging wall-pockets, while witches and hobgoblins disported themselves on the shades for the lights.

The fowl was placed upon platters and passed along the tables, everyone helping themselves at will, and if anyone went away with appetite unsatisfied the fault was surely a personal one, for the tables fairly groaned with the abundance of good things provided. The supply lasted until the latest comer had been waited upon, and some baking was sold after the entertainment.

The pastor, Rev. F. H. Howard, took the chair for the program given in the church auditorium, making a few opening remarks, after which the Doxology was sung and an invoction offered. The items included:

Male quartette, "I'm in Love with My Rosalie," by Messrs. H. J. Anderson, M. McDowell, W. H. Coombe, and V. C. Lambert; reading, "Wednesday Morning Bargain Day," by Mrs. Gerald McClelland (Peterboro'), with encore, "Pound o' Jumps"; mixed quartette, "Silver Threads Among the Gold," by Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Johnston, Miss May Byam, and Mr. McDowell; reading, "A Dutch Woman at the Theatre," by Mrs. McClelland," and encore, "Ironing on Sunday"; duet, "The Soldier's Song," by Messrs. Coombe and Anderson; solo, "If Winter Comes," by Mrs. McClelland; trio (by request), "God be Merciful," by Mr. and Mrs. Johnston and Mr. E. Hansman; reading, 'The Good Little Girl and the Bad Little Girl," by Mrs. McClelland, and encore, "A Saint Patrick's Day Speech"; solo, "Sweet Wonder in Thine Eyes," by Mr. E. Hansman; quartette, "Tom, Tom, How Could You?" by Mr. and Mrs. Johnston, Miss Byam and Mr. McDowell; reading, "A Scotch Sermon," by Mrs. McClelland, and encore, "What You Goin' to Do?"; quartette, "Away, Away, Away," by Messrs. Johnston, Coombe, Anderson, and Lambert; National Anthem.

Misses Ella Elson and Estelle Hetherington were the accompanists of the evening. The proceeds amounted to over $300.00, and the event was considered the most successful of its kind that the Aid has yet sponsored. Miss M. E. Needham, president of the Society, had a general oversight of the proceedings, and practically all members gave generous assistance with the work involved.

CAMPBELLFORD NEWS.

Mr. Rutlidge, who with his wife and daughter has been visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Neil Thompson, returned to Hamilton yesterday. Mrs. Rutlidge will remain with her father for some days yet.

Preparations on a large scale are being made for the St. Andrew's fowl supper to be held in the church tonight. Tables are being arranged to seat approximately three hundred at a sitting and a very enjoyable program has been prepared.

Measurements have been taken for the new platform at the C.N.R. station. It is understood that this work will be commenced at once and that the new platform will be of Amiesite paving. This will give the citizens an opportunity to see just what this comparatively new paving material is and what may be expected of it.

The Regent program seems to have varied somewhat. The Pathe Comedy is a humorous mixture of Irish and Hebrew and the Fighting Marine is showing the second last chapter. "Hell Bent for Heaven" is one of those stories of the feuds once common among certain families of the United States.

SHOWER FOR BRIDE

Miss Ida Howe is to Become Bride of Detroit Man.

HAVELOCK, Oct. 25.—Friends of Miss Ida Howe, who is soon to become the bride of Mr. Dudley Gulston of Detroit, gathered at the home of Mrs. William Hitchins on Thursday evening to honor her by a progressive euchre party and miscellaneous shower, arranged by Miss M. McBurney and Mrs. Hitchins. Four tables were played, following which Miss Howe was the recipient of many useful and attractive gifts. Master Arthur Hitchins brought in a prettily decorated wagon which contained the gifts and a dainty dressed doll as a miniature bride. The following address was read by Miss Lena Williams:

Hitchin's Heights,
Havelock, October 20.

Dear Ida:
We hear you are leaving Canada
To reside in the domain of Uncle Sam
And live in Detroit with a great big man.
So, we bring your gifts in our caravan
And wish "good luck" to you and your man.

Signed: FRIENDS.

Friendship's a gift as good as gold,
And, like rare wine, it's best when old.

The prize for the euchre was won by Mrs. H. T. Mathison, the consolation award going to Mrs. George Rigby.

After the serving of dainty refreshments, two prizes for a contest for the best doll, made from peanuts with costume of tissue paper were won by Mrs. H. T. Mathison and Mrs. Robert Anderson.

TUXIS BOYS DEBATE ON TRANSPORTATION

Decide Steamship of More Value Than Railway—Ballieboro News.

BAILIEBORO, Oct. 25.—The regular weekly meeting of the Union Victor Tuxis Square was one of special interest on Friday evening. At the close of the regular devotional service an interesting debate was staged. The subject of the debate was, "Resolved that the steamship has been of greater use to the people than has the railroad."

The affirmatibe was upheld by Messrs. Fred and Charlie Barnard, while the negative was thoroughly dealt with by Messrs. Aylmer Dawson and Archie Deyell. Many strong points were brought to light, while the subject was keenly debated.

The judges, who were Rev. H. W. Foley and Messrs. Ken. Skitch and Keith Barnard, gave the decision in favour of the affirmative. The Rev. Mr. Foley made a very capable critic.

There were about twenty of the members present and a jolly recreation period brought the meeting to a close.

Howard Fair was among the junior farmers who made high marks at the judging competition at Bethany on Wednesday last, and gets a free trip to the Royal winter fair in Toronto.

Mrs. Hy. Dawson was a visitor to Port Hope on Friday.

CHEAPER STAMPS, MORE LETTERS.

Once more it has been proven that lower taxation means increased revenue.

Witness the announcement from the Postal Department that postal revenues in the Dominion have gained nearly $2,000,000 in the five months of the fiscal year, and that there is every assurance that all losses in Federal revenue, due to the return to penny postage, will be caught up before the year expires.

Since July 1st of last year the people of Canada have purchased five million dollars worth of postage stamps more than before.

While more prosperous conditions may account for some of this increase, the conclusion is justified that the lowered rate has stimulated the writing of more letters.

Just as the lowering of the income tax saw greater returns from this levy, the drop in the cost of postage has been followed by no loss in revenue.

Mr. Robb had better keep up the good work, by a further slash in the income tax, notwithstanding the admiration of the Canadian Council of Agriculture for this form of taxation.

TOO MUCH POCKET MONEY.

The warning of Principal Grant against allowing too much pocket money to young people should not be overlooked by parents.

"This is the age of easy money," the head of Upper Canada College said the other day, "and too many boys have too much of it. To train a boy in the wise way of spending money is one thing; to train him in the squandering of money is quite another thing."

It is a mystery sometimes where the children of today get their money.

To offer a penny to a youngster is to insult him; anything smaller than five cents he does not consider at all, and he is more likely to demand and receive, too, a twenty-five-cent piece than a dime.

A father to whom in his boyhood days a "nickel" represented riches will dig down in his pocket and produce dollars on demand for his children.

The average child, even of tender years, seems to have at his disposal an endless supply of change for the movies, the gum machine, the purchase of ice cream and candies.

Principal Grant, in short, has called attention to a condition that calls for thought.

What are we going to do about it?

Oh, keep on digging down in our pockets, it is likely.

NO NEED FOR ALARM.

The alarm that is being voiced in some quarters because certain jails are overcrowded since the advent of the Liquor Control Act is not echoed by The Border Cities Star.

"The most obvious way to enforce the L.C.A.," points out that paper, "is by sending people to jail for violating it."

The Star is right.

There are people in all communities who refuse to pay attention to the law until they get an unpleasant reminder in the form of a jail sentence, and the quickest means of instilling into the minds of such individuals a respect for the regulations is to give them the penalties that are prescribed for infractions.

The sentences that are being meted out to offenders at present will soon have their effect, and the tendency to laugh at the law will disappear in the face of a general realization that there are safer games.

The Liquor Control Act was placed on the statute books because a majority of the electors declared themselves in favour of such legislation.

It provides for the legal purchase of liquor and its use under certain conditions.

It also provides stiff penalties for those who refuse to carry out these conditions.

The surest method of ensuring respect for the law is to show that penalties will inevitably follow violations.

HOW IT WORKS OUT.

Which is the more serious offence, to be drunk while in charge of a motor car or merely to be drunk?

That seems a foolish question, yet a situation often develops in Police Court that makes the second of these offences to appear more grave than the first.

A person convicted of driving a car while under the influence of liquor usually receives a sentence of fifteen days in jail.

In his case there is no option.

A conviction for common drunkenness, first offence, means a fine of say $20 and costs, with the alternative of thirty days in jail.

And here is what sometimes happens.

A couple of young men, not well provided with this world's goods, indulge too freely and go for a motor ride.

They have an accident, fall into the hands of the police and are haled before the magistrate.

The driver goes to jail for fifteen days.

His companion, who had nothing to do with handling the car, is given his choice of a $20 fine or thirty days.

He has no money to pay the fine so he goes to jail for double the period served by the driver, who is guilty of a much more serious offence.

The regulations evidently need revision, for no combination of circumstances should make it possible in a case like the one outlined for the drunken driver to escape with only half the penalty that has to be accepted by a companion whose offence was merely that he imbibed too freely.

The punishment must be made to fit the crime.

AVIATION IN CANADA.

Major-General J. H. MacBrien, former Canadian Chief of Staff, told a Winnipeg audience this week that a Canadian Air League should be formed at once. "Enterprising citizens of other countries are busy making a survey of the possibilities of establishing aerial transport in Canada," the general said, "and unless Canadians want this to be done for them by others and with foreign capital, they must act promptly and do it themselves."

Canadians should do more thinking in terms of the air. General MacBrien's advice is good. And he is entirely correct when he says that Canadians make as good pilots as any other race in the world. This was amply demonstrated in the Great War and it can be demonstrated again. We have an ideal country for the development of aviation and no country can use aviation to greater advantage. This is a fine combination of circumstances, one that we should not fail to recognize.

Windsor and every other community of any size can help the development of aviation by establishing municipal airports. It may be said that there is little use for them now. One of the reasons is that we lack these suitable landing places. Provide them—the cost is low—and you will have offered a strong incentive to the use of air machines and consequently to their further development and refinement. It is only through use and experiment that improvement is secured. The motor car has proved this. Aviation has had a similar history to date and the process will continue.—Border Cities Star.

THIS POOR OLD WORLD.

Away out at La Crosse, Wisconsin, an organization known as the International Purity Conference is engaged busily in putting the world right. The worthy delegates have found much labor awaiting them. The "best magazines," it appears, frequently contain immoral advertisements—nature not specified. Cigarette advertisements in particular are "traps" for girls. The "confession" type of magazine is poisonous, an expression with which we are inclined to agree though perhaps for a different reason.

The convention, according to the report, coupled "divorce, smoking, improper literature, and the younger generation" as subjects of concern about which something has to be done. This is a neat and succinct way of putting the issue. If the "younger generation" is considered frankly as an evil to be suppressed, along with divorce and immoral magazines, the whole question is simplified amazingly. Zealous reformers in a great hurry cannot wait for the younger generation to grow up and become the older, and no doubt real progress would be made if these unruly young people were accepted as a menace to Society and their elimination ordered. No doubt the world would be serene and subdued if the population between, say, 17 and 23 were quietly chloroformed some fine evening. It is a drastic remedy, but there seems no other way of relieving the minds of those utterly convinced that the boys and girls of today are headed straight for perdition.

It is a pleasure to note that one Barrett O'Hara—his name is worthy of record—told the Purity Conference that the continuous attack on the younger generation was led by the "hysterical" and the "gullible" and by "gossipers who need to get back to the Bible." We see nothing in the report to indicate that Mr. O'Hara was presented with any bouquets.—Ottawa Journal.

WINTER PLANS.

(An Editorial for Young People, in The Hamilton Spectator.)

This has been an exceptionally fine autumn, but the time is coming when we must look forward to the long, cool evenings when the out-of-doors will not be so inviting and when the home will make a greater appeal. Every season has its own peculiar charm and pleasures. The summer time, for the young especially, holds many delights, and so do the fall, the spring and the winter; in every month of the year there are certain conditions which make the season appealing, there is something which the other months lack. That is the best of a country like ours, with its varied climate. The healthy boy or girl can never be dull in a place which undergoes such delightful changes. We sometimes hear people saying that they would rather live in a country where it is mild all the year round; where it is possible to gather fruits and flowers in winter and where it is never necessary to stoke up the furnace nor put on heavy clothes. But would we really be content to change our bracing Canadian climate for such monotony? Winter or summer, Canada is always beautiful and interesting, offering vigorous health and enjoyment. We are now dealing with indoor recreation rather than outdoor. What shall be done in the coming months to pass the time away most agreeably and profitably?

The winter season should be the busiest time of all. One feels more energetic in the cool weather than during the heat of summer, and the thought of quiet days at home is more enticing. It is not enough just to think about it, though; a program must be drawn up and adhered to. Just what would you like best to master this winter? Is it, perhaps, a foreign language, an accomplishment in music or art, or in manual skill? Have you a favorite hobby? If not, why not form one? Hobbies are excellent things to drive away tedium and to keep one in a happy frame of mind. It matters not what one may decide to do, so long as it is worthy. This winter let us all try and carry out a definite plan of improvement in some direction. When spring comes, if we hold to our purposes, it will be an agreeable surprise to see what progress we shall have made. Studying, reading, or working with the hands—whatever one's inclinations may be—now is the time to settle down to the task. But it should not be called a task at all; for that which is done for the sheer pleasure of doing it is certainly not to be regarded as a task, but as the very pleasantest of occupations.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

Speaking of the Hallowe'en celebration, young Peterborough happily murmurs, "It won't be long now."

Noting that Senator Casgrain has entered McGill University, The Ottawa Journal hopes that he will not attempt to play on the football team.

MONTREAL GRAIN AND PRODUCE.

MONTREAL, Oct. 25. — There was some demand here yesterday for wheat for export account and sales of several loads of No 2 Northern were made at five cents per bushel over the Winnipeg October option, and a few loads of No. 4 Canadian western barley also changed hands at 11¾c per bushel over the same option.

Owing to the sharp advances recorded for oats in the Winnipeg future market, local prices for western grades were marked up one cent per bushel. The volume of business was small.

A feature of the spring wheat flour trade was the weaker feeling that developed and prices were reduced ten cents per barrel. The demand was limited. The tone of the market for winter wheat flour was about steady and prices were unchanged.

The millfeed trade was fairly active and the undertone was steady. The trade in standard grades of rolled oats was moderate and prices were unchanged.

Prices for all grades of eggs were well maintained under a fair demand. the receipts were 732 cases.

The market for potatoes was without any new feature to note the undertone being firm with a fair trade passing in all grades. Car loads of Prince Edward Island Green Mountains sold at $1.45 to $1.50 per bag of 90 pounds; New Brunswick Green Mountains at $1.40 to $1.45 per bag in bulk; Cobblers at $1.30 to $1.35 per bag in bulk, and Quebec choice white stock at $1.25 per bag in bulk ex-track.

A small volume of business was done in butter, but prices ruled steady. The receipts were 291 packages.

There was no improvement in the demand from England for cheese, but a steady business was done with United States operators in eastern goods. On spot western September make No. 1 white and colored were quoted at 21c per lb; western June-July make at 21c per pound, and western current receipts at 20¼c per lb. The receipts were 8149 boxes.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

CHICAGO, October 25. Canadian Press. — Stimulated by an unlooked for decrease of the United States visible supply, wheat rallied yesterday after having once more broken the season's low price record. The closing quotations on wheat were unsettled at the same as Saturday's finish, to ¼c down, with corn unchanged to 3-8c off oats at a shade to ¼ to 3-8 advance and provisions varying from 52c decline to . rise of 10c.

The unexpected announcement yesterday of 479,000 bush. shrinkage of the United States available stock of wheat had taken place in the last week, was accompanied by word that exports of domestic wheat between September 10 and October 15 had been more than 20,000,000 bushels greater than a year ago. Besides a report to the Department of Commerce indicated that Germany would import 95,000,000 to 100,000,000 bushels of wheat. Earlier, however, the market was largely dominated by the big crop movement in Canada.

Emphasizing word that suspicious conditions prevailed yesterday for the swift marketing of wheat by Canadian farmers was notice that farm deliveries on Saturday to country stations in Canada amounted to 6,738,232 bushels, against 3,506,630 bushels the corresponding day last year.

Furthermore, timely rains were reported to have put Argentine wheat in good shape and there were advices that the Australian crop outlook is less pessimistic. Under such circumstances and with the amount of wheat on ocean passage showing an increase both over last week and a year ago, prices here dropped temporarily to about 10c a bushel under last week's top figures.

Corn showed stubborn resistance to selling pressure, and rallied quickly with wheat, influenced also by corn export demand at the Gulf of Mexico. Receipts of corn here to-day were of liberal volume, 531 cars, including some new corn from Oklahoma that graded No. 2, testing 14.3 per cent. moisture. Oats were firmer sympathizing with corn rallies.

Provisions went sharply lower, affected by a decline in hog values.

WISE AND OTHERWISE.

A professor remarked that the young man who entered the ministry expecting to follow the line of least resistance would be as out of place as a "dear old lady at a football game." What he probably meant was "as out of place as a dear old lady in a rocking chair."

The ladies are to wear old-fashioned, high-laced boots again, according to style advices from London. But we fear their shins will find them out.

Judging from the stories of centenarians lately, the way to reach old age is to drink wine, abstain from alcohol, shun tobacco and smoke a pipe.

VOICE OF PEOPLE

Letters to be printed in the Voice of the People column must be received at The Examiner office on the day before it is desired to have them published.

To The Examiner:

Just a few lines from the West to give you an idea of the crops here, ninety miles west of Swift Current. I have been with several outfits. The wheat average is forty to sixty bushels to the acre. The threshing has been delayed so long by wet weather that it will be close to Christmas by the time the harvest is finished here. There is a very heavy crop of straw, and the farms are thickly dotted with stooks for twenty miles around, north and south. This is the best crop in years. Some of the cutting is to be done yet, while others are cutting with combines. Mr. Nelson has 640 acres of wheat to thresh on his own farms yet. Mrs. R. Sutton has a quarter rented; one hundred acres of it yielded five thousand bushels. Fifty acres was summer fallow, which yielded sixty bushels and twenty lbs to the acre. This is the highest yield yet. The neighbors are threshing this week, as the weather is ideal, the yield being forty-eight to fifty per acre. The wages are seven dollars a day for a man, two dollars extra for a team. No. 2 wheat is $1.17 a bushel. There have been several machines shipped here from other parts where the harvest is finished. Everything is in full swing from before daylight till after dark. All you hear is the hum of threshing machines.

A Thought For To-day

TRUE HAPPINESS

When you tell me what you consider true happiness, then I will tell you the way to find it.

That's the rub. We do not define the different brands of happiness or the different degress of happiness. We just call it all "happiness", then start out with a shotgun and try to wing everything we see in the air.

True happiness is a big game, right down on the ground. It does not fly high. It takes a rifle shot, not a bird shot, to get true happiness.

Our desires to be happy are so exorbitant and endless that we are always looking up in the heavens to find happiness, when, in reality, happiness is right here on the ground.

Happiness is a by-product, an indirect result of making others happy.

We are usually unhappy when we get what appeals to our imagination Our enthusiasm of expectation exceeds our real happiness of experience.

Here is a suggestion that may help you to be happy: Refuse what you know you can't have and then convince yourself that you didn't want what you have declined, anyway.

Then go out and do a friendly turn for some fellow who needs it.

Forget that you are a big man and be a big boy. It is the boy in you—the unsuspecting boy in you—who will make you truly happy.

Your happiest hours have come when you have made some else happy—made some miserable soul see a bit of sunshine.

ENTRANCE CLASSES RECEIVE DIPLOMAS

Queen Mary and King Edward School Associations Meet.

A capacity audience filled the hall of Queen Mary School on Friday evening, October 21st, when Entrance Diplomas were presented to sixty-three candidates who were successful at the June Entrance Examination. The presentation was fittingly made by E. Bruce Fowler, Esq., Chairman of the Board of Education.

An excellent program had been arranged by Mrs. Willison, convenor of the Program Committee, and was thoroughly enjoyed by the large audience present. Mrs. C. R. Banks, President of the Home and School Association presided, after opening with the Lord's prayer the reports of the Secretary, Mrs. Wilson and the Treasurer, Mrs. Cathcart were read and showed the society to be in a flourishing condition.

The following program was then rendered: piano solo—Harold Frost; violin duet—Max Warne and Russel Barton, accompanied by Doris Ackford. These three were members of the graduating class. Vocal solo—Mrs. Ingram, accompanied by G. F. Liddle, organist of George street United church; recitation—"When the Paper Doesn't Come,"—Ruth Ellis. This recitation earned a well-deserved encore.

At this point the diplomas were presented to the candidates by Mr. Fowler, who at the same time impressed upon them the greatness of their opportunities and their good fortune in living in such times as lies ahead for Canada. The next number was a solo by Mrs. G. F. Liddle, accompanied by Mr. Liddle. Rev. William Macdonald, pastor of Knox United Church, in a bright five minute speech, added his good wishes and extended his congratulations to the successful candidates. A piano solo by Walter Townsend followed, then a vocal solo by Miss Brady accompanied by Miss McCabe. Joseph Schooley gave a piano solo after which the concluding number of the program was given by Charles Clarke, tenor soloist, accompanied by Mrs. Greenslade.

A hearty vote of thanks to the various artists and to Messrs. Fowler and Macdonald was then moved by Mr. Clark, principal of the school, and by Mr. Wagar, in which the audience heartily joined.

The names of the successful candidates are as follows:—

KING EDWARD SCHOOL

A meeting of the King Edward Home and School Association was held on Friday evening, Oct. 21st, Mrs. W. H. Andrews, the President, spoke briefly, expressing pleasure in the good attendance.

The excellent programme consisted of vocal solos by Mrs. E. Kitney; vocal duets by Mrs. T. E. Curvin and Mrs. F. B. Elliott, and by Mr. and Mrs. Henry Turner; violin solos by Alex. Robertson; pianoforte solos by Miss Olive Prest and Ashton Fife; readings by Mrs. George H. Rowe and Miss Eva Outram. The accompanists were Mrs. E. Kitney, Miss Davies, Miss Robertson and Miss Aileen Rose.

Diplomas were presented to the successful entrance pupils by R. J. Bolton. In his remarks to the parents, Mr. Bolton asked them to give more thought to the future of their children. Of each class that left the school to attend the Collegiate, a very low percentage was to be found in attendance during the second year. Either the school or the home was not doing its full duty when so many children failed to take more advantage of educational facilities. The speaker directed their attention to the Technical school for those children who intended to follow industrial lines. Those receiving diplomas were—Margaret Allen, Dorothy Allen, Ralph Agnew, Ralph Beatty, Marjorie Baldry, Alice Bradshaw, Jean Cox, Robert Cunningham, Stanley Clarke, Dorothy Finnie, Alberta Hall, Lillie Jenkins, Elsie James, Arthur McLaren, Eunice Miller, Betty Pilling, Fern Rahmel, Walter Rose, Molly Siegel, Willie Snowdon, James Shaw, Pearl Thomas, Blanche Thompson, Donald Wood, Florence Young.

The Department of Education, to mark Confederation year, offered three prizes to Entrance pupils of each inspectorate. The highest of these, a silver medal, was won in this city by Dorothy Allen, 66 Lansdowne street. The medal was presented to her at this meeting.

Refreshments were served at the close of the meeting.

CANADA RECEIVES MEN HALF TRAINED

Those Finishing Farm Course in Northern Winter Go To Australia.

LONDON, Oct. 25 (By the Canadian Press).—Four training centres in England in which unemployed men are trained for farm work overseas are described at some length by the parliamentary correspondent of The Times, who says Canada accepts men from the training centres only during six months of the year and in the other six months (during Canada's winter and Australia's summer) Australia takes the men trained for agricultural pursuits.

The correspondent says:

"When the Ministry of Labor began its experimental scheme of training centres for the unemployed, it was not claimed that they would be able to guarantee work for the young single men who went through the course of instruction. The sole claim made was that a scheme of this kind would increase their employability, and, though the scheme is still regarded officially as being in the experimental stage, figures which are now available prove that the claim has been fully justified. Of the men who have already passed through the four centres, more than 90 per cent. have been able to obtain employment—and have been able to retain it, which is still more important.

"There are four training centres in operation. Two, at Birmingham and Wallsend, are non-residential and are designed to give the student a general knowledge of handicraft which will be of use to him in almost any industry that he enters. The other two—at Brandon and Claydon, in East Anglia—are residential and are intended primarily to adapt dwellers in the towns for work on the land in the Dominions. There is accommodation also for a limited number who desire to become handymen in this country.

"At Wallsend and Birmingham, 4,000 men have been admitted since the experiment began. About 470 left, before completing the course of training. They did so for a variety of reasons In some cases the men did not like the work, and in others they were discharged as unsuitable, but the majority left because they had been able to obtain employment. There were 680 still in training and 2,850 had completed the course. Of that number no fewer than 2,600, or 91 per cent. are known to have found employment.

"At Brandon and Claydon there were in training, at the end of August, 222 men who desired to go overseas, and 900 had completed the course. Of that 900, all but 12 have gone oversea and have found employment at once on farms in Canada or Australia. In the vast majority of cases these men are reported to have proved entirely satisfactory; no small achievement when it is remembered that the men were drawn entirely from the towns and had had no experience of agricultural conditions until they began the Ministry of Labor course.

"It is estimated that the cost of the non-residential centres works out at about 26 shillings a week per man, which includes one hot meal daily and a half a crown a week pocket money. It is expected that, when the scheme is in full working order, the weekly cost in the residential centres will be 40s. a man. This, of course, is in addition to the unemployment pay which the man continues to draw. But, on the other side of the balance-sheet is the fact that the men who attend the centres are rescued from the slough of chronic unemployment and are, in practically every case, restored definitely to the ranks of the wage-earners. As, for the moment, no extension of the number of centres is contemplated, various changes have recently been made to render the four existing centres even more useful.

"Canada is only able to take men from the training centres during the six months of the year, and for the remaining period; therefore, the scheme depends entirely upon the migration of men to Australia. The only Australian States which take the men trained at Brandon and Claydon at present are Western Australia and Victoria, and there is always the danger that either State may vary the number of men it is prepared to take after the course of training has begun. If the scheme is established permanently, it may be possible for the Australian Federal Government after consultation with the different States, to fix an annual quota of trained men who could be absorbed. This would, at any rate, give the home authorities a better chance of mapping out the yearly programme and of covering the period when the Canadian door is closed. While that door is open, Canada is willing to take as many men as the training centres can send her."

The application of physics has produced a number of important instruments for the work of assistance to the cotton industry. In a special tester the irregularities in a yarn are magnified 18,000 times in a wonderful way by a shoe riding over, and indicators and mirrors produce on a moving bromide strip a photographic record of every minute change of twist.

STOLE BANANAS; GETS THREE YEARS

London Shoemaker Had Been Convicted 12 Times Previously.

LONDON, Eng., Oct. 25.—Because he committed a burglary in a house at Muswell Hill and stole four bananas, James Edward Bookman, a shoemaker with a criminal record, will have to serve three years' penal servitude.

When Bookman appeared at Middlesex Sessions recently counsel for the prosecution remarked that it was only a case of four bananas, but Sir Thomas Edwards-Forster, K. C., the chairman, said it was far more serious than that. It was a case of burglary. The evidence was that the occupant of the house, Elio Fatchi, found Bookman in the house in the early hours of the morning.

The accused pleaded for leniency. Sir Thomas replied that he had failed to avail himself of chances given to him in the past. He had been 12 times previously convicted and would now go to penal servitude for three years.

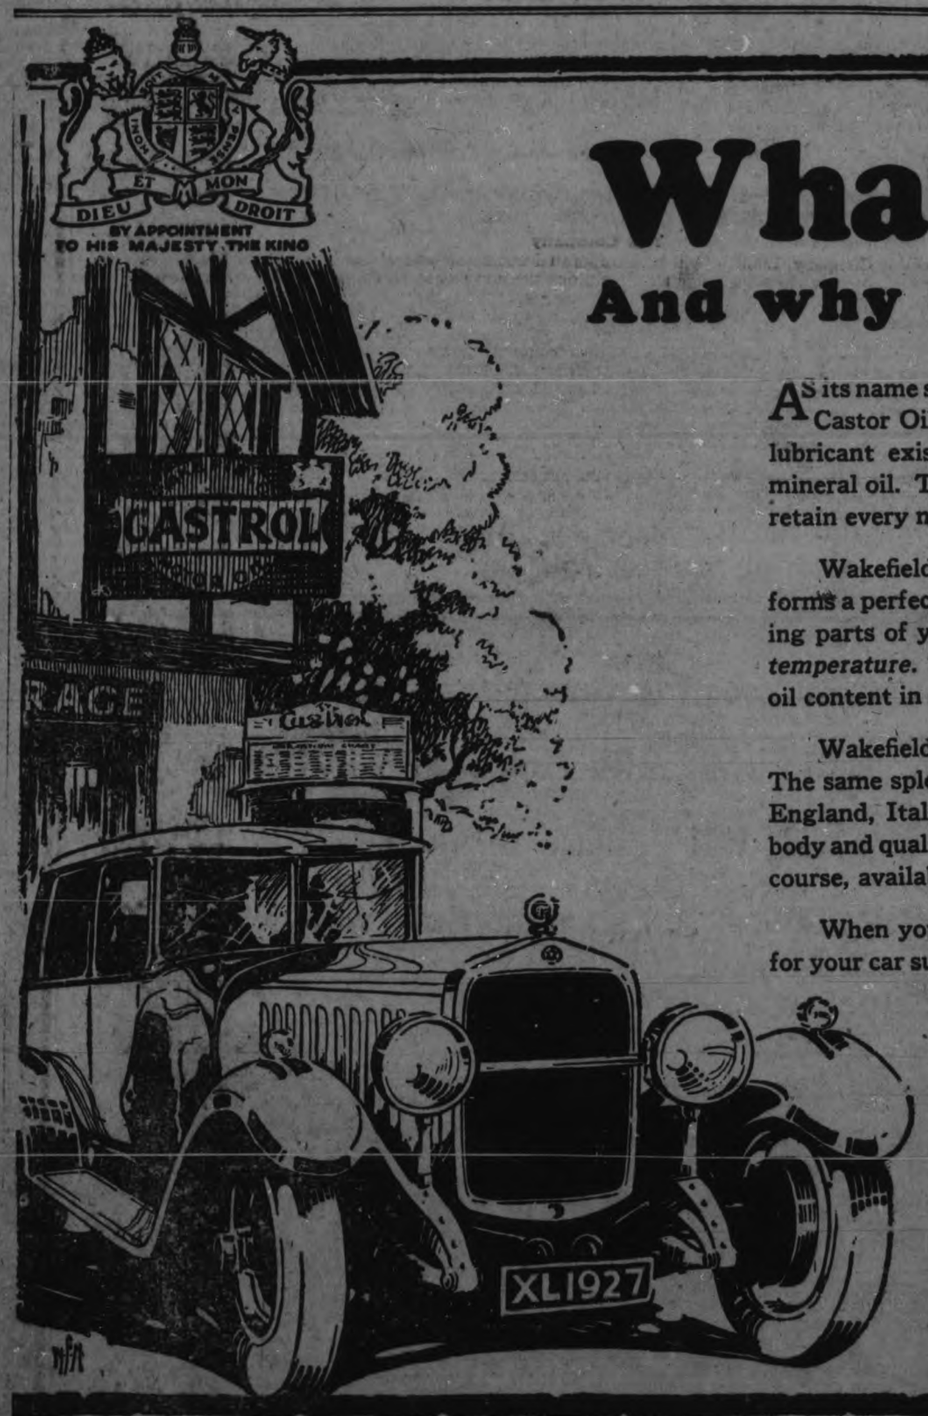
EXCELSIOR INSURANCE LIFE COMPANY



What is CASTROL?

And why should you use it in your car?

AS its name suggests CASTROL is a compound of Castor Oil, recognized by science as the finest lubricant existing, and a specially fine grade of mineral oil. These are blended in such a way as to retain every merit of both.

Wakefield CASTROL is the only oil made that forms a perfect film of protection between the moving parts of your engine at any speed and at any temperature. The secret, of course, lies in the castor oil content in CASTROL.

Wakefield CASTROL never varies in quality. The same splendid oil that motorists have used in England, Italy or China is precisely the same in body and quality as that bought in Canada. It is, of course, available the world over.

When you pay anywhere from $1000 to $8000 for your car surely it is the sensible thing to use the finest motor oil as a means of prolonging the car's life and safeguarding your investment.

When you consider that Wakefield CASTROL lasts 2000 miles before refilling is necessary you realize that not only does it provide faultless lubrication, but effects a genuine, visible economy in dollars and cents as well.

What does Castrol bring you? A quieter running motor. A cooler motor. Quick pick up in traffic. Prompt getaway in the morning. Fewer repair bills. Four times the mileage. Any garageman selling CASTROL can complete the story. If the garage you patronize does not yet stock advise

IF BACK HURTS BEGIN ON SALTS

Flush Your Kidneys Occasionally By Drinking Quarts of Good Water.

No man or woman can make a mistake by flushing the kidneys occasionally, says a well-known authority. Too much rich food creates acids which clog the kidney pores so that they sluggishly filter or strain only part of the waste and poisons from the blood. Then you get sick. Rheumatism, headaches, liver trouble, nervousness, constipation, dizziness, sleeplessness, bladder disorders often come from sluggish kidneys.

The moment you feel a dull ache in the kidneys or your back hurts, or if the urine is cloudy, offensive, full of sediment, irregular of passage, or attended by a sensation of scalding, begin to drink soft water in quantities; also get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any reliable pharmacy and take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys may then act fine.

This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to help flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them to activity, also to help neutralize the acids in the system so they no longer cause irritation, thus often relieving bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is inexpensive and cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink, which everyone can take now and then to help keep the kidneys clean and the blood pure, thereby often preventing serious kidney complications.

Anniversary Services.

The Norham anniversary services were held on Sunday in the Norham United church. The Rev. J. S. I. Wilson, of Brighton, Chairman of the Cobourg Presbytery, had charge of the services. Rev. D. R. Clare spent Sunday in Brighton United Church, where he preached, especially to the young people.

The Norham church was prettily decorated with floral contributions, vines, leaves and fruit. Both in the morning and evening services the choir rendered fine music and at evening Mr. Knight gave a solo. Good congregations were present at both services. Rev. Wilson presented two very interesting sermons. In the morning he took as his lesson the story of the palsied man and dealt with "Vicarious Faith," in its different phases. His evening topic was "Living Dangerously." He enlarged upon different types of courage and emphasized two thoughts—living dangerously implied first, the willingness to sacrifice one's self for his principles; secondly, the willingness to sacrifice one's self for others.

In the desert regions of Paraguay is found a plant containing a substance nearly two hundred times as sweet as cane sugar. The plant belongs to the family of composites, of which the sunflower and daisy are familiar representatives. The leaves are dried and ground up and a pinch of them is added to anything that requires sweetening; or they may be soaked in water and a sweet liquor prepared. One of the most valuable qualities of this liquor is that it does not ferment. The plant has perennial roots, so that cutting the stem does not terminate its life.

corns

come out quite easily after Radox

Cutting the tops off corns is useless. The hard top is simply dead skin. Knives and caustics cannot reach the live root that presses painfully on the nerve. For this you need Radox Salts in a footbath.

Radox gets to the root of a corn, softens it, renders it easy to be withdrawn bodily. Try Radox to-night, as the writer of this letter did:

"I am very pleased with your Radox Bath Salts. My corns were so bad I was walking quite limp, but after using Radox Bath Salts my corns came out quite easily, and I am now able to walk quite well without any pain at all."

9th April, 1927. H. C.

When you dip your foot into a foot-bath containing Radox, the dead skin (of the corn) combines with the Radox Salts to form a protein salt of the actual corn itself. This protein salt dissolves in the water, and so softens the corn that, after a few baths, it may be lifted out bodily. Radox does not affect the living skin, but dissolves the dead skin — the corn.

OMEMEE NEWS.

OMEMEE, Oct. 25.—The Women's Guild, of Christ Church, met for a sewing meeting at the home of Mrs. W. R. McQuade on Thursday. The arranging of the annual bazaar to be held on Thursday afternoon, Dec. 8th was the chief item of business. Many plans were made and ideas exchanged to make for the success of this affair. Dainty refreshments were served at the close of the meeting.

The regular meeting of Trinity Young People's Union was in charge of Miss Florence Rutherford, this week. The Scripture reading was read by Miss Christina Connell, after which Rev. E. W. Rowland led in prayer. The special features were a duet by Fred and Will Weir and a brilliant piano selection by Miss Jane Earle, followed by a snap debate in which all present took part. The subject for debate was, "Resolved that a city boy is more awkward in the country than the country boy is in the city." Sides were chosen, Mr. Howard Wilson being the leader of the affirmative, while Mr. Morgan Rowland upheld the negative. Speakers were each given one minute and the leader of the affirmative was given three minutes to reply. Many humorous points were brought out. The judges were the Misses E. Race, Jane Earle and Rev. E. W. Rowland. Miss Mary Faulkner acted as timekeeper. The judges' decision was in favor of the affirmative.

The meeting closed with singing, followed by the benediction.

THE RHINE AND CANADIAN GRAIN

The total imports of cereals into Rotterdam consisting of wheat, rye, maize, oats, pease, linseed, etc., amounted to approximately four million tons in 1926, writes Trade Commissioner A. B. Muddiman, Rotterdam, in the forthcoming issue of the Commercial Intelligence Journal. Of the grain classed as so-called Dutch imports from Canada some 65 per cent of the wheat, 40 per cent of the barley, over 50 per cent of the oats, and about 30 per cent of the rye is re-exported up the Rhine in barges. The imposition of a duty on flour imported into Germany, and the successive increases of this duty have stimulated trade in Canadian wheat and restricted the import of Canadian flour. German and Eastern French imports are controlled by the deficiencies in the local harvest crops, but Switzerland is practically dependent on imports. The high duty on flour by such countries as Germany has restricted Dutch exports and has practically confined sales to the home market.

In Germany the large milling centres are at Dusseldorf Coln-Deutz and Mannheim. In one of the largest mills at Mannheim, it is stated that from 30 to 50 per cent of the wheat used is Canadian. Canadian grain is said to arrive in excellent condition and there are no complaints to grading, which was found to be extremely accurate. Exports of grains into Strassbourg and Kehl during 1926 were 403,018 metric tons and into Switzerland by the port of Basel 829,159 metric tons. Sources of Switzerland's imports for 1926 were: Canada, 290,683 tons, United States 83,161 tons, Argentina, 34,333 tons and Russia, 12,937 tons.

AUSTRALIAN COMMERCIAL CONDITIONS

Since the middle of August good rains have fallen throughout most of the wheat growing centres of the Commonwealth, and present indications are distinctly favourable for the coming harvest, though further rains are required to assure a fair average crop; writes Trade Commissioner D. H. Ross, Melbourne, in the forthcoming issue of the Commercial Intelligence Journal. The opening of the 1927-28 Australian wool selling season attracted a record number of oversea buyers and keen competition, chiefly from the Continent, with the result that prices advanced from 5 to 10 per cent over the June sales. With an estimated shortage of from 300,000 to 400,000 bales during the season, higher values will be particularly acceptable for realization of the Commonwealth's chief source of wealth and export. The value of Australian imports for July is given at 13,302, 523 pounds or 82,826 pounds less than for the similar month of 1926, while the value of exports is stated to be 8,940,427 pounds or 900,215 pounds less than in July 1926; but the latter month gold and specie aggregated 3,521,756 pounds as against 229,516 pounds in July this year.

ST. PETER'S CATHEDRAL.

Speaking on the fourth commandment, "Honor thy father and thy mother," at St. Peter's Cathedral yesterday morning, His Lordship Bishop O'Brien based his remarks on the dignity of parenthood. The Catholic church invests the rite of matrimony with a sacramental dignity. It was instituted by God Himself and St. Paul called it the greatest sacrament of the law.

"A person enters into a wonderfully dignified state when he enters the married state," said His Lordship. God confers on men and women in that state His own particular blessing and the necessary grace to carry through the great task of parenthood entrusted to them, in the tremendous responsibility involved in this vocation.

When parents become dissatisfied with their children, who may refuse to listen to words of mature advice, they should remember that those children have to combat at all times the three adversaries of man the world, the flesh and the devil. And even if it seems impossible to keep a child from straying from the right path, the parent has the satisfaction of knowing that grace is merited for himself or herself by the very fact of striving at all times to help the child, and that a reward is laid up in heaven for the mother and father who does everything possible to save the soul entrusted to the parents' care.

Children are helped and guided in after life by the example received from parents in the home, and the father and mother should be regarded with respect at all times, holding, as they do, authority from God to guide their offspring in the path that leads to eternal salvation.

SALVATION ARMY.

Large congregations were present at each of the three services held at the Salvation Army Temple on Sunday last.

Amongst those who took a prominent part in the day's meetings were Ensign P. Payton, who leaves to-day for Newfoundland, to take the position of supervisor in the Salvation Army Hospital in St. John's. Lieutenant Wilfrid Ferguson, who has spent his vacation with firends in the city, also spoke. The Lieutenant leaves this week for his work in Haileybury, Northern Ontario.

Commandant Ham took charge of the day's meetings. The morning service address by the Commandant was on "The binding power of things present" and at night the subject was, "Suppose nobody cared?" God has not left humanity to itself, helpless and alone, stated the Commandant. "The question 'suppose nobody cared?' is too terrible to contemplate?' he said. "A world without a God to care. But God does care. He cares for the wayward—for the lost of every nation—for the individual. He cares so much that He gave His only begotten Son to die that we might live.

GILMOUR MEMORIAL CHURCH.

The Rev. W. S. Edgar preached on Sunday on "The Inspiration of the Scriptures," taking as his text Hebrews 1:1-2, "God who at sundry times and in divers manners spake in times past unto the fathers by the prophets, hath in these last days spoken unto us by His Son."

Mr. Edgar said he selected this subject because many Christian people had strange ideas regarding it; in fact, this great controversy that has stirred our Baptist convention from one end of our territory to the other was due very largely to the fact that there are two distinct schools of thought on this subject in our midst—one school of thought represented by the minority under the leadership of Dr. Shields, believer in the absolute infallibility and inerrancy of the scriptures, while the majority group to which I belong believes that the Bible is a sufficient rule of faith and practice and is supreme in the realm of religion, but we do not believe that it is infallible and inerrant; we further believe that the last word on any religious subject lies with Jesus Christ.

This theory of the absolute infallibility and inerrancy of the scriptures will not stand examination and cannot be maintained in the light of our present knowledge. If those who hold this view were asked if any of our modern visions of the Bible was infallible and inerrant, they would have to answer no, and if they were further pressed on this question, they would be forced back on this position that the original version was infallible and inerrant. Then there follows the further question, Have we got any originals? No. Our oldest manuscript goes no further back than the fourth century. Therefore, the book for which these people are contending as being infallible and inerrant is really not in existence. The three oldest Bible manuscripts in the world are Codese (A), Codese (B) and Codese (Aleph). The first is in the Vatican at Rome, the second is in Leningrad in Russia and the third is in the British Museum at London. None of these manuscripts are originals. They are separated from the originals by several hundred years.

Now these old manuscripts of the Bible do not agree with each other in every particular. They differ in some points. They are translations; one is a translation from the Latin and is called the Latin Vulgate, the second is a translation from the Greek Septuagine, and the third is a translation from the Hebrew.

The original Hebrew Bible was written in consonants only, the vowels being supplied by the reader. But it is obvious that there might be words of widely different meaning having the same consonants and failure to supply the correct vowels might lead to an entirely different meaning being given to a word.

Take one illustration of this: In Genesis 47:31, we read that Jacob worshipped "bowing himself upon the bed's head," while in Hebrews 11:21 the writer, referring to the same incident, says Jacob worshipped leaning upon the top of his staff. The Old Testament writer quotes from the ancient Hebrew, while the New Testament writer cites the Greek Septuagine. In the Hebrew language the consonants for bed and staff are the same, "M.T.H." The old writer, quoting from the Hebrew, has it "Mitfah" bed, whilst the writer to the Hebrews citing the Sephiagint has it "Maffeh" staff. That is but one example out of many that might be given to show how difficult it was to get the exact meaning of many Old Testament words.

Again, there are examples of passages that were intended to be marginal notes finding their way eventually into the text. Take one example of this. In the fifth chapter of John's Gospel we have the story of the impotent man who lay at the pool of Bathesda waiting for the moving of the waters. The fourth verse says, "For an angel went down into the pool at a certain season and troubled the water, whosoever then first after the troubling of the water stepped in was healed of whatsover disease he had."

Now the part about the angel troubling the water is not found in the earliest manuscripts, but it is found in a later manuscript, but only as a marginal note. The transcriber wishing to explain to his readers the reason for the healing virtue of the pool, gave the local tradition concerning it, so he put it in the margin, as an explanatory note. In a still later version it is found in the text, and it is in the text in our authorized version, but it ought not to be, it is not a part of Scripture at all. A single example of this is sufficient to destroy for all time the idea of the infallibility and inaccuracy of the Scripture. When I hear a man say he believes in the absolute infallibility and inerrancy of the Bible, I doubt either his intelligence or his sincerity. It seems to me that such facts as these ought to have been made known to the people of our Baptist Convention long ago, and the hollowness and unsubstantiality of our opponents' position made manifest. I tried to do it at the recent Convention, but Dr. Shields and his followers would not let me; they howled me down and accused me of heresy.

The policy of the leaders of our Convention has been to keep these things covered up, to hide the light, with the result that the darkness in our Baptist Convention on these matters is darker than it is elsewhere.

Theologically, the Baptists of Canada are fifty years behind the Old Country. I don't know a single church or college anywhere that insists on this inerrancy idea. All they ask is that you believe in the fact of inspirations and they allow you to accept any particular theory you fancy. The fact of inspiration is a great and blessed truth, but the various theories of inspiration are so many attempts on the part of man to explain the fact. We are not bound by any particular theory. It is interesting to note that this inaccuracy idea is not included in the constitution of the New Union of Regular Baptist Church formed by Dr. Shields and his followers.

Mr. Edgar then went on to develop his sermon along the following lines:

1.—God is the Author of Revelation;

2.—Man is the medium of revelation;

3.—Christ is the Crown of Revelation.

He closed with a well-known quotation:

"In essentials, Unity; in nonessentials, Liberty; in all things, Charity."

ST. PAUL'S PRESBYTERIAN.

(Contributed.)

The congregation on Sunday evening at St. Paul's Presbyterian Church had an inspiring air about it—there was an expectancy on every face, and the number of these was large. The congregational singing was of a unique character—they were back to the days when there was no "kist o' whistles"—the power was lacking for the motor of the organ, and the human voice was unaccompanied, and lusty withal. Even Mrs. A. Burrows, of Lakefield, was denied the privilege of rendering hre vocal solo.

The Prelude.

The prelude was unusually interesting. Mr. Allan, on the subject of burial or cremation of the dead, said it was a matter of opinion on either method. There was no scriptural pronouncement on the disposition of the dead. At the last day, he said, the dead in Christ would arise and take on an incorruptible body.

Explaining his unfriendly attitude to the I.B.S.A. — formerly the Watch-Tower, and Millenial Dawnism—he quoted from the book, "Millions Now Living Will Never Die," a portion of a sermon he had delivered in New York, which had been used to bolster up the position of this sect, with its pernicious teachings giving forth in its pages heretical thoughts; and said that a body professing to get along without money, and at the same time taxing its followers huge sums to keep such men as Judge Rutherford perambulating up and down the country, was a body to be avoided as one would avoid poison. It denied the deity of God, and all who at the resurrection refused still to believe, would be annihilated. The sect imposed upon simple women folks to buy their poisonous trash, and literature that is against true Christianity.

The third answer Mr. Allan gave was that it will be better for the world, in his opinion, if there never is one great Church. It would, he thought, mean a monotonous people, with no interest in the progress of God's kingdom, and this oneness of view would mean stagnation. Let us all work towards making unity of spirit and a diversity of expression to bring out the best work for the spread of God's kingdom.

The Sermon.

For his study of the text for the evening subject. "Is a Church a Place for a Bundle of Rags?" Mr. Allan chose the words found in the 38th chapter of Jeremiah, 11th verse. Proceeding, he brought out many interesting and inspiring thoughts:

"Before we reach the spirit that is bound up in these old cast-off clouts and rotten rags, and in order to help us to appreciate that spirit better, let us look at the background that is supplied by the context from the 36th chapter to our text. It takes us to the fourth year of Jehoiakim's reign.

"And It Came to Pass."

"There is always something coming to pass in which God is interested. It might be for good or ill. There is no standing still in life—you are either rising or sinking! Sin must be punished even in the chosen people, but the Divine efforts are to bring about a change of heart and repentance. In chapter 36, verse 32, the people and the princes were impressed, and with a little encouragement from the king, their history might have been different. We may leave the church here without being impressed by what is said. What is appealing may not be of interest. The sluice gates may be closed against what might influence our lives. We have heard how that sheep, with goats in the flock, invariably incline towards eating the unclean food of the goats, the garbage; and this is characteristic of many people who, six days of the week, feed with the goats of society, and on Sunday attend church to have their appetites whetted, but instead, go away bleating — they have heard some words which hurt their consciences. The roll shown to Jehoiakim hurt him, pinched hard, and he cut up the writin gwith a penknife, and burned the roll.

Revival Wanted.

"Leadership nowadays had not first qualification for good leaders—people who were not good leaders throttled the activities of church or public oragnizations. Men have not changed since the days of Jehoiakim. The Scriptural doctrine of punishment always arouses antagonism.

"How many here," asked Mr. Allah, are quite indifferent to the preaching of the judgment to come? Jesus had no committee to help Him in His great work. We appoint committees—and there it ends. What Peterborough needs to-day is a true spiritual awakening. The people nowadays have an aversion to the Communion table, but not to the card table. I hold no brief against cards, but should the business of card-playing be allowed to interfere with the progress of the Lord's work? What would card players think if Jesus Christ was to appear beside their card tables, and what would they say to Him? Cards are the invention of a crazy king for his own enjoyment. The picture shows ,too, have more appeal than the church, said Mr. Allan. There is a great lack of interest and enthusiasm for God's work among our people. These facts are not altered by neglecting them. Imagine a captain putting the lookout man in irons for singing out, "Breakers ahead!" Or putting a physician in jail because he tells you that you have a cancer and need an operation. So it was with Jehoiakim—he did not like to have his conscience stirred up.

Zedekiah, a Small Man.

Chapter 37 brings us to the reign of Zedekiah—a small man on a large stage. He foolishly formed an alliance with Egypt, through strong influences, instead of remaining with Babylon. For this, Jeremiah took him to task. Under an invasion he in terror besought Jeremiah to pray for him. He made a show of repentance—it was neither deep nor abiding. How like many whom we have met and worked with. They are not to be trusted.

"Then came the final invasion, when Jerusalem was taken, and Zedekiah's sons were slain in his view, and his own eyes were taken out, and he was made captive. Thus his foolish actions had led him into an ignominious position—he had listened to the prophet by fits and starts. You may be near the kingdom without ever being actually in it.
